The glory talk of acting isn't always so 'peachy'

Dom DeLuise

Anyone who thinks a television comedian's work is play should talk to Dom DeLuise. During one week in October, Dom rehearsed daily for two NBC Television Network programs, "The Dean Martin Show" and "The Flip Wilson Show."

Both shows were taped the same day. Dean Martin's show began taping at 4 p.m.; Flip's, 30 minutes later across the hall.

"I never sat down," said Dom. "I ran from one studio to the other and changed costumes in the hall. I was in such a hurry that somebody in the hall offered me a drink and I drank it without even thinking that I don't drink."

The plan was executed by the shows' stage managers. They had to arrange Dom's appearances on Wilson's stage when he was not in a sketch on the Martin stage. So they first taped the acts on Dean's show that did not include Dom. Then, when he was available, they'd whisk him onto Flip's stage and back again in time for his next act on the Martin show.

"It was really too much," said Dom, "I was going over my lines for a magic act on Flip's show while getting dressed in a Santa Claus suit for Dean's. Another time I was wearing the magician costume which a gimmick in it housing three dozen ping-pong balls. The thing opened up in the hall and the balls rolled everywhere.

"Everyone scrambled to pick up the balls and get them back in the contraption during all this I never stopped running."

Through all of the commotion, Dom made only one mistake which was quickly corrected, he called Flip "Dean."

Lena talks about Lena

Lena Horne

Lena Horne has always had a desire to be known as an actress, even though she is best known for her singing. She'll have one of her most unusual roles—playing Lena Horne—when she is the special guest star in "A Visit From Lena Horne," to be colorcast on NBC Television Network's "Sanford and Son" Friday, Jan. 12.

Miss Horne's first all-dramatic role came only four years ago, opposite Richard Widmark in "Patch." Her previous acting assignments always required her to sing. "While I was doing 'Patch,' if they had said, 'how about a song, Lena?', I would have known I wasn't doing too well as an actress," Lena explains. They never did ask her to sing for that movie.

Her television appearances in recent years have been scarce. She did her first American network television special in 1969.

"I can't stand to watch myself on television," Lena says. "I get critical and nervous. The easiest way for me to do it is to have two martinis before I turn the set on.

"I saw 'Cabin in the Sky' on television one night and couldn't stay with it for the end. There I was, acting the ingenue, a fluttery, pretty thing. It brought back a lot of memories, most especially that being a fluttery, pretty ingenue wasn't at all what I felt inside. I could have died from embarrassment when I saw it."

Her friendship with Redd Foxx, star of "Sanford and Son," dates back to Harlem, when both appeared at the Cotton Club. They have kept in touch with each other over the years, and Lena's first day of rehearsal was a warm reunion for them.

"I did the show because Redd called me and asked me to do it," Lena revealed. "He's always mentioning my name on the show, so it was a natural decision for Fred Sanford to fall into my life, somehow."

The story tells what happens when when Fred and his son, Lamont Sanford (Demond Wilson) take a tour of the NBC Studios in Burbank, Calif., and discover Lena Horne's car in the "star" parking lot. Fred breaks away from the tour and schemes to meet the singer.

The Beat Of A City . . . And Then Some

Revenue Sources Needed By Schools

Thomas B. Comery
Special Staff Writer

Columbus School Board President Thomas Moyer appointed a special committee January 9 "to impress upon those in responsible positions that the property tax has been overworked."

Moyer said that the ad hoc Committee for Adequate Funding should "begin shouting at state and federal officials for more funds to operate city schools."

He said that the purpose of the committee will be to "impress on state government the need for a more certain revenue source."

Moyer said that competent authorities are convinced that the property tax has been overworked and that urban schools are going to have to get a larger share of state and federal revenue if they are to continue to operate efficiently.

He added that he hopes to have the board"s voice heard in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

Moyer appointed Paul Langdon chairman of the new committee, with himself and Dr. Watson Walker as members.

He also assigned members to the board's fourstanding committees, and appointed their chairmen: Dr. David Hamlar, buildings; Dr. Walker, finance; Mrs. Marilyn Redden, community relations; and Mrs. Marie Castleman, curriculum.

In its study and discussion session, the board heard a progress report on the staff development and human relations program by Dr. William Staats, special assistant to the Superintendent.

The purpose of the program is to train school personnel in better ways to interact with students, parents, and each other. An important part of the program is helping the teachers acquire a better understanding of their student's community and home environment.

To explain the "diversity, creativity, and complexity of the program" Staats told of study units on black-white relations Appalachia, and various ethnic cultures.

Students participate in a variety of ways, such as field trips, skits, exhibits, discussions, projects, and stage plays. Teachers are participating in seminars, study sessions, team-teaching and open classroom experiments, visitations to student's homes, workshops, and after-school activity programs for students.

Several school principals attended the meeting and described their own programs. Each school is required to submit a staff development and human relations program based upon its own needs and situation.

Dr. L. Thomas Moore, principal of Highland Elementary School, said that as a result his school's program his staff "has grown in mutual respect."

In addition to using techniques such as the open classroom and a non-graded curriculum, Moore said that the Highland staff was "fanning out into the community."

James Roy, Southwood Elementary principal, said that his teachers get a half-day off each month to make visits to the homes of students. He also described an after-school activity program that 404 students participate in. The teaches receive no additional compensation for their time in the program.

Roy told of a program that awards good behavior by students. If any school personnel, including the janitor, sees a positive act by a student, he awards the student a buckeye leaf that is similar to those that Ohio State football players wear on their helmets for making an outstanding play. Roy emphasized, however, that his students do not wear helmets.

Dr. Staats said that "to this date 98 per cent of the schools have submitted plans for staff development and human relations."

All board members indicated their satisfaction with the progress of the program, however, Mrs. Prentice and Dr. Walker said that they would like to see more emphasis placed on home visits by teachers.

ALL ABOUT ME—An animated special with original songs, "All About Me," tells about a boy who dreams he is taken on a tour inside a human body by Col. Corpuscle. He sees the brain as a computer, the heart as a pumping station and the stomach as a heating plant. The program, an "NBC Children's Theatre" special, will be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Saturday, Jan. 13

He's a bear when it's hot

Ron Oxley recently staged a fight between a bear and actor Gene Evans for the "Tatum" episode of "Gunsmoke," broadcast earlier this season on the CBS Television Network.

The bear is the former Gentle Ben of the television series of that name - "former" because his real name is Bruno.

At any rate, Ben, or Bruno, got cranky because he was forced out of his air-conditioned cage to work in last summer's 100 degree-plus temperature on the "Gunsmoke" location near Tucson, Ariz.

"It was so hot that Bruno didn't want to work," Oxley says. "The ground was so hot that it burned his paws when he walked."

The solution to the impasse was found after several minutes of discussion between director Gunnar Hellstrom and Oxley. Bruno could lie down in the shade if he would work the following day- in the cool of the morning.

Even Bruno, a veteran of more than 400 television appearances, was entitled, under the circumstances, to a burst of temperament.

His on-camera mischief is the only anti-social thing old Bruno did. His activities, when not working, consisted of loafing around the lobby of the hotel where the "Gunsmoke" people were staying and bumming jelly beans from children.

The Beat Of A City . . . And Then Some

MOODS WERE MANY at the 19th annual Symphony Grand Ball last Saturday at the Sheraton-Columbus Motor Hotel. The mood created by the flowers (red and blue carnations) was soft yet brilliant. The mood created by the gourmet dinner was one of ecstacy yet fulfillness. The Mood created by the Symphony Orchestra's performance was one of excitement yet lightness. The mood created by the Bill Harrington orchestra was varied from gaiety to cheek-to-cheekness. The mood created by the Koffee Haus was relaxing yet vibrant by the thought of an elegant evening's end. But the greatest mood of all the evening was created by the people who attended - those who support the existance of the Symphony Orchestra and who give so willingly of their time and efforts in many community causes with self-satisfaction of a job well done their great reward. This is the mood of a fellow man who loves his brother as himself and will rekindle any fire that might die out and with it man's cultural achievements. Mr. John Kessler was Symphony Grand Ball chairman. He reflects on all this with his lovely wife as the Symphony sways with the "Beat of Columbus" to The Man of La Mancha's "Impossible Dream" come true. Property Tax Overworked

Revenue Sources Needed By Schools

Thomas B. Connery
Special Staff Writer

Columbus School Board President Thomas Moyer appointed a special committee January 9 "to impress upon those in responsible positions that the property tax has been overworked."

Moyer said that the ad hoc Committee for Adequate Funding should "begin shouting at state and federal officials for more funds to operate city schools."

He said that the purpose of the committee will be to "impress on state government the need for a more certain revenue source."

Moyer said that competent authorities are convinced that the property tax has been overworked and that urban schools are going to have to get a larger share of state and federal revenue if they are to continue to operate efficiently.

He added that he hopes to have the board"s voice heard in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

Moyer appointed Paul Langdon chairman of the new committee, with himself and Dr. Watson Walker as members.

He also assigned members to the board's fourstanding committees, and appointed their chairmen: Dr. David Hamlar, buildings; Dr. Walker, finance; Mrs. Marilyn Redden, community relations; and Mrs. Marie Castleman, curriculum.

In its study and discussion session, the board heard a progress report on the staff development and human relations program by Dr. William Staats, special assistant to the Superintendent.

The purpose of the program is to train school personnel in better ways to interact with students, parents, and each other. An important part of the program is helping the teachers acquire a better understanding of their student's community and home environment.

To explain the "diversity, creativity, and complexity of the program" Staats told of study units on black-white relations Appalachia, and various ethnic cultures.

Students participate in a variety of ways, such as field trips, skits, exhibits, discussions, projects, and stage plays. Teachers are participating in seminars, study sessions, team-teaching and open classroom experiments, visitations to student's homes, workshops, and after-school activity programs for students.

Several school principals attended the meeting and described their own programs. Each school is required to submit a staff development and human relations program based upon its own needs and situation.

Dr. L. Thomas Moore, principal of Highland Elementary School, said that as a result his school's program his staff "has grown in mutual respect."

In addition to using techniques such as the open classroom and a non-graded curriculum, Moore said that the Highland staff was "fanning out into the community."

James Roy, Southwood Elementary principal, said that his teachers get a half-day off each month to make visits to the homes of students. He also described an after-school activity program that 404 students participate in. The teaches receive no additional compensation for their time in the program.

Roy told of a program that awards good behavior by students. If any school personnel, including the janitor, sees a positive act by a student, he awards the student a buckeye leaf that is similar to those that Ohio State football players wear on their helmets for making an outstanding play. Roy emphasized, however, that his students do not wear helmets.

Dr. Staats said that "to this date 98 per cent of the schools have submitted plans for staff development and human relations."

All board members indicated their satisfaction with the progress of the program, however, Mrs. Prentice and Dr. Walker said that they would like to see more emphasis placed on home visits by teachers.

Keep Those Cards And Letters Coming, Folks!

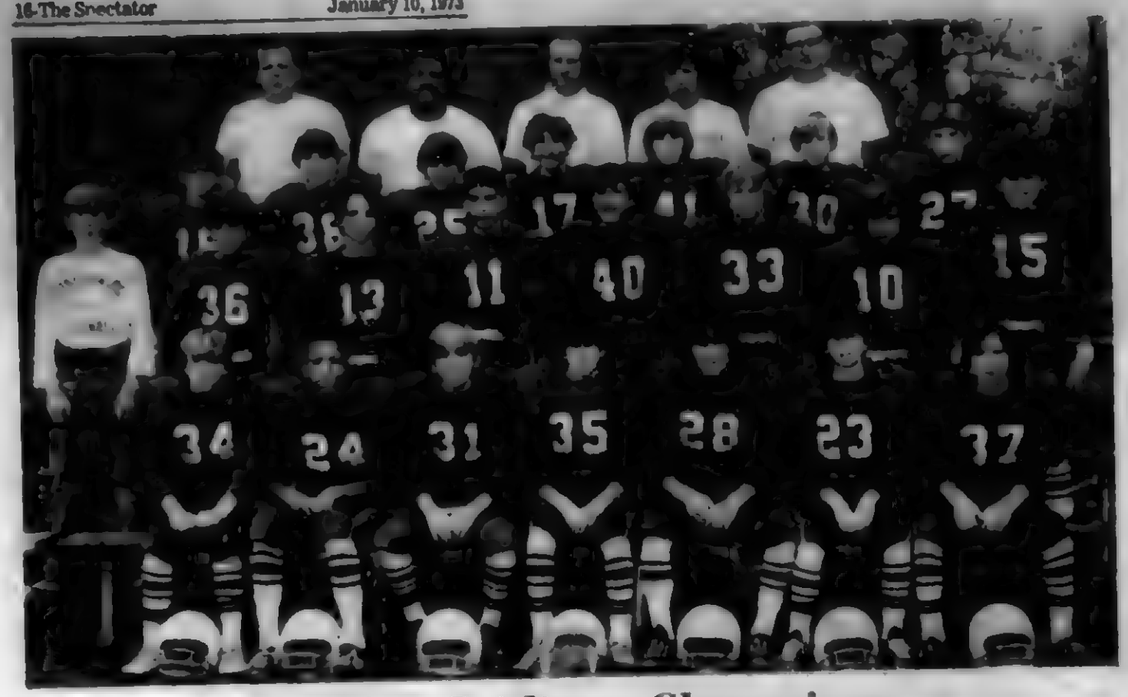
When the TV TIMES became official with the Jan. 3 issue of the Eastern Spectator we felt the response would be good.

It's been more than that and here are just a few excerpts from some of the letters received.

"I never expected something this good for FREE ... The Spectator continues to be No. 1 in our family ... You'll have a hard time topping this addition ... OUR community newspaper should be proud of its NEW BABY!... We look forward to more issues like the first two and know we won't be disappointed ... I hope we can continue to support the Spectator like you have supported us ... The only thing nicer than your new TV Times is the newsboy who delivers it ... Thanks for making my money go a little farther (a senior citizen) ...

Remember, the TV TIMES (Spectator edition) comes FREE to your doorstep only with the Eastern Spectator. Otherwise it is 10 cents at your newsstand ... also, they are not for sale individually by carrieers nor by mail.

The next two issues, Jan. 17 and Jan. 24, will come wrapped on the outside of your home-delivered Spectator. Following issues will be inserted.



WE HOPE you enjoy it. We enjoy doing it for you.

YEILD THE RIGHT OF WAY

The Columbus Auto Club-AAA says that failure to yield the right of way is dangerous at any time of the year, but especially during the winter when roads and streets are likely to be slippery. The safe driver shows extra caution and courtesy by yielding the right of way even when he knows it is legally his. This kind of common sense driving pays off in an accident-free driving record.

Anne Meara

She and hubby make money just fighting

Jerry Stiller and Anne Meara have spent most of their 18-year marriage fighting in public.

And the public loves it.

Jerry and Anne bring their bitter bickering to the ABC Television Network's "The Paul Lynde Show" as the Dickersons, the divorced parents of Paul's TV son-in-law, Howie, played by John Calvin.

"It was a fun assignment," says Stiller. "Paul is a giant, a master comedian. You hand him the ball and he runs with it. He also welcomes contributions from other actors, and this makes for a happy effort with better performances."

Both are from Brooklyn. Anne is the daughter of a well-to-do attorney; Jerry is from a less affluent family and had what he calls "The candy store syndrome."

Following his Army service, Jerry earned a degree in speech and drama from Syracuse University. He became a standup comic. Anne by-passed college to study acting. They met by chance in a Manhattan theatrical agent's office. After they were married they struggled happily for jobs, finally joining St. Louis' Compass Players, with Alan Arkin. Out of this experience their act evolved.

THEY WERE DISCOVERED while performing gratis on a benefit show. But their first supper club appearance was a bomb. They followed Louis Nye on-stage and both agreed afterwards that "comics don't follow comics." However, a subsequent appearance at Phase II, a Greenwich Village coffee house earned them an engagement at Max Gordon's Blue Angel. Ed Sullivan saw them and they were on his television show more than 50 times in the next seven years.

Efrem Zimbalist Jr.

When a famous diamond is stolen from the Jacob Crane home, Inspector Erskine goes undercover to negotiate buying it back and to capture the thief or thieves responsible, on the ABC Television Network's "The FBI" Sunday, Jan. 14.

In "A Gathering of Sharks," Erskine, posing as Crane's right-hand man Everett Halliday, goes to the famed Pebble Beach Country Club to await being contacted. The contact turns out to be Carla Payne, accomplice of the thief, Scott Jordan, who takes a blindfolded Erskine to a meeting with Jordan to authenticate the diamond.

Revenue Sources Needed By Schools

Columbus School Board President Thomas Moyer appointed a special committee January 9 "to impress upon those in responsible positions that the property tax has been overworked."

Moyer said that the ad hoc Committee for Adequate Funding should "begin shouting at state and federal officials for more funds to operate city schools."

He said that the purpose of the committee will be to "impress on state government the need for a more certain revenue source."

Moyer said that competent authorities are convinced that the property tax has been overworked and that urban schools are going to have to get a larger share of state and federal revenue if they are to continue to operate efficiently.

He added that he hopes to have the board"s voice heard in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

Moyer appointed Paul Langdon chairman of the new committee, with himself and Dr. Watson Walker as members.

He also assigned members to the board's fourstanding committees, and appointed their chairmen: Dr. David Hamlar, buildings; Dr. Walker, finance; Mrs. Marilyn Redden, community relations; and Mrs. Marie Castleman, curriculum.

In its study and discussion session, the board heard a progress report on the staff development and human relations program by Dr. William Staats, special assistant to the Superintendent.

The purpose of the program is to train school personnel in better ways to interact with students, parents, and each other. An important part of the program is helping the teachers acquire a better understanding of their student's community and home environment.

To explain the "diversity, creativity, and complexity of the program" Staats told of study units on black-white relations Appalachia, and various ethnic cultures.

Students participate in a variety of ways, such as field trips, skits, exhibits, discussions, projects, and stage plays. Teachers are participating in seminars, study sessions, team-teaching and open classroom experiments, visitations to student's homes, workshops, and after-school activity programs for students.

Several school principals attended the meeting and described their own programs. Each school is required to submit a staff development and human relations program based upon its own needs and situation.

Dr. L. Thomas Moore, principal of Highland Elementary School, said that as a result his school's program his staff "has grown in mutual respect."

In addition to using techniques such as the open classroom and a non-graded curriculum, Moore said that the Highland staff was "fanning out into the community."

James Roy, Southwood Elementary principal, said that his teachers get a half-day off each month to make visits to the homes of students. He also described an after-school activity program that 404 students participate in. The teaches receive no additional compensation for their time in the program.

Roy told of a program that awards good behavior by students. If any school personnel, including the janitor, sees a positive act by a student, he awards the student a buckeye leaf that is similar to those that Ohio State football players wear on their helmets for making an outstanding play. Roy emphasized, however, that his students do not wear helmets.

Dr. Staats said that "to this date 95 per cent of the schools have submitted plans for staff development and human relations."

All board members indicated their satisfaction with the progress of the program, however, Mrs. Prentice and Dr. Walker said that they would like to see more emphasis placed on home visits by teachers.

YEILD THE RIGHT OF WAY

The Columbus Auto Club-AAA says that failure to yield the right of way is dangerous at any time of the year, but especially during the winter when roads and streets are likely to be slippery. The safe driver shows extra caution and courtesy by yielding the right of way even when he knows it is legally his. This kind of common sense driving pays off in an accident-free driving record.

Mrs. Peel returns to TV as Diana Rigg

Diana Rigg

"The Diana Rigg Show," a new half-hour comedy series featuring the international star, is being developed for the NBC Television Network's 1973-74 prime-time program schedule.

Miss Rigg, perhaps best known to American television audiences as Emma Peel in the "Avengers" adventure series, will portray Leslie Smythe, an independent, fun-loving British dress designer who comes to America to make her mark in New York's Garment Center.

The pilot episode, titled "Take My Sister," will be filmed before a live audience in Hollywood. Nanette Fabray and David Sheiner co-star as Norma and Norm Brodnik, owners of Sue-Ellen Frocks. Philip Proctor portrays Mr. Kenneth, the company's top designer, and Carol Androsky plays Holly Green, a model.

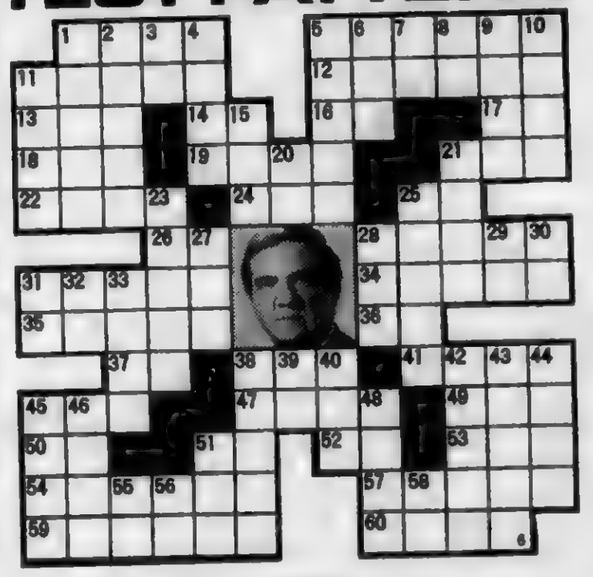
Guest stars in the episode are Richard Mulligan, as author Jeff Hartman, and Bernie Kopell, as liquor salesman Gerald Horning.

Miss Rigg has appeared in many motion pictures, including the James Bond film "On Her Masjesty's Secret Service," and more recently co-starred with George C. Scott in "Hospital." She also starred in the 'NBC-TV drama "Married Alive" in 1970.

'Masterpiece Theatre' to present BBC special on 'Tom Brown's Schooldays'

John McRae, the producer of the BBC production of "Tom Brown's Schooldays," auditioned nearly 300 boys for the title role before he settled on Anthony Murphy, an unknown schoolboy whose only previous acting had been in school plays.

Young Murphy, who took British television viewers by storm, will make his first American television appearance when "Masterpiece Theatre" presents a five-part television adaptation of Thomas Hughes' 19th centure novel, beginning Sunday, Jan. 14, over the Public Broadcasting Service.



McRae's problem: most English boy actors have atrocious accents.

"They are good actors but they speak so badly. I do not want a modern public school accent or an affected one. I just want a well-spoken boy," McRae said early in his search for Tom Brown. "Most children seen to have an accent of some kind these days—Cockney, Merseyside, or Birmingham."

According to leading British theatrical agency, the success of actors like Michael Caine in films such as "Alfie" has made some child actors keep their "non posh" accents.

When he was asked what sort of accent he thought Tom Brown had, McRae said: "No accent at all. Certainly not a public school accent as we know it. I don't want a boy who 'talks posh' but he must have a neutral, clear way of speaking."

Students dress Geraldine up

Geraldine Jones

Geraldine Jones at Drexel University?

No. Flip Wilson's popular character has not enrolled at that Philadelphia institution but the sassy, no-nonsense Geraldine has been singled out for special attention in the University's Design Department.

That Geraldine was selected to be the focus of such attention is traceable to the course instructor. Professor Alan Nierenberg, who says he has been an admirer of Geraldine ever since she emerged with such impact on the American television scene. The professor has obviously had more than casual viewer interest in Geraldine, having taken particular note of the outfits she has sported and having carefully observed the overall Geraldine behavioral syndrome. He sought to show a connection between the two when developing the idea for the assignment.

'Eddie's Father' is going strong

With the 'courtship' over, Bill's setting some goals

Bill Bixby is becoming a one-man conglomerate. The popular star of ABC's recent "The Courtship of Eddie's Father" series has branched out. These days it's Bixby the director and Bixby the producer as well as Bixby the actor.

Bill's most recent show-business effort is a co-starring role with Paula Prentiss and Valerie Perrine in "The Couple Takes a Wife," a blithe romantic comedy.

When reminded by a co-worker that it is great to have so many irons in the fire, Bixby replied with a smile, "Yes, it may keep me in the business an extra year."

In fact, Bill has a multiple contract with Paramount studios and has directed episodes of ABC's "Room 222" series. It is an all-encompassing deal as an actor, director and producer in the development of motion pictures as well as television series.

"It opens up a wide range with the sky the limit," he said. "I can look at properties from three different points of view."

Immediately after completing "The Couple Takes a Wife," Bill played a dramatic role in an episode of "Ironside" and was due to direct another segment of "Room 222."

"Now that I've played a number of heavies, my immediate goal is to direct a dramatic show." Until recently one of Hollywood's most eligible bachelors, Bill is now married to actress Brenda Benet, with whom he toured last summer in "Come Blow Your Horn."

"We played all over the country, and it was exhausting. I don't intend to tour again for at least two years."

Brenda, who is particularly excited about her husband's busting career, recalls how she turned Bixby down when he first proposed.

"He'd been a bachelor so long, I didn't think he knew what he'd be getting into. But later I relented. You know, he still has the air of a bachelor, and that's kind of nice--I feel like I'm being courted all the time. I suppose things will settle down when we have children, and we do want children some day." Brenda has known her husband for nine years, so one might call it a long courtship.

"I never thought of Bill romantically at first. I worked with him professionally and I thought he was a truly fine actor. Of course, I always liked him."

Planning ahead in their personal lives as well, the Bixbys recently moved into their new Brentwood, Calif., home. They have a summer and weekend house at Malibu and have also bought 110 acres as a ranch site in Western Oregon, 25 miles from Eugene near the McKenzie River.

"It will be more than just a ranch," Bill explained. "It's planned as our home base in a few years.

The Beat Of A City . . . And Then Some

Revenue Sources Needed By Schools

Thomas B. Connery
Special Staff Writer

Columbus School Board President Thomas Moyer appointed a special committee January 9 "to impress upon those in responsible positions that the property tax has been overworked."

Moyer said that the ad hoc Committee for Adequate Funding should "begin shouting at state and federal officials for more funds to operate city schools."

He said that the purpose of the committee will be to "impress on state government the need for a more certain revenue source."

Moyer said that competent authorities are convinced that the property tax has been overworked and that urban schools are going to have to get a larger share of state and federal revenue if they are to continue to operate efficiently.

He added that he hopes to have the board"s voice heard in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

Moyer appointed Paul Langdon chairman of the new committee, with himself and Dr. Watson Walker as members.

He also assigned members to the board's fourstanding committees, and appointed their chairmen: Dr. David Hamlar, buildings; Dr. Walker, finance; Mrs. Marilyn Redden, community relations; and Mrs. Marie Castleman, curriculum.

In its study and discussion session, the board heard a progress report on the staff development and human relations program by Dr. William Staats, special assistant to the Superintendent.

The purpose of the program is to train school personnel in better ways to interact with students, parents, and each other. An important part of the program is helping the teachers acquire a better understanding of their student's community and home environment.

To explain the "diversity, creativity, and complexity of the program" Staats told of study units on black-white relations Appalachia, and various ethnic cultures.

Students participate in a variety of ways, such as field trips, skits, exhibits, discussions, projects, and stage plays. Teachers are participating in seminars, study sessions, team-teaching and open classroom experiments, visitations to student's homes, workshops, and after-school activity programs for students.

Several school principals attended the meeting and described their own programs. Each school is required to submit a staff development and human relations program based upon its own needs and situation.

Dr. L. Thomas Moore, principal of Highland Elementary School, said that as a result his school's program his staff "has grown in mutual respect."

In addition to using techniques such as the open classroom and a non-graded curriculum, Moore said that the Highland staff was "fanning out into the community."

James Roy, Southwood Elementary principal, said that his teachers get a half-day off each month to make visits to the homes of students. He also described an after-school activity program that 404 students participate in. The teaches receive no additional compensation for their time in the program.

Roy told of a program that awards good behavior by students. If any school personnel, including the janitor, sees a positive act by a student, he awards the student a buckeye leaf that is similar to those that Ohio State football players wear on their helmets for making an outstanding play. Roy emphasized, however, that his students do not wear helmets.

Dr. Staats said that "to this date 88 per cent of the schools have submitted plans for staff development and human relations."

All board members indicated their satisfaction with the progress of the program, however, Mrs. Prentice and Dr. Walker said that they would like to see more emphasis placed on home visits by teachers.

Parks Plan Winter Hike

The Department of Natural Resources has announced plans for the 8th annual Winter Hike at Hocking Hills State Park, Saturday, January 13.

The popular outdoor event, sponsored by the department's parks and recreation division, attracted 1,5000 participants last year.

Hikers are to assemble at 9:30 a.m., at the park shelterhouse near Old Man's Cave. They will be split into small groups for the five and one-half mile trek to Ash Cave. The groups will be led by trained naturalists.

The tour of Buckeye Trail offers scenic views to park landmarks including Old Man's Gorge, Devils Bathtub, Sphynx Head, Cedar Falls, Ash Cave and Queer Creek.

There is to be a lunch break at Cedar Falls where the Logan Kiwanis Club will serve bean soup and free hot chocolate. Hikers also can bring sack lunches. Coffee will be provided at Ash Cave by the Logan Trade Club.

Buses will be available at the end of the hike to transport hikers back to Old Man's Cave. Provisions also have been made for those who do not wish to continue the hike after lunch.

Nipsey Russell

Success for this gentleman might mean no vacation time

Back in the 1960's, Nipsey, who had been making the rounds on the country's nightclub circuit for 10 years, received a call from his longtime buddy, Sammy Davis Jr., to emcee a Martin Luther King benefit at Carnegie Hall spearheaded by Sammy and Frank Sinatra.

NIPSEY ACCEPTED AND was an outstanding success at the star-studded event. The occasion brought him to the attention of top producers, agents and others, and offers poured in for months.

Another friend, comedian Orson Bean, who had worked with Nipsey on numerous dates, asked him to be his guest on the "Tonight" show, which he was hosting for vacationing Jack Paar. It proved to be a smash performance and led to numerous additional guest appearances on that show. Paar brought him back 14 more times.

It has been that way all along for Nipsey, who this season appears as a regular on "The Dean Martin Show," Thursdays, on the NBC Television Network.

It was some 30 years ago that the then-aspiring entertainer was given a chance to ply his comedy when he was invited to join the touring entourage of singer Billy Eckstine, another longtime acquaintance.

The Beat Of A City . . . And Then Some

Revenue Sources Needed By Schools

Thomas B. Connery
Special Staff Writer

Columbus School Board President Thomas Moyer appointed a special committee January 9 "to impress upon those in responsible positions that the property tax has been overworked."

Moyer said that the ad hoc Committee for Adequate Funding should "begin shouting at state and federal officials for more funds to operate city schools."

He said that the purpose of the committee will be to "impress on state government the need for a more certain revenue source."

Moyer said that competent authorities are convinced that the property tax has been overworked and that urban schools are going to have to get a larger share of state and federal revenue if they are to continue to operate efficiently.

He added that he hopes to have the board"s voice heard in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

Moyer appointed Paul Langdon chairman of the new committee, with himself and Dr. Watson Walker as members.

He also assigned members to the board's fourstanding committees, and appointed their chairmen: Dr. David Hamlar, buildings; Dr. Walker, finance; Mrs. Marilyn Redden, community relations; and Mrs. Marie Castleman, curriculum.

In its study and discussion session, the board heard a progress report on the staff development and human relations program by Dr. William Staats, special assistant to the Superintendent.

The purpose of the program is to train school personnel in better ways to interact with students, parents, and each other. An important part of the program is helping the teachers acquire a better understanding of their student's community and home environment.

To explain the "diversity, creativity, and complexity of the program" Staats told of study units on black-white relations Appalachia, and various ethnic cultures.

Students participate in a variety of ways, such as field trips, skits, exhibits, discussions, projects, and stage plays. Teachers are participating in seminars, study sessions, team-teaching and open classroom experiments, visitations to student's homes, workshops, and after-school activity programs for students.

Several school principals attended the meeting and described their own programs. Each school is required to submit a staff development and human relations program based upon its own needs and situation.

Dr. L. Thomas Moore, principal of Highland Elementary School, said that as a result his school's program his staff "has grown in mutual respect."

In addition to using techniques such as the open classroom and a non-graded curriculum, Moore said that the Highland staff was "fanning out into the community."

James Roy, Southwood Elementary principal, said that his teachers get a half-day off each month to make visits to the homes of students. He also described an after-school activity program that 404 students participate in. The teaches receive no additional compensation for their time in the program.

Roy told of a program that awards good behavior by students. If any school personnel, including the janitor, sees a positive act by a student, he awards the student a buckeye leaf that is similar to those that Ohio State football players wear on their helmets for making an outstanding play. Roy emphasized, however, that his students do not wear helmets.

Dr. Staats said that "to this date 93 per cent of the schools have submitted plans for staff development and human relations."

All board members indicated their satisfaction with the progress of the program, however, Mrs. Prentice and Dr. Walker said that they would like to see more emphasis placed on home visits by teachers.

Keep Those Cards And Letters Coming, Folks!

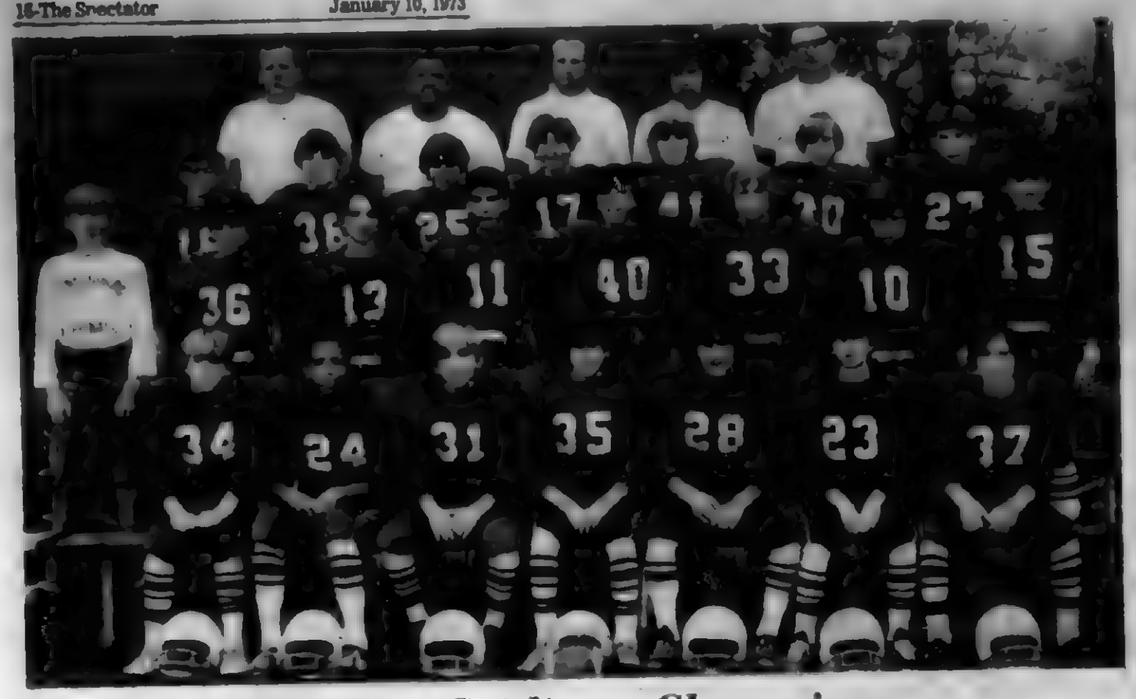
When the TV TIMES became official with the Jan. 3 issue of the Eastern Spectator we felt the response would be good.

It's been more than that and here are just a few excerpts from some of the letters received.

"I never expected something this good for FREE ... The Spectator continues to be No. 1 in our family ... You'll have a hard time topping this addition ... OUR community newspaper should be proud of its NEW BABY!... We look forward to more issues like the first two and know we won't be disappointed ... I hope we can continue to support the Spectator like you have supported us ... The only thing nicer than your new TV Times is the newsboy who delivers it ... Thanks for making my money go a little farther (a senior citizen) ...

Remember, the TV TIMES (Spectator edition) comes FREE to your doorstep only with the Eastern Spectator. Otherwise it is 10 cents at your newsstand ... also, they are not for sale individually by carrieers nor by mail.



The next two issues, Jan. 17 and Jan. 24, will come wrapped on the outside of your home-delivered Spectator. Following issues will be inserted.

WE HOPE you enjoy it. We enjoy doing it for you.

YEILD THE RIGHT OF WAY

The Columbus Auto Club-AAA says that failure to yield the right of way is dangerous at any time of the year, but especially during the winter when roads and streets are likely to be slippery. The safe driver shows extra caution and courtesy by yielding the right of way even when he knows it is legally his. This kind of common sense driving pays off in an accident-free driving record.

Perry Como

Connie Stevens

Host Perry Como shares the spotlight with Diahann Carroll, Connie Stevens, Louis Jourdan, Twiggy and Charles Aznavour as some of the popular songs with words and music by Cole Porter are presented during "Cole Porter in Paris," the "Bell System Family Theatre" special to be colorcast on the NBC Television Network Wednesday, Jan. 17.

Such hits as "Night and Day," "Begin the Beguine," "I Get a Kick Out of You," "In the Still of the Night," "Anything Goes," "I Concentrate on You" and "I Love Paris" are featured.

The musical is divided into four major sections. The first is devoted to songs Porter wrote for Broadway shows (except for "Kiss Me, Kate"); another deals exclusively with music from "Kiss Me, Kate"; and a third is made up of melodies he penned for movies. Songs with a French flavor introduce the finale, filmed on location at various sites in Paris, including Orly Airport, the Tuileries Gardens, the Arc de Triomphe, the Montmartre section and the Louvre museum.

More than 40 Porter songs are included in the hour. There is no dialogue. Sets, props and outdoor locales (in the case of the Paris-originated segment) provide continuity for the show.

The special opens with a sampler of things to come as Como sings "I've Got You Under My Skin," Miss Carroll performs "Get Out of Town," Jourdan sings "True Love," Miss Stevens offers "Friendship" and the orchestra plays a portion of "Begin the Beguine."

A photographic background of scenes from movies introduces Porter's music for films, including "Rosalie" (the orchestra); "It's All Right With Me" (Miss Carroll); "I Concentrate on You" (Como)

The Beat Of A City . . . And Then Some

Revenue Sources Needed By Schools

Thomas B. Connery
Special Staff Writer

Columbus School Board President Thomas Moyer appointed a special committee January 9 "to impress upon those in responsible positions that the property tax has been overworked."

Moyer said that the ad hoc Committee for Adequate Funding should "begin shouting at state and federal officials for more funds to operate city schools."

He said that the purpose of the committee will be to "impress on state government the need for a more certain revenue source."

Moyer said that competent authorities are convinced that the property tax has been overworked and that urban schools are going to have to get a larger share of state and federal revenue if they are to continue to operate efficiently.

He added that he hopes to have the board"s voice heard in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

He also assigned members to the board's fourstanding committees, and appointed their chairmen: Dr. David Hamlar, buildings; Dr. Walker, finance; Mrs. Marilyn Redden, community relations; and Mrs. Marie Castleman, curriculum.

In its study and discussion session, the board heard a progress report on the staff development and human relations program by Dr. William Staats, special assistant to the Superintendent.

The purpose of the program is to train school personnel in better ways to interact with students, parents, and each other. An important part of the program is helping the teachers acquire a better understanding of their student's community and home environment.

To explain the "diversity, creativity, and complexity of the program" Staats told of study units on black-white relations Appalachia, and various ethnic cultures.

Students participate in a variety of ways, such as field trips, skits, exhibits, discussions, projects, and stage plays. Teachers are participating in seminars, study sessions, team-teaching and open classroom experiments, visitations to student's homes, workshops, and after-school activity programs for students.

Several school principals attended the meeting and described their own programs. Each school is required to submit a staff development and human relations program based upon its own needs and situation.

Dr. L. Thomas Moore, principal of Highland Elementary School, said that as a result his school's program his staff "has grown in mutual respect."

In addition to using techniques such as the open classroom and a non-graded curriculum, Moore said that the Highland staff was "fanning out into the community."

James Roy, Southwood Elementary principal, said that his teachers get a half-day off each month to make visits to the homes of students. He also described an after-school activity program that 404 students participate in. The teaches receive no additional compensation for their time in the program.

Roy told of a program that awards good behavior by students. If any school personnel, including the janitor, sees a positive act by a student, he awards the student a buckeye leaf that is similar to those that Ohio State football players wear on their helmets for making an outstanding play. Roy emphasized, however, that his students do not wear helmets.

Dr. Staats said that "to this date 98 per cent of the schools have submitted plans for staff development and human relations."

All board members indicated their satisfaction with the progress of the program, however, Mrs. Prentice and Dr. Walker said that they would like to see more emphasis placed on home visits by teachers.

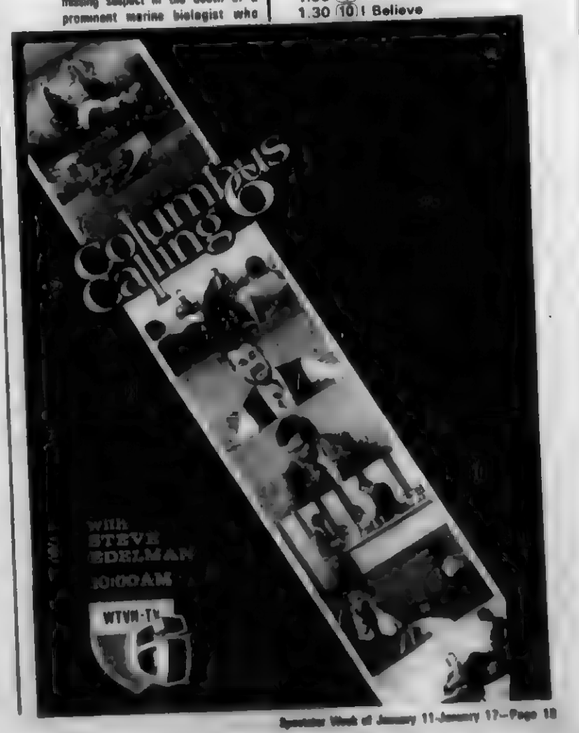
He has a tough job looking

"There aren't a lot of older black actors working," according to Gene Boland, new assistant casting director for NBC Television Network's "Sanford and Son." "They couldn't pay the rent and keep acting because there weren't enough roles for them. They're working in city and county government, or they're dead."



Casting older black roles is one of the problems Boland is facing in his new position. It has been difficult to keep finding black actors to play contemporaries of Fred Sanford (series star Redd Foxx).

BOLAND, WHO WORKS with casting director Jane Murray, serves as a "talent scout" in the black community. He travels to workshops in the Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego areas.

"I see people not represented by agents," Boland says. "I'm trying to get a continual flow of black people coming to read for roles. If they have potential, we'll consider them for casting."

Boland likens his job to "detective work." "I'm even going through the yellow pages and contacting theatrical schools. Any place that might have some black talent that should be discovered."

Boland has done casting for local theatre groups, and appeared in three Broadway plays in the early 60s. He has television writing credits for "Julia," "That Girl," and "Peyton Place."

YEILD THE RIGHT OF WAY

The Columbus Auto Club-AAA says that failure to yield the right of way is dangerous at any time of the year, but especially during the winter when roads and streets are likely to be slippery. The safe driver shows extra caution and courtesy by yielding the right of way even when he knows it is legally his. This kind of common sense driving pays off in an accident-free driving record.

Mostel, Novak and Walker co-starring Sunday night 'The Great Bank Robbery'

"The Great Bank Robbery," comedy Western starring Kim Novak, Zero Mostel and Clint Walker, is the color film being presented for the first time on television on "The CBS Late Movie" Sunday, Jan. 14 on the CBS Television Network. Akim Tamiroff, Larry Storch, Sam Jaffe and Elisha Cook Jr. appear in important roles in the film.

Although the 1884 Western town of Friendly has a bank so well protected that even outlaws keep their money there, three different groups are making elaborate preparations to rob it.

First, there is Pious Blue (Mostel) and his gang; disguised as wandering evangelists, they plan, with the help of former cooch dancer Lyda (Miss Novak), to dig a tunnel into the bank from the local church.

Next, there are Papa Pedro's (Tamiroff) Mexican bandidos intent on storming the bank head-on.

Finally, there is Texas Ranger Ben Quick (Walker) and a team of Chinese secret agents posing as laundrymen who want to burrow into the vaults to obtain ledgers linking the town's mayor (John Anderson) with the bank's outlaw depositors. What happens in a mad, mirthful melee of incredible action.

The Beat Of A City . . . And Then Some

MOODS WERE MANY at the 10th annual Symphony Grand Ball last Saturday at the Sheraton-Columbus Motor Hotel. The mood created by the flowers (red and blue carnations) was soft yet brilliant. The mood created by the gourmet dinner was one of ecstacy yet fulfillness. The Mood created by the Symphony Orchestra's performance was one of excitement yet lightness. The mood created by the Bill Harrington orchestra was varied from gaiety to cheek-to-cheekness. The mood created by the Koffee Haus was relaxing yet vibrant by the thought of an elegant evening's end. But the greatest mood of all the evening was created by the people who attended - those who support the existance of the Symphony Orchestra and who give so willingly of their time and efforts in many community causes with self-satisfaction of a job well done their great reward. This is the mood of a fellow man who loves his brother as himself and will rekindle any fire that might die out and with it man's cultural achievements. Mr. John Kessler was Symphony Grand Ball chairman. He reflects on all this with his lovely wife as the Symphony sways with the "Beat of Columbus" to The Man of La Mancha's "Impossible Dream" come true. Property Tax Overworked

Revenue Sources Needed By Schools

Thomas E. Connery
Special Staff Writer

Columbus School Board President Thomas Moyer appointed a special committee January 9 "to impress upon those in responsible positions that the property tax has been overworked."

Moyer said that the ad hoc Committee for Adequate Funding should "begin shouting at state and federal officials for more funds to operate city schools."

He said that the purpose of the committee will be to "impress on state government the need for a more certain revenue source."

Moyer said that competent authorities are convinced that the property tax has been overworked and that urban schools are going to have to get a larger share of state and federal revenue if they are to continue to operate efficiently.

He added that he hopes to have the board"s voice heard in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

Moyer appointed Paul Langdon chairman of the new committee, with himself and Dr. Watson Walker as members.

He also assigned members to the board's fourstanding committees, and appointed their chairmen: Dr. David Hamlar, buildings; Dr. Walker, finance; Mrs. Marilyn Redden, community relations; and Mrs. Marie Castleman, curriculum.

In its study and discussion session, the board heard a progress report on the staff development and human relations program by Dr. William Staats, special assistant to the Superintendent.

The purpose of the program is to train school personnel in better ways to interact with students, parents, and each other. An important part of the program is helping the teachers acquire a better understanding of their student's community and home environment.

To explain the "diversity, creativity, and complexity of the program" Staats told of study units on black-white relations Appalachia, and various ethnic cultures.

Students participate in a variety of ways, such as field trips, skits, exhibits, discussions, projects, and stage plays. Teachers are participating in seminars, study sessions, team-teaching and open classroom experiments, visitations to student's homes, workshops, and after-school activity programs for students.

Several school principals attended the meeting and described their own programs. Each school is required to submit a staff development and human relations program based upon its own needs and situation.

Dr. L. Thomas Moore, principal of Highland Elementary School, said that as a result his school's program his staff "has grown in mutual respect."

In addition to using techniques such as the open classroom and a non-graded curriculum, Moore said that the Highland staff was "fanning out into the community."

James Roy, Southwood Elementary principal, said that his teachers get a half-day off each month to make visits to the homes of students. He also described an after-school activity program that 404 students participate in. The teaches receive no additional compensation for their time in the program.

Roy told of a program that awards good behavior by students. If any school personnel, including the janitor, sees a positive act by a student, he awards the student a buckeye leaf that is similar to those that Ohio State football players wear on their helmets for making an outstanding play. Roy emphasized, however, that his students do not wear helmets.

Dr. Staats said that "to this date 93 per cent of the schools have submitted plans for staff development and human relations."

All board members indicated their satisfaction with the progress of the program, however, Mrs. Prentice and Dr. Walker said that they would like to see more emphasis placed on home visits by teachers.

'It's so real it hurts!'

"This is so real it hurts," said football-player-turned-actor Bill Overton. "It's my own story—I've seen it all happen."

Overton, once linebacker with the Dallas Cowboys and the Kansas City Chiefs, portrayed the star player on a small college team in "Footsteps," starring Richard Crenna as a win-or-else football coach, shown recently on CBS.

"A LOT OF the things that happened to me are shown in 'Footsteps,'" Overton said. "It shows how a coach is likely to do many things for glory and a chance to move up to a bigger school.

"The coaches fight to survive—and so do the players. But the coaches have the upper hand: The character I play is switched from offense, where his chances would be better with the pros, to defense, to make the coach look better. He's willing to destroy me for his own career. Believe me, it goes on all the time in real life."

Overton has no regrets about giving up football.

"I WANTED to be myself," he said. "I've found there was a lot in athletics that helped me in acting. The discipline, the repetition, timing, pace – you get it all in sports. But one thing for sure – a player never sitd down with a coach and works things out the way an actor can with a director."

A native of Boston, Overton played football at McCook, Neb., Junior College. Then he played at Wake Forest, N.C., in 1966-1968 before turning pro.

He was with Dallas and Kansas City for a season each, then, after a brief stint in Canadian football, went to New York to study drama at the Strasberg Institute. He started doing Commercials, won some roles in daytime television serials and recently has been working off-Broadway.

IF HE has one complaint now, it's that producers tell him he's too handsome for the roles he'd like.

Clintonville Furniture Makes Best OSU-USC Guess

The personnel of Clintonville Furniture, especially Manager William R. Bates, can take bows this week as the Monday morning quarterback experts.

Throwing aside emotion and sticking more to the facts of life the team at Clintonville Furniture, 3301 N. High St., came through with flying colors last week on their prediction (the best among 42 by merchants) of the outcome of the Ohio State-Southern California football game.

Their prediction was Southern California, 33; Ohio State, 14.

Why not call them at 263-1857 or stop in and see the superb merchandise they have to offer.

Meanwhile, we offer our congratulations to Clintonville Furniture and condolences to OSU. The final score was 42-17.

The Beat Of A City . . . And Then Some

MOODS WERE MANY at the 10th annual Symphony Grand Ball last Saturday at the Sheraton-Columbus Motor Hotel. The mood created by the flowers (red and blue carnations) was soft yet brilliant. The mood created by the gourmet dinner was one of ecstacy yet fulfillness. The Mood created by the Symphony Orchestra's performance was one of excitement yet lightness. The mood created by the Bill Harrington orchestra was varied from gaiety to cheek-to-cheekness. The mood created by the Koffee Haus was relaxing yet vibrant by the thought of an elegant evening's end. But the greatest mood of all the evening was created by the people who attended - those who support the existance of the Symphony Orchestra and who give so willingly of their time and efforts in many community causes with self-satisfaction of a job well done their great reward. This is the mood of a fellow man who loves his brother as himself and will rekindle any fire that might die out and with it man's cultural achievements. Mr. John Kessler was Symphony Grand Ball chairman. He reflects on all this with his lovely wife as the Symphony sways with the "Beat of Columbus" to The Man of La Mancha's "Impossible Dream" come true. Property Tax Overworked

Revenue Sources Needed By Schools

Thomas B. Connery
Special Staff Writer

Columbus School Board President Thomas Moyer appointed a special committee January 9 "to impress upon those in responsible positions that the property tax has been overworked."

Moyer said that the ad hoc Committee for Adequate Funding should "begin shouting at state and federal officials for more funds to operate city schools."

He said that the purpose of the committee will be to "impress on state government the need for a more certain revenue source."

Moyer said that competent authorities are convinced that the property tax has been overworked and that urban schools are going to have to get a larger share of state and federal revenue if they are to continue to operate efficiently.

He added that he hopes to have the board"s voice heard in the legislative and executive branches of the federal government.

Moyer appointed Paul Langdon chairman of the new committee, with himself and Dr. Watson Walker as members.

He also assigned members to the board's fourstanding committees, and appointed their chairmen: Dr. David Hamlar, buildings; Dr. Walker, finance; Mrs. Marilyn Redden, community relations; and Mrs. Marie Castleman, curriculum.

In its study and discussion session, the board heard a progress report on the staff development and human relations program by Dr. William Staats, special assistant to the Superintendent.

The purpose of the program is to train school personnel in better ways to interact with students, parents, and each other. An important part of the program is helping the teachers acquire a better understanding of their student's community and home environment.

To explain the "diversity, creativity, and complexity of the program" Staats told of study units on black-white relations Appalachia, and various ethnic cultures.

Students participate in a variety of ways, such as field trips, skits, exhibits, discussions, projects, and stage plays. Teachers are participating in seminars, study sessions, team-teaching and open classroom experiments, visitations to student's homes, workshops, and after-school activity programs for students.

Several school principals attended the meeting and described their own programs. Each school is required to submit a staff development and human relations program based upon its own needs and situation.

Dr. L. Thomas Moore, principal of Highland Elementary School, said that as a result his school's program his staff "has grown in mutual respect."

In addition to using techniques such as the open classroom and a non-graded curriculum, Moore said that the Highland staff was "fanning out into the community."

James Roy, Southwood Elementary principal, said that his teachers get a half-day off each month to make visits to the homes of students. He also described an after-school activity program that 404 students participate in. The teaches receive no additional compensation for their time in the program.

Roy told of a program that awards good behavior by students. If any school personnel, including the janitor, sees a positive act by a student, he awards the student a buckeye leaf that is similar to those that Ohio State football players wear on their helmets for making an outstanding play. Roy emphasized, however, that his students do not wear helmets.

Dr. Staats said that "to this date 95 per cent of the schools have submitted plans for staff development and human relations."

All board members indicated their satisfaction with the progress of the program, however, Mrs. Prentice and Dr. Walker said that they would like to see more emphasis placed on home visits by teachers.

Set $4,490,00 Bond Issue

Board Approves Sale Of Section 16 Land

The Madison Local School Board began the new year of business by approving the sale of 285 acres of Section 16 land and taking the inital steps toward putting a bond issue of the May ballot.

Members of the board approved a recommendation which authorizes Superintendent Philip Williams to vote to accept the offer of Ballco Inc., to purchase the land at $4,000 an acre.

WILLIAMS IS a member of the Divestiture Committee which is charged with handling the sale of he land.

Williams explained that the Village of Groveport and Canal Winchester, which are also represented on the committee, had also agreed to the sale.

He said if the full committee agrees, it will go to the state auditor and the final sale will not be official for several months.

THE MONEY FROM the sale will be put in a trust fund and the two school districts will benefit from the interest and the Madison district will benefit tax wise through the development of the land.

The developer who made the offer has recently completed an industrial complex in Obetz and is proposing to build a similar complex on this land.

The board also approved initial action which will place a $4,490,000 bond issue on the May 8 ballot.

A $3,380,000 BOND issue was defeated by the voters in November.

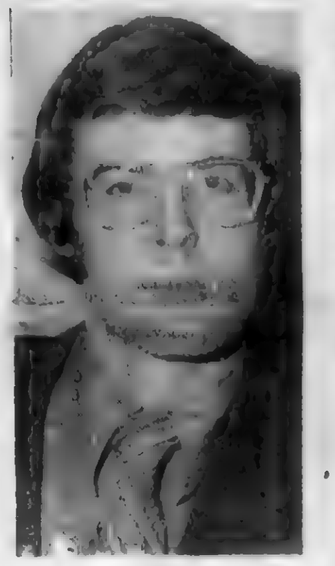
Three priority lists of building program considerations were studied by the board, including the $4,490,000.

The first would have kept the issue at the original level and would have included construction of a new middle school in the Blacklick Estates area; remodeling and renovating the existing junior high; constructing additions to Glendening and Sedalia OR constructing the first phase of a new elementary school; purchase school sites, further develop school bus service area and site improvement work.

A SECOND PROPOSAL called for a $4,100,000 bond issue with the same list except it called for "construction of additions to Glendening and Sedalia and construction of the first phase of a new elementary school" OR "construction of a complete new elementary and not additions at the other schools."

The proposal accepted by the board is also the same list except that it includes the construction of the classroom additions at the two elementary schools and the construction of a new elementary.

Williams said after studying the enrollment projections and the district's needs he felt the $4,490,000 bond issue was needed.



WHEN WE asked for $3,380,000 last time this wasn't all we needed, but it was all we were allowed at the time. This 4.9 will mean about $3.30 a month to the average tax payer."

Williams also added that it will be cheaper in the long run because it will cost less to build an elementary all at once, than to build it in phases.

He said even this issue would not solve all the district's problems but it would be a good start.

THE CAMPAIGN for the issue is being handled by a citizens' group called CIVIC (Citizens Interested Vitally In Children.)

At the same time the bond issue is being voted on, residents will also be asked to approve the renewal of four operating levies. The levies are for 4.5 mills, 3.9 mills, 5.5 mills and 2.3 mills.

Keep Those Cards And Letters Coming, Folks!

When the TV TIMES became official with the Jan. 3 issue of the Eastern Spectator we felt the response would be good.

WE HOPE you enjoy it. We enjoy doing it for you.

Pool Patter

By Peg Pierce

Winter swimming lessons will be offered to members of the Jewish Center during January, February and March and will take a break during Passover, April 16th.

The Learn to Swim class for children is based on skills rather than age. Parents are encouraged to attend family swims with their children and to teach the boys and girls to hold their breath, duck under water, blow bubbles, and open their eyes while under water.

If the child is thirty-four inches tall and adjusted to the pool the water safety instructors can now begin to teach the child the elements of swimming strokes.

Polliwog, Guppy, Sunfish - 2 O'clock, Sunday. A non-floater through 10 strokes is a Polliwog and from 10 strokes through the deep water test is a Guppy. From deep water to elementary back stroke is a Sunfish.

Teaching the beginners class are Missy Lawson and Jenny Drewes, Red Cross water safety instructors. Both women are Physical Education majors at Capital University and on a work study program with the Center.

THERE'S A LOT TO KEEP these four year olds busy at the Christ Lutheran Church sponsored pre-school. There's story telling time, exercising, music and games, crafts and of course snack time. Above, Mrs. Sandra Parsons, is telling the enthusiastic group a story before they begin their exercises. The program operates four days a week and will soon add a program for three year olds on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Other instructors are Mrs. Barbara Plinke and Mrs. Kay Addy. The pre-school is non-profit and was begun by the church 10 years ago.

Symphony

THE BEAT of Columbus goes on and on. It is a steady beat and it has stretched to the suburbs.

The fantastic beat became swept up in an even livelier fashion last Saturday as the Symphony Grand Ball, highlight of the Columbus area social season, gathered all the spotlights the big city could offer.

As a matter of fact, that was really all that might have been lacking, the klieg lights so familiar with premieres and gala events Hollywood style.

BUT ALL this is not the only part of the glitter that the patrons of the Symphony unfold in support of our Metropolitan city's cultural arts.

These are warm people - with spirit - and their assistance in keeping the fine arts in tune with our times should really be more appreciated by others than it is.

ESPECIALLY radiant in all this loveliness that unfolded before our eyes last weekend was that of Mrs. Alice Bentley. This charming woman has created a masterpiece of love and devotion with the press corps that is unbelieveable. Her mold is an original - like a Dior creation that cannot be copied nor excelled.

The new world that came before our eyes last Saturday has always been here. At every level of life culture can become an integral part of man's makeup.

PERHAPS our best description of the Symphony's affect on our minds,(and I say our including my lovely wife) was that music, surely, must be included when we speak of the Seven Wonders of the World - it truly preceded, in some form, the rest.

Convention Bureau Drives For New Center

THE FIRST COMMANDER to wear the Helmsmen emblem is Mayor Tom Moody and at his right is Convention Bureau President Roy Stage.

COLUMBUS Convention Bureau President Roy A. Stage set the sights of every citizen on the future last week when he announced the founding of a completely new organization, The Helmsman, a group of 90 young executives to operate as a adjunct to the Columbus Convention Bureau.

The purposes of the new group are:

(1.) To aid in educating the business community on the work the present Bureau and its predecessors have done since the late 1800's, to give Columbus its nationwide reputation as a convention city.

(2.) To increase the support of business leaders and civic minded citizens through membership in Columbus Convention Bureau.

(3) To promote in every way possible the advantages of Columbus as a place for people to live, do business and share in the city's advantages and extend the city's superior profile to potential visitors living elsewhere that they may come here as conventioneers or tourists and be impressed favorably by what Columbus offers.

(4) To initiate projects that will maintain and increase Columbus' reputation as one of the nation's truly progressive cities.

TEN TOP citizens headed by Mayor Moody have studied these purposes and endorse them fully and are lending their support to this new entity and commend this effort.

This civic-minded group includes, in addition to the Mayor, the following: Harold Cooper, Franklin County Commissioner; John E. Fisher, Nationwide Insurance; William Giovanello, F. & R. Lazarus & Company; Arthur G. Greene, Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co.; Arthur D. Herrmann, Huntington National Bank; Charles Hill, Sr., Hill Distributing Company; W. Fred Laird, Columbia Gas of Ohio; Fred LeVeque, LeVeque Enterprises and John W. Wolfe, BancOhio Corporation.

LETTERS from Mayor Moody have been sent to over 500 businessmen, exipaining this project, urging support through Convention Bureau membership and pointing out the need to broaden the base of convention-interested promotion on the part of Columbus businessmen, all of whom benefit from the 7-time turnover of Columbus' 28 million dollar annual convention volume.

The establishment of The Helmsmen, according to Stage, is a vital arm extending the work of Columbus Convention Bureau and is appropriately timed and fills a vital need in connection with the approach to reality of the new Ohio Convention Center Complex.

Stage released these facts and figures on Convention business:

BIG BUSINESS

The Convention Industry in the United States totals between six and seven billion dollars annually and is one in which Columbus should share on an ever-expanding basis.

Over ten years ago Columbus recognized that it had rapidly outgrown its Vets Auditorium - that larger conventions could not be solicited as exhibit space, meeting rooms and attendant services would not accommodate larger organizations.

Presently, the people of Columbus understand the situation as evidenced by voter passage of the bond issue last November for purchase of the Penn Central property - a major step toward realization of a new Center.

To acquaint you, in a general way, with Columbus activity in the increasingly important convention industry the following condensed facts and figures are presented for your perusal.

CONVENTION BUREAU

The Columbus Convention Bureau is a non-profit organization whose purpose is to sell Columbus as a site for national, regional and state conventions and meetings. It is supported by over 300 local business firms whose dues (tax deductible) provide funds for Bureau operation. The City also contributes to Bureau support through Ordinance via City Coucil to aid in maintenance of healthy convention activity.

1972 RESULTS

Convention Bureau statistics for 1972 show over 260 planned conventions in Columbus, 350,000 convention visitors in our City, each of whom will average two and one-half days here and spend an average of $83.00 Total convention expenditures in 1972 are expected to run between $26,000,000 and $27,000,000. For each dollar spent by the Convention Bureau about $500 will be returned in business for Columbus industry. This is an average expenditure to sales of .0024 percent.

PRESENT FACILITIES

Columbus present convention facitities include over 5,000 hotel-motel rooms, 10 airlines, 7 intercity bus lines, central location in the state and nation, good entertainment, excellent stores and restaurants, Vets Memorial, many points of interest and a hospitable people.

BUREAU SALES EFFORT

A full time Bureau staff of 4 people with excellent cooperation from the hotel and Veterans Memorial sales staffs, is continually at work on a prospect file of 5,000 convention groups to interest them in meeting in Columbus.

Personal contacts, mail and long distance telephone are used to develop invitations, schedules, programs and detailed plans for various organizations. Periodic travel by Bureau personnel to the headquarters of major convention groups develops interest in Columbus meetings.

After a decision is made dates are set, rooms reserved, rates established, schedules are developed. Bureau members are notified by weekly and quarterly reports so that they can plan promotions and be prepared for specific meetings. Parades, bus tours, badges, booklets, maps, flag decorations, reviewing stands and entertainment arrangements are part of the Bureau service. Guest registration is provided at no charge and complimentary mementos are supplied by the Bureau for executives of major groups. Limousine service is available for V.I.P.'s at no charge.

TAX FACTS

It is conservatively estimated that present convention volume contributes at least $1,000,000 in sales tax, over $500,000 in hotel-motel room taxes, $480,000 in gasoline taxes and over $800,000 in property taxes. Beyond these specific contributions there are other tax contributions on such items as liquor, amusement, social security, city income, etc. which accrue as a result of convention business. These taxes, paid by delegate-visitors, take burden off the shoulders of Columbus business and industry.

FUTURE PROGRAM

It is obvious that the scope of the present convention activity in Columbus justifies a greater sales expenditure to maintain and increase present volume. The staff should eventually be enlarged. There should be more brochures, leaflets and promotional pieces for use in direct mail campaigns, more travel and an increase in number of contacts with convention prospects.

Eventually Columbus, like other cities, should advertise in various association publications to spotlight Columbus as a convention site. This broader program will come gradually and, as in the past, and expenditures in new directions will be carefully studied and planned so that the greatest possible mileage can be assured for each dollar spent.

Also, urgently needed is an increase in number of firms and individuals supporting Bureau effort - both because of economic benefit and civic duty.

It should be understood that the amount of convention business that Columbus can enjoy is limited only by the adequacy of Columbus' physical facilities and growth in the future can be assured by continued aggressive promotion and broader interest and participation of an enlarged enthusiastic membership.

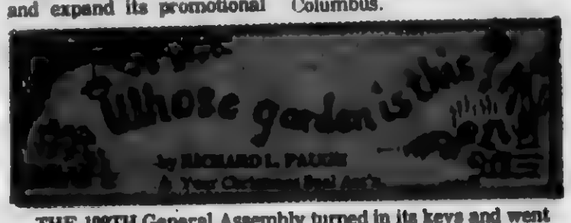
Mayor Urges New Center Support

To the Editor:

As Mayor, I believe that the Columbus Convention Bureau is our most valuable aid in promoting Columbus.

Our new multi-million-dollar Convention Center is moving closer to becoming a reality. And as we work towards this goal, we should remember the importance of convention visitors. During 1972 the Columbus Convention Bureau helped bring over 350,000 conventioneers and about $26,000,000 into our community, boosting your business and our whole economy.



As we work to plan and build the new Ohio Center, it is vital that we give the Convention Bureau the needed support to maintain and expand its promotional effort. The competition is intense for conventions and only by a proper investment now can we be prepared for the new Convention Center and insure the bright future Columbus deserves to expect.

Every convention dollar turns over seven times in Columbus, while every dollar spent in convention promotion pays back almost $500 in business. Our City Council along with 300 companies are now supporting the Convention Bureau.

I urge you to make a committment to Columbus' future by joining the Convnetion Bureau.

Thank you for your interest and hopefully your support.

Sincerely yours,
Tom Moody, Mayor
Columbus.

THE 109TH General Assembly turned in its keys and went home December 15 (only four members showed for the official wake on the 21st), after 260 legislative days - the longest in Ohio history.

Unfortunately, quantity has little to do with quality and seasoned observers across Ohio noted that most of those 260 days were not spent in productive ways.

IN SOME WAYS, the 109th showed a new respect for the environment. They were the first to flourish and Environmental Committee. But, they then laughed at many problems by assigning many important environmental subjects to other committees in an attempt to avoid the new committee.

During the last five months of 1972, the House Environmental Committee smet only twice, once to railroad the badly shredded EPA bill through and once to add two legislators to the Unreclaimed Board. The Senate ENV Committee met not at all during those months.

IT MUST BE noted for the records that the 14-month battle to obtain decent stripmine laws ended in a success. Although there are many flaws and loopholes in it, H.B. 928 is by far the best possible law any environmentalist throught possible. It took many school buses full of high school kids watching the proceedings, it took all possible energy by conservationists and it took many hundreds of hours of testimony, but the will of the people was respected.

IN RETROSPECT, I now realize H.B. 928 also did much more. It cleared off the back fence. It made all forces show their colors. Those lawmakers who had been placed in office by coal, energy or manufacturing people had to show their lack of autonomy. The lawmakers, who in the past had been sleepers, had to take a stand. Although it solidified the gas, electric, coal and manufacturing lobbies, it also went a long way towards forming a coalition of conservationists.

For the first time, 14 different state-wide citizen groups met at the Ohio Tuberculosus and Respiratory Disease Association headquarters in Columbus and planned strategies during the closing days of the battle for the better Ohio. This type of coalition was unheard of in the past.

IF OBSERVERS had to boil the environmental actions of ths 109th down to one hard score, it is my opinion that the grade would be just barely passing. However, the future looks a good deal brighter. Reapportionment has placed the control of the legislature in the hands of population rather than property. With the state income tax a reality, some funds will be available.

Conservationists are now tooling up to vastly improve the Ohio EPA by adding a citizen's board, by adding land use authority and by allowing citizen suits against polluteers. The 110th General Assembly should get a much higher grade.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Get to know your state senator and representative by name early this year.

Metropolitan Park District In Unprecedented Development

1972 marked an unprecedented level of development for the Metropolitan Park District of Columbus and Franklin County. Nearly $1.5 million in capital improvement construction contracts were let during the year. Expenditure of $425,000 during 1972 added 322 acres of land to Park District holding s bringing the total acreage in eight park properties to 5,472.

HIGHLIGHTING Park District construction projects was the development of a new 18-hole, par-59 golf course at Blacklick Woods Metropolitan Park to supplement the existing 18-hole Stoney Creek championship course.

Work was begun on the new $492,000 Blacklick Woods Activities Building which will serve as operations center for both golf courses as well as other park activities. Both golf courses and the new activities building will be ready for use in late spring and promise to provide area residents probably the finest public golf facitities in the Midwest.

THE LONG-AWAITED development of Highbanks Metropolitan Park was begun in 1972 and it is expected that the park will offer limited facilities open to the public in the spring. Nature trails totaling more than 1.5 miles were constructed during the year including the first rail through the major forest area of Sharon Woods Metropolitan Park. Two new reservable picnic facilities at Blendon Woods Metropolitan Park will be ready for use in the spring.

Financing of Park District development is provided by a .3 mill tax levy which amounted to approximately $900,000 in 1972. Additional monies came from Interior Department Bureau of Outdoor Recreation Land and Water Conservation Fund contracts approved by the Phio Department of Natural Resources..

METROPOLITAN PARKS are governed by the Board of Park Commissioners composed of Michael B. Karr, Chairman; Everett H. Krueger; and Dr. Robert M. Zollinger. Park District Director is Edward F. Hutchins and John A. Metzker, Deputy Director.

12 Point Document

Patient's Bill Of Rights Defined, Approved By AHA

A twelve point document entitled "A Patient's Bill of Rights," which clearly defines what rights a patient has in a hospital while undergoing treatment, has been approved by the Board of Trustees of the American Hospital Association and distributed to its 7,000 member hospitals across the nation.

John Alexander McMahon, president of the Association, in making the announcement said, "It is the hope of the American Hospital Association that the publishing of these rights will, as the opening paragraph of the document states, 'contribute to more effective patient care and greater satisfaction for the patient, his physician and the hospital organization.'

"I AM SURE that the majority of our hospitals have been practicing the contents of the Bill to the best of their ability," McMahon continued. "The 12 points are subject areas that have always needed to be spelled out to the patient so that he would know what his rights are in the hospital setting. This document covers the most commonly questioned situations that patients encounter in a hospital." The Bill of Rights was prepared by the Association's Committee on Health Care for the Disadvantaged, which was formed in 1969 by the Board of Trustees in order to pay special attention to the health problems of the poor.

"EVERY ONE of the 12 points in the Bill had to receive the complete approval of the four consumer members of the committee," said Joseph V. Terenzio, chairman, who is executive president of the United Hospital Fund of New York.

The four consumer members of the group, which is also composed of administrators and physicians, are: W. Carl Moore, a shoemaker from Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. Sarah R. Barela, a housewife from Denver Colo.; Mrs. Martha Grass, a widow from Tulsa, Okla., and Eugene Johnson, a community worker for the Regional Medical Program of Newark, N.J.

"THE OTHER consumer members and myself are pleased with the Bill of Rights as it is written. We feel that they give the consumer something to go by in determining what rights he has while undergoing care in a hospital," said Moore.

Briefly, the 12 points are:

1. "The patient has the right to considerate and respectful care."

2. "The patient has the right to obtain from his physician complete current information concerning his diagnosis, treatment and prognosis in terms the patient can be reasonably expected to understand."

3. "The patient has the right to receive from his physician information necessary to give informed consent prior to the start of any procedure and-or treatment."

4. "The patient has the right to refuse treatment to the extent permitted by law, and to be informed of the medical consequences of his action."

5. "The patient has the right to every consideration of his privacy concerning his own medical care program."

6. "The patient has the right to expect that all communications and records pertaining to his care should be treated as confidential."

7. "The patient has the right to expect that within its capacity a hospital must make reasonable response to the request of a patient for services."

8. "The patient has the right to obtain information as to any relationship of his hospital to other health care and educational institutions insofar as his care is concerned."

9. "The patient has the right to be advised if the hospital proposes to engage in or perform human experimentation affecting his care or treatment."

10. "The patient has the right to expect reasonable continuity of care."

11. "The patient has the right to examine and receive an explanation of his bill regardless of source of payment."

12. "The patient has the right to know what hospital rules and regulations apply to his conduct as a patient."

THE DOCUMENT concludes by saying: "No catalogue of rights can guarantee for the patient the kind of treatment he has a right to expect. A hospital has many functions to perform, including the prevention and treatment of disease, the education of both health professionals and patients, and the conduct of clinical research. All these activities must be conducted with an overriding concern for the patient, and, above all, the recognition of his dignity as a human being. Success in achieving this recognition assures success in the defense of the rights of the patient."

For More Than Art's Sake

Elegance Unsurpassed

Symphony Grand Ball Tuned To Great Times

Elegance in every detail flowed gently at the 10th annual Symphony Grand Ball at the Sheraton-Columbus last Saturday.

Decorations, reception, cocktails, dinner, entertainment, dancing, koffee haus and the following enjoyments were complimented by the exquisite attire of those attending.

A myriad of colors enhanced the theme "The Beat of Columbus" with smartly attired women and handsome men in their formal attire more the rule rather than the exception.

Top the evening with a grand cause - for the benefit of the orchestra-and the grandeur is complete.

A tremendous mural of Columbus'skyline was just one of the many unique decorative eye-catchers that were created by Mr. William Bravard under the direction of Decorations Chairman Mr. John B. McCoy.

The many small items that captured interest included history notes of the city that include a "Home of the Banana Split" as one sign.

The brightness of the evening's atmosphere was enhanced by the warmness of the many Symphony patrons and guests who made this gala evening really what it was - people who care about the cultural center of life in our city - The Columbus Symphony Orchestra.

Honorary Chairman John G. McCoy had this to say in an editorial that prefaced the printed program:

Allegro con spiritoso (with spirit and energy) -the Beat of Columbus.

"We count our blessings and find them many - a combination of economic, geographic and cultural influences that keep Columbus on the move with spirit!

"We are richly blessed with cultural influences - our universities, research centers, museums, the performing arts, the Columbus Symphony of which we are so proud.

"And the beat of Columbus goes on - allegro con spiritoso.

"Our fast and spirited beat has been set by many dedicated leaders who have worked together for the common good. Columbus has become attractive to various national concerns as a home office. The diversity of our industry makes for a steadily rising economy. Because it is a state capital, it is a prestige city where all levels of government activity abound. All the while we live close to the green country in one of the world's rich farming [illegible].

"You, who attend this ball and support the Symphony, are among those who set the beat of D Columbus, allegro con spiritoso."

The entertainment last Saturday was: Reception and cocktails on the promenade with music by the Bill Harrington Trio; gourmet dinner in the Grand Ballroom; selections by the Columbus Symphony Orchestra with Mr. Evan Whallon, Musical Director and Conductor; Dancing to the Bill Harrington orchestra and a koffee haus in the Oceanic suite, compliments of the Conductor's Committee.

The 1973 symphony ball team was as follows: Honorary Chairman, Mr. John G. McCoy; General Chairman, Mr. John W. Kessler; Chairman's Advisory Committee: Messrs: Ernest G. Fritsche, Everett H. Krueger, David R. Patterson and J. Wallace Phillips; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Chester Hawley Jr.; Treasurer, Mr. Donald S. Williams; Business Management, Messrs. H. Roy Chope and John F. Wolfe; Conductor's committee: Mr. William R. Bennett; Decorations, Mr. John B. McCoy; Floral Arrangements, Mrs. Kenneth L. Bishop; Hotel Arrangements, Mrs. Eleanor A. Gelpi; Invitation and Program Design, Messrs. Clyde R. Tipton Jr. (chairman), Gene A. Hite and

AN EXCEPTIONALLY fine musical interlude was provided the Ball attendees during the cocktail hour and reception on the promenade. Mr. and Mrs. H. Roy Chope were among those who took time to enjoy the entertainment.

THE SYMPHONY Grand Ball has been built in stature upon the determination of many people. Here are two who have been a part of that growth. They are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Fritsche.

MR. AND MRS. Harry Schreiner were among the many who enjoyed the Symphony Orchestra program and then dancing to the music of the Bill Harrington orchestra. Here they rest and show their enjoyment with a hello for all.

GOLO'S classic pump on a moderate platform, with new high-cut look, in leathers, patents and suedes—fashionably worn with two piece suit of ash blond silk linen with pleated skirt as a showcase for pretty legs—Brief Top panty hose in fawn shade by Burlington.

'IN' fashion

with Tess Stern

PLATFORM SHOES ARE MAKING FASHION NEWS for Spring and Summer, and they couldn't be prettier! The height of the sole is the key to the proportioned look in Spring ready-to-wear—feminine and girly-girly—so right with pants, and to give a longer look from the waist to the floor with skirts.

GOLO FOOTWEAR CORPORATION knows what fashion in shoes is all about. Golo shoes are well known by the company they keep—closely allied with fashion and the theatre. Many of the top designers featured Golo shoes with their current Spring collections that I previewed in New York—and on Broadway Golo is doing shoes for the leads of several productions.

THE MESSAGE from Golo is their beautiful variety—the Spectator tops the list. Oxfords make news with tip and fox and perfs in white leather accented with dark patents—spectatored and platformed, the perfect accent for pants and suits. The pump makes "a point" in contrasting tones, often a color with white, to add zest to daytime clothes. Golo's classic pump is done in un-classic pastel colors in leather, patent, and suede—a one-piece shoe with high cut vamp that fits like a glove—perfect compliment to the soft knits, cashmeres and crochet clothes.

THE MOCCASIN is a must for all the sportswear around, and with its crepe sole, adds extra dimension and comfort.

GOLO SANDALS can't be overlooked either—easy to wear, they are done in a multitude of colors, and once again with the small platform they become an integral part of the fashion look in dresses as well as for the new free-flowing pants that will dominate the Spring and Summer scene.

GOLO'S OXFORD...tied, spectatored and platformed. Crepe soled moccasin in smooth leather or patent, piped in white leather...wedge in smooth leather, saddle stitched. (Golo Shoes available at Lazarus.)

Perfect accent for this exotic flowered knit dress by Stan Herman are Golo's classic Texas platform pump, tipped and heeled in dark patent—champagne panty hose by Burlington.

Rounding Up The Rams

By Suzann Klayko

New school policies which were wanted by both the students and by the administration were enacted by the Board of Education.

These policy changes were made in attendance, in-school suspension, and in study hall attendance.

The attendance procedure has been changed so that one does not need to have an admit slip. The only form needed is one to leave school.

On the excuse for being absent there must be the name of the student, the homeroom, grade, date of absense, reason for absense and the home phone number. Signature of parent or guardian is also required. The reason the policies were changed was to avoid paperwork.

In-school suspension began for the first time at Whitehall-Yearling. It has been tried succesfully at other school with supervison. Here the student is able to make up to a "D" on the work. Out-of-school suspension will still be continued. In both cases, parents will be notified.

Students this year have a choice of going either to the library, the student lounge, or to their regular study hall. There is no restriction to the use of the lounge and it is up to the student's better judgment if he meeds to study.

If a student had a first period or ninth period study hall he is able to choose oto arrive at school later or leave early.

A student can not choose both because of state regulation.

..Driving too fast for road conditions is a major cause of fatal accidents. Slow down and live, urges Ohio Highway Safety Director Pete O'Grady.

Trip Planned By YMCA

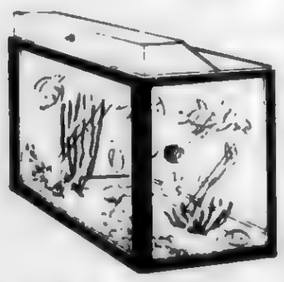
June 15 thirty young men from Columbus area high schools will embark on a one month wilderness hiking, mountain climbing, and canoeing expedition in northern Maine.

The wilderness trip program, sponcored by Central Branch YMCA, shares the outward bound philosophy that individual achievement potential is best developed in "stress" situations, and, therefore, will be partially set in some of the wildest, and most beautiful, country in the United States.

The high school man and their "Y" leaders will spend their first ten days in Maine shooting the rapids of the Allagash Wilderness Waterway. Completing the canoe trip, they will hike the northern most segment of the Appalachian Trail to Mt. Katahdin, and climb the "Knife Edge" of Katahdin to Baxter Peak. The group will also be camping at Acadid National Park in Maine and the Cape Cod National Seashore and Martha's Vineyard in Massachussetts, where they'll be able to enjoy the sun and white sand beaches.

Program participants aged 14 through 16, will leave Columbus in three seperate groups: June 15, June 22, and June 29. Each group will return to Columbus 28 days after having departed.

The trip fee, which is $350, is all - inclusive, covering everything except personal spending money.



Todd Graeff, Central YMCA's trip director, said there are still some openings, and anyone interested in the program should call him at 224-1131, extension 38 or 40.

Local Youth Participates In 'Festival Of Lights'

Thomas James Wright first participated in the St. Paul's Episcopal "Festival of Lights" at age five when he served as a "satellite".

This year, Wright, 17, and a senior at Bexley High School, will have the role of Great Candle Bearer in the service, commemorating the season of Epiphany, at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the church, 787 E. Broad St.

Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick W. Wright, 2518 Fair Ave., Bexley, is a member of St. Paul's Acolyte Guild.

The Festival of Lights is being presented for the 53rd time at the church. The rector, Rev. G. Wayne Craig, will conduct the service.

The service here originated after one of the congregation, the late George C. Dunbar, witnessed the Feast at Westminster Abbey. He helped organize a replica of the ceremony upon returning home.

The cassocks he purchased from an ecclesiastical costumer in London are still being used in the present service. He also imported special crosses and banners and later bought in France a gold-embroidered cape, liner with red satin for the priest to wear.

Each candle has great significance in the service, according to Rev. G. Wayne Craig, priest at St. Paul's. The great candle in the ceremony stands for Christ, the Light of the World. The 12 lesser candles which are placed in the form of the cross during part of the service represnets the light spread by the 12 Apostles.

Choir cancles symbolize the Christian churches.

Directing the service will be Charles F. Slagle. He will be assisted by Harold W. Thompson, history and publicity, Walter J. Stephens II, co-director; Croft S. Merritt, lighting; Lorenzo Baker, Jr., E. C. Jack Heater, Jr., Lorenzo Baker III, Gregg Hamilton, properties.

In charge of wardrobe are Mrs. Earl L. Hamilton, Mrs. Charles F. Slagle, Mrs. Walter J. Stephens II, Mrs. Croft S. Merritt, Mrs. Frederick G. Taylor, Mrs. Dwight L. Fullerton, Jr., Mrs. Fredrick W. Wright and Mrs. Sydney Reynolds.

Also taking part in the service will be Charles Slagle II, first crucifer; David Hamilton and Samuel Merritt, first taper bearers; Phillip Wright, second crucifer; James Slagle and Walter Stephens III, second taper bearers, Andrew Taylor, third crucifer; William Fullerton and Keith Heater, third taper bearers; William Cooper, American Flag; and Craig Cooper, church flag.

MARCH OF DIMES

There is evidence that women who are heavy smokers run the risk of having low birth weight babies, according to the March of Dimes.

ACT II

by BETTY DRAGONETTE

I am sorry I goofed on the date for Vaudvillities. It will be March 28, 29 30 and 31 at Vets Memorial.

Even phone calls for a correction show you pay attention. Thank you.

January 25, 27, 28 and 31, February 1,3 and 4 are the days to see "Dark Of The Moon" at Gallery Players of the Jewish Center, 1125 Douth College Avenue. Diane Disque heads the cast for this dramatic tale of Barbara Allen. Harold Eisenstein directs. Call 231-2731 for ticket information.

"Who's Afraid Of Virginia Wolf?" has been done many times in this area and I was wondering what the reasoning was behind the selection of this play to represent the 60's in Players Club's 50th anniversary season.

Now that I have the cast list, I am more than anxious to see it. Four of my favorite people, onstage as well as off, will show us all how this play should be done.

They are Deye Mendelson as Martha (if you saw her at Ohio State's Stadium II Theatre in "Low On High" last summer you know how great she is) and Bob Chosy as George. Now that's enough right there to guarantee success. Add Burt Louis as Nick and Jackie Bates as Honey, top it all off with Jerry Ness directing and how can they loose! Play dates are February 9 thru 17 at their theatre, 549 Franklin Avenue. Reservations are a must, so call 224-6971 or 231-3449 a week before it opens to assure your chances of seeing it.

The Ohio Theater is currently featuring Sada Thompson in "Twigs". There is a Wednesday and a Saturday afternoon matinee at 2:30, evening performances, through Saturday are at 8:30. Miss Thompson won the 1972 Tony award for best actress for her multiple roles in this piece, so seeing it here with her duplicating her Broadway performance is a real treat. Call 469-0939 for tickets.

For a change of pace, why not attend an art show this week? There is a fine Watercolor show at the Schumacher Gallery at Capital University done by the Central Ohio Watercolor Society. The exhibition ends January 28. Also ending January 28 is Robert O. Chadaeyne Retrospective at the Columbus Gallery.

The Yale University collection of German Expressionists: Painting and Prints will remain at the Columbus Gallery through February 18.

Will Attend Conference

State Representative Alan E. Norris has been selected to represent the Ohio House of Representatives at the National Conference on Criminal Justice, January 23 to 26, in Washington, D.C.

Sponsored by the U.S. Department of Justice's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, the conference is expected to draw 1500 criminal justice practicioners from government and the defense bar.

Among the subjects to be covered by the conference are: community involvement in crime prevention, courts and justice, and the role of corrections. The objectives of the National Conference are to stimulate an awareness of critical problems in our criminal justice system, to develop solutions to those problems, and to encourage support for a national effort to improve the Criminal Justice system and reduce crime.

Representative Norris is serving his fourth term in the Ohio Gerneral Assembly and was chief sponsor of the recently enacted Ohio Criminal Code. He Chaired the Criminal Law Committee of the House of Representatives during 1971-72.

TRAFFIC JAMS

..A traffic jam will move just as slowly even if you jump from lane to lane, says State Highway Safety Director Pete O'Grady. And you risk getting caught in a squeeze play. Don't change lanes unnecessarily!

Dog License Deadline

Franklin County Auditor Arch J. Warren has reminded dog owners of the January 20 deadline for purchasing 1973 dog licenses without penalty.

Licenses are on sale at all of the Sears stores during their regular store hours, as well as at the License Division of the Franklin County Court House from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The License Division is located in the basement of the Court House, Mound Street side and the door the farthest west.

Mail orders for dog tags and requests for kennel licenses or duplicate tags should be directed to the License Division at the Court House only.

Courts Are Topic For Town Meeting

"Franklin County Municipal Court: Too tough or too lenient?" will be the topic on Columbus Town Meeting Sunday, January 21, from 1 to 2 p.m. on WBNS-TV.

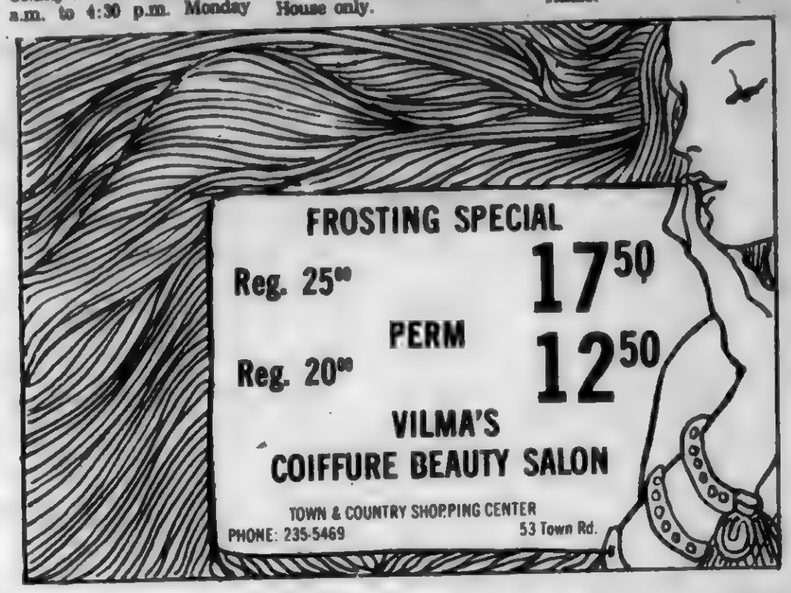
An audio tape of the program will be rebroadcast Sunday evening from 10 to 11 p.m. over WBNS-AM Radio.

The moderator will be Huntington Carlile.

Guest speakers will be: Fred L. Newsom, Jr., Staff Lawyer with Labor's Local 423 Legal Service; Wayne T. Geissinger, Columbus Lawyer with Geissinger & Tarbutton and a professional Labor - Management arbitrator and The Hon. Patrick West, Judge, Franklin County Municipal Court.

Questions may be telephoned to 228-3881 during the program.

Club and organizational news should be sent to the Spectator by Thursday noon.



OAPSE Names Director

Lawrence V. (Larry) DeCresce has been named executive director of the Ohio Association of Public School Employees (OAPSE). The Columbus man is a seven-year staff member of the Association.

OAPSE President Mrs. Emaline M. Kime, Canton, announced the appointment following a meeting of the Association's 14-member Executive Board in Columbus.

Town And Country Plans Free Vacation For Two

That's what the Merchant's Association of the Town & Country Shopping Center is providing the lucky winner of a drawing in their "Christmas Cards Return" contest.

To qualify for the competition one has only to bring used Christmas Cards, in packets of ten, to the Town & Country Swan Cleaners store at hours shown in the ad elsewhere in this paper.

For each ten cards is issued an Entry Blank. The drawing will be made at 8 p.m., Monday January 22.

Of course, no purchase is necessary and one need not be present to win.

The thousands of cards thus collected will be distributed to the Children's Hospital, convalescent homes, senior centers etc. where they are much appreciated.

The gala vacation includes a full week of double-occupancy in the Jolly Roger Riviera Suite, breakfast and dinner, champagne, flowers, photos, tickets to area attractions and golf privileges...a "Prize Package" indeed.

To make it more attractive, the trip may be made anytime from Easter to Dec. 15, 1973.

Musical Programs Will Feature Variety

The Ohio State College of The Arts' Department of Theatre will present N. Richard Nash's "Echoes" as its first play for winter quarter at Ohio State University.

The "delicate domestic comedy", as described by the playwright, and directed by Hollis Huston, a graduate student, will run form January 24 to 27, at 8 p.m., in the Drake Center Experimental Theatre.

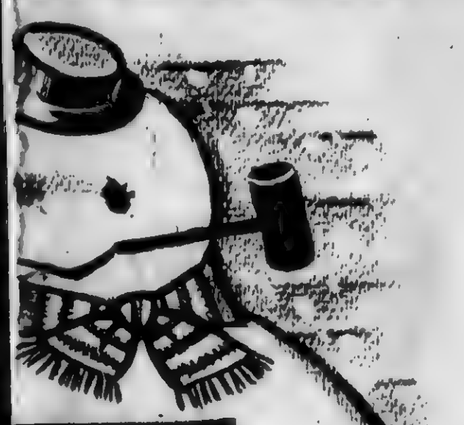
"Echoes", basically a two-person play opens with a poignant love story. A young man and a young woman, Sam and Tilda, inhabit The Place, and are visited occasionally by someone from the outside called the Person, the silent third member of the cast. The play is a tender, perceptive account of a love relationship but stoped short of falling victim to mawkish sentimentality.

General admission tickets may be purchased at the College of The Arts Ticket Office, Mershon Lobby West, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. For information call 422-2295.

"73 Follies, a Fabulous Old-Time Variety Show," will be presented by the Ohio State University College of The Arts, Division of Dance, Saturday, January 20, at 8 p.m. in Sullivant Hall. The dance-variety show is under the direction of Dance graduate student Erica Meyers.

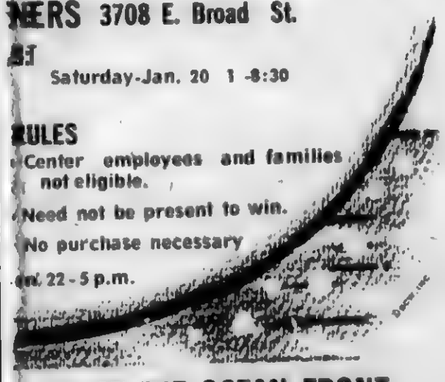
Planned as a fun-filled, family entertainment event, the performance will include juggling, dancing, singing, dancing, music, and more dancing. There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

Sullivant Hall is located at 15th and High, directly across from Mershon Auditorium. Parking is available at the Union Parking Ramp and in the Mershon Parking Lot.



The Ohio State University Chorus, under the direction of Jeffrey Brandes, will present their Winter Concert Monday evening, January 22, at 8 p.m. in Hughes Auditorium.

The Choir is made up of close to 150 freshmen and sophomores from throughout the University.



There is no admission charge for this performance and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Colonel Bowen Assumes Command At Lockbourne

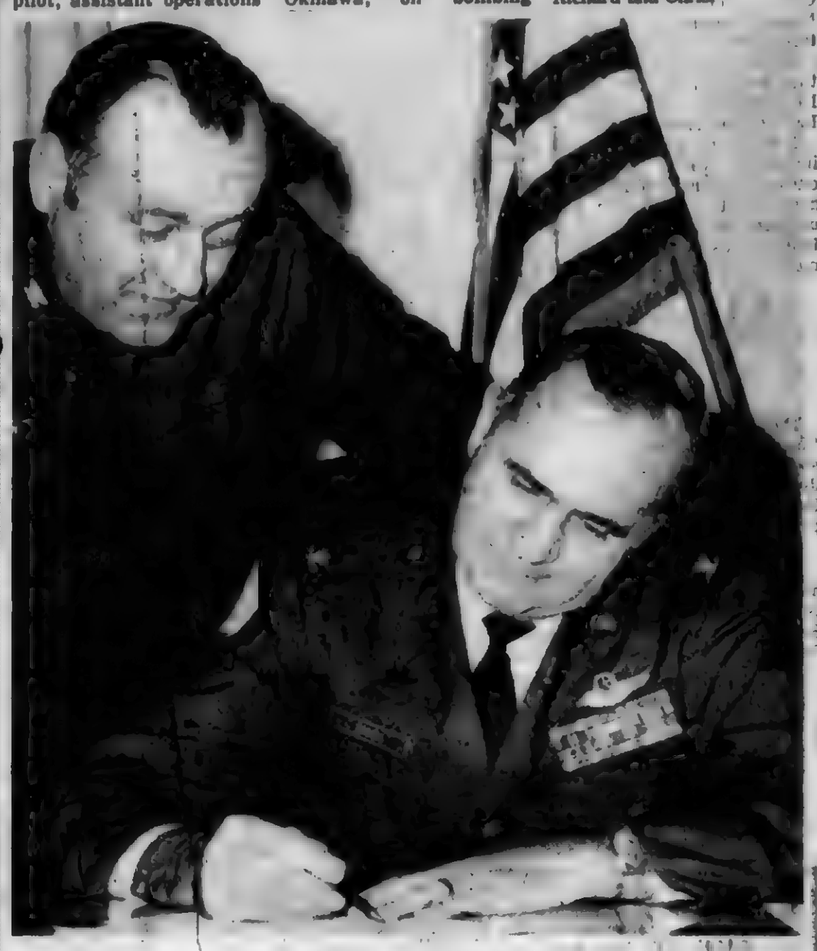
Colonel Myron A. Bowen has assumed the position of 301st Combat Support Group ((CSG) commander replacing Colonel Thomas B. Carter. Colonel Carter has been transferred to the 301st Air Refueling Wing (ARW) where he will serve as special assistant to the wing commander until his retirement April 30.

Colonel Bowen has served as deputy CSG Commander since he arrived at Lockbourne in October 1971. The Deputy Commander's office is being filled by Colonel Henry P. Schaefer who recently moved to Lockbourne from Castle AFB, California, where he commanded the 924th Air Refueling Squadron.

As 301st CSG commander, Colonel Bowen is the principal manager of Lockbourne's service facilities and real estate. His command authority encompasses all of Lockbourne's active duty Air Force support agencies--agencies which werve not only base personnel, but military personnel stationed throughout Ohio and adjoining states.

Colonel Bowen came to Lockbourne from McCoy AFB, Florida. He enlisted in the Army Air Corps in 1941 and was released in 1947. He was recalled to active duty in 1950 and was assigned to SAC as a B-52 pilot with the 93rd Bomb SWing at Castle AFB, California.

IN 1966 Colonel Bowen flew 78 combat missions in support of Southeast Asia operations and flew there again in 1969. He has 7,000 accident-free flying hours with over 600 hours of flight time logged during combat missions.



Colonel Bowen and his wife Gladys live on base and have three children: Michael-age 25, Pat-age 22 and David-age 20.

Colonel Bowen's new assistant, Colonel Schaefer, has spent the past five years at Castle AFB where he served as a KC-135 instructor pilot, assistant operations officer and a KC-135 squadron commander with the 924th Air FRefueling Squadron.

Colonel Schaefer, a New York City native, was called to active duty as an aviation cadet in the Army Air Corps in 1943. He flew the B-17 and B-29 during the war and separated from the service in 1946. He was in the Air Reserve from 1948 to 1952 when he was recalled to active duty and assigned to SAC. In July 1952 he was assigned to fly B-29s, based in Okinawa, on bombing missions over North Korea.

SINCE THEN, Colonel Schaefer has flown the KB-29, the KC-97 and the KC-135. From 1966 to 1967, he was assigned to U-Tapao Air Field Thailand as a command post controller. He flew 25 combat missions. Colonel Schaefer, a command pilot, has over 5,000 hours in the KC-135 and 10,000total flying hours.

Colonel Schaefer and his wife, Rae, reside on base and have two daughters, Pamela and Paula, and two sons, Richard and Chris.

Colonel Bowen Assumes Command At Lockbourne

Colonel Myron A. Bowen has assumed the position of 301st Combat Support Group ((CSG) commander replacing Colonel Thomas B. Carter. Colonel Carter has been transferred to the 301st Air Refueling Wing (ARW) where he will serve as special assistant to the wing commander until his retirement April 30.

Colonel Bowen has served as deputy CSG Commander since he arrived at Lockbourne in October 1971. The Deputy Commander's office is being filled by Colonel Henry P. Schaefer who recently moved to Lockbourne from Castle AFB, California, where he commanded the 924th Air Refueling Squadron.

As 301st CSG commander, Colonel Bowen is the principal manager of Lockbourne's service facilities and real estate. His command authority encompasses all of Lockbourne's active duty Air Force support agencies--agencies which werve not only base personnel, but military personnel stationed throughout Ohio and adjoining states.

Colonel Bowen came to Lockbourne from McCoy AFB, Florida. He enlisted in the Army Air Corps in 1941 and was released in 1947. He was recalled to active duty in 1950 and was assigned to SAC as a B-52 pilot with the 93rd Bomb SWing at Castle AFB, California.

IN 1966 Colonel Bowen flew 78 combat missions in support of Southeast Asia operations and flew there again in 1969. He has 7,000 accident-free flying hours with over 600 hours of flight time logged during combat missions.

Colonel Bowen and his wife Gladys live on base and have three children: Michael-age 25, Pat-age 22 and David-age [illegible].

Colonel Bowen's new assistant, Colonel Schaefer, has spent the past five years at Castle AFB where he served as a KC-135 instructor pilot, assistant operations officer and a KC-135 squadron commander with the 924th Air FRefueling Squadron.

Colonel Schaefer, a New York City native, was called to active duty as an aviation cadet in the Army Air Corps in 1943. He flew the B-17 and B-29 during the war and separated from the service in 1946. He was in the Air Reserve from 1948 to 1952 when he was recalled to active duty and assigned to SAC. In July 1952 he was assigned to fly B-29s, based in Okinawa, on bombing missions over North Korea.

SINCE THEN, Colonel Schaefer has flown the KB-29, the KC-97 and the KC-135. From 1966 to 1967, he was assigned to U-Tapao Air Field Thailand as a command post controller. He flew 25 combat missions. Colonel Schaefer, a command pilot, has over 5,000 hours in the KC-135 and 10,000total flying hours.

Colonel Schaefer and his wefe, Rae, reside on base and have two daughters, Pamela and Paula, and two sons, Richard and Chris.

Ohio Cap, City Races Tied

Grove City Lone Undefeated Cage Leader

GROVE CITY'S Greyhounds are apt to catch the Mid-8 rabbit this season barring an upset. The smooth Herb Russell outfit remains as the area's only undefeated team now since Westerville's Ohio Cap Cats fell prey to Gahanna last Friday.

The 8-0 league and 12-0 overall Greyhounds trek to Grandview (6-5) Friday for another test.

EAST'S high flying Tigers, 6-1 league and 10-1 overall, are tied with South and Linden McKinley for the Columbus City League top rung.

East gets the easiest shot with Mohawk Friday and Northland Saturday.

Linden is host to an improving Whetstone team and takes on South Saturday in a game that will drop one from the lead.

THE OHIO CAP surprise last week was the win of Reynoldsburg over Westland 70-59. It ended a drouth of 20 losses in the two major sports this year, football and basketball, for the Raiders, although Raider wrestling coach Roger Anderson will argue that wrestling is a major sport and his undefeated season is proof positive of that.

Terry Yoakum's Westerville Cats finally lost a close one after winning a bundle of that kind. After leading Gahanna for most of the game the Cats fell victim of cold-shooting and a sticky Lion defense that got better board position.

THE CATS and Delaware, 9-1 league and 11-1 season, will meet again at Westerville in a game that will go a long way toward deciding the Ohio Cap crown. Whitehall almost knocked itself out of the race with a loss to Delaware by a healthy margin, 53-36.

Bishop Ready seems to have the Central Catholic league title locked in its trophy-full closet and still leads the polls for the State Class AA rating. The Silver Knights could have their hands full against a Watterson team that bumped off tough Hartley last week.

TOP SCORERS last weekend were: Williams, South, 23; Robinson, North, 23; Tolliver, Mohawk, 20; Goodyear, Walnut Ridge, 20; Loe, Walnut Ridge, 24; McCants, East, 24; Ohanian, Eastmoor, 21; Jones, Ready, 30; Criner, New Albany, 26; Moeller, Grove City, 31; Chaffin, Grove City, 20; Termeer, Dublin, 21; Williamson, Marion-Franklin, 22; Wood, Northland, 22;

THE NETWORK: Crowds continue to flock to the high school area games with trouble after games seemingly to have disappeared as fast as it once got under way. With tournament time coming up in February and the league title races, City and Ohio Cap, still unsettled its case of veterans getting first call for the leaders with second stringers getting little or no action due to the close tilts. As a result bench strength could be weak for area teams when tourney time rolls around.

WE'LL BE covering the Franklin County college title clash next Saturday at Otterbein when Capital comes to visit the Otters. That's the one exception we make in veering from the high school coverage.

THE MAHAFFEY brothers for Reynoldsburg proved to be thorns in the Westland Cougar paws last week. Here comes Jim (20) with the ball as brother Mack (22) gets ready to pave Jim's way to the basket. Cougar defenders are Roger Cuccio (43) and Greg Spellman (31).

Licking Heights Mat Meet Set Saturday

Licking Heights High School will host a 13 team wrestling tournament for class A and AA schools. Most of the district powers will be represented and the competition is expected to be intense.

Watterson, Bishop Ready, Jonathan Alder, Buckeye Valley, and Bexley are expected to fight it out for the top spot.

Awards will be presented to the top six placers in each weight class. Two team trophies will be awarded as well as a trophy for the wrestler with the most and fastest pins.

Last year's tournament produced three state champions.

The event will cost $1 for the pre-lims and $1 for the finals. The pre-lims start at 10 a.m. and the finals will begin at 8 p.m. Refreshments will be available.

Licking Heights is located 2 miles inside Licking County, just off Route 16 (Broad Street). Turn left, or north at the double flashing yellow lights. The school is on the right about 300 yards.

The participating schools will be: Circleville, Buckeye Valley, Wehrle, Bishop Ready, Marysville, Jonathan Alder, Watterson, Utica, Watkins Memorial, Hamilton Township, Mifflin Licking Heights and Bexley.

REBOUND shots were part of Watterson's key in the triumph over Hartley last week. Here, Dave Boulware (40) snatches one away from Hartley's Tim Cunningham. (35).

SAFETY BELTS

..A recent study showed that in 28,000 traffic accidents, no fatal injuries occured at speeds below 60 miles per hour to motorists who wore both safety belts and shoulder harnesses. Your Department of Highway Safety recommends you always buckle both your lap belt and harness on all trips—no matter how short. They are your best protection against injury and death.

AROUND TOWN

FRITZ McCallister is rapidly capturing the favors of the people in the Sports Forum Lounge at Howard Johnson's North. The Sports Forum Lounge is one of the most intimate and coziest spots Around Town. Blending in well with the atmosphere is the intimate, smooth vocal and instrumental stylings of Fritz.

This fellow is no newcommer to the night people of Columbus. Playing many of the better places in town Fritz has built up quite a following. And, rightly so.

FRITZ is a relaxing, enjoyable performer. With a voice that's as rich as a Texas oilman, Fritz mixes up his show with all types of music, including pop, rock, country and western to good ole hand clapping, feot stomping music. He handles them all in his own individual superb style. His musical ings at the electric guitar matches in nearly flawless vocal works.

A style that is strictly a Fritz McCallister presentation, both vocally and instrumentally, makes this young, good looking fellow a first rate entertainer.

Creating plenty of pretty, beautiful sounds, with the electric guitar, makes Fritz rather outstanding. Most people, today, I feel, just see how loud they can play the thing. Not Fritz. He attempts to produce a host of highly sophisticated sounds. Fritz is a type of performer that you will want to set and listen to all night long. And, believe me, many people do just that in the Sports Forum Lounge.

HIS MUSIC is so smooth and velvety, his humor and parodies that he throws in are at times funny, at times plain corn, but the combination is top shelf. Things never become dull or boring.

Add Fritz's warm, friendly personality to all of this, and you are treated to a truly entertaining single act. Fritz is a strong, dynamic single package.

For those who enjoy good music, played with a heavy melody line and strong, simple rythms, then Fritz McCallister is your bottle of happy spirits. The Sports Forum Lounge, of Howard Johnson's North, by the way have plenty of bottles of spirits. None of which, have more kick in them, than Fritz McCallister act.

THE BILL MIMMS Trio is currently pleasing the people with beautiful, quiet dance music at the all new Scioto Inn. For people who say good music is dead, then head to the Scioto Inn and see just how wrong they are about that.

The trio consists of the swinging Jimmy Carter at the organ. This man is a pro at the electronic keyboard. Jimmy, ever since I have known him, has played with way out swinging groups. Most of the time, the volume has been way up there .With this group, Jimmy is an entirely different musician. Now, he has an opportunity to show off his litterally fantastic musical abilities. His chord sturctures and harmonics will keep you spell-bound.

JOINING in with Jimmy is yet another experienced pro, Al Silverman, with the sax. Wow, does this fellow play pretty. His tones eminating from the alto are nothing but sweet and mellow. Honey practically drips from Al's horn. On the up tunes, Al can come on like gangbusters and give out with some mighty bright musical bits.

Add the tasty drum works of leader Bill Mimms, and you end up with trio that plays music, music and more music. To give you an idea of how expert they are, and the type of sounds you will hear, no amplification is ever used. Just pure sounds. They don't blast you out of the place. You can hold a conversation without hardly raising your voice.

You go with one idea in mind, to hear lots of fine music, that is great for easy listening and dancing. The Scioto Inn has a winner going for them. The biggest winner of all is you, who are lovers of good music. They play every Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights. Leave your earplugs at home, put on your dancing shoes, and head for the Scioto Inn. By the way, if you don't have a particular someone in mind, there are always plenty of stag girls and men. You are never alone at the Scioto Inn, that's for sure.

A FEW weeks ago, I told you about the world famous Tsai Sisters at the Ramada North. These are four girls from Taiwan who are as cute as a bug in a rug. Their costumes are all very original and way out. This group is really a show group, no question about that. Their arrangements and choregraphy is strictly processional, all the way.

Mitzua is the oldest of the four sisters and is the clown of the outfit providing good comedy relief. She also plays guitar, banjo and sings. Mieko is the lead singer, who also plays guitar as well as the double steel guitar and has a rather versatile voice.

SISTER Jenny joins in the vocal harmony and plays electric mass. The youngest of the sisters is Lucy, who can put many a male drummer to shame with her handling of the skins and cymbals.

The gilrs are a highly energetic group who come on with more power and steam than a speeding train. The Tsai are definitly an unusual act, one that you seldom find on a Columbus stage. Their music runs the gamut of tunes, from country and western all the way to the oldies with stops in between for rock, pop and ballads.

They have been held over at the Ramada Inn North. There are three shows nightly, plus three dance sets Tuesday through Sunday.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

One of the best groups I have heard in a mighty long time is currently playing weekends at the Holiday Inn-Reynoldsburg. It is called the Stu Huffman Trio, and what a great trio. Believe it or not, there is an old fashioned piano in the trio, along with a sax and drums. The trio plays the good, solid society type music. Only one bad thing with the group, they only play there on weekends. Space did not permit a complete review this week, I will give you a full story in next week's column. Just do your self a big favor, drop into the Holiday Inn Reynoldsburg this Friday or Saturday. This place was jam packed last weekend. I'll be there...Princess Habeeba, the famous belly dancer, who owns and operates her own dance studio, "Habeeba's Dance of the Arts," will star on the Phil Donahur Show this Thursday morning on Channel 4. Habeeba took 30 or her students and demonstrate the fine arts of belly dancing. The show was taped last week for this Thursday showing. Phil was quite imporessed and said it was one of his most interesting programs. Be sure to watch it...The Ohio Stater Inn Motel is linking up a strong entertainment program in their lounge. Beginning tonight, they open with the famous Bridgewatter Quintet. This is a fabulous outfit. You may be surprised to know this, but most of their lounge and restaurant business comes from the people of Columbus and not just OSU Students. The Ohio Stater Inn has one of the finest lounges in Columbus. It is very well layed out, with a huge circular bar, a nice stage and plenty of seating. Stop in some evening, the entertainment and the lounge, itself, is well worth the trip. There is plenty of free parking at the Ohio Stater, above and below ground. I'll be there one night this week, stop by and say hello.

Psychiatric Center Opens On Souder

The second of five community forensic psychiatry centers planned for Ohio opened recently at 75 S. Souder Ave., according to Governor John Gilligan and Dr. Kenneth D. Gaver, director of trheOhio Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation.

The center will be operated jointly by the department's Division of Forensic Psychiatry and the Franklin County Mental Health and Mental Retardation Board.

The first community forensic psychiatry center opened in Dayton in October. Gaver said the remaining three centers, to be located in various metropolitan areas through the state, will be operating by the end of this year.

The Columbus facility will be used to test, evaluate and treat mentally disturbed criminal offenders on the local level. The community center will be a short term, out-patient clinic utilized by the courts to provide treatment and examinations for probationers and parolees.

In addition, the forensic psychiatry center will provideemergency psychiatric services to persons in the Franklin County jail and workhouse.

According to Dr. Lowell .K. Cunningham, commissioner of the department's Division of Forensic Psychiatry, the center will be housed in the existing facilities of the South West Mental Health Center on Souder.

"The establishment of these five community forensic psychiatry centers should serve to reduce the backlog of offenders currently sent to Lima State Hospital for testing and evaluation," Cunningham said.

Gaver said the establishment of the Columbus center is part of the department's overall effort to treat the offender on the local

Gaver said the establishment of the Columbus center is part of the department's overall effort to treat the offender on the local level rather than in large state institutions.

"This same approach to treatment in the community is taking place in the department's mental health and mental retardation programs," Gaver added.

Dear Consumer

Wheeling And Dealing

By Virginia Knauer
Special Assistant to the President and Director
White House Office of Consumer Affairs.

One day while driving from Washington D.C., to my home in Philadelphia, I had a very frightening experience--a tire blowout.

The result of this incident was a very strong determination on my part to find out everything I could about tires and their safety. Not being a car buff, I had a lot of information to catch up on.

There are three kinds of tires on the American market--bias plys, belted bias and radials:

1. The bias ply is the most common. Made up of criss-crossing cords, it is the least expensive of the three tire types and is well suited for normal driving. However, due to its construction, it runs hotter than the other tire types (and, therefore, doesn't wear as well).

2. The belted-bias is also constructed of criss-crossing cords but has two or more layers of fabric or "belts" under the tread. This tire runs cooler and gives more mileage than the bias-ply.

3. The radial is the most expensive of the three types. It is made of cords running at right angles and several "belts." This tire hugs the road better than the other two and provides long wear. However, it may be too wide to fit the wheel rims of your car. It is also hard to steer without mpower steering.

Choosing what kind of tire you need depends on your driving habits.

If you use your car mostly for shopping or driving to and from work, you won't need heavy-duty tires. A bias tire with medium to heavy tread might be acceptable.

If, however, you do a lot of driving at turnpike speeds, your best bet for good traction and loger mileage is a bleted or radial tire.

No matter what tire you choose, remember no to mix tire types. Mixing can result in erratic and dangerous car performance For best driving conditions, fit your car with tires of the same type.

Also, give your new tires a "break in" period, limiting your speed for the first 50 miles at 60 mph.

Concerning tires, and snow, here are some inportant points to remember:

-If you live in a temperate climate where annual snowfall is slight, you should select a snow tire that provides good traction on snow but also handles well on wet and dry roads.

-If you have radial tires on your front wheels, you should have radial snow tires on your rear wheels.

-Studded tires are also available for winter driving. However, they can cause damage to highway surfaces and are, therefore, banned in five states. For driving on ice, studded tires provide the most utraction. They should have between 100-150 studs per tire for the most traction.

If you plan to buy tires in the near future, remember to shop before you "deal." For more information on tires, you may want to read these Transportation Department publications: The Hazards of "Mixing Tire Types (free), Studded Tires (free) and Tires: Their Selection and Care (65 cnets). You may order them from Consumer Products Information, Washington, D.C. 20407.

It's Your Heart

"IT'S YOUR HEART," a 15-minute film dealing with the prevention of heart attacks and rehabilitation to normal life after an attack, has been presented to the Central Ohio Heart Association by Ohio Bell. William C. Fischer, Ohio Bell Area Community Relations Manager and utilities division chairman for the Heart Association, made the presentation on behalf of Ohio Bell to Mrs. Betty Wilson, executive director of the Central Ohio Heart Association. The film contains revolutionary medical information in the field of rehabilitation following a heart attack.

Improper First Aid Can Be Dangerous

MANY OF the text books anf pamphlets aailable in the Columbus area dealing with first aid information and techniques are "incorrect, incomplete, misleading and dangerous," according to Ernest Johnson, NM.D., Chairman of the Public Health Education-Community Service Committee of the Central Ohio Heart Chapter.

Citing what he called "an alarming amount of erroneous information," Dr. Johnson issued a warning today, cautioning those interested in practicing first aid to use only reliable sources of information. He added that many first aid techniques cannot be learned effectively by just reading a book.

"THIS IS much more serious than simply some people being misinformed," warned Dr. Johnson, "this could mean the difference between life and death." He noted that much of the erroneous information being published deals with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, exterior heart massage, and the early warning signs of a heart attack.

"In the case of exterior heart massage," said De. Johnson, "a procedure which done properly may save a life, when done improperly may result in multiple rib fractures and serious damage to internal organs."

IMPROPER information regarding the early warning signs of a heart attack may cause the victim to delay seeking proper medical attention, according to Dr. Johnson. "Such a delay," he said, "may mean the patient may never reach the hospital alive."

Dr. Johnson advised those interested in learning about emergency aid for heart attack victims or other first aid information to contact the local Heart Association or the Red Cross.

HE SAID these two agencies have been recognized by the National Research Council for setting national standards in emergency treatment and offer interesting and informative courses.

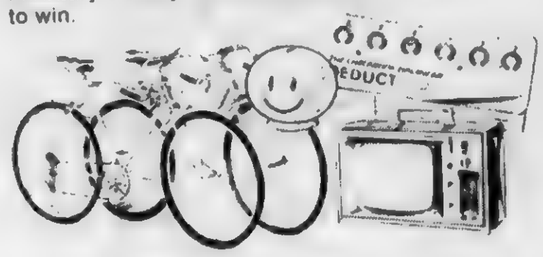
MARCH OF DIMES

Women who fail to see a doctor until late pregnancy, or when they go into labor, have a much higher incidence of premature and low birth weight babies, according to the March of Dimes.

Guess where Ohio National is opening up next?

We're opening our 35th and newest complete banking facility next Monday near the corner of Brice Road and Livingston Avenue. Right near the birthplace of the tomato.



Reynoldsburg has come a long way since Alexander Livingston became internationally known for his juicy discovery.

That was back in the late 1800's. About the same time Ohio National was first opening its doors for the residents of Franklin County.

And here we are at it again. Ribbon-cutting ceremonies at 2000 Brice Road will be held Monday evening, January 22, from 7 to 9 p.m. There'll be free gifts and refreshments for everyone.

Manager Tom Mercer and his staff will officially open for business the following morning, January 23, at 9 a.m. sharp.

They'll also provide through February 2nd a chance for all visitors to register for an 18" color TV. Or one of a pair of ten-speed bikes (or the alternative of a $75 savings passbook account). The drawing will be held February 5 and you don't have to be present to win.

Also during the two-week grand opening, you can get a free, ceramic Smile Bank here by opening a new $50 savings account.

Or get a free Checkbook Balancer—the adding machine that fits in your checkbook—by opening a new $50 checking account.

Stop by and join in our grand opening festivities.

We're proud to bring the personalized service of Central Ohio's largest bank to the Reynoldsburg area. As proud as we are to serve all of Franklin County.

People Give Life

..JERRY WAS PRESENTED a bouquet of 12 long stemmed red roses by Head Nurse Carolyn Kilbarger and Mrs. Sally Ludwwig after receiving her 175 pint of blood at Mt. Carmel's Clinic. She began receiving blood Dec. 26, 1969. "I lead a normal life except I can't walk much: a half block and I'm short of breath." She has a rare disease called achrestic anemia, which means her bone marrow can't produce red blood cells. Red blood cells carry oxygen from the lungs to the tissues of the body and then transport carbon dioxide from the tissues to the lungs. The red cells contain hemoglobin. Jerry's hemoglobin is 4.5 most women have a level of 12. No food or drugs can help Jerry, only blood can. "The people at the clinic are warm and wonderful. If it weren' t for them I wouldn't keep coming back." Anyone wishing to donate blood for Jerry may call the Central Ohio Red Cross Blood Center at 253-7981.

Board Authorizes School Bonds Sale

THOMAS B. CONNERY
Special Staff Writer

The issuance and sale of $30 million in bonds was authorized by the Columbus School Board at the board's Jan. 16 meeting.

This is the first series of bonds issued that are from the $89.5 million bond issue passed by voters last November. It is the largest amount in bonds to be issued in the school system's history.

THE BONDS will be sold in denominations of $5,000 each, and will collect interest at the rate of five per cent a year.

Use of the income obtained from the sale of the bonds will fall into three categories. Construction of new buildings, as well as additions and improvement of existing buildings, will receive $25.1 million.

New buildings will be furnished and equipped, and landscaping and site improvement will occur, with $2.8 million of the income. The remaining $2.1 million will be used to acquire real estate needed to complete other projects.

BIDS FOR THE purchase of the bonds will be opened and read publicly at 11 a.m. on Feb. 15. The board will consider the bids at a regular meeting at 1 p.m. on that day.

Supt. John Ellis informed the board that they should not count on increased funding from the federal government to aid in meeting the rising costs of operating the schools.

Ellis attended a conference for superintendents of schools in Washington, D .C. that was called by the Assistant Secretary for Education. Over 100 superintendents hearad reports given by federal officials.

"THE NEWS WAS not encouraging," Ellis said. "While the budget message is not yet released, Washington officials conveyed the idea that federal funding for education faced difficulties.

"Proposed cuts in present programs seemed likely," he said. "Increased funding will require enourmous efforts at the congressional level."

Ellis said that the Nixon administration is considering proposing a form of revenue sharing to fund education. However, he said that they are "not talking about a revenue sharing program similar to the one that substantially helped states and municipalities.

"RATHER THEY are talking about combining all or most present categorical aid programs into what will be termed a revenue sharing program," he said.

"We don't need the same money or less distributed under a new label," Ellis said. "We need major sums of additional money."

Ellis said that education is going to have to depend on congressional action if additional federal funds are to be obtained.

IN OTHER BUSINESS, the board approved a revision of the procedures for professional negotians between its bargaining representative and the representative of the Columbus teachers.

The revised procedures will serve as ground rules for new contract talks between the board and the Columbus Education Association that will start on Jan. 18.

One of the major revisions involves using a federal mediator to help resolve an impasse in negotiations.

PREVIOUSLY A three-member panel attempted to resolve an impasse in negotiations. If the panel's recommendations were not acceptable to both sides, the impasse was resolved through binding arbitration.

Under the revised procedure if an agreement is not reached by March 1 the board and the CEA will jointly call in a federal mediator.

Another revision allows either side to release progress reports to the public without the consent of the other. Under former procedure both sides had to agree to the release of progress reports.

IN THE PUBLIC participation, the board heard from Particia Goltz, 1440 Byron Ave., who addressed the board concerning pregnant students and sex education.

Mrs. Goltz urged the board to consider revising its present policy that forces pregnant students to attend a school out of their area.

She also recommended that information on contraceptives be given to students in sex education classes in the junior high schools.

"I am not saying that contraceptives be made available to students," she said, "only that information be made available."

'Where We've Been . . . Where We're Heading'

Ellis' Viewpoint Shows Education's Pace

VIEWPOINT - a report of Columbus Schools Superintendent John Ellis on current educational developments in the schools, was released this week by Ellis.

The review covers, as Ellis relates, "where we've been and where we seem to be heading."

The report follows:

The Columbus Public Schools made substantial progress in 1972. Despite the fact that Columbus faced enormous educational problems, like most urban areas across America, I am pleased to report that we have a solid record of accomplishment.

It is difficult to summarize activities in a system as large as ours. The most significant events occur when students became excited about learning -- when teachers motivate students to excel. It is impossible to capture such moments in writing. Those tales will be told through the lives of the many individuals who go on to do great things, or who simply became decent citizens. But the progress we are making should enable students to learn more and become better people. And that is why schools exist.

RECOGNIZING that the most important items are undoubtedly missing, here are but a few brief highlights from 1972.

We began the year by signing the first twenty-month contracts with CEA and OAPSE.

Project UNITE was a massive cooperative effort by citizens, school personnel, and students to Understand Needs and Improve Tomorrow's Education. Over 2000 people participated; 746 recommendations were made, 282 have been accepted, and 29 have been rejected. Project UNITE recommendations continue to be an important force for better schools.

We received a grant for mental health services to provide a coordinated approach through agencies and the schools for children with emotional handicaps, learning disabilities and behavior problems.

EMERGENCY Employment Act funds for 39 teachers to reduce class size and a team of 24 teachers to launch the largest staff development and curriculum improvement effort we have ever made.

A pilot program in Career Education was begun at North High School and the Thurber Elementary School pilot program was begun with Ohio State University to offer individualized instruction emphasizing the positive approach for students and intensive in-service training for teachers.

A Student Interest Forum was organized to enable student representatives from all senior high schools to meet regularly with the central administration and the Board of Education.

Safe Streets Act funds permitted successful operation of an evening program at six schools four nights per week.

VOCATIONAL education had tremendous expansion with 23 new programs, including Word Processing, Mass Merchandising, Small Engine Repair, Office Duplicating, Horticulture and Electro-Mechanical Technology.

More than 3000 students in 14 high schools and 8 junior high schools now participate in vocational education. Seven vocational guidance coordinators were appointed to increase effectiveness of career counselling.

Project SEED, a program designed to teach algebra to elementary students, has been successfully started at Fair, Livingston, Ohio and Weinland Park elementary schools.

Our June, 1972 graduates received over $560,000 in scholarships, topping the previous year by $150,000.

The Board of Education approved a policy on Staff Development and Human Relations, and a Special Assistant to the Superintendent was employed to coordinate this important program. After extensive debate in keeping with the significance of the topic, a Goal Statement on Integrated Education was approved by the Board.

SUMMER School '72 enrolled over 24,000 students, an increase of 4000 over 1971. Classes were conducted at all 14 high schools, 25 of 27 junior high schools and 55 elementary schools.

The effort to achieve a reasonable distribution of Black and White professional staff members was demonstrated by the employment of 184 Blacks out of 774 new teachers or, 23.8 percent; the appointment of 7 blacks out of 13 administrative cadets; and the reduction of schools without Black teachers from 48 to 27.

WCBE started stereo broadcasts over a new transmitter purchased through donations.

The Arts Impact program was expanded to include 12 schools.

A pilot program in consumer education was approved.

Bethune Center was moved to Maryland Park Elementary School.

Drug abuse education will receive additional attention as we attempt to provide appropriate education for students and adults.

A RELATED concern is the wave of general dissatisfaction with schools that has swept across America. Unfortunately, this dissatisfaction springs from different sources, and at times is paradoxical. Some argue that schools should expand programs, including beginning schooling earlier and providing more services to the home so that students might have better support for learning. Others state that schools should stick to a few fundamental tasks and leave the rest to other agencies. Clearly this debate will not be resolved in 1973, but it is one of the significant national issues affecting education in Columbus.

The building program will present rare opportunities for the school system to move forward. Our agends will be filled with building matters. There will be problems, including the coordination of committee reports, projects exceeding budgets, site selections, material shortages, contract questions and legal interpretations. These are the problems of progress which we should willingly face. By solving them we build the road to better education for students.

Project UNITE recommendations still contain important issues that have not yet been thoroughly considered by the Board; 1973 should see a final report on actions taken.

THERE WILL be a Board of Education election in 1973. Since the Board sets the policies and directions of the school system, a Board election is always a vital event.

Human relations is a continuing concern. We have made progress, but we have not reached the point where everyone is treated with dignity and respect regardless of the color of his skin, style of his clothes, sex, creed or similar factors which do not reveal a person's intrinsic worth. A report to the Board of Education will be made on January 9 explaining Staff Development and Human Relations activities. The Board of Education can make a significant impact on this issue by the way it faces many complex problems in 1973 and beyond.

STUDENT performance statistics will receive careful analysis. Current tests appear to be biased against urban students. We are developing criterion reference tests that may be more meaningful, but they are in the future. Whatever test is used, increasing attention must be given to students who cannot read, write, spell or compute competently.

A DIVERSIFIED curriculum was inaugurated in 10th and 12th grade social studies and 11th grade English. Students now have the option of selecting from a wide variety of challenging courses.

In November the voters of Columbus approved an 89.5 million dollar bond issue -- the largest school bond issue ever passed in the State of Ohio.

In December the Board approved the employment of 24 architectural firms to begin work on 27 construction projects.

THAT IS an all too brief and incomplete summary of 1972. Some will say go faster, while others say slow down. Any fair judge of our schools, however, would have to say that on balance, 1972 was a year of progress.

I stated at the outset that probably the most significant happenings in 1972 would be omitted. If that is true for events past, the prediction of what will happen in the future must be approached with considerable humility. Without the benefit of a crystal ball, horoscopes or other devices commonly used by those who see into the future, let me suggest a few of the action areas that will face us in 1973.

PERHAPS we should begin, as we did for 1972, by mentioning negotiations. This month we will start negotiating with employee groups since contracts expire before the start of the 1973-74 school year. Negotiating is always a time-consuming and significant task to which we will give considerable attention in 1973.

A critical area of concern is the field of school finance. The approved appropriations budget will enable us to operate efficiently in 1973. Looking ahead to 1974, however, we know we will need additional federal, state or local funds. We will work vigorously with a special Board committee to secure local levy request.

The Board's policy on integrated education will require continuing attention. A committee is at work on a "Columbus Plan" that makes sense for this city. Federal funds will be sought for staff development. The committee's report should be presented in March.

The Courts and Due Process will be part of the scene in 1973 and beyond. Increasingly courts are deciding school-related questions such as integration; the rights of students, teachers and parents; and the application of the property tax as a source of school financial support. Several major questions are currently moving toward Supreme Court decisions.

CURRICULUM improvement will continue to receive constant attention. Teachers, administrators, students and parents will continue efforts to provide challenging, up-to-date, diverse programs for all students.

An efficient, effective management system must receive additional work this year. PPBS developments are encouraging. Progress is being made. Careful cost control, appropriate inventories and sound business practices must govern our actions to insure taxpayers a sound return on their investment.

Communications continues to be a fad word that is frequently overused. The public schools, however, have not yet developed the quantity and quality of two-way communications required internally and externally. Improved communications has to remain among the action areas for 1973.

THIS ISSUE of Viewpoint has attempted to highlight 1972 and peer through a clouded glass into 1973. It is said that one should not look back in anger, or ahead with fear, but around with awareness. I have tried to follow that advice. Columbus is a splendid city. We have all the problems found in urban America. But we have wonderful people, fine traditions, a good school system, and we are making progress. The problems ahead will be severe, but with the continuing dedication of all those associated with the educational process, the future of the Columbus Public Schools is bright.

Cities Get Tax Money

State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson this week announced the final distribution to 918 cities and villages of gasoline taxes, based on the 1971 motor vehicle registration year, amounting to $5,397,355.

Gasoline taxes are distributed to municipalities on the basis of $1 per vehicle registered within their boundaries, Ferguson said, and distribution is always based, on the previous year of registration.

In making the final adjustment of gasoline tax payments to the municipalities, the Auditor's office was able to fix the motor vehicle population for the state for the 1971 license year at 6,685,866 vehicles -- 4,659,172 registered in the cities and villages and 2,226,694 registered in the non-metropolitan areas.

Bexley received $4,847; Columbus received $441,363; Whitehall received $12,119; and Groveport received $4,034.

Gas is precious, pure energy. Use it wisely.

Because natural gas has always been so inexpensive, there has never been a great urge to conserve it.
Until now.
Right now, there's just not enough natural gas to supply all the new demands for the cleanest-burning fuel.
Of course, as a gas customer, you don't have to worry about getting the gas you need for the appliances now in your home . . . or their replacements.
But the shortage of natural gas, indeed, the shortage of all clean-burning fuels, is becoming a grave threat to our community's economic growth.
More clean-burning gas is desperately needed
Not only to stimulate economic growth and provide more jobs, but simply to maintain current requirements.
A healthy economy needs natural gas.
And a healthy environment needs natural gas.
Use gas wisely in your home and business.
It's too valuable to waste.
And the gas you save, together with the new gas Columbia is working hard to develop, can help ease the gas shortage.
Write to Columbia Gas for the free booklet. "30 Ways to Save."

Gas is precious, pure energy . . . use it wisely.

Just Ramblin'

I've been landlocked since my canoe and I parted company late in the '40's.

SHE WAS A pretty canoe and the thought of her gliding along the shore of a river that was just kissed by the early morning dew came back to me the other day as another one of those "you don't know what you missed (and are missing) thoughts" came to me in regards to today's kids.

I don't know if it's the fast pace that's slowed my thinking down (where I put more emphasis and value on the good old days) or if it's just that I, like a lot of parents, have been more ready to accept changes in kids' philosophy just to keep peace in the neighborhood at any price.

OUR CITY (Westerville) is growing at a fast pace. The drive is on to put more recreation at the disposal of children and parents. There's no recreation that isn't available.

Only one trouble with it...it's too organized.

And that may be what's wrong with the neighborhood today. You just can't get in a game anymore unless it's in a league, or you can't become a part of a sewing circle unless the professional is there giving directions on how to do this and that.

NO MORE are the house to house teas and coffees a part of the today that I remember so vividly as part of my neighborhood's past where the aroma of that tea and the little cakes that were so good wafted through the window and teased my nostrils something fierce.

But here I go again, thinking out loud and wishing for my kids what I know might be nigh impossible.

One of our better family times happened several years back when an electrical storm stopped all movement in its tracks and the conversation became the focal point of the family circle.

I really enjoyed that.

LAST SUNDAY morning the kids let me fix my specialty - French toast.

I was in heaven just listening to the smack of their lips telling me that it was grand and just like the early days when the kids could hardly wait for breakfast.

THE TWILIGHT zone didn't last for long, however. The only at-home daughter mentioned that she really used to like the thick brown sugar syrup I used to make and why didn't I make it anymore.

I thought about that for a minute and as my feelings were about to accept the hurt I remembered that here was one of the young ones remembering how good it used to be and wanting to move back into time - if only for a bit of heavier brown sugar syrup.

That's what is so good about memories - they have a way of overcoming today and making the thought of tomorrow a little bit nicer.

The Ink Is Never Old Until It Has Been Read

By Thomas B. Comery

WHEN I TELL people that I am getting a master's degree in journalism, a typical response is an enthusiastic "that's great."

But when I tell them that my interest is newspaper journalism, they then respond with amazement.

"Don't you know this is the age of hot media," they ask? "Don't you realize newspapers are dead, a thing of the past?"

THAT IS A common misconception. Perhaps this is the era of 'hot media; but in spite of Marshall McLuhan, Walter Cronkite and others, the newspaper is alive and well.

At the close of World War II there were 1,749 daily newspapers in the United States. As of October 31, 1972 there were still 1,749 dailies. The number has been as high as 1,786. During the last ten years 185 dailies stopped publishing, but another 191 started publishing.

FURTHERMORE, a study by the American Newspaper Publishers Association found that each day newspapers reach 77 per cent of all adults 18 years of age and over.

There are two major reasons why so many people still read newspapers.

FIRST THERE is the time element. A person can read his newspaper when and where he pleases. He can put the paper down, go to the store, and then come back to his paper. Obviously he can't do that with television. If you leave the room when a news program is on television, you will miss the [illegible].

The second factor is space. A typical 30 minute news telecast involves only 3,000 to 3,500 words. That is little more than half a page in an eight column newspaper.

GENERALLY, in its six hour period of prime time viewing, television can only scratch the surface with bulletin news coverage. A newspaper gives the reader more news as well as greater in depth coverage.

As a convenient source of information concerning current events, television cannot compete with newspapers. You cannot cut out a television documentary and put it in a drawer for future reference.

Avram Westin, executive producer of the ABC evening news, and the man who constructs these nightly newscasts, made some interesting comments concerning television news:

"IF PEOPLE DO not read newspapers, news magazines and books, they are desperately uninformed....The evening news is not the highest form of journalism.

"It is partly an illustrated headline service and partly a magazine. And, yes, it is part show business, using visual enticement and a star system to attract viewers."

In other words, the newspaper still plays a vital role in informing people. This is its primary function.

Election Petitions Filings, Reports Specifically Set

CANDIDATES for public office during this year's local elections, in many cases, must have their Declaration of Candidacy or Nominating Petition filed before the February 7 deadline at 4 p.m., according to Secretary of State Ted W. Brown.

Elections will be held next November 6 for municipal and township officers, members of boards of education, judges and clerks of police and municipal courts. Chief Election Officer Brown said that all candidates for these offices, except for municipal judges, will have to file their declarations by the deadline, if they plan to seek nomination at the May 8 Primary Election this spring.

SECRETARY Brown noted that there are exceptions to this rule when the candidate is filing for township offices, member of a board of education of municipal offices--except municipal judge--in a municipality of less than 2,000 population and in some instances where the population exceeds 2,000. Nominating petitions for these latter offices must be filed no later than 4 p.m. of August 8.

In instances where a municipality is governed by a charter, the filing deadline for a candidate's declaration of candidacy and nominating petition is established by the charter which takes precedence over state filing requirements, he said.

IF THERE is any doubt as to the filing deadline of offices in your municipality contact your County Board of Elections, says Brown.

Brown also announced that a recent Ohio Supreme Court decision makes it necessary to require that all future election statements of expenses and receipts be filed no later than 4 o'clock p.m. of the 45th day following an election, regardless of whether they are delivered in person or by mail.

THE AMENDMENT of the filing deadline for statements will affect all candidates and committees including those on the local, county, district, state and federal levels, cautioned the Chief Election Officer.

"This means that neither Boards of Elections nor the Secretary of State will be able to accept as 'timely filed' those statements of expenses and receipts which have not been physically received by the appropriate election official by the 4 p.m. filing deadline.

Statements which have been postmarked prior to the deadline but not received until later will no longer meet the qualifications of a 'timely filing'," warned Brown.

THE SUPREME COURT action which necessitates this new administrative ruling was brought by James Roseboro, a candidate for county central committee, who had been disqualified from any candidacy for a five-year period by the Board of Elections because his previous election expense statement was hand delivered 24 minutes late to the Board of Elections in Franklin County.

WITH EQUAL FUNDS

Education Needs Modern Management

INDEPENDENT research by the Rand Corporation has disclosed that simply increasing expenditures on traditional educational practices is not likely to improve the educational product substantially. Furthermore, this research indicated an opportunity for significant reduction or redirection of educational expenditures without hurting the students.

While the findings of this study may not apply locally, they do emphasize that expenditures alone are not the measure of quality education and that equalization of funds does not necessarily assure equal educational opportunity.

The financing and control of public school education should continue to be the responsibility of the state and local school districts. When federal assistance is given, it should be provided only to meet clearly demonstrated needs.

EDUCATORS should be encouraged to apply modern management methods, including a clear precise statement of educational objectives to be achieved by the students. Then the parents and the public will know how the school system is performing.

The Silent Winter

By Carol J. Kehlmeier

GOD PAINTS the silent winter mornings with silver frost. The bright blue autumn sky no longer embraces the earth, but the soft grey winter heavens fondle it. Red, gold and brown leaves have departed, leaving a few unsheltered leaves clinging to the naked black trees.

A lonely bird hops across the hard brown earth in search of food. Children run to and from school, brightly colored scarves, scarlet mittens and warm woolen hats adorn them. They laugh and talk gaily, the warm breath from their mouths making puffs of steam in the cold air.

LATE AFTERNOON, the sun makes a brief appearance to assure the earth of its presence in the universe. The sunlight through the windows will announce to the housewives the smears and smudges of winter. Where rain puddles once stood, ice glistens in the sun.

The wind whirls wild and free. Snowflakes flutter down from low hanging clouds. The river no longer gurgles, but shivers silently under a growing crust of ice.

THE SILENT fingers of winter touch the city. People no longer linger, but hurry to their destinations. Autos groan and choke black exhaust into the cold air.

Darkness swallows up the rey sky. Snowflakes fall gracefully and steadily covering the earth like a warm comforter The moon makes an appearance causing the snow to shimmer in its light. Tomorrow children will romp in the snow and catch snowflakes on their tongues, then hurry home to hot chocolate and cookies.

THE COMFORTABLE evergreens smell of pine and the naked black trees smell damp and clean. The clear winter air has a scent that is crisp and inviting. The silent winter has a pleasant odor.

Winter will soon be gone. Crocus will push their purple and yellow heads up through the snow like happy faced children. The snow will melt and trrickle down in tiny streams. Flocks of birds will return from the south to serenade with a springtime song. Children will discard their brightly colored scarv es, scarlet mittens and wam woolen hats. Their laughter will fill the air.

WINTER IS a silent time, a quiet time to meditate and to dream. Winter is God's gift of rest to nature. God sends beauty into each season and winter is a silent time.

YMCA Gets New Thrusts

TO MEET the problems of the current scene, the YMCA has adopted five new national program thrusts, according to Robert Cooper, executive director of the Columbus YMCA.

National YMCA Week, Jan. 21-28, focuses attention on the fact that much is happening now in the Y.

Using a combination of traditional programming adapted to current needs and innovative program that reaches out in new directions, the Y is implementing its five goals.

THESE GOALS ARE: eliminating personal and institutional racism; changing the conditions that foster alienation, delinquency and crime; reducing health problems by strengthening physical and mental health; strengthening family structures by enchancing relationships and improving communications; and joining people from other countries in building international understanding andworld peace.

"Local Associations, which are autonomous, develop programs to meet these needs as they occur in their local communities," Dr. Robert W. Harlan, executive director of the Natuonal YMCA, said recently.

In Columbus such programs as the Y-Indian Guide and Y-Indian Princess program with hundreds of local tribes are developing a new accent on understanding Indians and their problems today, for example.

REFLECTING a new high, 20 percent membership of women in Ys across the country, other Y programs for family and for women in Columbus include Camping, Swimming, Handicrafts, Art, and a seemingly endless list of others.

National programs for juvenile justice working with court-referred youths, a wide range of outreach worker programs, drug prevention programs, the NYPUM (National Youth Program Using Minibikes partially funded by the Justice Department and granted 10,000 minibikes by the American Honda Company), a great variety of family communication skills programs and others reflect the new trend.

"HOWEVER," says Bob Cooper, "YMCA water safety helped six million people learn to swim in 1971, and other traditional programs adapted to current needs are still valid and valuable."

Writer Urges Citizens Support

To the Editor:

With regard to the proposed extension of Etna Road west to Hamilton Road, I wish to ask the citizens of our community this question. "Why should we forsake the health and well being of the majority of our children for the mere convenience of a few?"

This extension will constitute hazardous traffic flow and congestion. Within one mile there will exist two elementary schools, a popular swimming concession and a heavily used City Park. As this extension will provide a major thoroughfare East and West, I find it unwise and unsafe.

I question the reasons offered by Whitehall City Council for this extension and would request more justification for their reasons. Have they initiated a sufficient investigation into every area of improvement which they suggest would be met by this extension?

I feel that our security is certainly an issue here and would encourage each and every one of us to take time to seriously consider the long range effects this would have on our community.

Is the entire population of Whitehall aware of the actions and authority of our Council? If more citizens were to take the little time required to attend the Council meetings, perhaps our City Government could and certainly would be of, by, and for the people of Whitehall.

I am most vehemently opposed to the Etna Road extension and ask that those of you who join my opposition extend support in fighting the proposal.

Respectfully,
Jean A. Miller

Clear The Air

THERE ARE two sides to every story. Take the timber industry. The preservationists claim the practice of clear-cutting (taking the whole forest) will be the ruination of our Nation. According to them, it denudes the earth, laying bare the soil and ground cover and resulting in total erosion on once beautiful forests.

Timber interests claim just as strongly that clear-cutting is an accepted way of raising a crop, a crop planted to be harvested. They further say that erosion is minimal when the harvest is properly done.

EARLY AND heavy lobbying by timber people was elementary in halting an Executive Order by President Nixon is the Spring of 1972. The order would have severely restricted clear-cutting on Federal lands. This, then, would seem to be the crux of the problem. No one seems to be hollering about the soft woods that are planted as a crop, harvested logically and quickly replanted.

The real rub comes ehn the tremendous amount of public land is shaved and left barren. (The timber people hate the term "clear-cut, they prefer the ad agency term "even-aged forest management".) The National Forest Products Association puts out a slick folder to say that there are many "environmental benefits" to be gained from clear-cutting.

I QUOTE, "Modern clear-cutting is basically a human adaptaton of nature's formula, " - I guess what they are saying is that clear-cutting is good for wildlife, like a forest fore.

They go on - "Intensive forest management, whether by even-aged or other methods, provides protection against fire, insects and disease". I'll have to agree with that. After the land has been shaved, there's nothing.

IN MY HUMBLE opinion, never should hardwood stands be clear-cut, they take too darn long to grow back. I planted 500 maples in Coshocton County in the Spring of 1963, and they are still mighty small. I planted 556 pines at the same time and they are well over my head.

As far as timbering the federal lands, I would have urged the President to stop clear-cutting and instead, harvest in twenty-foot rows at five-year intervals. After all, public lands are held in escrow for all citizens and ahould receive the best possible care. Yet, if not harvested at all, a good source of imcome is lost and the trees mature and die as a natural biological event or are caught by fire.

The Love Of Mankind Shown At Hadassah Luncheon

By Betty Brown

Throughout the centuries, the peacock has been symbol of pride and elegance. The peacock again spread his bright and lovely color all through out the Hadassah Donor Luncheon, on Jan. 16 at the Imperial House North., The theme for this years annual donor luncheon was, "A Time To Be Proud".

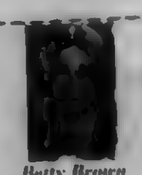
The symboliaitic peacocks feathers were used for center pieces and the entire picture of a peacock was found on the Hadassah handbook placed in front of each place setting. It was truly a time of pride and graciousness.

Gadi Elon, a stirring folk singer and night club entertainer highlighted the affair with folk songs from Isreal. His flair and abundant radiance not only made everyone clap in time to the music, but it also brought a few tears and memories to the hearts of many present. He had with him, his accompianist, Mr. Herzel Bodinger, on the accordovox, better known as an electric acordian. As Mr. Elon said, "I have brought with me my 120 lb. orchestra." An entertaining and moving afternoon can be fondly remembered with Gadi singing for his last song, "Jerusalem, the city of gold."

It must be nice to be surrounded by lovely Hadassah women. Gadi Elon, a beloved and affable folksinger who entertained at the Hadassah Donor Luncheon seems to love every minute of it. Seen form right to left are: Mrs. John Mormol, donor chairman, Mrs. Lee Ross, donor chairman, Gadi Elon, Entertainter, Mrs. Jerry Liepack, donor chairman, and Mrs. Herbert Fineberg, Publicity Chairman. (Photos by Mr. Mike Stafford)

Before the luncheon began, I had the opportunity to talk with the fund-raising chairman of Hadassah, Mrs. Novak. She had just returned from her 19th trip to Israel. From her, I was able to find out just exactly what Hadassah does as an organization.

Evidently, Jerusalem since 1952 has changed, when in fact in this year, the city had no electricity, and people would stop on the street to feel your coat, because they had probably never seen that particular material.



Hadassah has established their own hospital in Jerusalem now. This hospital was established by these women and their contributions in order that such diseases like glaucoma, polio and major disarming diseases could be arrested.

Mrs. Novak recalled the time when shecontractedpolio while visiting Israel. She was a registered nurse from New York City. At this hospital she stayed until cured. The hospital would take no money because of her being from the United States. This is just a part of what Hadassah does. To think that Hadassah was founded by 12 women in New York. Today, it is a major Jewish womens organization.

Some of the women who deserve an honorable mention are: Chapter President, Mrs. Jerry Weingrad, Fund-Raising Vice-President, Mrs. Stanley Novak, Patron Chairman, Mrs. David Mellman, Donor Chairman, Mrs. Lee Ross, Donor Co-Chairman, Mrs. John Mormol and the Publicity Chairman, Mrs. Herbert Fineberg.

All of these women are having a wonderful time serving their community and the symbol of the peacock was the best representation that could have been used to express The Hadassah significance.

In The Beginning There Were Brides

By Betty Brown

"The beginning," was certainly an appropriate statement for the Jan. 18 opening of the Bridal Fashion Show at the Downtown Lazarus store.

The end of little girl days and the beginning of a womans new role, was all staged and flowered by the design department at Lazarus.

All of the elegance of gorgeous gowns was surrounded by soft pink light, three delicious wedding cakes to be served to some 400 guests afterwards, and two handsome escorts to lead the lovely models off the stage. I was lost in a swirl of ruffles, large garden hats, and organza, and lace.

Most of the models were students at Ohio State, each of whom would have made charming brides.

Would you believe that a pale blue wedding gown was shown in organdy with a matching mantilla? The prices were reasonably low for all the splendor found in these gowns. Such names as Priscilla, Bianchi and Schifflie floated around as Judy Rupp commenated.

I stood and talked with Mrs. Roberta Hausman, the buyer for the bridal department. With such enthusiasm as she has, I can see why the showing was such a success.

Bridesmaids this year are definitely not to be underestimated. Their gowns will range anywhere from spring green voile to apricot organza, and pink pearled net. They all belonged on the cover of Brides Magazine, right along with the Bride.

The future-bride-to-be can look forward to much more than just a conventional bridal gown. These dresses were not just trimmed in Venise lace as usual, but for the demure spring bride there are daisy appliques, English net and millions of tiny, dazzling sequins. All of which adds up to a day or evening wedding to be remembered not only by you, but especially for him.

We cannot leave out that very special woman too, the mother of the bride. Her dresses were absolutely stunning and naturally, simple elegance. Both dresses shown were of turqoise and green. Much of the formality of the dress was around the neckline in order to show off that beaming face behind it. Every mother belonged in a dress like this.

From that day forward and into eternity was an excellent way to summarize the glamour of a bridal showing. Who could forget anyone wearing one of those gowns!

FOR THAT intimate day to be remembered, the Bridal Salon fashion show at the downtown Lazarus store, featured a Priscilla English net gown with a matching mantilla. From that day forward and into eternity this bride will be remembered. (Photo by Kathy Devaney)

AGAIN, we see the brides very special friend wearing a spring green voile bridesmaids dress with a garden hat to set it off. The hat had long velvet ribbons in the back for just the right touch of feminity. The January Bridal Showing at Lazarus downtown store certainly made even the single of singles want to get married.

Hair is 97% protein... Ever think about the other 3%?

Redken has! 3% of your hair (and a very important 3%, indeed) is moisture. And that 3% can make a big difference between success and failure in permanent waving.

Nature provides a balancing agent — phosphatides — to offset lack of moisture or too much moisture due to various environmental conditions. Permanent wave solutions remove these phosphatides, resulting in dry-over-elastic hair, which will not hold a curl.

For this reason, Redken has developed a new, fast-acting permanent wave with polyunsaturates to replace the naturally-occurring phosphatides that are destroyed in permanent waving. The moisture content of the hair is kept in perfect balance throughout the permanent waving process, insuring bouncy, long-lasting curls without frizz, dryness or limpness.

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

BRIDAL GOWNS FOR SPRING AND SUMMER are simple and sophisticated or romantic and glamorous—today's bride can project any image she wishes for her joyous trip down the aisle.

Designers of bridal clothes have taken their inspiration from many sources, and translated it with gentle touches of genius, for the loviest gowns ever.

RON LO VECE, designer for Piccione, visualizes all brides as great beauties and his creations promote that image. His gowns float in white or ivory chiffon, organza, silk linen and silk-faced satin, sometimes with a touch of color—ice blue, pale pink, buttercup yellow—threaded through lace at the bodice or accenting a sleeve or hemline. Silhouettes are soft and graceful in movement with subtle shaping—necklines have Victorian flavor, with pleating and lace forming petal-like motifs.

MICHELE PICCIONE of Rome showed a small collection of charming gowns—as appropriate for young debs as for brides—with all the important fashion looks. The cardigan dress, the dolman, a dainty sheer pinafore over a puffed-sleeve dress of satin-back crepe—a refreshing matte jersey with vertical tucking on an unbelted bodice—a simple silk linen wrap dress—the softest silk chiffon—and a smashing peau de soie creation with 3,000 tiny pearls worked into a lattice effect.

EDYTHE VINCENT, designer for Alfred Angelo Bridals, believes in traditional bridal beauty with contemporary flair for today's bride—youthful silhouettes in organza and chiffon with beautifully patterned, imported laces. The slightest hint of color adds a new dimension—yellow petals nestled in Alencon lace on a bodice and skirt, softest French lilac accents on Chantilly lace, at an empire bodice and flounced hem. Sleeves encompass the billowy bishop, the romantic Renaissance, and the shadow sleeve. For the bride who wishes a complete ensemble, the "total look" at Alfred Angelo includes a bridal gown, headpiece and mantilla—perfectly coordinated—a specialty of this house.

Although each designer "does his own thing" in creating elegant bridal gowns—they join together in proving the old adage—all brides are beautiful!

Flowers By . . . . .

Can anyone imagine a wedding without flowers? The bride's bouquet, the bridesmaids' flowers, the floral decorations are all an integral part of the traditional wedding. A creative florist can help make each wedding unique, but a word of caution is in order for the bride who is thinking in terms of exotic flowers.

Unless money is no object, the intelligent girl will think in terms of more or less local, seasonal flowers. Their abundance and availability makes them less expensive. When placed on an altar and buffet or dining tables at the reception, they will look equally beautiful.

MISS ALMA JEANNE HAHN

MISS MARY M. HAHN

A Captain in the U.S. Army, he will return to active duty upon graduation in September.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hahn of the same address are also announcing the engagement of their other daughter, Mary Marguerite Hahn to Warren Garry Harrison, 5584 Cheshire Road, Galena, Ohio.

Miss Hahn is a senior at Groveport Madison High School.

Mr. Harrison a 1972 graduate of Olentangy High School is employed by Henderson Supply.

MRS. DAVID GEORGE

Miss Hogren Weds Mr. David George

On Jan. 6, Miss Linda Sue Hogren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth A. Hogren of Port Byron, Ill., was married to Mr. David Louis George, son of Mrs. and Mrs. Louis George of 349 Powhatan, Columbus.

The rites were performed by Rev. Thornton Thompson.

The best man was Mr. Thomas Manion from Grove City, Ohio.

The bride is a graduate of Mt. Carmel High and attended Ohio State University.

The groom is a graduate of Illinois State University and employed by the USAF.

The reception took place in the church parlor and the honeymoon was in Bergeagarten, Austria.

The couple will reside in London, England.

Romantic Trip Needs Romantic Wardrobe

For the most romantic trip in any girl's life, what could be more appropriate than a travel wardrobe made with the bride's own personal touch. Now it's easier than ever to sew clothes that reflect individuality.

Today's bride knows that polyester knits are great traveling companions. They are packable, washable, this-minute fashions that she can travel in for hours and still look fresh on arrival.

Of course, the perfect way to sew a knit trousseau is on a machine with that all-important stretch-stitch. The Sears Kenmore Dial-Easy, for example, offers the stretch-stitch among the largest stitch selection available on a portable machine.

It weighs only 20 pounds and has an attractive carrying case that will slip under a jet seat; making it truly portable for the busy bride.

So while honeymoon plans are being made and last minute visits completed, sew a travel trousseau of four or five knit outfits--a suit with shirt and pants, sportswear separates, a short dressy-dress for afternoon or evening, and a beautifully bare long gown. This trousseau will see you through any occasion and almost any climate. And it takes only a little luggage space, too.

While your groom will think you're the smartest girl in the world, only you will know how quick and easy it is to be creative with beautiful knit fabrics, a good pattern and a versatile machine such as the Dial-Easy.

What Is a Diamond?

A diamond is simply carbon, just like the graphite in your pencil. But millions of years ago, tremendous pressure and heat, deep in the earth, crystallized the carbon atoms into diamond – the hardest substance known to man.

Glick's Will Host Modern Bridal Forum

Calm down if you're among those who've been shaken by the rumors that marriage is on the way out. You couldn't be more wrong.

Last year 2,250,000 weddings took place in the U.S.A., more than any year previously recorded. What's more 80,000 more than that are predicted by the end of 1973.

Mrs. Donovan plans to be in Columbus Feb. 4 to help present the Modern Bride Bridal Forum at Glick's Furniture Showcase Store, 1333 Morse Road.

Wedding settings and ceremonies have changed considerably in the past few years. Society is going through the throes of change, said Mrs. Donovan. But, the tradition of keeping marriage a solid and sacred moment has not changed. Even couples who have been living together haven't let their morals alter their desire for a formal wedding complete with a white dress and all the trimmings.

What does Mrs. Donovan say to couples who want an unconventional ceremony? "Apply Logic". Anything done in good taste has to be lovely if its the couple's way of making the moment more meaningful and personal.

Other advice Mrs. Donovan dispenses include purchase a bridal etiquette book, start planning your wedding as early as possible and have a receiving line no matter how big the wedding. You owe your guests, especially those from far away, the courtesy of a personal meeting.

Wedding Traditions, How They Began, And What They Mean

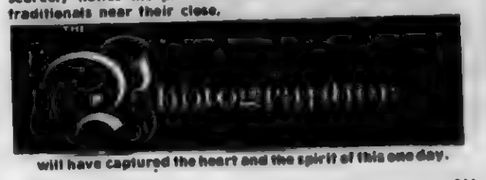
The wedding ring, because a circle is continuous, is symbolic of undying love and devotion. The third finger of the left hand was chosen long ago when it was believed to be connected directly to the heart by the "vena amoris," or the vein of love.

The wedding veil, symbolizing a wife's submission to her husband, had it's inception in days of old when the bride stood beneath a canopy to signify she was under the protection of her groom.

The bride's garter had its origin as a good luck tradition during the time of chivalrous knights. In 14th Century France, the bride tossed her garter to the unmarried guests to point out the next to be married. Today's bride throws her bouquet to the maiden girls, while the garter is tossed to "seal the fate of the bachelor gay."

The bride's bouquet carries many quaint traditions among the different peoples of the world. Orange blossoms, a favorite of many brides, were at one time, when the Saracens carried them, thought to be a symbol of fertility.

The wedding cake, to be shared by the newlyweds and their guests, signifies the "breaking of bread in kinship."



The bride's knife signifies that the new wife is ready to accept the responsibilities of her role as keeper of her own household.

Toasting comes from an ancient French custom of placing bread in the bottom of the glass-a good toaster drained the drink to get to the "toast." According to legend, when a bride and groom drink their wedding toast, whoever finishes first will rule the family. From early beginnings, newlyweds have been showered with the "rice of abundance." Throwing old shoes after the bride is a sign that authority is being transferred from the bride's father to her new husband. A variation is for the bride's father to throw her shoe after the groom as a token of his surrender of his daughter.

SOCIAL CALL

Soon after an engagement is announced, it is proper for the groom's parents to call upon the parents of the bride.

The professionally trained and experienced photographer is the quiet recorder of your wedding. His eye is sharp. His mature judgment helps him to work unobtrusively. You may scarcely notice his presence. But, as the ceremonies and traditionals near their close, will have captured the heart and the spirit of this one day.

Dream Come True For ODC Student

A college education at Ohio Dominican College was her fondest hope. But it was just a hope for Columbus, Ohio native, Miss Gilda Jackson.

"I always wanted to go to Ohio Dominican, but there was just no way - financially," said Miss Jackson, now a junior at the fully accredited liberal arts college of approximately 1000 students, 40 percent of whom are men.

While a student at Columbus' Hartley High School and a member of its track team, Miss Jackson was president of the Junior Red Cross and vice president of the Catholic Student Missionary Crusade. She also received the Hartley Community Service Award.

On graduation, Miss Jackson attended Ohio State University for one quarter. "I realized it was just not for me either personally or financially," she explained. She is one of six children of the widowed Mrs. Carthagenia Jackson, 842 Bulen Ave.

"I wanted to go on to college, but I just couldn't afford it. I joined the Marines...for the experience and with the hope of ultimate financial aid (GI Bill, etc.) to continue my formal education."

After Quanticol, she was assigned to Honolulu, Hawaii, where she remained for two of her three years. She attained a Sgt. E5 rating and NCOIC in shipping, receiving and stock inventory control.

"Hawaii is a beautiful place, and is a sort of international crossroads. While in the Marines, I enrolled in night courses at the St. Louis Chaminade College of Honolulu," she remembered. At Chaminade, she was a member of its Academic Planning Committee.

"There were students from many countries attending Chaminade, and the college's size (500 students) made it possible to learn to know many of them and their ways. I enjoyed it so much that I stayed on a semester after my Marine discharge.

"But I still wanted to attend Ohio Dominican, so I transferred my credits to ODC last Fall Semester," she continued. Miss Jackson is a junior economics major at ODC. The college is making every possible effort to assist veterans by frequently accepting military specialty courses and crediting them toward degree work.

"Because of my Honolulu experiences with people of other countries, I have become more and more interested in those who have different backgrounds. At Ohio Dominican, I am sharing those experiences with our international students." she smiles.

"In fact, I had a wonderful time over the Christmas holidays. I went home with Catalina Garmpis." Miss Garmpis, last summer attended SIESL, a concentrated program to teach English language and American Culture to non-English-speaking people, particularly those intending to pursue higher education in the United States. On Ccompletion of SIESL, Miss Garmpis became a first year student at Ohio Dominican.

What of the future? Miss Jackson hopes to complete work toward her degree and enroll in the Xavier University Master of Business Administration Graduate Center, which opened at Ohio Dominican College last fall. Under the cooperative plan, all MBA Center courses meet evenings on the Ohio Dominican campus and are taught by regular Xavier (Cincinnati) faculty. On program completion, graduate MBA Degrees are granted by Xavier.

Smiling back on her Marine experiences, Miss Jackson said: "Once a Marine...I guess you always are." She's still active in the Marine Corps Rexerves.

For example, "When I applied for my parttime job, the boss was 'sold' when he found I'd been a Marine." On weekends, Miss Jackson works as history supervisor, overseeing demonstrations of early American crafts at the Columbus Center of Science and Industry. "You see the boss had been a Marine, too!"

Culture Series Presents Japanese Kabuki Dancer

The Dean's Culture Series of Ohio Dominican College will present a solo performance by Ayako Uchiyama, renowned Japanese Kabuki Dancer, at 8 p.m., Monday Jan. 29 in the Little Theatre of Erskine Hall on the ODC campus, 1216 Sunbury Rd.

The concert will officially open Cultural Heritage Week at Ohio Dominican. Miss Uchiyama will be on campus earlier Monday to present an open-to-the public slide-lecture on the Japanese Dance at 12:45 p.m., in the Listening Viewing room of the ODC Library.

Born in Hokkaido, Japan, Miss Uchiyama is a foremost expert on the unique dances and songs of the Ainu, Japan's aborigines. She won the coveted Hokkaido Cultural Prize in 1955, and national critical acclaim, for her own dances inspired by the Ainu culture.

An accomplished traditional Japanese dancer, and an authority on Japanese drama, she studied Kabuki dance at the Mizuki school. At the equally-renowned Hosho Noh, she learned Shimai - or Noh dancing. Drawn to the modern as well as to the traditional, she also studied under Martha Graham in New York.

Musical accompaniments for Miss Uchiyama's dance concerts were especially recorded in Japan. Her costumes are authentic and the original Japanese choreographies faithfully retained. As her program progresses, Miss Uchiyama will explain movements and gestures. Her commentary will provide true insight into the Eastern art.

Shrine Center Plans Concert February 11

The Shrine Center For Renewal has scheduled a presentation of The Inflamatus Choir from Springfield. This group of musicians has presented concerts throughout Ohio and neighboring states.

Filled Music" will he held in the auditorium of Wehrle Memorial High School, 3639 Parsons Ave. at 7:30 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 11.

The director, William Moore, began his musical career as a youngster in Springfield and has appeared on radio, TV, and with numerous religious groups throughout the nation.

In the year 1965, Moore, with the help of some local musicians, solicited some local talent to organize the choir, which was later to become the "Inflamatus Singers".

Moore has trained the voices of the choir to capture the true sound of the anthens and to perform gospel music to its highest expectation.

Grove City Finally Loses

Nip And Tuck Cage Season Still Around

THE NIP AND tuck season for the area cage teams is back in session and the Ohio Capital Conference, Columbus City and Mid-Eight are still jumping around to determine a winner. Here's how the latest stack-ups came about:

Ohio Capital

Terry Yoakum's Cats were almost waylaid by an aggressive Worthington team before pulling ahead in the final two minutes. The Cards had the Cats stacked up for a defeat at 46-41 with 2:42 on the clock. Mental lapses by the Cards and a few quick baskets by the aggressive Cats changed the tune and the Cats came off with the win to up their league record to 9-1 and overall to 13-1.

DELAWARE hit Reynoldsburg the first half and built up an unsurmountable margin before downing the Raiders, 55-45 with a second half cold streak almost being their demise.

Delaware is now 9-1 league and 12-1 overall.

The Pacers are host to Westland Friday and Dan Andrea's Cougars are getting tougher as witness their win over Gahanna last week. Gahanna holds the only victory over Westerville this [illegible].

THE CATS will have to be ready for Whitehall as they go to the Ram court. Whitehall is always tough at home and the board play of the Rams could change the league tune unless the Cats get back on the track with sharp play.

The rest of the teams are probably out of the title race unless a miracle happens and that probably won't at this stage since the schedule favors Delaware and Westerville.

Columbus City

East and South are practically tied for the league with East's 8-1 record topping South's 7-1 because of the schedule makeup.

Eastmoor is at 7-2 in the loop and Walnut Ridge could be the sleeper in the bunch, if not for the city title then in the tourney ahead as the Scots have been gaining momentum with solid basketball from all starters plus a strong bench.

THIS COULD be proven Friday when East visits the Scot's Livingston Avenue gym for a showdown that could scramble the race a bit [illegible].

South visits pesky Central Friday and when these two clubs clash the record book for wins and losses can be tossed aside. Central hasn't been able to put it all together yet with any consistency but if they do - watch out for an upset.

The other games on the city card have little or no bearing on the title race.

Mid-Eight

The Mid-8 league race is right back where it started as Grove City and Bexley are now tied with 8-1 league records.

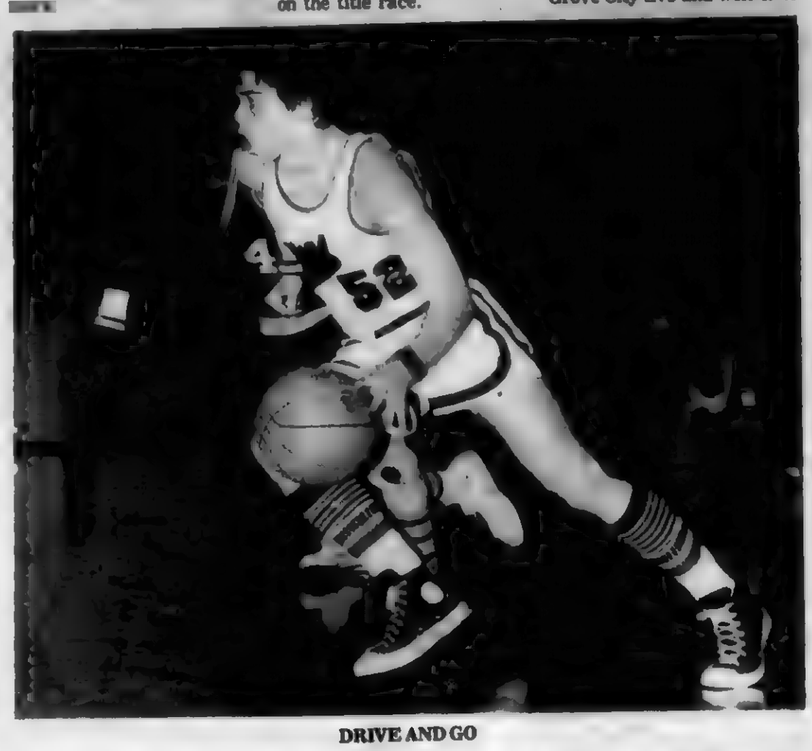
THIS SHOULD decide the Mid-8 title although Urbana could cause trouble with its 6-3 mark and a possible second place finish or first place tie if they win the rest and Bexley and Grove City should meet another defeat.

The surprise of the Mid-8 last week also included Hilliard's first win of the season, a 59-53 decision over Groveport to ruin that school's homecoming activities.



Central Catholic

It's all over but the shouting in this loop as Ready seems ready to take home all the marbles again. The Silver Knights are 5-0 with little chance of their falling by the wayside at this stage of the [illegible].

THE NETWORK: High scorers over the weekend included: John Hairston, Linden, 34; Pete Howard, Central, 24; Cl[illegible] Hammond, Central, 22; Floyd Courts, North, 21; Charles Peake, Marion-Franklin, 21; Winbush, East, 26; Tillman, Mohawk, 23; Ayers, Eastmoor, 21; Ohanion, Eastmoor, 20; O'Neill, Brookhaven, 23; Goodyear, Walnut Ridge, 20; Adams, Northland, 25; Burris, Whitehall, 23; Williams, Mt. Vernon, 25; Jones, Rady, 28; Moeller, Grove Ctiy, 23; Kraft, Bexey, 22; Ferst, Franklin Heights, 21; McCants, East, 24; Goodyear, Walnut Ridge, 31; Williams, South, 29.

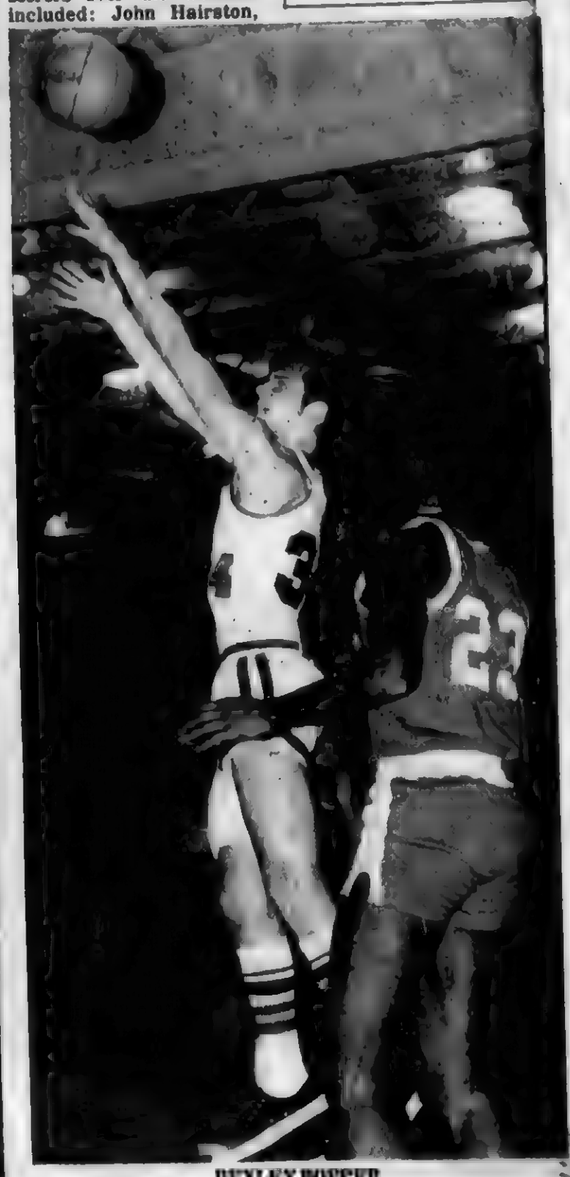
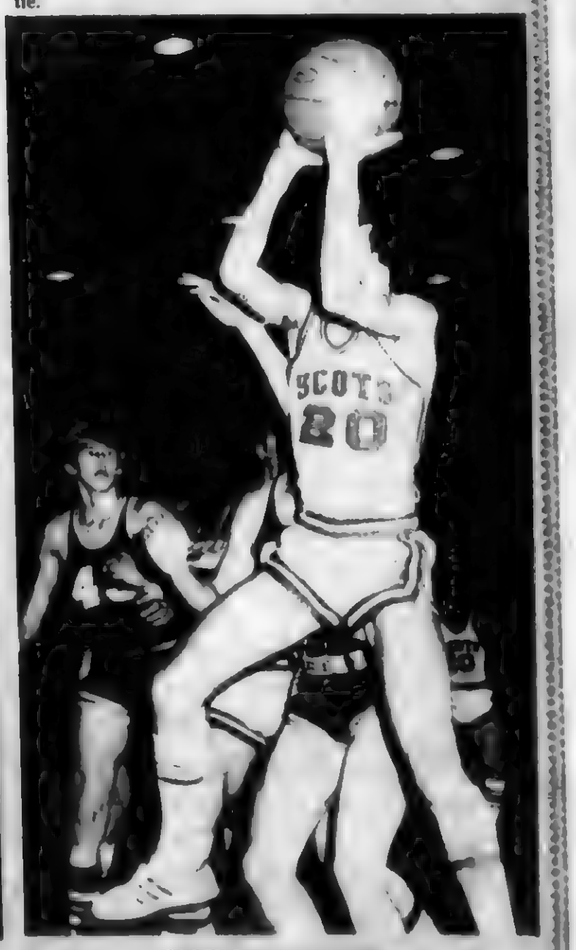
FORWARD AND ONWARD rode the 600 but on a solo trip for Bexley against Mifflin last week was the Lions' Jeff Gray (52) as Mifflin defender Jewel Reese was outfoxed.



SUDDEN STOP

IT WAS THIRD DOWN and three to go on this play when Bexley halfback (er, forward) went goalward (or is it basketward) for a scoring try. What he forgot to do was dodge Mifflin player Steve Johnson (12) and the result was a fifteen yeard penalty for something or other.



RAIDER ROUND THE BEND

REYNOLDSBURG Raider Jay Mahaffey (21) made it around the bend to score a two-pointer against Walnut Ridge in a Raider losing cause last Friday. He was assisted by Raider Ed Williams (43) while Scot Capt. Chuck Goodyear tries for the ball.

BEXLEY BOPPER

THE TALENTED Carl Kraft (shooting), Bexley's co-captain, got this one away and in for a two-pointer in the Lions win over Mifflin that coupled with Grove City's loss put the Lions and Greyhoundz in a Mid-Eight league first place tie.

SCOTS FLY PAST RAIDERS

A HIGH-FLYIN' SCOT goes up for this rebound and snares it against Reynoldsburg. That's Dough McFann with the ball for the Walnut Ridgers while the Raiders' Ed Williams (45) sizes up the situation.

These Are The Tsai's That Bind

LAST THURSDAY night, Paul Dixon, along with Bonnie Lou, left, and Colleen Sharp, right, joined the world famous Tsai Sisters on stage at the Ramada Inn North. Dixon and the entire cast and crew stayed at the popular north side motel and came into the lounge to cut up with the sisters from Taiwan. This is the final week for you to enjoy the unique Tsai Sisters at the Ramada Inn North. (Photo by John Dobus.)

GUY LOMBARDO is known to have the "sweetest music this side of heaven," but if you want to hear the sweetest music Around Town, then rush, and I do mean rush, right out to the Holiday Inn - Reynoldsburg. Every Friday and Saturday night you will find the Stu Huffman Trio playing real live MUSIC to an almost full house.

Believe it or not, I saw and heard something in this group, that I can not actually remember how long it has been since I have seen another one like it in a group - A PIANO! Not an electric one, just an old fashioned piano being played by an expert pianist.

FOR ALL OF those who say that good music is dead, that a so-called square outfit playing in a manner that is reminiscent of years gone by, should stop in at the Holiday Inn Reynoldsburg and see how many people are thoroughly enjoying themselves.

The trio is comprised of Donna Austin at the ivorys. Playing in a cafe society style, Donna uses lots of riffs and runs on the black and whites. As with the entire group, she has an elegant musical style.

The same is true with sax man Marlin Cope. He plays the mellowest of mellow horns. His tones are velvety smooth. All this without any electronic assists. No mikes or amplifers are needed. This man knows how to play a sax. Just wait until you hear his rendition of, "Yakity Sax." The famous one can't do any better.

LEADER Stu Huffman on drums knows where his place is in the trio. He believes drums should be seen and almost heard. Yet Stu adds a host of delightful rymuthms that blend in beautifully with the sax and piano.

Get this, my friends, you can listen to the Stu Huffman Trio, and hold a conversation in a normal tone. This group has given the room a tremendous amount of plausible character. There is nothing else like them Around Town for dancing and easy listening.

There is only one glowing thing wrong with the Stuf Huffman Trio at the Holiday Inn Reynoldsburg...They are only there on Friday and Saturday nights. The people of this area should have an opportunity to hear them at least four nights a week.

THE OHIO STATER Inn Motel has another excellent group, The Bridgewater Quintet. For a cogtemporary outfit, they show more talent, class and true musicanship than most of the millions of similar outfits in the country.

While their instrumentation consists of the usual conglomeration of electronic instruments, and their material is for the same vain, all similarity stops there. They use a sensible volume while actually making music with today's songs. A heavy melody line and simple rhythums are employed in their music.

IT IS QUITE a family group. Ron Wilson possesses a fine voice with plenty of body and control. He also does a first rate job with the electric guitar. His sister, Carolyn Pack, will litteraly bow you over with her voice. It is so beautiful and has such a wonderful quality. She attacks a tune with a style that is highly individualized. Believe me, you will want to hear more and more from this gal.

Carolyn's husband is another excellent vocalist. Ron Pack sings up a storm. His treatment of ballads grabs the audiences attention and just doesn't let go. He could hold his own with the best of them in the business.

Alan VanHouten's work on the lead quitar and Drummer John Davis are just two more reasons why this outfit is so darn good. Each member of the quintet, in fact, is simply loaded with talent.

Each one is a musician in every sense of the word. Their musical approach is in a class all by itself. The best way to sum it all up is to say that the Bridgewater Quintet is a sophisicated contemporary aggregation.

ANOTHER unusual group is closing out a successful engagement at the Ramada Inn East, Collage, is the name, a six piece outfit that gives out with a big band sound and plenty of drive.

With sax man Bill Potter and trumpeter Bruce Siverson getting together with some mighty fine harmonics, you are treated to a sound that you seldom hear today. Both of them blow some fine sounds. Both are superb at their respective instruments.

But it is Bruce who really is the main attraction. Besides his trumpet work, Bruce also handles the bass chores, does a lot of fine vocal work and comes on with belly laugh humor. This fellow is out of sight as an all around entertainer. He is loaded with personality.

Adding the beauty part to the act is Sexy Ann Imperial. A husky voice, a strong stylist are only a couple of her vocal attributes. She wails on the both jump tunes and ballads.

Ken Stange shows off his musical abilities at the electric piano. He has excellent knowledge of chord structures. I love the stylings of drummer Todd Nelson. He uses a lot of brush work. And, there is a hint right there. This is not an ear-spliting group. A nice full sound, with a volume that is very enjoyable.

VERSITALITY is another key to their success. Playing all types of songs from all eras, including some wonderful jazz bits, plus three hilarious shows certainly makes Collage one of the best show groups to hit town. Believe me, this one does have every right to be called a Show Group.

This is their finale week at Ramada Inn East. Do yourself a big favor, stop in and be served top notch entertainment.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Going into their third week at Marco Polo's Lounge is the swinging Knox County Quintet. This group moves right along with plenty of life and great sounds, both instrumentally and vocally. If you want to be guaranteed of a good time, where you can meet a host of new friends, then put Marco Polo's on your entertainment schedule...For plenty of fun, too, along with a bevy of sexy entertainers, it's the Vegas Club. This has to be the hottest spot on the east side of town. Plus, plenty of wild music by the band called Surprize. You men are never lonely here, not with all these entertainers performing at the Vegas Club...A place to go for good music that great for dancing or listening is the Scioto Inn. Now owned by Wade Williams, the Scioto Inn is rapidly becoming the spot on the northwest side to go for a good time. Bill Mims Trio plays there every Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights.

THE GUILD also helped to finance a trip for an olympic team that competed in the Olympic Games for the RRetarded in California. They also furnished grooming aids, goasses, hearing aids, dentures and other articles the state does not furnish in sufficient quanities. More educational material was purchased, audio-visual aids, educational film for the closed TV circuit, books and games. With the Guild's help the children enjoyed parties and holiday treats.

Ohio National Bank Opens On Brice Road

Ohio National Bank and Reynoldsburg representatives cut the ribbon Monday night marking the opening of the Reynoldsburg office of the Ohio National Bank, 2000 Brice Rd.

An open house for area residents, business representatives and civic officials followed the 7 p.m. ribbon cutting ceremony. The open house will continue during regular banking hours throughout the grand opening celebration with refreshments and gifts for all visitors.

Through Feb. 2 persons may register to win an 18" portable color TV or one of two 10-speed bicycles (or the alternative of a $75 savings account for non-bikers.)

UNFINISHED WOOD FURNITURE STORE, INC.

A NEW CONCEPT IN FURNITURE BUYING

Finish-It-Yourself And Save On Furniture Costs

Columbus has a new way to buy fine quality furniture at lower cost because it's unfinished. Tom Alloway, Manager of the new Unfinished Wood Furniture Store in the Great Western Shopping Center, says that each piece of furniture at the store is already assembled and pre-sanded at the furniture factories.

All one has to do is select his favorite color and finish at the store, then take it all home and easily wipe on the finishing touches. Alloway says no special experience is necessary since in recent years new and improved finishes have been developed that enable the novice to decorate and finish furniture with little effort and professional results. Another advantage to the finish-it-yourself concept is that it affords people more freedom in decorating and coordinating their furniture with their home's decor.

Unfinished Wood Furniture Store carries over 1,000 pieces of unfinished furniture in a wide variety of styles Mediterranean, Spanish, Contemporary and Early American in a selection of woods like solid maple, oak and pine. In fact, it's Central Ohio's largest display of this type of furniture.

The first Unfinished Wood Furniture Store was opened in Dayton and received such popular response that it prompted it's owners to open the new Columbus store. "People just simply love to save money. And with unfinished wood they not only save money but they get the personal satisfaction of being able to custom decorate their own interior furnishings", Alloway said, "And we're sure the people of Columbus will react just as favorably as the people of Dayton have."

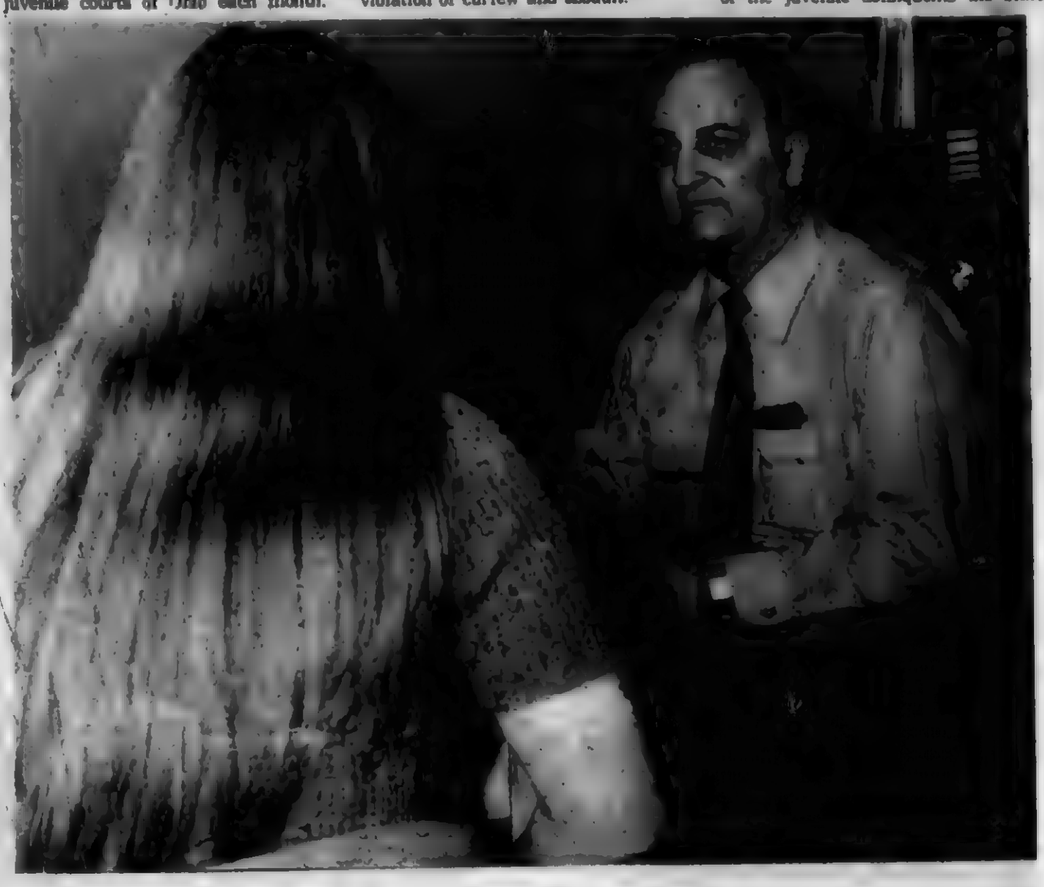
WHAT IS THE OHIO YOUTH COMMISSION?

Rehabilitation Is Basic To OYC

BY KATHY DEVANEY
and
LYNN WILLIAMS

Hundreds of youngsters between the ages of 10 and 18 pass through the juvenile courts of Ohio each month. Two of these young sters, Richard A. and Betty N. first came in contact with the judicial system in their early teens.



Richard was arrested on several occasions for such crimes as disorderly conduct, possession of a weapon, violation of curfew and assault.

BETTY FOUND herself in court beginning at the age of 12, on such charges as truancy, runaway, breaking and entering, theft and sexual acting out.

These two case histories are typical of the juvenile delinquents the state handles each year. Both Betty and Richard were repeatedly before the juvenile court judge before they were finally remanded to the custody of the director of the Ohio Youth Commission (OYC).

This is where our story begins.

What exactly is the Ohio Youth Commission?

THE OHIO YOUTH COMMISSION, the state's juvenile correctional system, is one of the oldest but most progressive programs in the country. The OYC operates 11 institutions around the state in the rehabilitation of young delinquents. One of the functions, as shown here by Psychologist Robert Jackson, is counselling and evaluating the youngsters prior to placement in a treatment program. Jackson is one of the 2,400 employees of the OYC. (Photo by Kathy Devaney).

IF YOU SHOULD ask William M. Balson, the assistant director, he would tell you that "The OYC is the oldest juvenile correctional system in the country and served as the model for other such systems around the country."

If you should ask Ralph Starkey, superintendent of Fairfield School For Boys, he would tell you that "OYC is all about helping youngsters fit back into society and their communities."

According to Miss Jacqueline R. Whetstone, superintendent at Scioto Village, one of two correctional institutions for girls, "We are looking for why a girl has come to us. We're not interested in what crime she has committed, but are trying to give her the inner strength she needs to face problems when she is released."

OHIO WAS THE first state to remove children from almshouses where for centuries felons, the insane, the indigent, the orphans and the delinquents were housed under one roof.

In 1856 Charles Gustav Reemlin, an industrialist and member of the state legislature, was charged by that body with investigating what was done in Europe in the handling of delinquents. Reemlin was sent specifically to the Scandinavian countries, but found nothing there to recommend.

It was while in Paris that he discovered the Borstal System of correction. This system placed delinquents in a house with a mother and father substitute; thus creating a family-type environment.

THIS WAS THE system that Reemlin brought back to Ohio and which was implemented by the legislature.

In his report Reemlin stated the institution should be productive through the manufacture and selling of a product which would make it self-sufficient.

It was also decided that the institution should be centrally located in the state and far enough removed from towns to be isolated.

IN 1857 10 BOYS arrived at the Ohio Reform Farm School in the rolling hills of Fairfield County. With the help of local farmers a two-story log building was constructed on one of the three ridges on the 1,000 acre site.

The plan for a self-sustaining institution proved unsuccessful. The sale of brushes manufactured by the boys failed to provide necessary operating funds. The institution found itself $5,000 in the red after six months and $12,000 in debt after one year.

It then became necessary for the legislature to appropriate funds for an operating budget. Currently the OYC is operating on a two year budget of $53 million.

TWO YEARS AFTER Fairfield the legislature purchased White Sulphur Springs, an established resort on the Scioto River. This became the first institution for girls, now known as Scioto Village.

From that beginning 116 years ago 12 other states have patterned their correctional systems after Ohio.

This system formally became the Ohio Youth Commission in 1963 when it was established as a department of the state government.

THE DIRECTOR, William J. Ensign, was appointed by the governor, serves on the governor's cabinet and is responsible for the overall administration of the Commission.

The Commission has two areas of operation—the Division of Corrections and the Division of Community Service, each headed by a deputy director also appointed by the governor.

The OYC is today 11 institutions managed by 2,400 employes working with 6,000 young people. Of these juveniles, 3,000 are on parole and 3,000 are in institutions.

THESE FIGURES, according to Balson, represent only three percent of the young people that come in contact with juvenile court.

This is the system to which Betty N. and Richard A. have been remanded.

The juvenile court judge seldom makes a judgement of innocence or guilt. His decision is based on what is best for the child—a reprimand, probation or removal from the community.

If committed, a child is transported to the Juvenile Diagnostic Center (JDC) for extensive testing. Staff members make medical, social and psychological evaluation and recommendations.

THESE REPORTS then go to the classification and assignment section. It is here that staff members decide which institution can provide the best treatment program for the individual.

The JDC itself will become a residential institution for 100 mildly delinquent boys and girls in April.

After JDC is phased out its functions will be taken over by the other institutions.

AFTER CLASSIFICATION Betty can be assigned to either Scioto Village or Riverview School for Girls.

Richard can be sent to either the Training Center For Youth, Maumee Youth Camp, Fairfield School for Boys, the Training Institution of Central Ohio (TICO), Cuyahoga Hills, Mohican Youth Camp, Zanesville Youth Camp and Indian River, which is under construction.

If placement in an institution is not considered the best answer, foster or group homes are available. A foster home has five or less children and a group home has more than five.

IN EITHER PLACE the progress of the individual is followed by his or her youth counselor or social worker.

If committed to one of the institutions the child is retested, placed in a cottage based on behaviorial patterns and into an individualized treatment program.

Columbus School Board Reviews Placement Policy

THOMAS B. CONNERY
Special Staff Writer

The Columbus Board of Educatior reviewed the educational alternatives available to pregnant girls and mothers in the Columbus schools at its Jan. 2 study session.

There is no official board policy concerning education of prregnant students. School officials have been operating according to a set of administrative procedures.

However, the general policy followed has been to require pregnant girls to attend a school other than their home school, the one they attended when they became pregnant.

CRITICS HAVE CHARGED that such a rule can cause hardships for the pregnant girls. It has also been contended that such a policy is a form of punishment.

The present administrative procedures encourage the pregnant girl to continue her formal education through home tutoring, adult day or evening high school, the Bethune Center, or available community agencies.

When the principal, parents, student and physician concur, a few pregnant girls have been permitted to continue their education in their home schools.

BOARD MEMBERS Dr. David Hamlar and Dr. Watson Walker said that it should be clearly stated that the pregnant girl does have a choice of remaining in her home school.

Board member Virginia Prentice said the pregnant student should have to withdraw from her home school when her pregnancy is confirmed.

Mrs. Prentice said she favors "a continuum type school." She said she would like to see a facility that would provide counselling, prenatal care and a nursery, as well as formal education.

Dr. Walker said he favors a team approach, with the parents, principal, physician and student making the decision as to where formal education will continue.

"EACH CASE SHOULD be considered on an individualized basis," Walker said.

"The more we keep students in their own schools," he said, "the less we'll need a continuum."

Five principals who addressed the board said that they have faced no problems by allowing pregnant students to remain in home schools.

JUDGE WILLIAM BROOKS, city attorney, reminded the board that in recent legal cases the courts have ruled against school officials who have made a pregnant student attend a school against her choice.

Judge Brooks said that the courts have required the schools to prove that by remaining in her home school the pregnant girl is a disruptive influence. If the schools cannot prove this, then they are infringing on the student's rights as guaranteed by the first and fourteenth amendments of the Constitution.

Mrs. Prentice said that the problem was really a moral one. She said that students "need their sights raised and moral fiber strengthened."

"IT'S TIME TO TEACH what the Bible says," Mrs. Prentice said, "it's time to teach that fornication is a sin, it's time to teach girls to say no.

"I wish teachers would stop telling students to do their own thing," she added.

Although Walker and Hamlar asked for a clearer definition of the policy, Supt. John Ellis said that the "current procedures are working well."

Ellis said that very few of the pregnant students remain in their home schools, and that he likes the flexibility of the present administrative procedures.

Citizen Of Tomorrow Will Decide Future

There is cause for optimism in the long range look at the future of the world according to Dr. Alfred B. Garrett, professor of chemistry and vice president of research at OSU and a consultant for NASA.

Dr. Garrett was the first guest lecturer in a special series on the future sponsored by St. Alban's church.

DR. GARRETT'S topic was "Science and the Citizen of Tomorrow."

"In order to understand the future we must first get a perspective on a number of events in the past to show how much progress has been made."

He said the earth has been around approximately four and a half billion years; man has been here for about 20,000; man learned to write 7,000 years ago; the first university started in 1080 AD; chemistry became a science in 1774, the blast furnace was invented in 1860, oil discovered in 1849; the electric light invented in 1875, the automobile in 1900, the airplane around 1903, television around 1945 and space travel is only 10 or 12 years old.

"SO YOU CAN see that we are really living in the infancy of civilization. The accomplishments of man involve relatively a short period of time in the total world history.

"And so we come to the question of whether man will continue to advance or will he remain the same or start to decline. We expect that unless conditions arise which cause men no longer to want to learn or achieve that we will advance.

Dr. Garrett said some of the problems which face the world today, such as pollution and the population explosion, could destroy the world, but man is working on solutions.

HE LISTED three objectives of man the intellectual.

—Man must search to interpret the universe;

—Man must search to find how he can live most effectively in the universe he learns to interpret;

—And man must search to find out how he can communicate this information to his fellowman.

Dr. Garret said the future of the world lies with the citizens of tomorrow and not the scientists.

"Today science can do many things. We can genetically control the population of the future, we are close to the point of being able to control aging. we can control disease, we can tap energy from the sun and stars, we can control population growth if people are willing and we can travel in space."

"SCIENCE IS power, but it has it's limitations. We can make the world more comfortable, but we can't assure it will be happier. We can stop pollution and other problems, but we can't create the wantness in man.

DR. GARRETT listed his ideas concerning the world we might want for the future.

A world that:

—respects the sacredness of human personality;

—is scientifically literate and technologically adequate;

—has room in which to live and also to be alone;

—provides opportunity for productive work;

—offers stimulation for incentive and initiative and creative activity;

—OFFERS THE right and encouragement to dream;

—offers an opportunity to explore the aesthetic;

—provides opportunity for survival;

—PROVIDES stimulation to search to interpret the universe, to find out how to live more effectively and to communicate that information;

—provide a positive approach to fear;

—and to provide continued opportunity to search for the answer to man's destiny and man's chief end.

Girl Scouts Enjoy Annual Camp-In

Twelve hundred Girl Scouts from Central and Southern Ohio gathered at Columbus' Center of Science and Industry the weekends of January 12-14 and 19-21 for thhe Center's Second Annual Camp-In.

Girls from throughout the 16 counties comprising the Seal of Ohio Girl Scout Council came for a weekend of fun and learning in a unique program first offered last year and planned by members of the COSI staff and volunteers and staff members of the Girl Scout office.

Senior Scouts began the weekend on Friday evening with special workshop seminars entitled, "The Social Side of Science '73". Throughout the remainder of the weekend these high-school age girls assisted leaders and staff in providing the program for the younger girls.

Cadettes, or Juniors, also arrived Friday night and participated in a variety of programs including films, demonstrations throughout the building, with the opportunity to view COSI exhibits, and work on activity packages.

On Saturday morning a special program for Brownies gave them an opportunity to work on experiments in various areas, including astronomy, earth science, and historical crafts.

Junior Scouts arrived Saturday afternoon and stayed until Sunday noon. They explored the Center, worked on project kits, attended movies, and like the Cadettes and Seniors, camped on the floors of the Center in sleeping bags and ate their meals buffet style. The same schedule was followed each weekend.

The Camp-In weekends, rich in both educational value and plain old-fashioned fun, are well on the way to becoming an established tradition and one that the girls look eagerly forward to each year as one of the highlights of the local Scouting program.

Crime Index For Year Shows Decrease In City

Chief of Police, Earl Burden announced today that the City of Columbus has shown a 9.1 percent decrease in the crime index for 1972 as compared to 1971.

The Chief attributes this significant decrease not only to the work being performed by the members of the Division of Police, but also to the citizens of this community.

The community's confidence and support by voice and letters and their positive attitude in providing the means for more revenue have enabled the Division of Police to expand in personnel and in supportive equipment to better SERVE our community.

The Chief concluded, 'This reduction in crime is most encouraging and the citizens of Columbus can be assured that we will continue to improve our methods and our efforts in our fight against crime.'

Police Request Roof Addresses

In January, 1972, the Divison of Police Helicopter Unit began operations on a 24 hour per day basis.

Acting Chief of Police, Colonel Ralph Drown, stated, "At that time we asked businessmen to assist us in reducing the amount of time needed for our helicopters to respond to the scene of a crime by painting the addresses of their buildings on their roofs."

Over one hundred businesses responded to this request. This has assisted the helicopter crews in locating that particular business and they are able to use the business address as a reference point to locate homes in the area. This program is proving so successful in reducing police response time to a minimum that they are again requesting businessmen to have the address of their building painted on their roof.

For best visibility the numbers should be approximately four feet high and three feet wide. The numbers should be positioned so they face the street and the color of the piant should be in contrast to the color of the roof.

Colonel Drown concluded that in 1972, "we had a 9.1 percent decrease in the Index Crime Rate in the City of Columbus, and we feel that the use of police helicopters greatly contributed to this reduction."

Dick Sensenbrenner Will File For May Primary

Mrs. Sandra (Sandy) Sensenbrenner has trouble keeping the table tops clear this week at the R. C. Sensenbrenner residence, 1228 Brookridge Drive in Northwest Columbus.

Just about every working surface at the Sensenbrenner's does double—duty as the young Columbus family receives and checks circulated nominating petitions containing several thousand names prior to meeting official filing requirements with the Franklin County Board of Elections.

The office in quest? One of the six nominations in the May Primary for November election to the non—partisan office of member of Columbus City Council.

Richard C. Sensenbrenner, Dick Sensenbrenner to a great many Columbus Citizens, seeks the nomination and election in question; and the Sensenbrenner family will have the help of many men and women throughout Columbus in conducting the campaign.

Dick Sensenbrenner, now President of Creative Child Care, Incorporated, Columbus—based child care and child development organization, accepted his current business responsibilities in October, 1970, following ten years' experience in responsible administrative positions at the local, state and national level.

Dick believes City Council "is in the people business", so he hopes to call upon management and personnel experience gained during four years' service in that capacity with the Ohio Department of Highways.

Dick also hopes to continue his deep involvement with youth activities which grew during several years as executive assistant to the Mayor of Columbus, with special responsibility for coordinating expansion of recreation department activities and development of the city's first municipal swimming pools.

In March, 1968, Sensenbrenner was appointed regional director for the United States Small Business Administration in central and southern Ohio.

His activities in that responsibility brought him the highest citation issued by the federal government to a civilian employee for outstanding performance.

Educated in the Columbus Public Schools, he received his B.B..A. in Business Administration from Ohio University. Married and the father of three children, he serves on various committees throughout the community, including active participation as a Big Brother and a member of the Board of Directors, also a Board of Director member for the Leukemia Society, President of the Hilltop Lions Club, Board of Advisors for Kinder Key, and member of the Board of Deacons for the Hoge Memorial Presbyterian Church.

With Dick Sensenbrenner's stated goal of being "the community candidate" in mind, friends are predicting that Sandy Sensenbrenner and the Sensenbrenner children will discover many ways for table tops and other household furniture to do double—duty in the busy council campaign months ahead.

READYINGCouncil Petitions for filing with the Franklin County Board of Elections are Mrs. Sandra Sensenbrenner and her husband, Richard C. Sensenbrenner. Sensenbrenner intends to seek one of the six nominations for member of Columbus City Council to be decided in the May Primary election. Energy Plus

ONE OF THE most important factors in the future development of the United States is an adequate and reliable supply of energy in multiple forms at reasonable prices. This requires domestic or secure-source supply so as to negate undue foreign influence on U.S. foreign and domestic policies, international trade balances, and internal economic decisions. But it now appears that, in a few years, we will be importing one-half of our oil and gas, and running up a devasting $25 billion per year trade deficit while we do so.

The necessary first step in attacking our energy shortage problem is to have positive, constructive and coordinated government policies that give needed priority to the goal of national self-sufficiency. Thus, we should eliminate unrealistic government controls and revamp our system of taxation that sets mineral depletion rates below adequate levels.

CONTINUED use of higher sulfur fuels should be allowed as long as reasonable standards for ground-level concentrations of sulfur oxides are not exceeded.

The regulatory and economic climate should encourage uranium mining and milling to meet our needs. Fast breeder reactors should be developed and research should be carried out on other new types of reactor as well as on nuclear fusion.

Oil shale extraction technology should be advanced, and the private development of electric power generation and transmission encouraged.

WITH GOVERNMENT and industry working together, a better future for all could be assured.

You're Telling Us

The Spectator Newspapers welcome letters from readers, expressing their views on subjects of interest to them -- whether initiated by news stories or editorial expression in this newspaper or not. Because of space limitations, we prefer letters which do not exceed 300 words. All letters submitted for publication must be signed with the writer's name and address, although -- upon request -- the name of the writer can be withheld. Letters should be marked: "To the Editor, Spectator Newspapers, 3121 South Boulevard, Columbus, Ohio 43204" and must be received by Friday noon prior to publication date for possible publication in that week's edition.

Parent Questions Textbook Selection

To the Editor:

My grandmother had an old saying "Sweep the dirt off your own doorstep before criticizing someone else for theirs."

In your Spectator issue Wednesday, Jan. 3, the Columbus Board of Education criticized Newsweek magazine as using sexually oriented material for use in classrooms.

Isn't it ironic that in English courses in several schools here in the city the textbook "Mass Media and the Popular Arts" is being used without a blush from anyone including these same board members who won't do anything about cleaning up or out their own textbooks of filth such as displayed in this one mentioned above.

I have seen, read and become sick of the trash presented by our so-called educators. If you would like to check this out, obtain the book and read - a full page picture with the captions like "My husband thinks I'm frigid but his brother knows I'm not!"

I'll grant you Newsweek is no longer good reading material but they are a magazine published and we can take it or leave it for a price but these textbooks are selected by educators who are or should be interested in quality education.

The parents are not insulting the teachers by removing a book the teachers chose, on the contrary, the students and parents are insulted by being forced to pay for and study not only inferior educational material, but trash!

An irate but concerned parent
Mrs. Herbert Dotter
Columbus.

Good Scouts

FRIENDSHIP doubles the joy - divides the grief."

What a wonderful thought that Troop 61 Reynoldsburg Girl Scouts combined with their Community Friend night last week.

The fact that the annual Girl Scouts cookie sale is near at hand (please buy some) was diminished by the fact that 34 Girl Scouts cared about their community.

IT WAS an especially gratifying evening for me as I was representing my wife, Rosemary, who was ill. She didn't want to disappoint her community friend, Anne Armstrong, so she delegated me to share her satisfaction at being chosen one of the Girl Scouts' community friends - and in Reynoldsburg at that - an honor that has even escaped her in our home town Westerville.

Each Girl Scout had, for several months, been corresponding with a community friend (all women) without the knowledge of whom she was. All they had to go by were hints dropped in the letters.

Our (I say our instead of my wife's because of my excitement) community friend remembered that her letter-writer had six children and a poodle who thought he was a personn.

AS SHE searched around the room looking for her community friend her eyes went everywhere but on me.

When Mrs. Mary Jane Theaumont asked Anne's community friend to stand and identify herself I proudly stood up to be counted. After the laughter subsided and the rest were introduced we all were asked to identify our profession.

I couldn't help but to identify myself as "a housewife and wife of a newspaper editor."

IT WAS a proud moment for me - one that I always will remenber. The Girl Scout pin, the handmade knit piece, the candle and the mushroom stool made by Anne Armstrong will always hold a dear place in our hearts.

I learned a lot about Girl Scouts that night as I have always had the opportunity by trying to share with them some precious moments.

That night their friendship was true evidence that joy is doubled.

When many asked how Mrs. Adams was feeling and wished her to get well soon my grief became divided - and all because someone took the time to express in the best way they knew how that they truly cared with therir hearts and not just as a figure of speech.

"FRIENDSHIP doubles the joy - divides the grief" - how beautiful and true, dear God, that is.

I RECENTLY saw a television show on how scientists are working on humanizing computers--to make them a "better friend to man." I can only say this is way overdue and I just hope I'm still around to sign the truce.

I'm convinced that for the past several years the companies which use computers for bookkeeping have been carrying out an experiment to determine just how much frustration the average bill payer will stand. I'm convinced of this because I was selected (by computer I'm sure) as one of the guinea pigs.

FOR EXAMPLE, everyone in my apartment complex has little punched cards to mail in with their rent checks so that the computer will register that the money has been received. Everyone gets one that is-except me. All I get are notices on my door that my rent is several months behind, just because the machine can't read my check, only holes punched in a card.

Being naturally paranoid and in constant fear of that Great, All Powerful Computer !(at the credit bureau), I panic.

IT USED TO be hard enough having to deal with people in the accounting department. If you had a problem you were usually referred around to six to 10 people before you got result. But now with a computer you've got a whole new problem.

Now a computer's not worried about getting fired--so it's a whole new problem.

I MEAN it's frustrating enough to call in, rant and rave about being harassed with bills you've already paid for half an hour--and then to hear "this is a recording."

It's definitely bad for your mental health.

And there's no point in writing letters unless you're planning on using unbent, unmutilated cards and a hole punch.

WE ONCE got the same bill from a large chain store for eight months before we finally got through to the electronic pain in the neck, that we weren't in Alaska in 1970 buying pruning shears. It took eight months of letter writing, phone calls and hysterical threats, but man finally triumphed over machine. Now we're being harassed by a book club computer that can't read - "not at this address."

BUT IT'S my own fault I guess. After all I did, in a moment of weakness, sit down and fill out those credit card applications. When they want your name, address, footprint and report cards for the first through 12th grade you should be suspicious I guess.

THEY NOW say that scientists are working on making computers that can talk. I'm not as interested in that as I am in finding out that they can listen. I have a lot to say. Until then I'll just keeping hoping someone pulls the plug.

Give Peace A Chance

"GIVE PEACE a chance." These words have been sounded by those who have worked so hard and so diligently toward the end of the conflict in Vietnam.

The words come not only from our nation's leaders but from other world government and religious leaders whose people also rang bells, observed moments of silence and offered prayers as did we in this country.

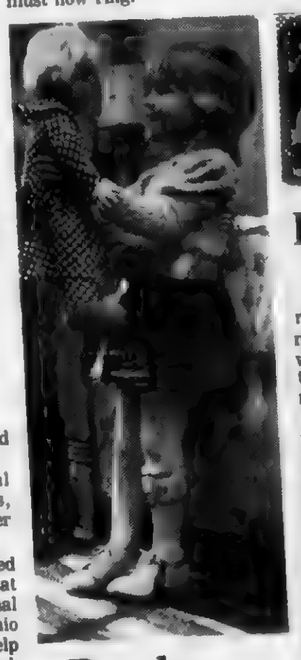
"UNITED we stand-divided we fall...We must hang together or certainly we shall hang separately...The forces of good government and common decency must surely triumph over those of evil and corruption"...and many other parallels never rung so true as they must now ring.

Those who have sought by their words and actions to divide our nation now have the opportunity to turn their own swords of division into plowshares of harmony and contribute toward the peace that all have sought-although by different and trouble laden roads.

"GIVE PEACE a chance." The power of positive thinking and actions can make this long-sought dream come true in each of our lifetimes if we but open our hearts and minds to the good that surrounds us and work toward making each of our little corners of the world-our own neighborhood-a better place in which to live.

Westside Resident Asks For Support

To the Editor:



People of Columbus, the Westside especially. There is a bulldozer getting ready to tear down another one of our historic houses to make room for a Used Car Lot, and all we will have to remind us is another pile of Rocks, (I. Sullivant House I-70 and W. Broad St.).

I am talking about the house at 570 W. Broad St. in the Heart of Franklinton.

We are all for progress but surely there are other sites that need to be torn down that would serve just as well or better than this site.

We are asking anyone interested in helping to preserve this house and others like it to write to me, Betty Immel Westside Service Ct. 405 W. Rich St. Columbus, Ohio or Gladden Community House 183 Hawkes Ave. Columbus, Ohio 43223.

Thank you,

Service Industries Wooed With New State Program

A STATE program specifically focused to attract service industries to Ohio, has been recommended to Governor John J. Gilligan by his Business and Employment Council.

The announcement was made by George S. Dively, Chairman of the Council, Everett Ware Smith, Council member who led this project, and W. R. Purcell, Jr., Council Executive Director.

"THROUGHOUT the U. S. , faster growing service industries are creating nearly all of the new jobs," Dively said. "During the sixties non-manufacturing jobs increased by 14 million, while manufacturing jobs increased by only three million. Service jobs now make up about two-thirds of the total work force as compared to one-half 20 years ago," he said.

Dively noted that "Ohio lags in service industry job growth. During the 1960's, U. S. service industry jobs grew by 43 percent but Ohio service industry jobs grew by only 35 percent. If Ohio had kept pace, we would now have well over 100,000 additional jobs."

THE EXISTING State program to recruit businesses to Ohio has traditionally focused on manufacturing industries. "We are recommending a major redirection of this State effort towards the faster growing service industries," Smith explained.

The service business is broad, noted Smith, and includes:

Professional services such as computer services, medical centers, consulting, travel, research and development, leisure.

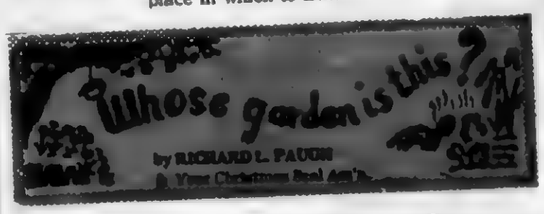
Investment, insurance, and other financial services.

Publishing, broadcasting and communications.

Offices of non-business organizations including education, government, professional societies, religious groups and trade unions.

Corporate headquarters and regional distribution centers of manufacturers, retailers, transportation companies and other large and medium-size businesses.

"OHIO AND other northern industrialized states are dealing with economic forces that are causing a continuing loss of traditional manufacturing jobs," Dively noted. "Ohio must start taking new positive actions to help create new opportunities for its capable work force."



The recommendation was the second made by the Council, appointed by Governor Gilligan to find a way to create new jobs in Ohio. Earlier this month the Council announced its first recommendation, to establish an Ohio Development Center to attract new federal and other development funds into the State.

FORMATION of the Governor's Business and Employment Council was announced last May. Council Chairman Dively is also Chairman of the Executive and Finance Committee of Cleveland's Harris-Intertype Corporation which he previously served as President or Chairman for 25 years.

Other Council members are Dr. Warren Bennis, President, University of Cincinnati; Dr. Sherwood L. Fawcett, President, Battelle Memorial Institute, Columbus; Frank W. King, President, Ohio AFL-CIO, Columbus; Everett Ware Smith, Chairman, The Cleveland Trust Company, Cleveland; O. Pendleton Thomas, Chairman, B. F. Goodrich Company, Akron; Joseph Tomasi, Director, Region 2B, United Auto Workers, Toledo; and Gordon Zacks, President, R. G. Barry Corporation, Columbus

Endangered Wee Ones

SENATE BILL 503 was my bill. I saw the need for it, I researched it, I wrote it. It was designed to outlaw the sale of merchandise made from parts of endangered species of wildlife. Several other states had passed such laws and the total effect would be to "dry up" the market for poachers and nations who just don't care about wildlife.

I guess I'm a bit peevish on the subject of trees, shrubs, fish, critters or anything else that is in danger of going out of inventory. I believe that if I were allowed to live on the same planet with California Condors, alligators, canvasback ducks and blue whales, my children and their children should have the same birthright.

PETITIONS totaling over 8,000 signatures from Kiwanis Clubs around Ohio were presented along with the bill. Finally, after months of delay, the Ohio Senate passed S.B. 503 by a 28-0 margin. The prime sponsor was Senator Clara Weisenborn of Dayton. As it was approved by the Senate Environment Committee, every senator present added his name to the title.

When S.B. 503 came to the House for hearings, the timing was bad. Summer vacations were at hand. Finally, on the last day of the 109th General Assembly, December 15, S. B. 503 was heard for the second time in committee. Itwas passed out by a 12-1 vote with Walter Paulo, a lame ducker from Canfield as the lone dissenter. It was sent to the House leadership for assignment for a floor vote on that last crucial day.

I SAY CRUCIAL because almost every lawmaker wanted (a) a big fat pay raise, (b) several bills of his own he wanted rushed through and most important (c) to go home to get some football watching and Christmas shopping time before the 110th General Assembly met on January first.

Senate Bill 503 never got to the floor. My two years' work went for nothing. Whaleskin wallets, leopard coats, zebra wall hangings and gator belts still find their way to Ohio stores. My children are still in danger of losing part of their birthright and losing the company of over two hundred species of animals now in great danger of extinction. There was no opposition to this bill, only apathy.

WHEN WE GRADE a person or 132 persons, we must take into consideration not only what they accomplished but also what opportunities they gooted. The 109th General Assembly, whatever else it was or was not, certainly didn't give a darn for endangered wildlife.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Exercise your right, contact YOUR state lawmakers and respectfully request that they do all possible towards passing a new S.B. 503. Give a helping hand to the wee ones.

School Superintendent Selection Questioned

TotheEditor:

On the evening of January 22, four members of the Worthington School Board (Mr. Blanke absent) met with a few parents and staff to pursue the search for criteria for a new superintendent. Although Mrs. Kohles and Mr. Blanke are personnel committee, Mr. Barnes seems to be chairman of this effort.

I do not question the many criteria suggested as desirable in a superintendent. I did question the narrowness of the search committee, which is composed of only the members of the Board.

Mr. Barnes gave two reasons for this small group.

(1) Ordinary citizens on committees do not meet deadlines.

2) A larger committee would increase risk of betraying the identity of candidates, a necessary precaution in their present positions.

These two reasons did not deter two neighboring, larger school districts, Columbus and Arlington, both of which had active citizen participation in the successful choice of a new superintendent.

Mr. Barnes also remarked that people who attend the present meeting and those who usually attend school board meetings do not represent the community. This is unwelcome news to those many community and school organizations which appoint regular representatives to the school board. It is also surprising news to those of us who represent the 61 percent of the population who voted against the position of the school board in the last election.

Ironically, one of the oft-mentioned qualities in a new superintendent is that which Mr. McCord had, the ability to communicate, cooperate and work with all segments of the population. This includes the students, who are the only reason for the existence of the school system, and the citizens who finance this system, among them, the parents of these students.

It would seem that a candidate who possesses this quality might, himself, question the lack of such representation on his search committee.

Feb. 3 Annual Dinner For Raanana committees have been ulated to prepare and lize plans for the annual ner of Raanana, chapter of Mizrachi Women of nerica.

The dinner, the theme of hich will be the 25th nniversary of Israel and the hildrens village, Kfar Batya, ill be held on February 3, at Congregation Ahavas alom.

Cocktails will begin at 7 p.m. followed by a full course dinner.

A most unusual form of entertainment for the Columbus area will follow. Tazzi, a one man show, will keep everyone spell bound. Mesdames Frank Nutis and Henry Lewin, chairman and co-chairman of this gala event promise that the tradition that was started last year of practically no speeches will be continued this year.

There will be no solicitations made at the dinner. Seating arrangments can be made upon request.

Reservation chairman are Mrs. Robert Schutz or Mrs. Norman Brody.

Tickets are ten dollars per person.

Twenty five years ago Kfar Batya took in their first group of homeless orphans, wretched survivors of the holocaust.

form all over the world, a babel of tongues, with different customs, habits and mentalities. It was not an easy task to take this heterogeneous group and mold it into a self aware and homogeneous community.

The adjustment to normal life was a painful process and progress was slow,

Step by step, however, they became accustomed to civilized life, they learned a common language, Hebrew, and succeeded in forming a uniform style of service. They were taught basic hygiene and developed good work-habits. The children were trained in gardening, in farming and in arts and crafts.

What was most important, they were provided with an education which combined Torah with every-day living, Jewish studies with general culture. Consequently, when the time came to leave Kfar Batya and to start independent life, they all felt that they had been given the proper training for joining Israeli society as positive and productive citizens.

The school has, indeed, produced hundreds of young men and women who have found their places in the many areas of Israeli life and who have become useful and devoted citizens, contributing their share to the building of and the defense of the State of Israel.

Today Kfar Batya is a large educational center offering a variety of vocational training programs to over 700 students. Both teachers and graduates know very well that this great and wonderful educational enterprise could never have materialized without the unceasing moral and financial support provided by the Mizrachi Women's organization of America.

Designed With Love

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

WHEN SOMEONE asked Bonnie Cashin—fashion designer and three time Coty Award Winner, recently elected to the Fashion Hall of Fame (the highest accolade a designer can receive)—what one thing motivates her works? She answered, "love—love of color, love of texture, line and form, love of rearranging elements in response to patterns of living as I see it—and love in the doing."

Love in doing was beautifully demonstrated when she presented her clothes on the runway during the American Designers Showings in New York for the fashion press.

CAPES AND PONCHOS—a long cape, wide as a bullfighters, for after dark, a short one for daywear. The Noh coat, loose and easy in beautiful fabric—the bare-armed coat—the smock coat—the raglanded cardigan, mostly unlined and designed as carefully inside as out. Bonnie considers linings useless unless they're jersey, alpaca or fur.

BONNIE LOVES the pullover suit in lovely tweeds and suedes—with hardware or snap-fasteners, whether with pants or skirt. One of her newest pants shapes is the sling, cut very low at the back and curved gently up the front and tied around the waist. Wrapped and tied waists are used throughout, whether on dresses or pants, and the bubbly blousy elasticized top is a favorite of hers too. Funnel sweaters and jersey knits with cowled turtleneck that pulls up to form a snug hood were shown with everything—and I musn't forget to mention her "body bags"—large flat shoulder totes in the softest leather and spring colors to be worn under travel coats. Evening wear consisted of long skirts, or dresses with just the right amount of dress-up for today's kind of partying.

Local Man Heads New OYC Research Unit

A veteran juvenile corrections worker who was "street-seasoned" with experiences while pursuing his Ph.D. was today named chief of the Ohio Youth Commission's newly-created Research, Planning and Development Unit.

Named was Gerald R. Wheeler, of 1991 Prince George Drive.

In naming Wheeler, Youth Commission Director William J. Ensign cited the new chief's wealth of academic and street experience as reason for the appointment. They run a full range, from a street-worker in a Watts, California Delinquency Prevention Clinic to the deputy superintendent of the Youth Commission's Fairfield School for Boys, at Lancaster.

In his new post Wheeler will be responsible for implementing data collecting and reporting procedures to assist in development of long-range plans for the prevention of delinquency in Ohio.

Wheeler recently completed his doctoral studies in Policy and Administration at the University of Chicago. His master's degree in Social Work was granted at Ohio State University in 1966.

Among Wheeler's other work experiences are stints as a youth counselor in the Columbus regional office of the Ohio Youth Commission and as a senior probation officer in Los Angeles County, California. He has also served as an instructor at Long Beach State College, in California.

Wheeler is married and has one daughter.

PEDESTRIANS

. . Pedestrians need drivers' protection, says State Highway Safety Director Pete O'Grady. Many pedestrians are either too young to drive, or they are elderly and may never have driven a car. They may not realize that drivers cannot see them in dark and rainy weather. They may think cars can stop as fast as people. Remember to use extra care around pedestrians who may not watch out for themselves.

Raider-Ridge Matmen In Dual Meet Feb. 3

The Reynoldsburg Raider wrestlers remain undefeated in dual competition as they crushed Licking Heights, 52-4 at home last Saturday.

Coach Roger Anderson indicated he was pleased with the team's overall performance and felt the wrestlers were coming out of their slump and getting ready for the Ohio Capital Conference league showdown.

The pin winners against Licking Heights were Ron Nole (7th), Sam Fluck, Rick Wagner, Steve Zorich (first varsity win) and the fastest by Dave Wickline in 38 seconds.

Also winners were Mark Kovach, who defeated last year's county champ; Paul Wade, who defeated a fine wrestler; Mark Newman who won in the last two seconds with a reversal, Bill Barrett, Dan Nole, Marvin Henderson and Dan Few, who defeated a wrestler who was 10-1.

The only Raider loss was by Steve Nole who was taken by Billy Joe Lewis. That leaves only Marvin Henderson (12-0) and Dave Wickline (12-0) undefeated. Both have nine pins.

The last home meet of the season should prove to be interesting. Walnut Ridge is the opponent in this Saturday's matches at 7:30 p.m. at Reynoldsburg. The most outstanding, according to Anderson, should pit Kovach against Jim Morris and Steve Nole vs Steve Winslow.

Other resounders will pit last year's district champ at 112 pounds, Warren Meade, against the Raiders' Dan Few, also Vic Ritchy vs Ron Nole, Marc Olen vs Bill Barrett and Mike Woodburn vs Dave Wickline.

Oak And Iron Shop

The Oak and Iron Shop, 7496 E. Main St., Reynoldsburg, would like to thank all its customers of this past year.

We genuinely appreciate you as our customers and you have our assurance that we shall make every effort to maintain the friendly type of relationship so necessary for your continued confidence and good will.

IN SPITE OF today's pace we still fell this old fashioned "thank you" is necessary and appropriate.

The ironworking side of the shop is also making some changes.

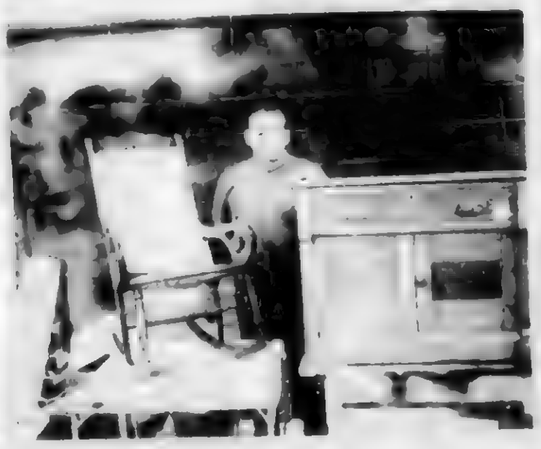
In any craft work the end product reflects the person doing it.

We want more and more to express the effect of God in our lives.

Although we make many types of brackets, candle holders, etc. it gives us an extra pleasure in making a variety of crosses and religious items using cast iron, wrought iron and wood.

IF A customer has an idea of their own for the design of a cross we are glad to work with them in making one especially for them.

This first full year has been reassuring to us that there is still a place for the refinishing of furniture in this area.



Although we have been in this area only a little over a year Paul Dusz has brought with him to this shop many years of experience.

JUST recently we have hired another young man who looks very promising in this type of work. This will help us to maintain our three week schedule for refinishing.

Furniture stripping and refinishing, antique and new iron gifts and accessories, distributor of Bix products (stains, stripper and finishes).

The lectures will be presented by Dr. Marvin Fox, professor of Philosophy as well as Chairman of the Committee on Jewish Studies at the Ohio State University.

Rabbi Joseph Vilenski, spiritual leader of the congregation, said in announcing the series, "Dr. Fox's academic background, vast Judaic knowledge, and well-known eloquence will ensure that these lectures are both enjoyable and informative."

The sessions will follow this schedules: February 4, "The Oral Law - Foundation and Development"; February 18, "How Jewish Law Was Codified - A Case History"; March 4, "Rights and Duties in Jewish Law"; and March 11, "Can Modern Jews Live By Jewish Law?"

Each of the Sunday sessions will take place in the Synagogue's social hall at 2568 E. Broad St., just East of Cassady, and will begin promptly at 8 p.m.

Questions from the floor will be entertained and informal discussion will be encouraged following the presentation. There will be no charge for the series. Refreshments will be served following each program. The general public is invited and encouraged to attend.

'Minster-On -Loan' Comes To Whitehall

A "Minister-On-Loan" arrived this week at the Franklin Unitarian Fellowship, 662 S. Yearling Rd. in Whitehall.

Dr. John W. Brigham, minister of the First Universalist Church of Rochester, N.Y., has been loaned to the Franklin Fellowship for six weeks as part of a continental program for extension and growth of the Unitarian Universalist Association.

Dr. Brigham will draw on his more than 30 years experience as minister to Unitarian and Universalist churches in a six week intensive program with the local fellowship which has no resident minister.

He will offer professional direction and guidance to task committees, assist in program development, participate in the planning of religious services, and perform a measure of pastoral counsel.

The Franklin Unitarian Fellowship, organized in 1967, purchased a meeting house in the spring of 1972 and has an active membership of 60 persons drawn from the eastern side of Columbus and adjacent suburbs.

Under the "minister-on-loan" arrangement, the Rochester church continues Dr. Brigham on full salary while the local group assumes costs of hospitality and professional expense while Dr. Brigham is on location.

A dozen or more Unitarian churches in the country are participating in the continental program, loaning ministers for similar six week programs to fellowships or small churches.

Dr. Brigham will speak this coming Sunday morning at the Franklin Fellowship's 10:30 a.m. service

East-Ready Clash Saturday

Non-League Tilt Holds Cage Spot light

A NON—LEAGUE clash between two Columbus cage powers takes all the spotlight in area action this weekend.

City leader East (they'll possibly be in a tie for first provided South takes Marion—Franklin Friday and deadlocks the city race at 9—1) will try to make waves in the State rankings as the Tigers go to Bishop Ready for a 3 p.m. game Saturday.

East got by one of its tougher still to play games last Friday as they outlasted Walnut Ridge, 60—51. The game was deadlocked at the first quarter and halftime posts then the Tigers sealed off the Scots from the backboards to make the difference.

ONE OFthe bigger East efforts was limiting Chuck Goodyear to 16 points. Four East players (McCants,12; Winbush,16; Hale,13 and Jameson,10) were in double figures.

Ready handled Desales with ease to all but lock up the Central Catholic loop title. Bob Jones cashed in 15 baskets for a 30 point effort for the Knights.

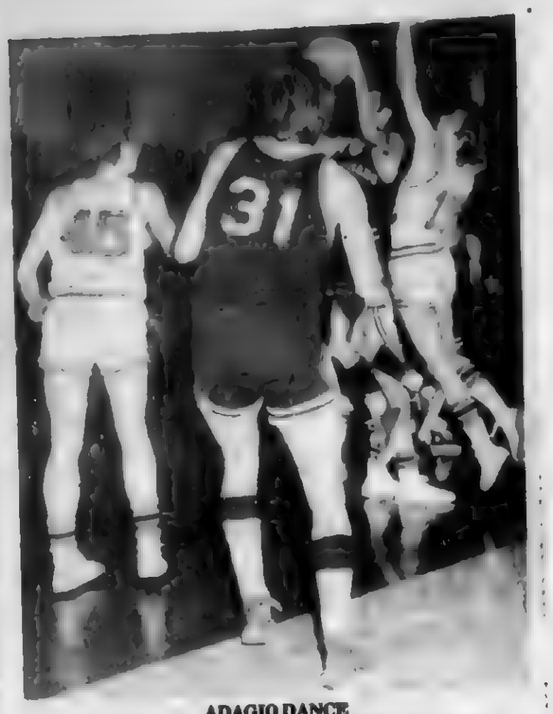
IN THE Mid—8 last week Grove City's Greyhounds took advantage of their fast (track) break to keep Bexley's Lions stalled most of the time and the Greyhounds recaptured the Mid—8 lead with a resounding 65—51 win. Grove City outbasketed the Lions, 30—19, to make the big difference in the outcome. The Herb Russell crew led all the way with post scores, 18—10, 36—25, and 51—32.

The Saturday Mid—8 action proved the same with the Greyhounds destroying Groveport, 69—41 for a 10—1 league mark and 14—1 overall for the best area won—lost mark. Bexley stayed on the Greyhounds hells with a rout of London.

Top Mid—8 tilts this week include pesky Urbana at Grove City and Bexley at Groveport.

THE ALL—OVER —but the—shouting Central Catholic loop has Ready preceding its East Saturday tilt with a Friday clash at Hartley while Wehrle and DeSales meet. Wehrle can sew up the second place spot with a victory.

The Reynoldsburg at Westerville Ohio Capital Conference clash this Friday is the Cats' winter homecoming game. The Raiders; Mike Grayem would like nothing better than to make the Raiders' second season win that over Terry Yoakum's Cats. Grayem is a former Cat assistant coach. The Cats have met with ill fortune since an 11—0 start and have surrendered the OCC lead to Delaware in losses to Gahanna and Whitehall. Inconsistent play has beenthe Cats downfall but the hard—driving Yoakum should be able to spur the Cats back on the track.



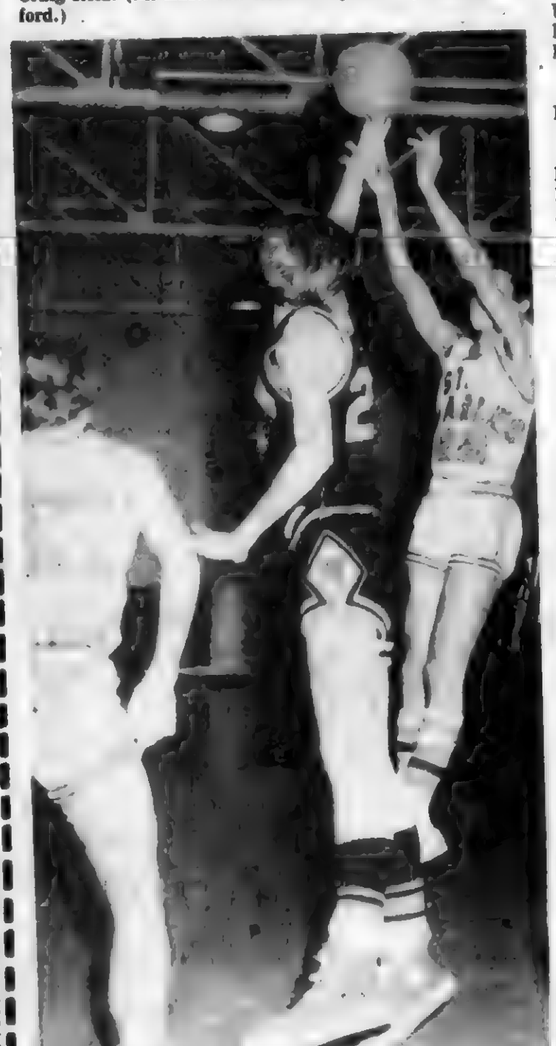
DELAWARE'S OCC leaders had a narrow squeak last week before taking the measure of Westland in a triple overtime. Dan Andreas has molded the Cougars into an aggressive ball club and with a little more firepower could still cause some trouble in the OCC.

The Worthington at Westland game this Friday should test both clubs. Worthington surprised everyone (except themselves) with an eye—splitting single overtime win over Gahanna. Gahanna had led all the way before the never—say—die Cards came back.

Delaware won't be in for a breather against Mt. Vernon as this annual pair of tussles can't be resolved by season records.

NETWORK: The usual high—scoring among area players was less than usual last week as defense became the name of the game against some of the regular high scorers. Here's how they fared: Burris, Whitehall,20; Crandall, Worthington, 20; Odom, Gahanna, 29; Morgan,Mifflin,20; Lockett, Groveport,20; Harris, North,28; Court, North, 20; Tillman, Mohawk, 25; Ohanian, Eastmoor, 21; Murray, Eastmoor, 20; Jones,Ready, 30; Cecutti,Watterson,20; Williams, West, 20; Moeller, Grove City,32; Bramlage, Bexley, 27; Fontanarosa, DeSales, 27; Burris, Whitehall, 25; Ohanian, Eastmoor,34 and Murray, Eastmoor,26.

Tip to the wise for the week: Stop the combination of Ohanian andMurray for Eastmoor (at the same time) and you'll probably stop the team's win chances. The dandy duo scored 101 points between them(Ohanian,55 and Murray,46) in their pair of weekend wins.



ADAGIO DANCE

ST. CHARLES made a noble effort to take the measure of the state ranked Zanesville Rosecrans team at St. Charles Friday night. This effort by Mark Kelsey (15) was a part of that try. Zanesville's Willie Droffats got the ball.

EASTMOOR EDGES WHITEHALL

IT WAS NIP and tuck all the way before Eastmoor managed to edge Whitehall in an East end battle last Saturday. Here, Eastmoor's Ron Ayers (44) almost got off this shot against the Rams but was stymied by the Rams' Craig Reid. (All Eastmoor-Whitehall photos by Mike Stafford.)

ST. CHARLES GETS ZANED

WHAMMO FOR WHITEHALL

IT WAS ACTION plus for the Whitehall Rams as they almost upset Eastmoor last week. Eastmoor's George Haensel (40) went up for this shot only to have it blocked by the Rams' Cris Linhart (41) while the Rams' Craig Reid (3) and an unidentified Eastmoor player look on.

TWO-POINTER FOR ST. CHARLES

IT WAS UP AND IN for St. Charles' Larry Rosshurt (53) as he came up with a dandy hook shot against Zanesville Rosecrans. His effort was almost nullified by a sterling defensive job by Zanesville's Mij Signalmilk (45) as the Zanesville team won.

DAVE WOOD, who is currently performing Tuesday through Saturday in the Sports Forum Lounge at Howard Johnson's North is one of the finest male guitar single lounge acts I have come across for some time.

Besides being an excellent guitarist, Dave is also a first rate vocalist as well as being a high powered one man show. His impersonations of many of the well known singers, both male and female, prove to be entertaining and enjoyable as listening to the real McCoy. At times they are very accurate others are down right humorous.

But, what makes Dave so popular with the crowds in the Sports Forum Lounge is his voice. Possessing a big, rich voice that's as pure and pleasing as anything you ever hope to hear, Dave proves that he is a singer. His rendition of, "The Impossible Dream," just grabs the audience by their ear lobes. From this big, booming rendition, Dave comes back with a lilting voice doing a beautiful job with, "Snowbird." The contrast between the two is amazing. From powerhouse style to a delicate treatment shows that Dave is loaded with ability. Then he turns things around and dishes out some good contemporary music.

IN BETWEEN his versatile vocal stylings, Dave lets go with impressions of Bobby Goldsboro, Nancy Sinatra, Elvis Presely, James Taylor singing, "Fire and Rain," and a host of others.

DAVE'S ACT never becomes dull. There is always something different happening. Soundwise, music selection and style contain a tremendous variety. Dave is unusual in the fact that he does have an act. You just don't sit and listen to a fellow playing and singing. His routines are paced well.

From the standpoint of talent and just all around entertainment, Dave keeps things at a highly enjoyable level. Even after a couple of hours of his entertaining, you will still want to hear more.

THIS YOU can do, and really should do. Dave Wood is magnetic, he just draws you back to the Sports Forum Lounge for only one purpose, to be royaly entertained.

THE CURRENT attraction at the fabulous Marco Polo's Lounge is a group called, Freshwater, Their name is taken after the leader's last name, Mark Freshwater. To me, it has much more significant meaning, that is, very fresh arrangements and a presentation that is not watered down in any way shape or form.

There are five talented fellows in the group, each one knowing exactly what they are doing, when it comes to music. Mike Kreis is featured on organ. This young man has to be considered a giant behind the keyboard. Mark also does some nice vocal work. Next is Pat Jenny, an extraordinary bass player. This chap has traveled with the national company of, "Jesus Christ, Super Star." Needless to say, he is no slouch. Mike Howard with the electric guitar is equally as good, both instrumentally and vocal harmony work. Drummer Denny Schobelock shows a lot of speed and class with his work at the hikdes and cymbals.

LAST, but certainly not least, is leader Mark Freshwater, This is the male singer in the outfit. What a singer he is. He owns a rather dynamic voice coupled with an effortless style. What comes across is some mighty fine vocal renditions, which are exciting and simply enjoyable to hear.

As a group, they do play as such. No one individual is going off in seperate directions. It is a tight outfit, producing ppienty of interestin sounds done in close harmony, both vocally and instrumentally. While they are a fairly heavy rock type quintet, they certainly are not loud.

Their arrangement of, "Black Magic Woman," is a pure treat to hear. Both Mark and the entire troup really shine. This is just one song of many, that this can be said.

FRESHWATER is truly for those of you who love to listen to good, strong contemporary music. They perform a lot of tunes that you seldom hear in a lounge. But, you can hear them in this lounge, Marco Polo's, that is, every night of the week. Do it now, because this happens to be their last week.

A FEW weeks ago, I told you about the great evening I had at the beautiful Waikiki Restaurant at the Imperial House Motel. As I told you then, the food is the best around, the decor is fabulous and in my opinion it is far better than that place with the similar name on the east side of town.

Now, I want to tell you about another experience I had at the Polynesian retreat. Last Sunday, Frank Lin, who is from Taiwan, invited the Tsai Sisters, who were appearing at Ramada Inn-North, and also from Taiwan, and myself to dinner at his Waikiki Restaurant.

I'LL TELL you right now, this was one of the most restfull and delightful Sunday afternoon and evening I have spent anywhere in a long time. If you remember, latst Sunday was rather dismal and cold. But, after spending a few minutes inside the Waikiki, and listening to Frank, his wife, the Tsai Sisters speaking mostly in Chinese, I felt as if I were sitting in some exotic spot thousands of miles from home.

The decor and the music is a wonderful blend of Polynesian and oriental atmosphere. It is so authentic and so dynamic, that it really doesn't take much of an imagination for you to believe that you have been transported half way around the world.

FOR ADDED authenticity was the meal that Frank and his crew prepared for us. Believe me friends, you will not xfind anything compared to it in Columbus.

Served first was a Pu Pu Tray. This is an appetizer containing spare ribs, the biggest deep fried shrimp I've seen, fried wonton stuffed with crab meat and Cho-Cho, which is choice beef served on bamboo sticks with teriyaki sauce which you cook yourself over a flaming hibachi.

NEXT CAME oyster soup, not stew. This was delicious. Along with the main dish of Pineapple Fire Duck, we were served a special fried rice which contained green peas and green peppers. Another dish, which I do not know the name, but consisted of bamboo shoots, pork, green peppers and seasoned rather highly was certainly a taste treat for my taste buds. The oyster soup, the specially prepared fried rice and the bamboo shoots I believe are not on the regular menu. This was something special for the Tsai Sisters. However, when you visit the place don't worry, there plenty of tempting taste treats to select from the menu. The menu has at least twenty-four entrees and a host of other chinese, japanese and polynesian dishes.

AS I SAID, our entree was the Pineapple Fire Duck, which by the way, is on the menu. To make a confession I have never been that crazy about duck. But I have never tasted food as delicious and enjoyable as was this item. It is made from a very old secret dynasty recipe of boned duckling, marinated in a special secret sauce with fresh pineapple, water chestnuts, bamboo shoots and special marinated Chinese sour vegetables. I can not think of enough words to describe just how delicious this was. There is only one way for you to know, which is actually true with the entire resaaurant operation, you must go and see and taste for yourself. I hope when you leave, you don't have to face a windy wintery blizzard like I did. Then you know for sure that you are not at some Polynesian paradise, but good ole Columbus town. However it is nice to know that the new Waikiki Restaurant is located in Columbus. It is so convenient to reach from any place Around Town.

JEANNE AGEE

Our girl of the month for January is sexy Jeanne Agee, cocktail waitress at Ramada Inn - North. Jeanne hits an even five feet on the yard stick, with a 36-22-35 frame. The blond, green eye beauty loves to horse back ride, swim and water ski. Outdoor living is for her, maybe that's why she just returned from a few weeks in Hawaii. Jeanne, who is 22 years old, has been serving drinks at the Ramada Inn - North for a year now.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

The fabulous, and that's an understatement, Jo Kiser is back at Lincoln Lodge. This gal is simply great. She sings terrifically, looks like a sex goodness and plays more piano than any three men put together. Jo draws more crowds than many of the groups appearing at the Lodge. You must catch her act, if you have before, then you know what I mean.... For you fellows asking me who that leggy good looking gal seen around town, her name is Etta Kepp. She is a trouble shooter for a local figure salon, and arrived in our fair city from Iowa. What a knock out! I saw Alice Jones while she was in town last week attending a meeting at the Ramada Inn. Alice used to be an executive with Ramada North, now she is general manager of a Ramada Inn in Charlotte, North Carolina. Alice was telling me that she ran into Al Puca, who fronted Puca's Palace. Yep, it sure is a small world. Al is tending bar at the Master Host Motel across from the Ramada Inn in Nashville, close by the airport. Alice said she just saw him a few weeks ago. I always wondered what happened to Al...If you are looking for a great place to eat in Columbus, right at the airport, then head to the Dobb's House. The food is terrific. Their steaks will simply melt in your mouth. The Dobb's House has beautiful atmosphere, excellent service and all of your favorite legal beverages. The Dobb's House caters to kids, also, with a special menu, and all. The kids, as well as adults love the "entertainment", watching all the planes land and take off. No other spot in town can offer such unique action. Yuou may order anything from a simple sandwich to a twenty ounce porterhouse. All of their meats are cooked right on an open fire in front of your eyes.

You can even brand you steaks, if you so desire.

Otterbein Activities Set

The Otterbein College Concert Band, under the direction of Gary R. Tirey, will offer an evening of music featuring the Wind Ensemble Feb. 2, 8:15 p.m. in Cowan Hall. The public is invited.

The Concert Band, choosing their repertoire from popular, classic and traditional band music, will offer selections including "Overture in Pop Style," "Music for a Festival," and "The Duke of Cambridge March".

The 45-piece Wind Ensemble, a mini-band unit also under Tirey's direction, will play "Broadway Curtain Time," and "Scenes from "The Louvre," among their opening numbers.

Otterbein's Concert Band will tour northeastern Ohio in the spring, with concert appearances in and around Cleveland, and will leave for a performing tour of England in August.

The second annual Professional-Educational Repertory Theatre, sponsored in part by an Ohio Arts Council grant, will be offered by the Otterbein College Theatre beginning Feb. 28.

Productions of "The Lion in Winter" and "Much Ado About Nothing" will be offered in repertory style, with special high school matinee performances for central Ohio area school students.

Two professional guest actors, and one professional director in addition to Otterbein College director of theatre Dr. Charles W. Dodrill, will work with a nucleus of student actors and actresses. Many of the students, as well as the professional actors, will appear in both productions.

Dates of "The Lion in Winter" are March 1, 3, 7 and 9; "Much Ado About Nothing", February 28, and March 2, 8 and 10. Performances are in Cowan Hall.

First Federal States Growth

First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Columbus experienced its greatest growth in savings, loans and reserves during its fiftieth anniversary year, Richard I. Eidson, President, announced at the association' annual meeting.

The association's savings deposits increased nearly $20.4 million during 1972, and loans totaled over $25 million, Mr. Eidson said. The savings institutions reserves increased to $10,111,162, the highest in the association's history. Assets reached an all time high of $153,772,497.

Election of officers and directors were held during the meeting. Re-elected to the Board were Willard C. Eidson, Peter H. Edwards, Herbert N. Lape II, William P. Giovanello and Colborn M. Addison. Other board members include: Richard I. Eidson, Nelson Greene, H. Thorp Minister, Jr., and Dr. Robert M. Zollinger.

All the officers of the association were re-elected. They are: Willard C. Eidson, chairman of the board; Richard I. Eidson, president; Nelson Greene, senior vice president and secretary; James M. Leonard, vice president and treasurer; R. K. Herminghausen, vice president and comptroller; Frank L. Ossing, vice president and cashier; Thomas G. Wagenbrenner, vice president; Thomas Thorne, assistant vice president; Grant S. Martin, Ruthann Irvine, Ross Egelston, and Robert L. Willis, assistant secretaries; and Ronald L. Murdock, assistant treasurer. Morris Lopper was elected general council; and Keith Martin, attorney.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

Gallery Players of the Jewish Center, 1125 College Ave., opened their production of "Dark Of The Moon" Saturday. It will continue next weekend, February 1, 3 and 4.

At the preview Thursday evening, I was impressed with the style in which director Harold Eisenstein chose to present the legend of Barbara Allen. He used singing with guitar accompaniment to great advantage during every scene change - and there are many. This way the audience doesn't get a cchance to get fidgety while the scenery is being moved around. And speaking of the set, John Crawford used much imagination in designing it so that it would be mobile.

Acting bouquets go to Diane Disque as Barbara Allen, Rodger Gerhardstein portraying the Witch Boy, Julian Barnett in the role of Preacher Haggler, Harry Schubert as the Conjur Man and Bea Roth as Mrs. Allen. Lending comedy touches are Glenn Bittner, Muriel Undersheimer, Michele Hall and Robert Bennett. Space does not permit mentioning the entire cast, but they do a fine job.

I was laughing it up and suddenly stopped because I realized this is not a thing of the past. These superstitions and ways of life that may seem strange and therefore ludicrous to us are still being lived today. Perhaps right here in Columbus.

To see this gem of witch-craft and soul saving, call 231-2731.

Harold Eisenstein is holding tryouts for Arthur Miller's "The Price" at Gallery Players February 4 at 2 p.m. and February 5 at 8 p.m.

I just finished reading "Grease", a new 50's musical by Jim Jacobs and Warren Casey. If you were growing up in the era of Elvis, Sal Mineo, Sandra Dee-you should try to get to see this quite frank story of a teen age high school gang. It is coming to the Ohio Theatre for one week February 19 through February 24 with matinee performances on Wednesday and Saturday at 2:30 p.m. and evening performances at 8:30 p.m. Call 469-0939 for reservations.

For a change why not try roller skating? The United Skates of America has two locations, 3362 Refugee Road and 4900 Evanswood, just off Morse Road at I-71.

Their Sunday night family skate from 6:30 to 9:00 is just great for you to take the kids-and if you don't have any kids try singles night for the over 16's on Wednesday at Refugee Road and Thursday at the North location. And take it from me, even if you have not been on skates in years-you never forget how.

At The Parks This Week

Metropolitan Park programs for the week of February 2-8 are as follows.

Bonsai, the ancient art of cultivating trees in shallow containers to aesthetically create giant trees in miniature will be the subject of a two-session workshop to be held in the Sharon Woods Nature barn from 1 to 3 p.m. Thursdays, February 8 and 15.

Registration is limited and must be made in advance by calling 882-1786. A $7 fee covers the cost of trees, containers, soil and registration.

At Sharon Woods this week, naturalist Gary Moore will present a slide-talk about "Beautiful Bavaria" in the Nature Barn at 3:30 p.m. Sunday, February 4. Moore recently returned from two years of duty with the NATO Forces in Europe.

At Blacklick Woods this week, the film "American Wonderlands–the National Parks" will be shown in Beech-Maple Lodge at 2 and 3:30 p.m. Sunday, February 4.

At Blendon Woods, the Walden Wildlife Refuge will be open for the observation of wild waterfowl from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and from 3 to 5 p.m. weekdays.

The films "Large Animals of the Artic" and "Coral Wonderland" will be shown in Cedar Ridge Lodge at Darby Creek at 2 p.m. Sunday, February 4.

Aladdin Temple Elects Back Illustrious Potentate

DONALD T. BACK

RALPH HORNBERGER

Donald T. Back, 6560 Estel Rd., Worthington, a marketing executive, was elected Illustrious Potentate of Aladdin Temple last week - climax of a ten-year climb to head the 14,000 member organization.

His first official act was the appointment of Ralph B. Hornberger, Jr., a thirty-three year employee of Borden, Inc., as Outer Guard-initial step in the line of succession.

The 48 year old Back succeeds Dr. Harold E. Voss as leader of the local Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

Back has been an active member and officer of several industry organizations, and is a member of Columbus Maennerchor, a trustee of Linworth Methodist Church and a member of the National Voter Advisory Board of the American Security Council.

His Masonic affiliations include New England Lodge No. 4, Horace Wright Chapter No. 226, Columbus Council No. 8, Mt. Vernon Commandery No. 1, Court No. 8 of the Royal Order of Jesters, Scottish Rite (Valley of Columbus), and Aladdin Temple of the Shrine.

He is a member of Aladdin's Reception Unit and a past officer of the Worthington Shrine Club.

Richard E. Goudy was re-elected recorder and James J. Harbage again was named Treasurer.

Richard Westinghouse was appointed Chaplain for 1973.

Named AIU Board Chairman

Bill B. Blankenship was elected Chairman of the Board and Chief Executive Officer; Robert G. Harness was elected president; and John D. Griffin was elected a new member of the Board of Directors of American United Inns, Inc., at the annual meetings of shareholders and directors held last week.

Blankenship previously served as chairman and president. Harness previously was vice president and treasurer. Harness continues as treasurer of AUI and both were re-elected to the Board of Directors of the Company.

Griffin, secretary-treasurer of Joe M. Rodgers & Associates, Inc., General Contractors, Nashville, Tenn., fills a seat on the board formerly held by Bernard Cohen, who was re-elected as a vice president of the company.

Harness has been vice president, treasurer and director of Americna United Inns, Inc., since 1970. Previously, he was Director of Real Estate for Ramada Inns., Inc., Phoenix, Ariz.

IRS Tax Return Assistance Set

Taxpayers who work or can't get to IRS offices during regular business hours can obtain help from the IRS on Saturdays or Monday evenings from now until April 16, Paul A Schuster, District Director of Internal Revenue for southern Ohio said today.

IRS employees will be on duty until 7:45 Monday evenings and from 10 to 3 Saturdays at the office in Columbus to help taxpayers fill out income tax returns.

The office is located at 261 South Third St. The phone number for income tax assistance in the Columbus area is 469-7422.

Taxpayers who have questions or problems with filling our their returns should call or visit their IRS office for help. Schuster said that many taxpayers who need an answer to a question may find it more convenient to call the IRS on the phone instead of making a trip to the office.

From now thru February 16 and April 2 thru April 16, Federal income tax assistance will aso be available at Neighborhood House, 1000 Atcheson, Rooms 1 and 2. The hours are 10 a.m. to 6:45 p.m., Monday thru Friday.

Rehabilitation Is Basic To OYC...

This can either be an academic, a vocational or some other treatment program. This last category is for those not yet ready for the more structured programs.

IN RECENT YEARS the academic programs at the various institutions have undergone significant improvement. In 1965 at Fairfield the 14 teachers were not accredited for the subjects they were teaching. Today, according tto officials, there are 86 fully accredited teachers.

Balson said the credits earned or graduation from one of the OYC schools is better or at least equals a vast majority of schools in other districts.

He said the remedial reading program has served as an example to other school systems.

"AFTER SIX MONTHS in this program some students showed as much as five years improvement in their reading skills."

He also cited the good ration between guidance counselors and students. At Fairfield, for example, there are eight counselors for the 500 students.

"At the institutions there is a controlled, regulated environment in which the boys and girls must earn grades or they can't be released."

BALSON EXPLAINED that at Fairfield the staff uses the contract system. During individual guidance sessions the student and counselor together develop a contract for a certain grade in each class. The counselor helps the student set realistic goals, but also provides motivation for better work.

OYC also offers a variety of vocatiosal training programs such as carpentry, welding, auto mechanics and related field, printing, masonary, hotel management, business related subjects and food services, to name a few.

BALSON SAID THE rehabilitative factor will be between the teacher and student. "Just because he or she advances academically or learns a trade doesn't mean he's rehabilitated. We might put a youngster in a course just because a particular teacher might be able to reach him."

The vocational and academic program are vehicles for rehabilitation, according to Balson.

"THE COMMISSION has just recently arrived at the point where we feel there is enough community support, and definite legislative support for what has to be done."

In the past, Balson said, people have been apathetic. The average person's attitude was that the delinquent should be sent away and treated harshly so that they would be reformed into good citizens.

"Three thousand years of punishment to fit the crime hasn't worked. Being hard or tough has nothing to do with how the person will be when released.

"BUT TODAY THE average citizen can no longer avoid being touched by the problem. He can't excape crime in the streets or kids in trouble. So now he's concerned and demanding that something be done."

Balson said, "We've reached the point where we can't just continue building beds to house juvenile delinquents. Our main thrust must now be prevention and diversion. We must find the cause and the why behind each youngster being committed to the OYC."

In the second of this three part series we will be looking at how two of the OYC's institutions are going about finding the answer to that WHY?

Ruach Revival Performs For Cantorial Concert

According to the Beth Jacob Brotherhood Cantorial Concert Committee, this year's Concert will be in the form of a Chassidic Rock Festival featuring the well-known band "Rauch Revival".

The Ruach Revival was formed in March, 1971, by young yeshiva students interested in adapting Jewish music to the current vein. The group consists of Joey Fishof, drums, vocal, Harold Fruchter-guitar vocal and Yissie Rosenberg, accordian duovox-vocals.

Back by popular demand is the internationally known Shlomo Carlebach who will also entertain during the Cantorial Concert. Shlomo is a trend and a tradition, a remarkable musical experience, in that he is able to reflect the cherished radiance of chassidism with such simplicity and ease, remarkable in that he can kindle a new fire in many a young, estranged and hungry heart.

A highlight of the evening will be a presentation by Rabbi David Stavsky to Mr. Max Ballas, prominent Zanesville industrial and Jewish communal leader, who will be the guest of honor at the 11th Annual Beth Jacob Brotherhood Concert, which will be held Feb. 11, at 7:30 p.m. at the Beth Jacob Synagogue, 1223 College Ave.

Ballas is well known in business and started the Ballas Egg Products Company in Zanesville in 1938. In June, 1971, he was the recipient of the Chief Rabbi Herzog Gold Medal Award presented by the National Mizrachi Hapoel Hamizrachi in New Yrok City at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel.

This year's Brotherhood Committee consists of Martin Hoffman, Rabbi David Stavsky, Irvin Flox, Ronald Elkins, Tom Berger, Morris Weinstock, Eugene Cohen, Bernard Hirsch, Irvin Szames, Keve Zians, Al Solove, Ben Grinblatt, Bert Alper (Brotherhood President) and Dr. Charles Young (Beth Jacob President).

Tickets are available at $2 per adult and $1 per student and may be purchased from any member of Brotherhood.

FOR JUVENILE DELINQUENTS

Individualized Treatment Stressed Within Commission

PART II
BY LYNN WILLIAMS
AND
KATHY DEVANEY

The method of handling juvenile delinquents has varied over the years since Ohio first began a correctional system for youngsters 116 years ago.

The trend has moved from that first concept of the self-sustaining institution (farming and manufacturing),to strickly discipline,then to training and now to the emphasis on treatment..

THESE TRENDS are reflected in the name changes seen at the system's oldest institution–Fairfield.

It was first called the Ohio Reform Farm School,then the Boys Industrial School and is now Fairfield School For Boys.

It looks like a small college campus set spaciously in the wooded hills just outside Lancaster in Fairfield County. Young boys walking to and from their various classes or tasks look much like students on any campus. It is only the white stone entrance marker that lets you know this is something else.

THE OVER 1,000 acre,68 building complex is actually the state's oldest and largest correctional institution.

An average day at Fairfield begins at 6 a.m. when the boys get up and take care of chores around the 13 cottages to which they are assigned.

From here they go to breakfast and by 8 a.m. they're ready for school or one of the 16 vocational programs. After classes in the afternoon, the youngsters may participate in recreational activities or counselling with staff members.

IN THE EVENING treatment programs such as group therapy or individual treatment sessions are conducted.

Today Fairfield has charge of 549 young boys who have been remanded to the custody of the Ohio Youth Commission (OYC). The population has been double at times,but current plans call for the institution's population to go down to around 400 in the near future.

Officials at Fairfield say this isn't practical and that the fewer boys on hand,the greater the cost for each one. They also feel the large open campus and the numerous programs make it ideal for a greater number of bovs.

FAIRFIELD PRESENTLY has a staff of 445. Heading that staff is Ralph Starkey,superintendant since August of last year. Starkey is an enthusiastic individual,deeply committed to helping youngsters.

Prior to joining the OYC staff just over four years ago,he worked in juvenile court with a child welfare agency. Before taking over the direction of Fairfield,he headed the Zanesville Youth Camp. It was there he began his behavior modification program,a system he brought along with him and expanded at Fairfield.

As Starkey explained it,the general theory of behavior modification is based on the point system. The key is to reinforce positive behavior and this is done through the giving of points.

WHEN WE MET with Starkey just over three weeks ago,the program had just started,but he was already optimistic about its potential at Fairfield.

"This type of thing has been used before. One teacher here used to give the kids stamps for positive behavior. When they had so many stamps they could turn them in for things like candy bars."

It is hoped the boys will realize the true joy of working for what they get and that a little rubs off and shows up later when they return home,he said.

THE SUPERINTENDANT continued,"These kids need guidance and reinforcement,but first you have to get their attention."

This is where the zone system comes into the program.

The behavior modification or treatment program is set up on the basis of zones whereby youngsters work their way through the four zones until they are ready to be released. These zones indicate where a boy is in terms of responsible behavior in the program.

THERE ARE VARIOUS goals in each of the four zones and these must be met before a youngster is advanced.

Each boy at Fairfield now carries a colored card issued daily. The card has a place for each person he comes in contact with throughout the day to rate his behavior and performance.

For example if he is in the academic program,each teacher may either rate him satisfactory or unsatisfactory. He is rated in the cottage in the morning and in the afternoon. Students in the vocational or on the job training program are also rated by the instructor.

EACH BOY MAY earn up to 12 points a day.

If he is in Zone I he must have received 80 percent of the possible points after 21 days to be advanced to Zone II.

The period in Zone I is primarily a time for the youngster to adjust to institutional life. Privileges are minimal and supervision is constant.

BEFORE GOING on to Zone II,the youngster must set contract goals. These goals pertain to behavior,grades,attitudes and the seeking of solutions to problem areas.

VOCATIONAL OR ON THE JOB training courses are an important part of the treatment and rehabilitation program at Fairfield School for Boys. Fairfield is the oldest and largest of the OYC'S 11 correctional institutions. The teenage boys pictured above are participating in the carpentry program. The project they are discussing is the building of a miniature house.

Officials Explain Progress Reports

THOMAS B. CONNERY
Special Staff Writer

If you have children in grades three through six in the Columbus public schools, you have had to adjust to the use of the letters O,S and I in place of A,B,C,D and F on parts of their progress reports or report cards.

You have also had to adjust to the fact that your chaild cannot get an F. That is, he cannot receive a failing grade.

According to school officials, a great majority of parents have accepted the change.

Dr. Evelyn Luckey, executive director of elementary education, said that she has personally received only two complaints from parents

IN ADDITION, SHE HAS not been informed of any problems by school principals

However, she said that a few teachers complained. She added that usually those teachers who complained either did not understand the philosopny behind the change, or were "people who like the old way, and don't want to change."

Board member Virginia Prentice has also heard only two complaints from parents

"Although I don't agree with not giving kids F's," Mrs Prentice said, "the complaints have not been extensive enough for me to try to get the policy changed

L. W. HUBER, ASSISTANT superintendent Division of Instruction, said that it was expected that one to five per cent of the parents would not accept the change

"We can't please everyone," he said, "so we can't get ex ci ted when we don't please the one or two or five per cent who don't like the change "

On the new report card, or progress report, a child is given the letter grades A, B, C and D in reading and mathematics. The letter O, for outstanding, S, for satisfactory, and I, for improvement needed, are given in language, science, health, music, art, physical education and instrumental music

The choice of the letter system used in social studies is left up to the individual school

THE NON-ACADEMIC AREAS of work and study habits, personal growth and social growth are also marked with O, S or I

On the previous progress report all academic areas were marked with letter grades A, B, C, D and F. Non-academic areas were given a plus mark for progress being made," and a check mark for "needs attention."

Dr Luckey said that the reason the new progress report has two different systems of grading was to compromise, and to ease the impact of the change upon parents.

The new progress report is a product of a committee consisting of two parents, two principals and two teachers that was formed in 1969 to develop a pilot, or experimental, progress report.

THE PILOT WAS USED in 16 schools for two years before being revised to its present form for use in all the Columbus elementary schools for the 1972-73 school year

One mother who is dissatisfied with the new progress report said that her child's teacher told her that an O is a mark that will be used only in special situations, and that children who would normally receive an A, B or C would now receive an S.

Dr. Luckey said that many children should be receiving O's because there are children "who are capable of doing outstanding work."

Both she and Huber agree that parents are making a mistake by trying to make the O, S and I equivalent to A, B, C and D

According to Huber, use of O,S and I "scales down the importance of grading in favor of informing the parents of their child's progress."

PREVIOUSLY A CHILD received a letter grade based upon his performance in relation to other children in his class. Now the letter grade is supposed to inform the parent of the child's progress according to his own ability rather than in comparison with others

We are concerned with individual growth," Huber said, "the children compete with themselves to do as well as they can."

Dr. Luckey gave as an example a child with a stuttering problem Previously, she said, such a child may have received a D or even an F in certain aspects of language. Now however, the same child can receive an S or even an O, depending on his individual progress and improvement

I think we have to establish first of all more of a personal nature on which to base grades," she said

"I THINK TOO OFTEN these insidious comparisons have been at the basis of a lot of our grading," she added

Sometimes I think kids get all A's not because they are so good in everything but because there is a kind of 'halo effect' that operates," she said

We are not trying to do that with grades we are trying to tell the parents how the child is progressing

The same mother said that the new system stifles motivation. Dr. Luckey said that the system does not have to stifle motivation.

"I think that if the only thing that is motivating a child is a letter grade at the end of the six week period," Dr. Luckey said, "then something is wrong with the motivation in the schoolroom."

"THERE OUGHT TO BE other kinds of things that motivate a child," she said

As other factors of motivation she mentioned the parents' opinions, the parents' ambitions and expectations for the child, and the child's interest and curiosity in the subject matter.

The mother also complained that her child was being "molded" and being "denied his individual traits" by receiving O, S, and I in the non-academic areas of work and study havits, personal growth and social growth.

Dr. Luckey denied that the new marks mold a child, and said that if it does occur it is the fault of the classroom teacher. She emphasized that the new marks are an attempt to give more consideration to the individual.

"WE REALIZE THAT WE do not have a perfect system," she said, "but we are trying to move toward helping parents look at their children as individuals and see that one child should not be compared another child."

The removal of a failing mark is also an attempt to individualize, as well as an attempt to remove what Huber called "the failure syndrome"

Dr Luckey said that it is not fair to stigmatize a slow learner by giving him failing marks

"Getting an F is like calling somebody a name or putting somebody in a kind of substandard category," she said

"We believe in continuous progress for all kids and that includes even kids who might be classified for technical reasons as mentally retarded," she said "Everyone can learn.

"WE FEEL THAT THE disadvantages of getting an F are so great that we can accomplish the same goals and objectives that we had, by just telling a child that he is not doing as well as we know he is able to do." Dr Luckey said

What we all want is for a child to first function effectively as a child. she said, "then to grow up and function as an adult

Both Huber and Dr. Luckey are confident that the new progress report is a step toward this goal, and that it means a different way of working with children

New Office For Gas Company

A new Columbia Gas of Ohio, Inc., "satellite" service center providing customers in the southeastern Franklin County area with faster, more efficient service began operation Feb. 1 at 1440 McNaughten Rd., according to Robert E. Roll, Central District manager for the gas company.

The "satellite" service center, located between Main Street and Livingston Avenue just east of I-270, is the first of its kind for the company in the state, Roll pointed out.

HE EXPLAINED that previously gas company servicemen who handled service calls in the southeastern part of the county and nearby areas were dispatched from the company's Central District Service Center at 920 W. Goodale Blvd. This resulted in considerable travel time. Now a service foreman and an initial crew of 15 servicemen are be based permanently at the McNaughten Road Service Center to handle service orders in that area.

Roll said a five-month study prior to construction of the McNaughten Road facility indicates the new procedure will result in substantial savings to the company in travel time and transportation costs and also provide improved service to customers since the company will be able to respond to an increased number of service calls per day in the southeastern Franklin County area.

Columbia Gas of Ohio customers in the southeastern Franklin County area who wish to request gas turn-ons, turn-offs or other services should continue to contact the Central District service office in Columbus (228-5151), Roll said.

..."Sounds of Love" don't include screeching tires and grinding crashes, says your Ohio Department of Highway Safety. Give your family a gift of love this Valentine's Day by remembering to drive courteously.

It Was A Whopper Of A Good Time

It took more than two hands to handle the Burger King Whoppers eaten last Saturday by teams representing Reynoldsburg and Walnut Ridge High School.

Hands made them, hands passed them along, hands held them and hands counted them as they were devoured.

When the 'neat eat' was over the score was Walnut Ridge 19-½ and Reynoldsburg, 18-¾.

There were five students to a team and the winning Ridge five received a trophy and $50 cash.

The top eater was on the losing team. He was Sam Fluck, Reynoldsburg, who ate away five and a half of the delicious Whoppers. His teammate Paul Wade ate five while tops for Walnut Ridge was Al Dolder with five.

The rundown on the Whopper eatathon that had a 30 minute time limit was as follows: Walnut Ridge: Al Dolder, 5; Dave Luster, 4-½; Jim Schaefer, 4; Rob Hensen, 3 and Mike Chapin, 3. Reynoldsburg: Paul Wade, 5; Sam Fluck,5-½; Bill Dozier, 3-¼; Dave Martin,3 and Chuck O'Morrow,2.

The contestants were cheered on by cheerleaders and an overflow crowd that crammed into every nook and cranny of the beautiful new Burger King at 1919 Brice Rd.

NOT MANY of you know Peg Hanks.

That is your loss.

Peg has been with the Spectator Newspapers since 1958 when the papers were known as the Hartley Newspapers.

SHE'S ONE in a million - and we don't really know her that well! Those odds come from her close friends.

Peg will retire this Friday from our Classified Department.

Realtors, personnel managers and pet owners were among her special clientle on her classified beat - and that's what Peg made her job, a beat.

AND SHE played her drum to a different tune than any of us. It was at a furious pace, never letting up and all that was missing at the end of the day was a banging beat of the cymbals.

Peg's work was her hobby - a common thing among us members of what we lovingly call the 'Fourth Estate'. She and her husband Wayne have chosen an excellent place to retire - in a new home and Peg has passed middle age (sorry about that, darling, but now is no time to be ashamed of your wonderful time of life) but she's as spry today as she was when I first passed through these doors two years ago.

There have been many noteworthy stories written about our 'Fourth Estate' and somehow all seem to miss the real point of the story - that there are many Peg's like her who are never known to anyone except on the telephone, but take our word for it, her beauty will be missed in all that she did around these offices.

IT'S BROUGHT to mind one thing for me in very, straight forward and hard language - when someone mentions flowers for the living it's nice to know that there are people like Peg (can I call you Margaret, now?) Hanks who fill the bmill and are still around.

In Memoriam

Robert Lazarus, Sr.

Robert Lazarus, Sr. - A Man For All Seasons

Robert Lazarus, Sr., the quiet and self-effacing member of a famous and extra-ordinarily successful quartet of merchant brothers, died last Sunday at the age of 82. He was Chairman Emeritus of the Lazarus Store which was a relatively small family enterprise when he first worked in it as a boy of 10 for 25 cents a Saturday.

He was a brother of the late Simon Lazarus, who headed the local store until his death in 1946, and of Fred Lazarus, Jr., of Federated Department Stores, Inc., and of Jeffrey Lazarus, who headed the Shillito Store, Cincinnati, until his retirement in 1963.

His grandfather, Simon Lazarus, founded the Lazarus Store in 1851. His father, Fred Lazarus, Sr., who died in 1917, and his uncle, Ralph Lazarus, who died in 1903, were the partners whose initials are still a part of the official store name, The F. & R. Lazarus & Company.

He was a Central High School student when his older brothers, the late Simon and Fred, Jr., persuaded their father, Fred, Sr., that a general department store could be a practical venture for the family.

The change, from a business handling only men's wear and shoes on the first floor of the old Parson's Building, to a complete apparel store for men, women and children in a large new building occurred in 1909. Home departments were added in 1926.

He graduated from Ohio State University, Phi Beta Kappa, in 1912, and joined his father and brothers in the store which did a million dollars in sales that year. Fifty years later, in 1962, the greatly expanded downtown store had its first million dollar day, a milestone recorded on a gold plate that hangs in the office of the man known as Mr. Robert or R. L. to the thousands of store associates who rated him a friend as well as a boss.

He never wanted to be called anything except a good merchant. He was proudest of the esteem fellow merchants over the country accorded him.

In 1962 he was honored at a New York dinner celebrating his selection as "merchant of the year", and attended by the top retailers of America.

The small cuboctahedron, known as the "Oscar of Retailing" has been a valued addition to his office which is centered by his late father's cherry desk and hung with a collection of paintings he liked to have in view.

The sensitivity, ease of communications and shrewd judgment that contributed to his massive accomplishments as a merchant, made him equally effective as a humanitarian and civic leader.

Only the people who worked with him closely in the store, or on civic projects or humanitarian efforts knew how effective he was. His methods distracted attention from his own contributions to a success.

He was easy to talk to. There was never any executive pomp to his manner during his 61 management years.

Until he broke his hip in 1970,he toured the downtown store every day and the branches frequently, talking to salespeople and customers. His hip healed but it slowed him down.

People around the store appreciated his dry wit, his concern that people be happy in their work, his never-ending emphasis on being nice to associates and customers, his voluminous knowledge of what was selling, his "eye for color", his "head for figures", his way of cutting through red tape, his frank appraisals of people and situations.

A store buyer and Twenty Year Club member said today: "You could compare him to Harry Truman. A sweet, tough, honest guy with a lot of moxie. Only, of course, R.L. was a Republican." In referring to his personal political preferences, Robert Lazarus, Sr. said, in 1970, "I always vote a split ticket."

Metropolitan Planning was a civic cause to which business men needed to contribute time and skill, he believed.

The Metropolitan Committee that coped with the serious civic problems Columbus had just after World War II had Robert Lazarus, Sr., on its roster, and he retained his interest in this essential work of adapting a community's services to the needs of its citizens.

Like so many of the other projects he worked on, retail, civic and humanitarian, no one can identify one highway system, one street light program, or other civic modernization effort with the accolade: Robert Lazarus made that happen.

The people who worked with him just knew that good efforts seemed to jell better when he was around as a catalyst.

The Temple Israel awarded Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lazarus,Sr.,the "Brotherhood Man of the Year" award in 1970. Among the many humanitarian achievements of the two,as a couple and as individuals,four causes claimed their main interests - Children's Hospital,the Community Chest,Planned Parenthood and Education.

A placque in the lobby of Children's Hospital commemorates the long service of Robert Lazarus, Sr., as "Merchant, Friend of Children and Humanitarian." It was unveiled in May, 1970. He was a vice president of Children's Hospital from 1947 to 1972.

He and his wife, the late Hattie Weiler Lazarus, worked hard for Planned Parenthood from the day the local chapter opened in the mid-thirties. The building Planned Parenthood occupies, on East State Street, was a Lazarus family gift commemorating the 75th birthday of the late Hattie Lazarus. Mrs. Lazarus' contacts with families, in Community Chest agency work during the depression thirties, made her and her husband keenly aware of the needs in what was then a very controversial field. Robert Lazarus, Sr. was a member of the Sponsors Council of Planned Parenthood-World Population, International.

The Community Chest agencies had his active help for 33 years, starting in the early 1930's, as a working committee head and as a director. In this, he followed a family tradition.

From its family services forerunner of the 1890's, the Lazarus family has always devoted year-around effort to this cause. The building the community service agencies occupy, on East State Street, was a Lazarus Centennial Year gift, in 1951, to the Community Chest,, now the United Community Council.

Educational opportunity for young people last 10 years, by his work as a member of the First Ohio Board of Regents for Education First Ohio Board of Regents for Education beyond High School. He was an avid fan of OSU sports teams, and even more intense about expanding the campus and learning facilities of Ohio State and other Ohio colleges.

As an expression of his deep interest in education, the Lazarus family gave $100,000 to chair a professorship, in honor his 75th birthday in 1965. He was recipient of many awards from Ohio State University,including the Alumni Centennial Award in 1970.

His belief in education is reflected in the store he headed during years of great growth. Now recognized as one of the best managed on the American retailing scene, Lazarus is praised by other retailers for its executive-training techniques as much as for its exceptional customer appeal.

Robert Lazarus, Sr., believed that most of top management's time and effort should be devoted to teaching younger people how to operate successfully,creatively and ethically. He was very proud of the organization topped by 288 management executives and department managers.

Most of this top echelon of vice presidents and managers were trained by methods he endorsed, on the job, at Lazarus, after being recruited from mid-Western colleges and high schools.

930 of the Lazarus total regular staff of 8000 are members of the store's Twenty Year Club, founded in 1914. He termed it the "warm heart of the store" and, at the semi-annual dinner parties, where he told his latest collection of jokes, he always asked the experienced veterans of Lazarus retailing to "try to help the young ones. Remember your first days in this big store and give the new kids a hand."

He was a vice president and member of the Executive Committee of Federated Department Stores, Inc. Lazarus is a member store of Federated, which originated in 1929 and began its growth to major rank, as a department store group, after World War II.

Lazarus bought the Shillito store in Cincinnati in 1928. This oldest department store west of the Allegheny mountains was almost derelict at that time, but is now the Queen City's major store.

Lazarus and Shillito's joined with Abraham & Straus of Brooklyn, Bloomingdale's of Manhattan, and Filene's of Boston, in forming Federated Department Stores, Inc. Fred Lazarus, Jr., left the Lazarus store, in the mid-1940's, to become President of Federated Department Stores, Inc., as it launched the drive to retail eminence.

Federated Department Stores, Inc., now includes 14 department stores, with 115 locations, plus a discount soft goods group called Gold Circle, a discount hard goods group called Gold Triangle, a discount home group called Gold Key and the West Coast chain of Ralph's Supermarkets.

Fred Lazarus, Jr., credited with the drive that fueled the growth of Federated, utilized the judgment and sensitivity of his younger brother, Robert Sr., in making decisions about people and situations. Robert Lazarus, Sr. certainly enjoyed seeing Federated boom, but he got his main satisfaction out of seeing the hometown store become the one the hometown people liked best.

He is survived by three daughters and one son, and 14 grandchildren. His wife, Hattie Weiler Lazarus, died in 1971.

Two of his three merchant brothers also survive: Fred Lazarus, Jr., and Jeffrey Lazarus,both of Cincinnati. Ohio.

All Lazarus stores were closed during the memorial services the morning of Tuesday, 11 a.m. at Temple Israel on East Broad Street.

Free Consumer Guide Offered Older Persons

"BUYER BEWARE " has become a popular slogan in recent years, yet most people still buy at full retail prices, during the wrong seasons, and in the wrong places, according to a new "Retirement Consumer Guide" published by the American Association of Retired Persons and National Reitired Teachers Association.

Offered free as a public service of AARP-NTRA,the Guide notes that recent studies on consumer buying habits reveal that: most supermarket shoppers shop at only one market,and about half of them never use a shopping list; charge account customers purchase three times as much as cash customers and failure to read and follow instructions for mechanical goods accounts for about 40 percent of all service calls.

TO HELP consumers improve buying skills,the booklet offers money-saving tips on foods,such as meats,eggs and milk,and advises shoppers to compare nationally advertised brands with house brands of most grocery chains. "Many shoppers could save at least $200 a year by buying house brands," the Guide states.

The 46-page booklet also includes information about buying new and used automobiles, clothing mobile homes (retired people purchase 25 percent of them!) and borrowing money for these acquisitions.

FOR THOSE troubled with legitimate consumer problems the Guide details complaint procedures and ways to make complaints most effective.

For instance, the Guide advises that you "keep copies of all documents, sales slips, receipts and correspondence concerning a purchase and have them handy when you talk with persons who sold you unsatisfactory goods or services."

Prepared by AARP-NRTA consumer experts, the booklet is one of a series of "Better Retirement Guides" published by the 4.6 million-member Associations.

If you would like a free copy of the Retirement Consumer Guide, write: Consumer Guide, AARP-NRTA, 1225 Connecticut Ave. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036.

Campaign Chairman Renew Transit Efforts

John E. Fisher And William S. Guthrie have been appointed co-chairman as the first move in a campaign to obtain voter approval of the Central Ohio Transit Authority (COTA) tax levy in the May 8, primary election.

Fisher is president of the Nationwide Insurance Companies. He is a member of the COTA Board of Directors and is chairman of its Acquisition Tak Force.

Guthrie is chairman of the Buckeye Federal Savings and Loan Association. He directed a COTA campaign in the May, 1972, primary which missed approval.

COTA is seeking approval of a real estate tax levy of eight tenths of one mill for three years. The issue will be on the ballot again in the May 8,1973,primary election.

"THE CENTRAL issue and the key to the campaign we plan to put on is a matter of simple survival of the public transportation system in our community," Fisher said.

"The plain fact is that this community is in the middle of a transportation crisis. And it's getting worse.

"We know," Fisher said, "that it won't be long before the bus system will stop entirely,unless something is done."

"If that happens,"he said, "a great many people in this community will be hurt badly. The entire community will be hurt badly. It is imperative that the COTA issue be approved so that it can acquire the bus system, save it from oblivion and restore the service cuts that already have been made."

GUTHRIE POINTED out that as a result of the recent service cuts many people are having trouble getting to and from their jobs,their churches and other places.

"We are in the process of organizing a citizens' advisory committee," Gutherie said.

"And we will put together a tightly knit,well-organized campaign staff. The issue is a transit crisis."

CARE Needs Your Help

To the Editor:

Years of bitter armed conflict have ended in Vietnam,and I hope that you will permit me to invite your readers to send money to CARE that alone can make possible the massive aid we must provide.

Millions of men,women and children are struggling to stay alive amid the devastation of war. They are hungry. They need doctors,nurses and medical supplies. Countless thousands sleep in the open because their former homes have been reduced to rubble. People are in search of both missing dear ones and the means to stay alive.

CARE programs have continued in South Vietnam since 1954,and I am confident that your readers will want to use CARE to meet the monumental challenge to save lives that peace has brought. They can reach into a part of the world currently in agony by sending a contribution to: CARE Vietnam Fund,8 E. Chestnut St.,Columbus,Ohio 43215.

They personally will have made possible the delivery of food,shelter and other desperately needed aid.

Sincerely,

K Of C Takes Stand On Abortion Decision

To the Editor:

We view with great sorrow and total dismay the recent Supreme Court decision on the matter of abortion. January 22, 1973 will be a day of infamy in the history of our great country.

A Pandora's box of horrors has been opened. With the high court's ruling which liberalizes the abortion laws (by declaring unconstitutional those state laws which restrict abortion), we are moving rapidly toward a cold, calculated attack on human life at all stages of life.

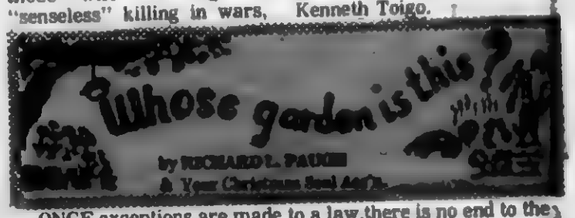
The cry of the anti-life forces is strong but it will not be silenced with this step backward in civilization. Who will be next:? the mentally defective, the physically handicapped,the aged,those with birth defects,a certain race of people,a group of people professing a certain religion? Only those butchers of human life know the next step they will take---and succeed they will unless we fight.

It is a indisputable fact that at the moment of conception a future human life has been created. By 30 days after conception (even before the mother can verify she is pregnant) the baby in the womb, even though only ¼" long, has a brain, eyes, ears, mouth, kidneys, liver, umbilical cord, and a heart pumping blood that he has made himself. And this is not human??

It is ironic that there are those who are against "senseless" killing in wars, against capital punishment, against killing of baby seals and other lower animals, but who refuse to fight against abortion.

At the Nuremberg War Crimes Trials of 1957, abortion was listed as one of the high crimes. Now our own Supreme Court has essentially decreed that it is good for humanity. Who will speak out and defend innocent human life? The Knights of Columbus will.

There should not be a question today as to how to curb or destroy human life, but instead we should face the challenge of how to protect it.



We must learn 'to provide bread for those that come to the banquet table of life"--to provide a home,education,clean water and air for all human beings.

These are tasks that can be done but it does take the best minds and the strongest arms--as well as the sensitive energies and visions of the young, and the experience and wisdom of the old.

The most basic right is the right to live. Does man think he is God that he dare to determine and decide as to who shall have that right.

To the pro-abortionists who are joyful in this Supreme Court ruling we raise this question: "If it's not alive, why kill it?,' And "If it's not a future human being, what is it?"

ONCE exceptions are made to a law,there is no end to the number of breaches possible. In spite of constant pressure from citizens across Ohio,in all walks of life,the Ohio Air Pollution Control Board lowered the quality of air in Ohio by allowing massive open burning.

Under pressure from the Ohio Farm Bureau and the contractors,officials are now allowing farmers to burn whole fields and contractors may burn brush. Under the same set of regulations,citizens living where there is government leaf pick-up,may not burn their yard rakings.

Now that there are exceptions to the law on open burning,as expected,an Ohio legislator has written House Bill 1262 which states "such (air pollution) regulations shall not restrict the open burning of household or farm refuse generated on the premises,including leaves,brush,and other vegatative refuse."

THIS BILL, by Rep. Ray Luther of Newark,was considered foolish and was possibly written to keep one of his constituents happy. However,with time scarce in the 109th General Assembly and committees doing only what is mandated,the bill had an early referral to the wrong committee (Local Government and Urban Affairs) and a quickie first hearing the week of November 29.

This late in a session no bill gets that far unless there is help from legislative leadership. That's what makes the whole mess dangerous. In the true American way,citizens will appear along with medical people committed to better public health and hopefully by the time you read this column,the bill will be dead.

THE FALL OF 1972 in Ohio has been,needless to mention,a very wet one. The leaves did their thing by turning into breath-taking colors,then falling humbly to the ground. Once ground-bound,the leaves were kept wet. Fungus spores were plentiful. In Mt. Vernon, Ohio several children were hospitalized for a variety of respiratory reasons which doctors of the area claim were caused by our old friend - leaf burning.

No matter how wonderful the smell of burning leaves,we now realize that smoke may well be bearing bad tidings into your lungs.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: If you must interfere with nature by raking leaves,pile them around your shrubs for winter protection. In the spring they will be much less in volume and will fit nicely into your new compost pile.

Wedding Photography Important

A photographer has the unique advantage of being uninvolved in the proceedings. With his experienced eye, he can duck, twist or tiptoe to capture on film (whether still or movies) the scenes he knows will tell this nuptial story.

And, before the honeymoon is over, he can have ready a professionally edited movie with titles and special effects, if the bridal couple wishes. Extra copies of the movie also can be obtained for relatives.

The wedding movies are only one part of the full range of photographic services available to bridal couples.

Formal bridal portraits for wedding announcements, portraits of the wedding party and professional candids of the wedding itself are all important parts of the complete wedding on film.

About the time you are ordering wedding invitations from the printer, Kodak photography experts suggest contacting the portrait photographer of your choice. The formal portrait sitting should be scheduled several weeks prior to the wedding day.

Once you've planned for a complete wedding photo coverage and had your portrait taken, sit back and relax. You will be sure to have lasting mementos of this important day.

Formal Wear Updated

In view of the demand by the younger generation to do its own thing, the formalwear industry has designed new, specially designed outfits for bridegrooms that, while based on the classics of the past, have been updated and aimed at the lithe, youthful figures.

Weddings that take place after six P.M. will find many of the updated full dress suits worn. These are shorter than the traditional tailcoats but have the same back treatment.

Currently it is more likely that the groom will be accompanied by his bride-to-be when he selects his wedding clothes and, as to be expected, she is usually more than an interested bystander when he makes his choice. It usually turns out to be a joint selection and harking to the past, it is very likely that his outfit will be strongly influenced by the bride's gown and by what the bridesmaids will wear.

ORDER EXTRAS

When ordering formal wedding invitations, a wise bride-to-be orders at least 10 percent more than actually expected. This covers extra souvenir mementoes for parents and close friends.

Choose the perfect gift for your wedding attendants from our Anson collection of pins, charms, tie tacs, pens and more. Free engraving and gift wrapping, too!

Miss Pat Donovan Of Bride Magazine Hosts Glicks Bridal Forum

By Betty Brown

It isn't everyday that Miss Patricia Donovan, Director of Retail Programs for Modern Bride Magazine, pays Columbus a visit.

Miss Donovan was here for the Glicks 6th Annual Bride Bridal Forum.

Miss Donovan, along with Mrs. Tess Stern, fashion commentator and Helga Isen, fashion co-ordinator, presented 500 women, some of which were young brides-to-be a memorable Sunday afternoon Feb. 7, lost in the world of bridal splendor.

The background for the fashion show was a gala gold shag carpet and opague, transluscent windows for a church-like effect.

The focus this year for the bride-to-be is on romantic, feminine touches of color with deep, dramatic tones.

Bridal gowns can also be seen with a half, bare-back and a v-neckline. I would not recommend it for the modest, conservative bride. But for those brides who are conservative and wish to have a formal cathedral wedding should check into the Piccione masterpiece, found at Cole of Columbus.

Miss Donovan, in her very feminine, but emphatic voice, felt that the bride should chose her own ensemble and the mother of the bride whould chose hers. In this way the young bride can use her own discretion .

This years bride has alot to look forward to. First of all, bridesmaids can carry umbrella's for the garden effect.

A tip to those who decide to use these festive, flowered umbrellas is to have their bridesmaids open them only on the way back down the aisle.

Remember that the country hat with long french ribbons in the back is definitely the look, even for the bride, in case she wants to get away from the traditional chapel veil.

An honorable mention should go out to Sansbury florist for their co-ordinating of the bridal bouquets. Mr. Sansbury is an artist, and I feel that his bouquets have the flair and ultra-simplicity that are needed to make that day a very special day.

Baskets are in for the bride to carry, using both painted and natural flowers. Since this years bride can have touches of color on her gown, the groom has a lot more room in his wedding wardrobe too.

Even though the traditional Prince Edward tuxedo was shown, there is now a variety of different types for the now generation. Ivory and yellow tuxes, royal blue jackets with the sensational black tuxedo pants. Any color imaginable can be used. Isn't it terrific that this is the year of the "total look" in weddings?

For the final touch to a lucious afternoon, I had the opportunity to interview Miss Donovan. She has been with Modern Bride Magazine for over a year and has hosted fashion shows all throughout the country.

Miss Donovan has a feeling for the people, their habits, preferences, manners and morals. She believes very strongly that in order for harmony to be present on that eventful day, the bride's fiance should co-operate with the pageantry and the bride should have the final say about costuming, flowers, etc..

I asked her what would be her advice for the perspective bride and she said that she felt that the bride should go to see the bridal consultant alone, without her mother, on the first trip just so she won't be influenced by too many people. When she has seen all that she likes then she should bring her mother in to help with all the details and give that good old motherly advice. Miss Donovan wants to make sure that everyone is considerate of the other party.

Pat Donovan is widowed and has 2 sons, both of which are in college. With all of her work, I don't see how she has family time, but from our discussion, both sons are outstanding and interested young members of a community.

I asked her about her views on morality and it was good to hear that even though we are in a more relaxed moralistic stage, she doesn't feel that the intrinsic moral values will change. She felt also that girls have much more of an emotional investment in a relationship, generally more so than a young man and she should value that investment.

At this point in the interview Miss Donovan borrowed a phrase from Ann Landers which was appropo to the subject: "If a young girl keeps giving samples away, the package will eventually lose its value." Some of her parting words were simple but very important for the bride-to-be. The bride needs at least 3 months to co-ordinate gown, attendants and plans with the clergy. Be sure and find out from the clergy whether one can throw rice or rose petals. Someone may not be there to clean it up. To all young brides, aim for effect, not quantity or elaborateness. Also, you do not need to break daddy's bank account. And at the very end she made it very clear that women's liberation was not one of her stronger attributes when she said, "If we feel secure enough as women, than there is no reason to underestimate the helpfulness of men."

Engagement and wedding announcements are printed in The Spectator Newspaper free of charge.

Return Of The Real Suit

From Davidow's Spring collection—a three part suit in white fribanne, with double-breasted jacket belted in navy leather over skirt with wide front pleats—short-sleeved polka dot blouse.

French wool mixture in white, navy, sand for a charming suit complete with sleeveless blouse tied at the neck.

WITH THE RETURN OF THE CLASSICS and the return of the suit in the Spring fashion picture—Davidow never had it so good. Davidow has always been famous for their classic suits in great fabrics from France, Italy, Switzerland, Scotland and England, but this Spring they have introduced exciting new blends and fibers and colors, that are out of this world.

SUITS COME on soft and easy with their own blouses, supple skirts and gently-shaped jackets. For women who prefer them, coat and dress or jacket and dress costumes are designed in the same spirit of ease—feminine, flattering, and beautiful.

COAT COSTUMES are important in the Davidow collection—there is always emphasis on weights and their combinations—like the Spring-weight coat in minty green plaid from France topping a companion lightweight wool knit dress in matching green.

ALL-WEATHER COATS were never more exciting and wearable for all occasions—champagne beige in Super suede, a marvelous new cotton suede fabric from Italy, that's so soft it feels like velvet. Another totally "now" coat stars the soft, dropped shoulder line in "Orsiana", a delectable new fabric in pastels. Ribbon, satin touches on wool, flashes of white, lapels and cuffs trimmed in the blouse or dress fabric, silk stitching on suede, soft neckline ties, jaunty brass buttons, belts are some of the subtleties.

ON THE SPORTIVE side, there's the John MacDougall collection, the boutique division of Davidow, with the most charming and versatile separates and dresses for day or night. Pants, skirts, jackets and shirts, tie in with each other or with separate shirts, skirts and smocks. Plaids, prints, checks, stripes and other patterns mingle happily or join the solids.

The possibilities are endless which all adds up to a colorful, lively and well-tailored Spring, at young down-to-earth prices. Isn't that nice to know?

Errors In Names

The society editor wishes to clarify an error regarding the article entitled "The Love of Mankind Shown at Hadassah Luncheon".

Appearing in the Jan. 24 issue of The Spectator a reference was made to a Mrs. Novak who supposedly had contracted polio while visiting Jerusalem. I also stated that it was Mrs. Novak who had visited Jerusalem 19 times. All of this is factual material except for the fact that it was not Mrs. Novak, but Mrs. Elmer Swack that this all happened to. Mrs. Swack resides in Zanesville. The editor wishes to apologize for this mistake.

Individualized Treatment At OYC . . .

In Zone II the students is expected to begin dealing with the problems which brought him into conflict with the law. Staff members will help him learn what his difficulties are and how he can solve them.

The period in Zone II is 30 days and the student must show continued improvement in his behavior and some progress toward solving his problems.

HE MUST RECEIVE 83 percent of the possible points to be advanced to Zone III.

Before moving up,he must again set certain contract goals for this period.

IN THIS THIRD zone the student is expected to show clear progress with increasing responsibility for solving his problems positively and more independently.

This zone lasts for 42 days and it requires that a boy get 87 percent of the possible points.

Zone IV is a preparation period for release from the institution. More privileges are awarded and the regional office is alerted that he will be coming home.

WHILE IN ZONE IV, the boys are evaluated week by week and must achieve 85 percent of the possible points.

Responsibilities and privileges increase as a boy moves through the various zones. His progress is noted not only on the card he carries but also by the clothes he wears.

In Zone I the traditional uniform of grey and khaki is worn; in Zone II the same slacks,a colored shirt and a type of ski jacket. As they move up the clothes get less institutional in appearance.

WHILE PROGRESSING through the zones the students must also set release goals.

These goals consist of identifying the major problem or problems and how they relate to the community. Once the problems are uncovered,plans must be mapped out for solving these problems. The student must complete a detailed plan of activities and goals to accomplish while on his furlough (while in ZoneIII) and he must make a complete report of his furlough to the Student Program Committee. While in Zone IV he will complete detailed plans for his release.

Starkey said it usually takes a boy at least three months to go from Zone I to IV.

HE FEELS THE system is valuable because it lets a young boy know exactly where he stands at all times.

"This is very important because it provides them with security. They know how they stand and what it takes to move up so that they can go home."

Starkey said the system makes the boys responsible in that they have to make the decisions about how they are going to behave.

If he becomes a discipline problem or does something seriously wrong in any of the zones,he automatically goes back to Zone I for 30 days. If he get the 80 per cent of the points he may then be returned to the zone he was in.

"WE DON'T have the answer for every boy,but the behavior modification program will reach almost every delinquent."

Starkey said another plus to the program is that it involves everyone. "Until now most of the boys progress was rated on his behavior in the cottage. Now everyone he comes in contact with has a say.

"If a teacher in the academic or vocational program gives a boy an unsatisfactory mark then they must explain why. This opens the channels of communication–gets the two talking.

"IF HE CONTINUES getting unsatisfactory marks in one certain class it can be pinpointed very quickly and we can attempt to discover what the problem is and what can be done."

Starkey said the best part was that the boys—"are really up on this program."

"The program will work. We feel we have an individual treatment program for each boy here,despite our size."

ANOTHER OF THE OYC's institutions stressing the individual treatment program is Scioto Village for girls.

Also resembling a college campus,the one time resort is located north of Columbus along the banks of the Scioto River.

"Our people care about kids. Everybody at Scioto Village is involved in treatment,even the carpenters and maintenance men," according to Miss Jacqueline Whetstone,superintendant.

THIS TOTAL INVOLVEMENT is made a little easier by the fact that everyone knows what type of girl they're dealing with,knows their role and function as a staff member.

This is made possible because of a diagnostic program known as I-level (Interpersonal Maturity Level Classification System).

This system is based on the theory that there are seven levels of personality ddevelopment. It begins with the infant and progresses upward to a fully adjusted individual.

LEVEL 1 IS the baby who demands immediate gratification of its physical needs. The infant is aware only of itself and its needs,according to Gerald O'Hara,chief of staff development of the OYC.

At Level 2 the individual sees others as givers or withholders and is unaware of the effects his behavior has on others.

The individual may be passive and withdraw when denied or may become aggressive and injure the withholder,O'Hara said.

THIS PERSON feels no remorse and cannot be critical of his own behavior. He is very impulsive.

Those at Level 3 are aware their behavior affects getting what they want,but they see people as objects to be manipulated.

These individuals have a set of rules by which they operate but will not accept blame for their trouble.

AT THE I-4 LEVEL a person has a set of standards to judge their own behavior and that of others. They will often adopt standards of people they admire, whether the standards are positive or negative.

People at I-5 have empathy for others. In the previous levels an individual has had so many personal problems that they could not relate to others.

The I-6 knows himself,his role and why he is playing his role.

O'HARA DESCRIBED the I-7 as the perfectly adjusted ideal individual.

All people fall somewhere on the continuum (I-1 through I-7) based on how they perceive the world and themselves.

There are three assumptions underlying the I-level approach. First,all delinquents are not alike; delinquents can be subdivided into types; and each type carries clear cut implications for the kind of treatment needed.

Most delinquents fall into Level 2,3 or 4. Delinquent behaviors would be subtypes in one of these three levels.

For example,if a youngster is classified as an I-3,CFC or cultural conformist,she is searching for structure,dominated by need for social approval,has a low self-esteem,conforms to external pressure and has a superficial relation with others.

MUST OF THE pregnant girls are CFC's who were willing to do anything for friendship and approval,Miss Whetstone said.

The value of this system is that it not only evaluated how a person perceives the world and places him at a specific level,but also prescribes a treatment plan.

"IT DOESN'T MEAN a person is better or worse because of the level he has reached. There are just different problems to be dealt with. We have two goals–to improve a child's perception level and to make a delinquent socially acceptable," O'Hara said.

He said a treatment plan for each level and subtype has been developed and distributed to all staff members working with a child. This plan includes goals,family variables,location of community support,job and school recommendations,peer group and recreation variables and kinds of control needed.

At Scioto Village a girl is placed in a cottage based on her I-level and the subtype she has been classified to,according to Miss Whetstone.

SINCE GIRLS of similar behavior are placed together in a cottage,it is easier for the cottage parent to control the environment.

"There is no one approach for meeting the needs of kids,"according to Bill Cook,assistant superintendent.

Behavior modification is used with some girls while others are on a step program through which they receive points during the week.

"We try everything to reach a girl," Miss Whetstone said.

The team approach is the biggest change she has seen in their 20 years in the system. The team in the cottage consists of the youth leader,recreation leader,teacher and guidance counselor.

They meet once a week and review each girl's progress and problems. Sometime the girl is called in to discuss the problem and solutions.

"When I came two people stayed in a cottage 24 hours a day,seven days a week with only four days off a month. Once a woman was in one cottage 59 days without any time off.",she said.

Cook also stressed the improvement in the educational programs saying that 13 years ago there were 10 teachers and now there are 31 in the fully accredited high school.

HUNDREDS OF girls have graduated from the high school and gone on to business school or college,according to Miss Whetstone.

"The reading program is fantastic," Cook said. Fifty-one per cent in the individualized reading program show marked improvement. They grow six and one half months for each month in the program,he said.

"One 11th grade girl was supposed to be hostile and retarded. She was reading at a third grade level and under the program her reading skills jumped seven years in one semester. She was salutatorian for her graduating class,"Miss Whetstone said.

THERE IS A vocational program for the two percent of the girls too far behind in school to catch up or who are not interested in school. There is training for a bakery, hotel management, cake decorating, cafeteria and laundry.

"In the hotel each room has carpet of a different fiber or a bare floor so they can learn to care for all types. They will have a marketable skill when they go home, she said.

"We're also trying to set up a halfway house on the grounds so the girls learn they must be responsible for their own actions before they leave. There would be a chaperone,but they would be almost totally on their own."

THERE IS A campus council with representatives from the cottages who relate to the administration what the girls want.

"A few years ago the council said they wanted saddle shoes. We didn't believe it so we polled the whole school and 85 per cent wanted saddle shoes."

"A lot of what we do is person to person; earning each others respect," Cook said. "If you treat the girls as you want to be treated they begin to learn social graces."

O'HARA SAID, "We still see the kids as individuals. We're not pigeonholing them, they're still human beings. If we lose sight of that we're in trouble."

The focus of the OYC is to institutionalize kids quickly if they must be institutionalized so that treatment can begin immediately.

Providing the best possible treatment plan for each child during the say in an institution is the OYC's concern, but there is also a concern about programs which will keep youngsters out of places like Fairfield and Scioto Village.

"IT'S AN INFERIOR choice to send a child to an institution. It's better to treat them close to home so they learn to deal with their problems in their own environment," Tim Bamfield chief psychologist of the Juvenile Digeostic Center said.

"There must be more emphasis on prevention by the Community Services division of the commission, Starkey said. "We've got to try and keep kids out of the system. When we get the kids we can only treat the symptons. The cause is back in the community and that's where real treatment should be."

Community Services and prevention programs will be the subject of part three of this series.

ONE OF THE OLDEST buildings in the OYC system is the school house at Scioto Village which was built in 1897. An auditorium and additional classrooms have been added. Even with an ancient building officials feel the girls are getting a quality education which equals or surpasses other schools. There are 31 teachers accredited in the fields they are teaching.

Invoice, Mid-Ohio Regional Planning Commission per capita membership fee - 16,374 population at 20 cents per capita, $3,276, approved.

Preliminary plat approval, Today Homes, National Homes, James Thompson, attorney:

Mr. Thompson presented an amended plat to the Commission, noting that variances would be requested for lots 11, 12, 13, and 36, due to topography of the lots.

He pointed out that all the data required by the Subdivider's Ordinance was included on the plat, and that his client would comply with the Subdivider's Ordinance regarding the improvements on Taylor Road, and that they would improve the road from their north property line, south to Main Street.

The Mayor stated that it was his information that National Homes had made a commitment to the Licking County Township Trustees that they would improve Taylor Road as soon as any construction is begun.

The Comprehensive pPlan was referred to, and it was determined that Taylor Road is designated as a major thoroughfare, and therefore the plat could not be accepted since it did not allow for the required 60' building set backs along Taylor Rd.

The applicant withdrew the plat until revisions could be made which woudd conform.

Discussion: The plat of Coronado Woods was brought back before the Commission by Mr. Thompson to discuss notations made by the City Engineer regarding distances between some of the buildings which do not conform to the Code.

The developers stated that the reasons were because the units are off-set rather than customary row houses.

It was agreed that their plan would present itself more esthetically, but they were reminded that they had agreed that no more variances would be requested.

The plans will be revised and brought back to the Commission.

Cliff House Ceramics Sets The Pace

Today's Ceramics... Tomorrow's Heirlooms

CERAMICS- the world's most fascinating hobby! It must be, with more and more people every week turning to Ceramics for an evening of enjoyment.

It was Christmas in September at Cliff House Ceramics, 7374 E. Main St., Reynoldsburg and it is now Valentines Day and Easter in February.

The "think ahead" people are working on these beautiful things now, so when that day, Easter, comes , all will be ready.

THE SHELF looks like a Bunny Ranch with each one doing something different - one pushing a wheelbarrow egg, one pulling a cart, one sitting on a box top, one just holding an egg - but all doing their share to make a Happy Easter for someone.

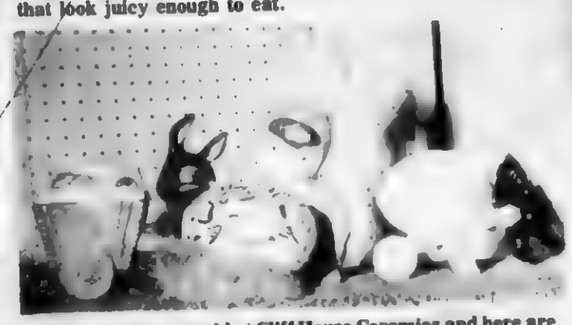
Behind the scenes at Cliff House Ceramics, Chuck and Marie Selkow, Ruth Wells and Jeff Wells, work to see that things are in order. Jeff, a junior at Eastland Vocational School, pours the greenware and is proud of the way it looks. Good greenware is the basis for good finished pieces.

Ruth, his mother, is a competent teacher, having once owned her own studio in Michigan. Chuck Selkow is the man who makes the lamp light, the Christmas trees glow and lamps out of almost anything. Without him Cliff House Ceramics would be just another studio. He fixes most of the "goofs".

MARIE SELKOW is the owner, teacher, part time pourer and even sweeps the floor when needed. She feels that a good understanding of basic ceramic is very important and often stops in the class to review the properties and procedure of underglaze, glasses, stains and oven glazes. The studio is located at 7374 East Main St., Reynoldsburg. in the rear of the Culligan Water Company building.

The studio hours are 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday and 6:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

Come join in the fun - call us at 866-5544 or come visit the Cliff House Ceramic studio.



Remember - today-s ceramics are tomorrow's heirlooms.

OWNER MARIE SELKOW shows off a basket of apples that look juicy enough to eat.

RUTH WELLS is a top ceramics instructor and many of her pupils are making ceramics today that will be heirlooms tomorrow.

IT'S AN Easter world at Cliff House Ceramics and here are some of the unique Easter gifts that can still be made in time for the holiday.

FOR A LONG time, now, I have told you about the various lounge acts that have appeared at the Lincoln Lodge Motel. About 99 percent of the time, most of the acts have been highly entertaining and enjoyable.

However, I have never told you that the Lincoln Lodge is a three ring circus and a spirited carnival all rolled into one big ball of fun. There is more going on at Lincoln Lodge than any other ten spots Around Town.

Last Sunday evening I dropped in for their Bier Stube. Ye gads, what a ball. This is their Sunday night promotion with a German theme. All of the food, served buffet style is German, the band is German and it is just one big happy time.

First the band. Actually it is a duo, consisting of Paul Di Gioia on the electrified accordion, and Roger Hummel on drums. They play all the old German drinking songs, as well as many Americian sing - along - songs, plus music from other lands Around the World. When it gets right down to it all, you name it, and they will play it. The group is not only good, but what a hilarious fun duo. I had a ball just watching them.

NEXT IS the food. I'm sure I am stretching a point, but it looked as if there were about two tons of it on the buffet table. There was Vinier Schnitzel, Rhum Schnitzel, Brat Wurst, about a half dozen types of sausages, german hot potato salads, several kinds of German cheeses, HessischiLdiefor-wurst, which is a very expensive German Ham, German chocolate cake, apple sturdel and a tree of old fashion German pretzels. All of this, plus all the pitchers of beer you can drink, for one low price. It can't be beat anywhere. This goes for the food, the entertainment and the atmosphere. The dining room is really decorated in a festive atmosphere. I'll tell you something else, the waitressess add a lot of fun to their Bier Stube. All of them are so friendly, and most of them get into the act, either singing or dancing.

Many customers brought all the kids along. They loved it. Young or old, you will, too. That's a darn good bet.

Friday nights, Lincoln Lodge has the Seafood Jamboree. As with the Bier Stube, they go all out, both with the food and the decor. This is another evening you can count on to be extremely enjoyable. Also on Fridays, there is dancing in the ballroom to a good dance able outfit, playing good music for dancing and listening. No rock and roll, that's for sure.

Another wonderful experience at Lincoln Lodge is their Sunday Brunch. Here again the tables are loaded with delicious tempting food. And with all their other specials, the price is right.

Here's another tip, just drop in for dinner some evening. I did, last week, and selected the Yankee Pot Roast, baked potato, and a delicious salad with roquefort dressing. This meal just couldn't be any better. The pot roast was out of this world. I can still savor the taste.

One of the reason for all of this is that Chef Miller is back at the .Lodge. Miller has been head chef there for many years before being transfered. He has been gone, if my memory is correct, about three years. Chef Miller has been back for a month, and believe me, the food is great. This is true for the Friday night Seafood Jamboree, the Sunday Brunch, The German Bier Stube and most of all, the lunches and dinner. Chef Miller always has at least two specials on the menu for dinner.

Take your choice, or pick them in all, and I'll guarantee you, that you will have the time of your life at prices that won't pinch your pocket book.

The only thing that may get pinched is your belt from all the truely tempting food.

Lincoln Lodge is really a three ring circus every day of the week. Helping to make it so this week, is the talented and sexy Jo Kiser is the lounge. What a show this gal puts on.

If you are not in a good mood when you walk into the Lincoln Lodge, I promise that you will be, when you leave.

..I THOUGHT I know about most the better places Around Town. But the following is a case in point, that I learn something new everyday. What I learned the other day, I want to pass on to you, dear readers. I discovered a spot, that I didn't know existed. It is called the Cave Lounge. It's location makes it one of the best keep secrets in Columbus. The Cave Lounge is located at 3680 E. Fifth Ave. However, it is not on East Fifth Ave. It is located on Minch Dr, just north of Fifth Ave. between North American and the viaduct.

Gene Evans just took the place over about two months ago, and he has set out to have Columbus discover the Cave. Now, its name is going to fool you. The interior is no more like a cave than Fort Knox is a motel. The cave Lounge is a lovely spot inside.

It is fully carpeted, has a warm, cozy atmosphere, yet it will seat over a hundred people. There is a large bar, and a rather large dance floor.

Entertainment is provided on Friday and Saturday by the swinging Changing Tymes. This outfit is no stranger to the night people of Columbus. They have worked at many of the top local clubs and motels. In fact, I just reviewed them for the third time, not to long ago. They play all types of music, from country to blues, and do an excellent job on all of it.

The new owner, Gene Evans is taking his first plunge into the night club business. He is very concerned when it comes to pleasing the customers. Gene has spared no horses in accomplishing his goals.

BESIDES having top entertainment, Gene has top help as well. His manager is a lucious blond who would be an asset to any business. Her name is Sue Carson and she checks in at 5' 5" with a 36-22-36 figure. Gene has also installed a dancing barmaid. This is a cute redhead that is really stacked. Besides mixing your favorite drink, Vicky mixes in a few dance steps for the customers.

I am going to tell you more about this place later, but stop in some evening soon. I fell that most of you do not know about this place.

ACT II

By BETTY DRAGONETTE

One of the all-time best selling American classic books "Tobacco Road" by Erskine Caldwell was adapted to play form and ran eight years on Broadway. It has had several revivals and a well attended road show. Now,you must realize this was in the Thirties and Erskine Caldwell's work was considered vulgar and scandalous. So,naturally it was the thing to do to go see it. Today,it would create no stir whatsoever if it appeared on prime time television.

Curtain Players is presenting it at the Nature Barn of Sharon Woods Metropolitan Park February 9,10,16,and 17 at 8:30. The location is North on Cleveland Avenue past 270 on the left hand side of the road. There is a sign at the road,so you can't miss it.

In the play Jeeter Lester is always talking about burning off the broom sedge so he can plant a crop. I am told scenic designer Jeff Link has created an exciting setting which includes sand and broom hedge for atmosphere.

Costumes promise to be in keeping with the period,with one exception. Jean Miller,who plays Ada Lester,has a broken foot and director Barb Boylan tells me it is pretty hard to disguise a modern cast. But the show must go on!

Tryouts for "The Matchmaker" will be conducted at Players Club,549 Franklin Ave. by Jerry Ness Sunday,Feb. 11 at 2 and Monday,Feb. 12 at 7:30. There are nine men and seven women in the cast.

Also at Players Club,"Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" February 9 and 10 at 8:00p.m.,February 11 at 7,February 13,14,15,16 and 17 at 8. For reservations call 224-6971.

Symphony Orchestra Marks Fund Drive

The Orchestra's General Manager, Nat Greenberg, announced the fund's goal of $150,000.

Over 100 campaign workers attended the event,including this year's Campaign Chairman,Fred von Stade; the Divisional Chairmen Doug Luke, Industrial, Mrs. Alice Bentley, Individual-Special, Mrs. Douglas Avery, Individual, Dr. Frederick Elder; Professional; and representatives from 30 Columbus Symphony Women's Association Units. Columbus Symphony Women's Association Units.

Under the able direction of Evan Whallon,the Columbus Symphony Orchestra is seen and heard by over one million Central Ohioans each year. In addition to the 18 subscription concerts featuring the world's greatest artists,the Orchestra gives dozens of free public concerts and maintains an extensive musical education program provided free to city schools.

Proceeds from this year's campaign will help to fund these important services to the community.

The Orchestra is an important factor in this community's cultural life and is a major attraction to new business and area growth,"he added.

Those interested in donating money or time are invited to contact the Columbus Symphony Orchestra's office at 200 East Town St. or phone 224-7774.

"We hope to complete the drive within 30 days," Mr. van Stade said. "The Columbus Symphony Orchestra and its beautiful music belongs to the people of central Ohio. We are optimistic they will support us as generously now as they have during past campaigns.

1972-73 Hunting Season

The hunting season has ended with the exception of grouse and it closes February 24, 1973. If you would like to chance your luck hunting this exciting game bird, try the hill country of southern Ohio.

I like the Wolfe Creek Wildlife Area located 7 miles southeast of McConnellsville, Ohio along state route 78. You'll find grouse in brushy areas, cutover timber stands, and wooded areas.

A free map of this public hunting area is available from the Division of Wildlife Office 1500 Dublin Rd. Columbus, Ohio.

Ice Fishing

1. Two inches of ice will support one man on foot; three will support a group of people in single file, and seven and a half inches will support a car or truck (two gross tons)

2. New ice is stronger than old, and ice formed by direct freezing of lake water is stronger than old ice formed from melting snow.

3. River and stream ice is about 15 percent weaker than lake or pond ice.

4. Slush ice is about one-half as strong as clear blue ice.

5. Removal of snow from the ice surface will increase its thickness during subsequent freezes.

6. Ice thickness is not always an accurate measure as to the strength of safeness.

Ice fishing Regulations

As a matter of safety to others enjoying the out of doors on that icy pond or lake, no fisherman may use a hole larger than 12 inches in diameter. The maximum of "Tip Ups" allowable is six, and each must be marked with the owners or users name and address.

A "Tip Up" is any device consisting of a hook and line attached to a spring or other mechanism which is capable of raising a small flag or other signal when a fish is biting or hooked. In addition, as true throughout the year, a fisherman may use not more than two fishing lines whether fastened to a pole, a rod and reel or hand held.

All shelters, permanent or temporary, must also be marked with the names and address of the owner or user.

The best ice fishing occurs the first few weeks after good ice is formed. Here's a tip, look for snow covered ice and cut a hole where the snow is deepest.

Don't forget to try farm ponds as well as larger lakes. Have an enjoyable outing and don't forget to dispose of that empty bait container, sandwich wrapper or coffee cup properly.

Fishing tip for that special boy

You know it's a great thrill when that boy or girl of yours catches a fish for the first time. To help them along have them follow this basic method.

1. Don't use a hook larger than the fishes mouth they're trying to catch. Most sunfish and bluegills have a mouth no larger than a dime.

2. Don't use a float or bobber that a fish can't easily pull under the surface of the water, and the last tip. Clamp a small weight six inches above the hook and heavy enough only to hold the float upright and keep the bait off bottom and snag free.

I've watched a lot of kids fishing along stream banks and ponds, and almost every time their hook and bobber are too darn big for the size of the fish they hope to catch.

Don't worry about the small hook. With it they can catch fish up to ten pounds and bigger. Ask your dealer to recommend proper size equipment. They'll be glad to help.

Fish I.D. Publication Available

The Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Wildlife has recently made available Publication No. 334, "Fish Identification". The publication contains 28 fish drawings with accompanying identification characteristics and the current angler state record size, location and date of catch.

Copies of "Fish Identification", Publication No. 334, may be obtained by writing to; Publications Center, Ohio Department of Natural Resources, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Tips For Sportsmen

PERMITS FOR RACCOONS REQUIRED

Bill Crow, Acting Law Enforcement Supervisor for the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, Division of Wildlife, District Two, advises that during the open season these animals need not be held under permit but after the close of the season on raccoons all such animals possessed without ap ermit are possessed illegally.

Persons who have legally acquired raccoons during the hunting and trapping season must have permits to keep such animals after the close of the season.

Interested persons should contact the resident game protector in their area for permit applications or request them from District Two Wildlife Headquarters, 952 Lima Avenue, Findlay, Ohio 45840, telephone 422-6757.

SPRING TURKEY SEASON

Ohio hunters thinking ahead to the spring turkey season can apply for hunting permits now, the division of wildlife of the Department of Natural Resources announced. Application blanks are available at the division's Columbus headquarters and all district wildlife offices, Division Chief, Dan C. Armbruster said.

Applications will be accpeted now through February 16. A check or money order for $5.35 must be submitted with each application. Hunters planning to bring a guest must include an additional $5.35 check or money order. Armbruster said hunters submitting more than one application, and names submitted more than once as either a permit applicant or guest will be disqualified. Landowners, tenants and land managers or their children do not need a wild turkey permit while hunting on land where they reside.

A public drawing for 2,000 permits will be held at Division of Wildlife headquarters, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus at 10:00 A.M., February 28, 1973.

Addresses of the district wildlife offices are: District One, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus, Ohio 43215, District Two, 952 Lima Avenue, Findlay, Ohio 45840; District Three, 912 Portage Lakes Drive, Akron, Ohio 44319; District Four, 360 E. State Street, Athens, Ohio 45701; and District Five, 1076 Old Springfield Pike, Xenia, Ohio 45385.

Dates for the 1973 wild turkey hunt are: Period 1 - May 2 through May 5 and, Period 2 - May 9 through May 12. The turkey hunt area includes Adams, Athens, Gallia, Hocking, Jackson, Lawrence, Meigs, Monroe, Perry, Pike, Ross, Scioto, Vinton and Washington Counties. Hunters are limited to one turkey during the season.

CHANGES IN OHIO WILDLIFE REGULATIONS

The Ohio Wildlife Council approved recommendations of Dan C. Armbruster, chief of the division of wildlife of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources, in adopting several changes in Ohio wildlife regulations following a public hearing in Columbus Wednesday.

Among the changes adopted is one prohibiting the use of commercial fishing nets in the vicinity of Camp Perry Firing Area in Ottawa County, and around the Bass Islands in Ottawa County, Kelleys Island and Ruggles Reef in Erie County, and West Sister Island and Maumee Bay in Lucas County.

Also approved was a regulation increasing the minimum size of channel catfish caught commercially to 15 and one-half inches from 14 inches.

The Council also rescinded the commerical fishing regulation establishing a maximum size limit of 10 and one-quarter inches on commercial taking of white bass. The only commercial size limit on white bass will be a minimum of nine inches. Also rescinded was a wildlife regulation governing the renewal of commercial fishing licenses.

The action on the regulations concerning white bass and commercial fishing license renewals were the result of a decision handed down by the Franklin County Common Pleas Court January 9, according to Armbruster.

The court action was initiated by Frank Reynolds, owner of Reynolds Fisheries of Toledo, who sought to restrain the division of wildlife from enforcing certain commercial fishing regulations and to have certain regulations declared null and void.

Pacers-Cats Go At OCC Title

East-Eastmoor-South Still In Cage Title Race

EAST'S Tigers ride tall in the saddle since last Saturday as the tall and talented aggressive Eastend team won its joust with Bishop Ready's Silver Knights for control of the area roundball title.

The East win was the second by a Columbus league East side team over Ready's state Class AA champs. Eastmoor also turned the tables on the Knights earlier this season.

IT GAVE the Tigers impetus for its Friday at 7 p.m. clash when they host Eastmoor in a down to the wire city league game.

East and South are co-leaders of the City loop with 9-1 records while Eastmoor is at 9-2 and Linden is at 8-2. Linden is at Marion Franklin Friday with hopes of keepings its chance win or tie chances alive.

Co-leader South travels to Brookhaven (1-9) and should come off with a win to keep the tie or go into the lead if East falls.

Walnut Ridge was relegated to less than a runnerup spot in its 57-56 loss to Eastmoor Friday.

East still has North on the schedule for Feb. 16 while South has Mohawk the same night.

THE TOP notcher in the Ohio Capital Conference will be the Westerville at Delaware fracas in a fight for a title or title tie. The Pacers are on top at 11-1 while Westerville trails at 10-2. A Pacer win would clinch the title since only one game remains on the schedule after this week. A Westerville win would tie it with the Feb. 16 games deciding the title clear sailing or tie if one of the leaders falls. No teams but Westerville and Delaware are still in contention for the title.

The annual Delaware-Mt. Vernon clash last week was the predicted hair-raiser as Delaware picked off a last second 43-41 win. The Cats handled Reynoldsburg with ease in an 85-56 romp over the Raiders who are 1-11 in the league and 1-15 on the season.

Delaware, Westerville, Whitehall and Mr. Vernon are the only Ohio Cap teams sporting more wins than losses for the season.

GROVE CITY all but took the Mid-8 with its win last Friday and comes down the home stretch against Hilliard and Urbana as its record popped to 11-1 league and 15-1 overall.

Bexley's 10-2 league and 12-3 season rank next as the other Mid-8 teams are out of the title running.

As expected Bishop Ready nailed down another title in the Central Catholic League and has two non-league tilts this weekend with state rated teams.

With tournament time ahead it could be good that these title chasers are busy as they'll be at full steam going into the tourneys with league titles in the balance.

THE NETWORK: The Class A and AA teams drew for tourney spots this week but the results were too late for press time. Spectator area teams in Class A are Columbus Academy,St. Charles,Lickheights,Ohio Deaf and Pickerington. Class AA teams are Bexley,Hartley,Ready,Grandview,Mifflin,Mohawk,DeSales,Watterson and Wehrle. Tournament play starts Feb.21. The A teams will compete at Grove City,Lancaster and Mt. Vernon while the AA teams will start the road to the state title at Groveport,Westland,Newark and Marion.

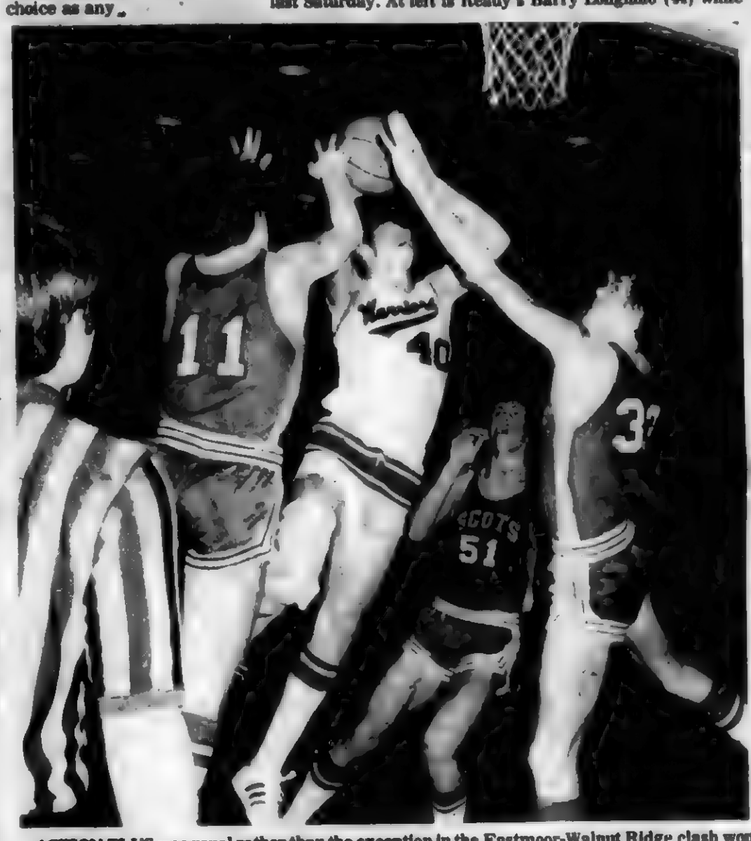
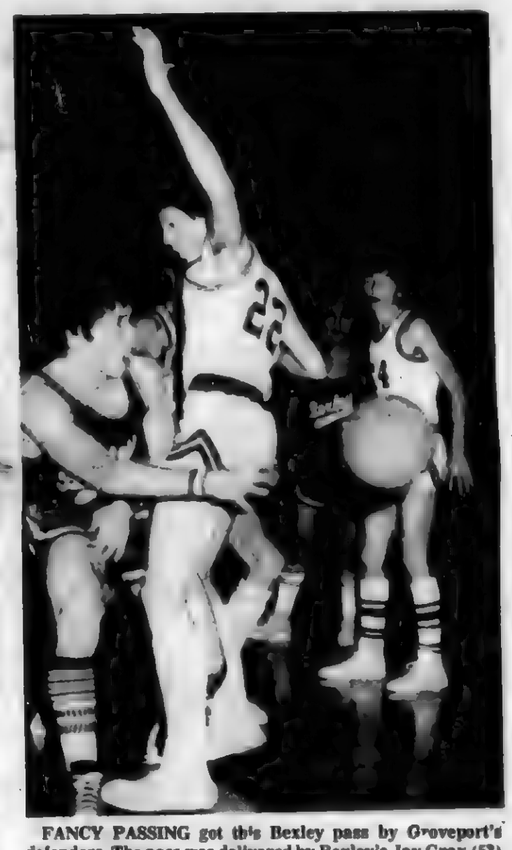
IT MAY seem too early to make predictions for the various state title chases but we'll go out on the limb and declare either East or South as top contenders in AAA while Grove City could be a dark horse.



Bishop Ready could be good again in Class AA if they can get over the fact that their defeats this season were handed them by excellent teams.

THE COLUMBUS city's junior high divisions ended last week with Dominion (11-3) on top in the north and Franklin (12-1) riding the south top spot.



Who's the best player in the area this year? That's something we'll leave to the reporters who cover every game. South's Brian Williams would probably be as good a choice as any.

EAST'S Terry Jameson (51) got his share of rebounds against Bishop Ready's State AA champs and here's how he handled this one. East's Mike Hall (45) waits for Jameson to come down while Ready players in white are Rob Cumberlander (54), Timmy Jones (12), Chuck Seipel (30) and Anthony Walker (42). (Photos by John Stafford.)

THE BALL must come down since it went up declare these three players in the Eastmoor-Walnut Ridge game. That's Mark Kraker (12) Eastmoor, battling Walnut Ridge's Todd Lee (33) and Nick Vollman (53) for the ball.

High School Papers Eligible For Contest

Plans for its annual contest for high school newspapers and student reporters have been announced by the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children,the Easter Seal organization.

The Society will award the local high school,with the best complete coverage of the 1973 Easter Seal campaign,a cash prize and a certificate of merit. The student reporter who writes the best feature or editorial on Easter Seal services will also win a cash prize and a certificate of merit.

Packets of background materials to be used during the campaign,which starts on March 1 and continues until April 22 (Easter Sunday),have been mailed to editors of all school newspapers in high schools throughout the city and county. The deadline for submitting material for the contest is April 30.

The winner of the 1972 high school newspaper contest was The Crimson and Blue,Grove City High School. Two staff members of this newspaper, Penny Barrowman and Juanita Darling, also won the student reporter awards.

All published material from the school newspapers received by the Society and after local winners are declared,will be forwarded to the National Society for Crippled Children for a national Easter Seal editor's competition. The Crimson and Blue placed second,last year,in this national contest.

Unions Endorse Sensenbrenner

The initial group of community leaders accepting co-chairmanship for Richard Sensenbrenner's Columbus City Council campaign has been announced.

The first three individuals announced are co-chairmen Harry Mayfield (President Columbus-Franklin County AFL+CIO Central Labor Body), Victor Everett(area Teamster Union head), and Rev. M. J. Mitchell, founder of Boys' Own Youth Shelter (BOYS) and spiritual leader of Pilgrim Babtist Church.

Additional campaign leadership personalities, including men and women from throughout Columbus community life, will be announced following filing of Sensembrenner's petitions with the Franklin County Board of Elections.

Pantomimist To Be At Otterbein

The incomparable Marcel Marceau, world's greatest living exponent of the Art of Mime, will appear as a Guest Artist at Otterbein College Thursday, Feb. 15, at 8:15 p.m. in Cowan Hall.

The pantominist will include in his performance the poignant characterization of "Bip," the battered clown with the flower-sprouting hat, and his summation of Man, called "Youth, Maturity, Old Age and Death."

In addition to a number of national tours, Marceau has appeared in nearly all of the major European capitals, has toured extensively in Latin America, the Far East and Israel and Australia.

Deffet's Ivywood Wins Over Minerva Park

Franklin County,Common Pleas Court Judge Myron B. Gessaman,has once again ruled in favor of "Ivywood" - a federally subsidized low'moderate rent housing development in northeast Columbus near Minerva Park.

In a written opinion issued this week,Gessaman said he could find no evidence to support allegations of harm or damage to plantiffs (Village of Minerva Park) from completion of the bitterly contested project. The controversial 124 unit,$1.7 million apartment community is being built by fair housing pioneer George H. Deffet,40 year old chief executive of Deffet Companies,a multi-regional real estate development firm,along with the NAACP as non-profit sponsor.

Gessaman,scheduled to retire from the bench February 8,heard testimony on the Ivywood case for a second time earlier this month. The village of Minerva Park,which had brought suit against Deffet to halt construction,appealed Gessaman's initial ruling in favor of Ivywood. A three judge appeals court panel,then found for Minerva Park,and returned the case to Common Pleas for rehearing late last year.

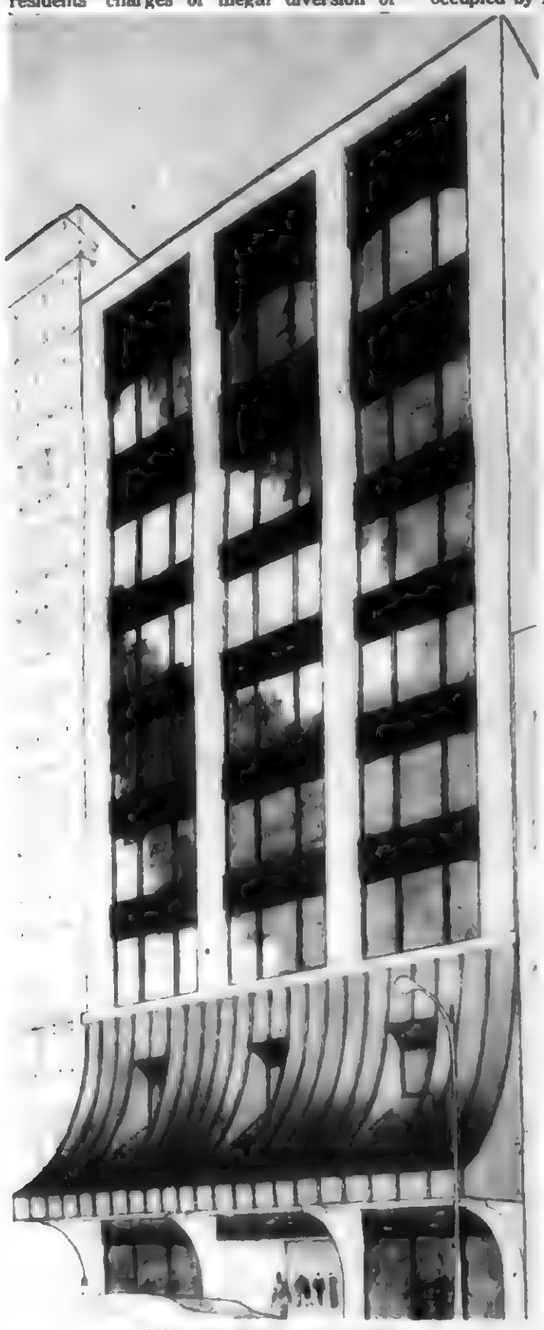
Major issues in legal battles that have continued over a 14 month period,were residents' charges of illegal diversion of water onto private property and whether Deffet could use certain underground storm systems that indirectly were tapped into private drains. On these issues, Gessaman said,plaintiffs had failed to sustain the burden of proof.

Deffet and other proponents of the section 236 rent subsidy project (part of subsidy programs recently frozen by the federal government) claim suburban opposition was racially motivated.

During the height of controversy,which captured national attention,residents of Minerva Park sought assistance from local Congressmen and even the White House to halt federal funding. When the project was funded in November,1971,it was hailed as a "landmark case" by HUD Ohio Regional Director,Fergus A. Theibert.

Theibert was recently fired from his director's post. No official reason has been given by HUD,but there is speculation Theibert's decision to fund Ivywood was a factor in his dismissal.

Ivywood will be ready for first occupancy by mid-February. When completed in early summer,the garden and townhouse apartment community will have rents structured from $101-$161. Only twenty percent of the development's 124 units can be occupied by low income group families.



Channel One Expanding With New Affiliate

CHANNEL ONE, Inc., Video Real Estate Network, has announced the appointment of G.J. Brant & Co. as a new affiliate in its expanding network. According to Joseph Brant of that firm ,we are participating in an innovation which will alter the entire real estate industry.

"With closed circuit television", says Mr. Brant, "we can now close the gap between the time a customer thinks about relocating to Columbus and his decision to actually make the move."

THE AGENCY will be utilizing complete facilities for videotaping and television screening. The prospective home buyer will be presented with a video and audio commentary on a variety of properties indifferent price ranges. Every home is seen inside and out. The camera takes the viewer on a walking tour of the whole house, pausing to emphasize special features such as an attractive mantlepiece.

According to Mr. Brant, "One of our most exciting projects will be the production of our town tape. It will depict Columbus and its many cultural and civic opportunities. The plan is to provide a 15-minute thumbnail sketch of the unique features afforded residents here. We're proud of our city, and we want to be able to reflect that pride to the people who will be our new neighbors."

NEW DEFFETT BUILDING

Deffet 'Facelifting' Old J.C. Penney's Building

Deffet Companies has announced that exterior 'facefifting' on the old J. C. Penney's Building, 106 N. High, in downtown Columbus, is underway. Deffet executives say that, weather permitting, the exterior remodeling should be finished by late March.

The eight story, 100,000 sq. ft. structure was recently purchased at a shefiff's auction by George H. Deffet, President of Deffet Companies, a Columbus, based multi-regional real estate development firm, for $348,000.

The new 'face' of 106 N. High will eventually include 'solar bronze' glare reducing glass in all windows, bronze anodized rebbed alumimum front facing anel, ivory stucco and a bronze anodized sheet aluminum canopy in place of the existing marquee.

Deffet says interior cleanup of the facility is nearly finished and refurnishing will soon begin. Deffet believes 'restoration of such serviceable buildings is most important to revitalizing portions of the downtown area'. 'It's part of a new, and quite frankly, an exciting look emerging against the skyline of Columbus, there is a tremendous amount of pride and enthusiasm behind downtown redevelopment and we intend making our contributions to those efforts', Deffet said.

Harold Anderson, General Manager for Deffet and Director of Commercial Sales said more than a dozen local and regional companies have expressed strong interest in leasing 106 office and retail space. In fact, the first floor mallway-retail area has been given an unusual and catchy moniker-'The Yellow Brick Road', a name taken from the American book and film classic 'The Wizard of Oz'.

The Yellow Brick Road will lead to small shops, interesting boutiques and other compatible retail businesses. A width of yellow brick, starting just inside of '106' will run through the mallway- thereby enhancing visual inentification of what Deffet executives say could become a Columbus, landmark-'The Yellow Brick Road' at 106 North High.

The 57 year old structure was originally erected by Z. L. White Company and has stood vacant for several years. Estimated completed value of 106 North High and its 'Yellow Brick Road' mallway is set at $3 million. Exterior architectural design was by Mussawir and Associates, AIA, Columbus, with mezzanine and mallway design by John Spencer and Associates, AIA, and Columbus. .

School Board Continues Bus Transportation

THOMAS B. CONNERY
SPECIAL STAFF WRITER

The Columbus School Board agreed to continue to provide bus transportation to Monroe Jr. High School for Milo-Grogan area students who are within walking distance of that school.

However, the transportation will be terminated when the city corrects the traffic condition at the St. Clair Ave.-New Leonard Ave. intersection, salts the sidewalks on the St. Clair Ave. viaduct north of Leonard Ave., and repairs the sidewalk on St. Clair Ave. south of the viaduct.

The original decision to provide transportation was made by the board at its Dec. 19 meeting. A bus began operating Jan. 4.

Parents complained that the continuous right turn from St. Clair Ave. onto new Leonard Ave. made it dangerous for students to cross.

It was contended that students were forced to either stand in the cold and rain waiting for a break in the traffic using the continuous right turn lane, or take a chance and dart through the traffic and across the street.

Parents said that if students walked on the west side of St. Clair, opposite from the continuous right turn lane, they were forced to walk through mud and weeds.

In addition, parents said tht the sidewalk on the St. Clair viaduct became icy before other parts of the sidewalk.

F. T. Rudy, Assistant Supt., business, said that the hazard will be eliminaged when the city installs crosswalks and a "walk-don't walk" coordinated traffic light at St. Clair Ave. and new Leonard Ave.

He said that 184 students who live north of the St. Clair Ave. viaduct in the Milo-Grogan area attend Monroe Jr. High School. Of this number, 103 live less than a mile from the school, and approximately 80 of the 184 ride the bus provided by the board.

According to Rudy, no students come close to walking the two mile limit. Six of the 184 students walk about 1.3 miles to school.

The board members agreed that the problem was not one of distance, but a sidewalk and traffic hazard problem that would be solved by the appropriate corrections and improvements by the city.

However, representtives from the Milo-Grogan area who attended the meeting said afterwords that permanent bus transportation was the only solution to the problem.

They said that fixing sidewalks and putting up traffic lights would not stop

Mrs. Mildred Ford, 831 W. 4th Ave., said the "poor always have to suffer for bad decisions." Mrs. Ford said that board members are not concerned with the health and welfare of the students.

"How can you teach children who come to school dripping wet," Mrs. Ford asked, "and then miss a week of school because of poor health?"

In other business, the board was presented with a 112 page report reviewing the status of recommendations made last year as a result of Project UNITE (Understand Needs, Improve Tomorrow's Education).

Project UNITE involved 2,000 participants, including parents, students, concerned citizens, and school employees who attempted to identify problems facing the school system and propose solutions to them.

The report lists 628 recommendations, giving the status of each recommendation, the school official in charge of it, and information regarding its implementation.

According to the report, nearly half fo the recommendations have been accepted and are in various stages of implementation.

Supt. John Ellis said that the report "provides documentary evidence of the great impact these recommendations have had on the Columbus Public Schools in just eight months."

Ellis said that the board and school officials will "continue to look to Project UNITE recommendations as a source of guidance as new problems and new opportunities arise."

Say It With A Kiss

WHAT'S HEARTS, FLOWERS, BOXES OF CANDY and a quick kiss on the cheek? It's Valentine's Day of course and these two area youngsters seem to be right in the spirit of things. THREE ADMINISTRATIVE JOBS

School Board Fills Positions

THOMAS H. CONNERLY
SPECIAL STAFF WRITER

The Columbus Board of Education filled three important administrative positions at its Feb. 6 meeting.

Wade H. Franklin III, a 1947 East High School graduate, was appointed as Contract Compliance Officer.

Franklin will insure that all non-discrimination provisions of contracts between the schools and private companies are being carried out. He will also deal with other labor relations areas of the contracts.

BECAUSE OF the large number of contracts and purchase agreements that will result from the school building program, Franklin's job will be especially significant.

Franklin studied business administration at Ohio State University and has extensive experience in the areas of labor relations and personnel services.

For the past two years he has been executive director of Project Equality of Ohio, an agency that promotes equal opportunity employment practices.

He has served as an assistant to the director of the Ohio Department of Industrial Relations, chief of inter-group services of the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, and for 10 years as an examiner in the state auditor's office.

THE POSITION of Contract Compliance Officer is a result of a building committee recommendation that was approved by the board on Nov. 21. Franklin's annual salary will be $20,519.

The board also appointed Charles E. Wallace, president and owner of a local realty company and a child care center, as Construction Coordinator in the building program.

Wallace's job will be to make on the job inspections of the progress and quality of workmanship of the program's various projects. His salary will be $16,403 a year.

HE ATTENDED North Carolina A and T College and Defiance College in Defiance, Ohio. He is director of the Columbus Metropolitan Area Community Action Organization (CMACAO) Housing Rehabilitation Project, and has headed his own construction company and a masonary and cement firm.

Mrs. Hilda Bess was appointed by the board as supervisor of special education. She is presently a consultant in the special education department's slow learners program.

Mrs. Bess has a bachelor's degree from North Carolina A and T College and has a master's degree from Ohio State University. She has taught in North Carolina, Wisconsin, and Indiana.

SHE HAS BEEN a special education teacher in the Columbus schools since 1962, teaching at Ohio Ave. Elementary, Crestview Junior High, and North High Schools.

Mrs. Bess will replace Frank Caron at an annual salary of $15,470. Caron was recently named to the secondary administrative cadet program.

In public participation, the board heard from two individuals.

MRS. JEAN STONE, National Council of Jewish Women, urged the board to carry out its promise of quality integrated education.

Mrs. Stone said that society is polarized and that it is plagued by "racial animosity." Whe said that the board must help society find "viable ways to live and work together."

She said that with the new building program the board has an opportunity to do this. She urged the board "not to perpetuate an unequal school system.

FRED VAN DYKE, a West High School senior, addressed the board concerning Latin in the curriculum.

Van Dyke said that with the increasing emphasis being placed on vocational education, he and his fellow Latin students at West High were worried that Latin would be eliminated from the curriculum.

He said that by studying Latin he has "learned more about English grammar and usage than in 10 previous years of studying English."

VAN DYKE SAID that by studying Latin he has been exposed to many great classical writers as well as Roman history.

He urged the board not only to permit the study of Latin but also to encourage it.

Supt. John Ellis assured the student that Latin will be provided for all those who want to take it for as long as it is feasible to do so.

IN THE COMMUNITY

Delinquency Prevention Youth Commission Aim

PART III
BY KATHY DEVANEY
AND LYNN WILLIAMS

The roots of delinquent behavior are in the community and that's where the Ohio Youth Commission (OYC) will be focusing its main attack.

This idea of emphasizing prevention and diversion is relatively new for the OYC. In the past the Commission has stressed its institutional functions and has in fact only been treating the symptoms while doing little to eliminate the cause of juvenile delinquency back in the community.

According to OYC officials under the present state administration, the priorities have changed and it is the community which has become paramount.

Previously the community was considered an extenti n of the institution. The institution got most of the money and its programs were given priority.

jkoday the Commission is moving to community-based prorrams and the institution aill be an extension of the community.

Governor John Gilligan has stated:

"We are going to stress delinquency prevention in Ohio. We will continue to provide services at the institutional level for those youngsters who need it, and we will also continue to provide the highest level of after-care services for children being released from our institutions. However, our major thrust will be in the area of prevention."

With this in mind the seven regional offices throughout the state are being restructured to meet the new goals.

The regional offices will direct the prevention programs.

The main responsibility of the regional office in the past has been to provide after-care to the juvenile released from an institution.

In Columbus the regional director is Robert Proctor. He has a staff of 14 youth counselors (social workers), two foster care specialists, a case supervisor and various clerical personnel.

His office is responsible for 12 counties surrounding Columbus.

As Proctor explained it his duties began after a delinquent had been remanded to the OYC and had completed testing and evaluation at the Juvenile Diagnostic Center (JDC).

"We receive reports from the JDC and information as to which institution has been selected for treatment and we then assign a youth counselor to the case."

While the youth is institutionalized the counselor in the community visits the home, works with the family and keeps in close contact with the staff at the institution.

"The juvenile actually has two social workers assigned to his case," Proctor said. "One counselor deals with the actual treatment program while the second works on preparing a place in the community for the juvenile when he returns."

This includes deciding where he will live, whether he will return to school, get a job or enter vocational training, examine problems which he will face and how these can be solved.

Proctor said that the youth counselors work really began after the youngster was released from an institution. Now the counselor must deal directly with both the family nd the child.

Reports are still required and final discharge of an individual by the OYC usually is not made for one year after release from an institution.

During this period Proctor explained that a lot of a youth counselor's time is spent back in juvenile court.

They Love A Good Parade

If you attended the Columbus Bucks' football games last year or perhaps were on hand for the Columbus Day parade, you may have noticed an attractive group of girls providing some high stepping entertainment.

If you were too busy watching twirling batons, red and white pom poms or maybe just doing some good old fashion girl watching, you may have missed their banner and don't know that these spirited young ladies are the Buckeye Rangerettes.

THE RANGERETTES are 17 Columbus area residents, some married, some students, who enjoy marching and performing.

Captain of the group, Janie Weidner, said the idea started last year.

"I had a friend who marched with the Whitehall drill team and we decided that we would like to keep active so we started the group."

SHE SAID since that time the Rangerettes have marched at several parades and shows in the city and surrounding areas.

"Most of our members have marched before but it's not a requirement. Most of us just enjoy the activity and the exercise. It's great for staying in shape."

Though a majority of the members are from the east side of the city, Mrs. Weidner said they hope to expand the squad to 40 and attract members from throughout the area. Co-captain of the group is Amy Smith.

"WE MADE OUR own uniforms and raised the money necessary by having a yard sale. We made $150.

She said the group still conducts various projects to finance their activities.

"This Christmas we sold candles for a money raising project," Mrs. Weidner said.

SOME OF THIS money will be used to make summer outfits, she said.

She said there is no age limit for membership and that those interested should contact her to arrange for tryouts. Her number is 237-8834.

THE RANGERETTES meet every week to work on projects or to practice new routines.

"We will be marching in the Bexley Fourth of July parade and we hope also to be in the Whitehall parade as well as perform at the football games again this year."

Speaking of Beauty

By Mary Ann

ITS ALL RIGHT TO GROW UP NOW

An thank goodness. For too long the very young had it in dress and hairstyling. Fortunately there is a new cult of beauty that worships poise and sophistication. A woman can set out serenely to charm with her mind and choose her styles-particularly her hair styles and color-guided by her own sense of good taste. This fluidity in fashion will permit some to wear their hair quite curly and others to let it hang straight and provocatively swinging. Long or short is right--dictated only by what is right for you. In describing hair "soft" - but never "limp" - is the word.

Employment Services Seek Self-Regulation

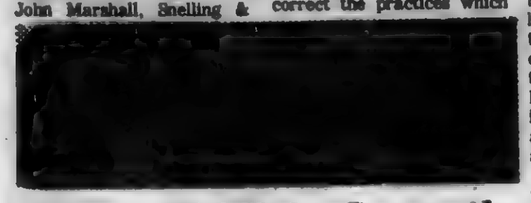
The Better Business Bureau of Central Ohio and the Central Ohio Employment Service Association have formed a cooperative program to provide more effective self-regulation in the employment agency field.

Both the BBB and the COESA have always been involved in and concerned with problems in the field, but it was felt a joint effort could provide even more effective results.

In October, 1972, a Business Practices Committee was formed. Presently serving on that committee are John Titus, Titus and Associates; John Marshall, Snelling & Snelling; Bill Taylor, Shilowe Personnel; Dan Kerstein, Selective Search; Brad Lucarell, Opportunity Search; Dick Herzog, Snelling & Snelling (Chairman of the Business Practices Committee); and Ron Miller from the Better Business Bureau.

This committee has set two prime objectives. The first is to get an input from both the consumers and the employers on their experiences with employment agencies in the Central Ohio area - good or bad. The second is to then take the necessary action and set up programs to resolve complaints or problems, plus correct the practices which are causing the complaints or problems.

To obtain the necessary input from the consumer-employer public, questions, complaints, suggestions, or compliments can be relayed to a hot-line number, 263-2202.



In addition, other efforts are being made to publicize the program so as to reach the people it can effect the most. Those calls seeking information are generally handled by the local Association.

The calls which concern complaints are immediately referred to the BBB for follow-up. The BBB then tries to resolve the complaint through its regular complaint handling procedure. Should this prove unsuccessful, the complaint is then referred by the BBB to the Business Practices Committee which in turn will use several alternate courses of action to achieve a proper solution.

This program has been tailored from a similar one that has been active in the Central Indiana area for approximately two years. According to information received from the BBB in Indianapolis, their program has been very successful. To date, the Business Practices Committee of the local effort are very pleased and feel the local program, likewise, is proving very fruitful.

It is felt that through this new effort self-regulation will continue to do the job and thus make minimal the need for government regulation.

If you have a question, complaint, suggestion, or compliment concerning employment agencies, please call 263-2202.

Ohio Wildlife Council

SECTION 1531.02, Ohio Revised Code: "(the Wildlife Council)...shall...report to the Governor...concerning the wildlife resources of the state with recommendations of such measures as it deems necessary or suitable to conserve or develop said resources and preserve them as far as possible."

So goes the law we live by. One would think with such explicit instructions from the legislature, Ohio's governing force, the Ohio Wildlife Council would be the last group to openly flaunt laws designed to preserve a fast disappearing species.

NOT SO, the council has ignored the recommendations of the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife (BSFW) and prevented state game protectors from acting on federal regulations calling for a closed season on the shooting of canvasback and redhead ducks.

Situated in the Mississippi Flyway, Ohio has very few of those two species of ducks and the slim flock keeps getting slimmer. On November 25, the National Audubon Society issued a blast at two specific members of the Wildlife Council: Kenneth Wahl of Port Clinton, an ex-commercial fisherman, lifelong duck hunter and sometimes duck marsh manager; and Kenneth E. Crawford, a 30-year member of the Board of Directors of the League of Ohio Sportsmen and close confidante of ex-Governor Jim Rhodes.

IN THE unprecedented press release, the Audubon Society said that, in spite of BSFW's strong recommendations and those of Ohio's chief of wildlife, Dan Armbruster, that Crawford and Wahl had led a fight and influenced the council not to favor the shooting restrictions. The U.S. Department of the Interior had closed the season on them nationwide.

John Gallagher, president of the Ohio Audubon Council, said that because of the Wildlife Council action, state game protectors were not reporting the shooting of those two species of waterfowl to federal wardens which would have been the case had the council endorsed the move. Unless state game officers have a federal commission, they cannot enforce federal laws, but according to Gallagher, their cooperation is essential.

Gallagher also stated that the state wardens were not enforcing the federal duck stamp requirement. "No doubt this also has something to do with the provincial attitude of the Wildlife Council," Gallagher said.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Wildlife Council members serve at the pleasure of the governor. Write to Governor Gilligan to the State House and ask him respectfully to remove Wahl and Crawford, replacing them with members who are more concerned about the protection of endangered species than a few hours each year of hunting.

Search For Consensus SETS Regional Meetings

THE FIRST of 12 regional meetings designed to provide Ohioans with an opportunity to discuss the "issues" – the ways to attain goals for elementary and secondary education inOhio–will be held Thursday, February 15, at 7:30 p.m. in Whitehall Yearling High School, 675 S. Yearling Road, Whitehall.

The meeting will concentrate on identifying the barriers which schools encounter in reaching desirable learning.

STATE Superintendent of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex explained that the 12 regional meetings are intended to further develop and clarify the concerns for education which were expressed by Ohioans at 604 Local Citizens Seminars held last May and at 88 County Citizens Councils last October.

Nearly 120,000 Ohioans have participated in the attempt to determine the "issues" and goals for education, Essex said, and 5,000 more are expected to attend the regional sessions.

Participants in the regional meetings will break into small groups to complete a 94-item opinionnaire concerning the key issues in education.

EACH regional meeting, Essex said, will offer participants an opportunity to discuss the process which has been utilized to determine citizens' opinions and recommendations concerning the redesign and improvement of education-associated organizations concerning these issues.

At these meetings, the compilation of the 56,000 citizens' responses on the 88 "gut" issues discussed last spring, will be distributed.

THE regional meetings will also include a presentation of three accountability procedures which have been developed after extensive study by 20 nationally-recognized scholars in the field of educational evaluation.

The accountability procedures were developed after data and recommendations from the Local Citizens Seminars were assembled and analyzed.

"THE STATE Department of Education," Essex said, "has been directed to develop an accountability procedure for Ohio schools by June 30. Citizen involvement has proved extremely valuable as Ohioans tell us what they expect and what they want in their schools. We are attempting to develop an acceptable, constructive means for evaluation in place of the comparative use of standardized tests which have been misleading or disruptive in other states."

The 94 item opinionnaires have been mailed in advance to those persons who have been invited to attend the meeting.

To provide balanced representation, attendance at each regional meeting will vary in relation to the region's proportion of the total state population. Every school district has been encouraged to invite at least six persons to the regional meeting, and larger districts have the opportunity for additional representation.

Superintendent Essex said the 12 regional meetings will be followed by one statewide meeting in which a single statement or goals and objectives for elementary and secondary education in Ohio will be set forth for presentation to the State Board of Education.

Privacy in Public Places

Fire engines roar up to a house across the street, and you hurry over to watch the excitement. If a newspaper photographer snaps your picture and you wind up on the front page of a local newspaper, has your "right of privacy" been violated?

The law's answer is no. Even though the right of privacy has expanded in recent years, it does not override the freedom of the press to report legitimate news. As a spectator at a public event, you were part of the news. All the photographer did was to record what anyone who was there could have seen anyhow.

Some people are born newsworthy, some achieve newsworthiness, and some have newsworthiness thrust upon them. But, one and all, they are subject to the constitutional right of the press to report what goes on in the community.

Even if a person specifically forbids publicity, he does not thereby become immune.

In one case, the irate father in a custody fight ordered reporters to "lay off" the story. But the story appeared anyhow—with pictures. The man claimed invasion of his privacy, but a court decided that he had no legal kick coming.

"There are times," said the court, "when one, willingly or not, becomes an actor in an occurrance of public interest. When this takes place, he emerges from his seclusion, and it is not an invasion of privacy to publish his photograph with an account of such occurrance."

On the other hand, an item of information does not automatically become newsworthy just because a newspaper sees fit to print it. For example:

A newspaper published a notice by a hardware dealer, complaining about a certain customer's unpaid bill. This time, when the customer sued the newspaper for invasion of his privacy, he won a judgment. The court said that in any fair sense, this private debt was simply none of the public's business.

The Navy Changes To Meet Changing Times

REAR ADMIRAL Emmett H. Tidd, Commander of the Navy Recruiting Command, spoke last week at the Columbus Navy League dinner.

IN THIS changing world that prolouges our changing times, we feel that what Rear Admiral Tidd had to say to Navy League members and guests, who included Spectator Executive Editor Ray Adams and Reynoldsburg Tomato Festival Queen Miss Sandra Lee Downs, should be shared with our communities. Tidd also related these facts to a contingent of high school and college newspaper editors and the general professional media at a press conference last week.

HIS comments follow:

"I am a Navy recruiter and since assuming this job last April I have now travelled over 82,000 air miles visiting my recruiters, talking with Navy League Councils and other concerned citizens to prepare for the "zero draft" which is now a reality.

"I would like to share with you my thoughts in three areas.

"We're going through a very dynamic period in this country. The people are asking questions and are entitled to answers. We must be able to provide these answers.

"You, as community leaders who know about the Navy, have the opportunity daily, to provide those answers.

THEY ARE asking 'Why do we need to spend so much of our treasure on the defense forces? How much is enough? Why do we really need a Navy?

"Strategic deterence is a complicated issue - but I only know that you don't want the other guy to have any doubts about your having enough if you want this fragile balance of mutual deterence to work.

"CONCERNING our sea lanes, I ask that you remind our concerned citizens that our sea lanes are vital to our economic survival.

"Out technology does not free us from dependence on 72 critical raw materials that must be on hand if the industries of the United States are to function in the manner we must count on for our way of life. And, 68 of those 72 critical materials must be imported in whole or more than 75 percent in order to keep this Nation's wheels of industry rolling.

"These must be imported and the overwhelming bulk of them arrive by sea lanes. People must realize that we are an island nation and the highways to our allies are the sea lanes.

"BUT, THE SIZE of our regular Navy has been, and is being, significantly reduced.

"What people do not realize is, that since 1964 it's been reduced by 36 percent of its ships, it's been reduced by 26 percent of its aircraft and by 12 percent of its personnel.

"That's below the peacetime level of 1964 while still fighting this longest war in our history.

"IF YOU take the Fiscal Year '74 budget, just announced, which some call an ever increasing defense budget and analize it in terms of 'constant dollars' (which is a common way of making a comparison to see the significance in amounts appropriated in one year, compared to the next) you will find that defense spending in 1964 was equivalent to 87.7 billion in today's dollars.

"Therefore, the Fiscal Year' 74 budget represents a drop of 9.9 percent to 79 billion dollars. That's not an increase.

"THE DEFENSE budget is getting ever decreasing amounts of the gross national product. In fiscal year 1953 at the height of the Korean War, the defense budget was taking 13 percent of the gross national product.

"The 1974 defense budget represents six percent of the gross national product. Therefore, you can see your defense budget is getting decreasing amounts of the wealth of this nation.

"This results in reductions in the fleet that are of great concern to the Navy. It's for this reason that your continued interest in the defense of this country, and in your Navy, is absolutely critical.

"YOU MUST help pass the word and educate the people and provide them answers to these difficult questions.

"Another key area where we need your help is to insure that we will succeed in achieving an all volunteer force.

"As you know, last Saturday the Secretary of Defense announced the end of the draft except for doctors and dentists.

"GENERALLY people have not realized the impact over the past few months that the rapidly declining draft calls for the Army have had on the ability of the Navy to recruit the high calibre men required to man the fleet today. Let me explain.

"In 1969 over 300,000 draft calls were issued for the Army. This resulted in a lot of shoppers coming around to Navy Recruiting Stations to find out what we had to offer.

"By 1972 this was down to only 50,000 draft calls. Therefore, our Navy Recruiters have had fewer walk in people shopping around to find out what was available. The lines of volunteers disappeared.

"ALSO, with the introduction of the lottery system those 50,000 who would be drafted pretty well knew who they were. Therefore, the two to five million people in the balance of that manpower pool no longer had to sweat the draft.

"So, they did not come around shopping to find out what the options were and we lost the chance for prospective sales.

"Another of the problems that has caused the recruiters job to be much more difficult is the significant improvement in the economy with more jobs and the higher pay that goes with it.

"ALSO, there's competition with industry for the kind of outstanding young people that we have need for in the ever more complex armed services of today.

"The kind of trainable people we need to man our polaris submarines for example. The colleges are also offering that kind of young person scholarships and these sharp students are quick to accept them.

"Thus, the rapid reduction in the draft had a great impact on the Navy several months ago. In short, the Navy was simply not geared up for it. There were other priorities, such as the very intensive operations in Vietnam. Besides, we could say we're already on an all volunteer service and had lines of volunteers at our door. Well, those lines evaporated as the draft went down rapidly.

"THE IMPACT on the Navy recruiting became visible in Oct. 1971 when we made only 87 percent of our necessary recruiting goal. It was a crisis situation and in April, Admiral Zumwalt put the Navy to a general quarters to face up to its recruiting problems and to get the organization we needed.

"He declared that recruiting was top priority in the Navy and he began giving it his very close personal attention. And I can assure you that he continues to do so.

"I AM PROUD to say that we are getting absolutely top quality people in Navy recruiting to do this sales job. We are now getting officers and enlisted men who are specifically screened and trained for this kind of operation.

"We have formed a marketing and merchandising oriented organization in both the headquarters and in the field. Our recruiters are now sales oriented, not order takers as they once were when the draft brought those long lines of volunteers to us.

"Now, our recruiters, before assignment to recruiting duty, are given close screening, sales aptitude tests and special sales training. Also, we are now receiving the full support of the fleet and shore establishment. We also have a national advertising campaign underway to help get our message across to our potential market and generate traffic to that local recruiting station.

"AND, ALSO, we have been receiving the absolutely superb support of the Navy League throughout the country at the grass roots level where it counts the most. All of these activities have been paying off. Today, I am happy to report that we have been able to make significant gains during the past six months.

"The trend started shifting in July when 12 of our 41 districts made their quota. By August the number had doubled to 24. September, however, was the real breakthrough as 33 of 41 districts made it over the 100 percent mark - by enough for the Navy' total national quota to be met by 103 percent - and this was the first time in 12 months that we had reached our total goals. More people enlisted in the Navy in September than for any month in seven years. So, in October we significantly raised the standards for enlistment to assure higher quality men coming in the Navy.

"Notwithstanding this: In October, November and December we have been able to meet our recruiting goals for the regular Navy and also have exceeded our quality goals.

"FOR EXAMPLE, in December, 91.4 percent of those enlisting were eligible to attend Class 'A' advanced Navy schools. Therefore, you can see why there is a growing surge of confidence among your Navy recruiters. They now know that with the support of the shore establishment, the fleet and the civilian community, they can achieve this task of obtaining motivated quality volunteers to man the fleet of today. But I would quickly add, it will take your continued assistance.

"THE recruiting problem is by no means solved. But part of the reason we have been successful is that the young people have now been hearing about the new, more humanized Navy and they are interested.

"Our recruiters, as salesmen, know our product is good. A very simple measure is the fact that under the dynamic leadership of Admiral Zumwalt, reenlistment rates are now more than double what they were for Fiscal Year 1970. Also, 'broken service' reenlistments have continued to rise. (People who went out of the Navy are now applying to come back into the Navy in greater numbers.) So I submit that we must be doing many things in the new Navy that are right. And the people in the Navy, who know the story best, are willing to tell it like it is - and it is helping us.

"LET ME emphasize, this new Navy is not only hardware. Rather, it is a Navy that is appropriately adapting to better recognize the changing times in which we live.

"Let me state emphatically that no traditions nor regulations are being changed that are necessary to good order and discipline. The changes that have taken place must not be misunderstood. There have been no changes to the uniform code of military justice.

"There has been no diminution of the authority of the commanding officer; on the contrary it has been increased by giving him a wider range of morale enhancing opportunities to make use of and a wider latitude of innovativeness by which he can lead. So, his challenge today is one of increased leadership.

"IF THERE is to be an all-volunteer force, the Navy today must recruit (attract) and retain the quality youth of this country.

"What we must recognize is that today's youth are different than when you and I were that age. Today's youth are better educated - if you don't think so try your hand at the new math. They are more aware of the events that are happening throughout the world through the instant visual medium of television.

"They are more independent and they think idealistic - they are more aware of social needs and feel more concerned about doing something constructive about the society in which they live.

"BECAUSE of such considerations, Admiral Zumwalt has had the courage to institute certain initiatives within the Navy to acknowledge these sociological changes. The 'Z-gram' program simply recognizes that society has changed.

"Therefore, life within the Navy has changed and for the good of the service in my view. Too many people are unaware of the more meaningful changes initiated by our CNO.

"These changes have placed a higher value on the worth and dignity of the individual. This includes genuine equal rights in human relations and opportunities. But, these programs have also stressed the equal responsibility of the individual and the accountability of the individual.

"LOCAL commanders must in the end uphold such requirements and standards. The programs are aimed at bringing out better personal, self discipline as a measure of the more mature individual that we want and need in this new Navy. For it is on these individuals that we continue to place such heavy demands for continuing sacrifices while they are deployed around the world - separated from home and family.

"Surely, that individual can be recognized for the degree of individual responsibility that he can carry. And the leader who can not properly hold the few actual offenders for accounting must also have his day of accounting.

"THEREFORE, I say that the Z-grams have been instrumental in demanding and consequently raising the standards of leadership within all ranks of the Navy.

"I realize that it is more difficult to be a leader than a martinet. But, when our men see the purpose to basic policies - when the why of policies are understood - when we communicate by more personal and compassionate leadership - then trained men have an inherent trust in their superiors and loyally follow them in time of emergency.

"WHAT SOME people and the news media have overlooked is that we have seen this outstanding Navy performance and discipline daily in actual combat and in operation at sea: in the overwhelming majority of our 596 active ships - and by the 99.99 percent of our 600,000 people in today's Navy.

"You do not legislate mutual trust and respect. You build it and you earn it - and you measure it by performance and the greatest crucible of all is the test of combat.

"THE NAVY has certainly come through that test in this, our longest and most controversial war, in a manner of which you can be very proud.

"My point is simply this: The Navy is but one segment of our Nation's society. In that society we know that there are some who will take advantage of a good situation and abuse privileges. But these certainly are the exception.

"THE REAL change in the Navy along these lines, now, is that we handle individual cases rather than deprive the deserving masses by the shot-gun edict of denying privileges to all, because of a few offenders.

"The Navy is becoming more humanized - more responsibilities are being placed on the individual sailor where it belongs - along with accountability.

"Certainly, these new and dynamic policies have created some problems but there is nothing new and dynamic that hasn't.

"But, in 1970 our retention rates were below 10 percent - and that was a crisis. Now they are more than double that and our retention rates for career petty officers is the highest it has been in 15 years.

"THE NAVY is not changing for change sake. There was a deep and crucial reason it had to change - draft or no draft.

"Admiral Zumwalt, who is sensitive to the basic human needs and trends, is simply adapting the Navy to the world around it and for the improvement of both. We must do this to ensure that we will be able to man and maintain the Navy.

"AND THE Navy recruiting command has pledged that we will provide the finest people necessary to do the job. With your continuing help and prayers, I am confident that we will be able to meet the challenge of the Zero Draft and bring you an all-volunteer force."

A Sticky Situation

MRS. LARRY JOLLIFF was attracting quite a crowd last week as she made cotton candy at Fairmoor School. The School's PTA sponsored a cotton candy party for the classroom with the largest PTA membership registration. The winning class was Miss Priscilla Lodge's third grade class with 104 per cent registration. This one youngster appears to be unsure of just how to attack the cotton candy. He finally decided the best answer was just to plunge right in.

Scioto Country Club Setting Of Annual Twig Benefit Ball For The Children's Hospital

BY BETTY BROWN

Valentine Season would not be complete without a lavish ball. The annual Twig Benefit Ball for the Children's Hospital, held Saturday, Feb. 10, from 9:30 p.m. to 1:30 a.m., at the Scioto Country Club, was not only an enchanting night to remember, but it was also an affair to which 1:30 came much too early.

The Valentine decor consisted of large hearts which surrounded the lovely chandeliers at the club. The Scioto Country Club has so much natural beauty to it, that the decorations only enhanced the splendor. There was also a very frilly, decorative heart attached to the front door, for all entering to see and greet.

All the merry couples that evening danced to the beat of a rock and roll band, which added all the gaiety and laughter needed to make the affair a success. There were four bars for three rooms and equally as many terrific hors d'ouevres.

There were 500 smiling guests at the ball, many of whom were doctors at the Children's Hospital. It was good to see a few of our local doctors relaxing, smiling, cracking jokes, and having a good time.

It was a relaxed atmosphere, attributed to the hard-working Twigs and the Benefit Ball Committee. This ball had been an annual one since 1933, when it began being sponsored by all 163 Twig groups. Before this, the ball had been sponsored by only seven groups. As seen by the growth of this organization, and by the sincere efforts to raise a grand amount of money for the Children's Hospital, the Twigs have done an outstanding job.

Although the actual fund-raising cost is not clear at this time, in past years the ball has raised up to $50,000 for the hospital. The proceeds for the children's facilities are totally unrestricted. The hospital itself sets up the priorities. So, the Twigs raise the money and the hospital uses it for the children in any direction that they deem necessary.

Among the 500 people seen at the ball were: Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries, Mr. Jeffries, the Executive Director of the Children's Hospital; Mr. Robert Goldenberg, Director of Development for the Children's Hospital; Mr. and Mrs. Grover Schmidt of Schmidt's Sausage House in German Village; and Mrs. Pete Keyes the General Twig Chairman.

I was escorted, off and on, throughout the evening, by a lovely couple, Dr. and Mrs. John Rurak, who were both very kind and offered much assistance in learning aoout the Twig ways and means and also about the connection with the Children's Hospital.

After the ball was over no one turned into a pumpkin and no one changed, all was traditionally lovely and culturally divine, thanks to all the efforts of the Twigs and the Children's Hospital.

The women who did such a fine job on the Benefit Ball Committee were; Mrs. Max Miller, chairman; Mrs. Loyal Mortley, co-chairman; Mrs. James Dennis, secretary; Mrs. Isaac Accunis, treasurer, who was also in charge of tickets; Mrs. James Kennedy, Advisor; Mrs. Pete Keyes, general Twig chairman; Mrs. Larry Beverly, radio and T.V. publicity; Mrs. Herbert Utz, newspaper publicity; Mrs. Kenneth Neiman, decorations; Mrs. Jack Hopkins, invitations and Mrs. David Ford, Valentine Box.

..ENJOYING THEMSELVES at the Twig Annual Benefit Ball for the Children's Hospital are Mr. and Mrs. John Jeffries. Mr. Jeffries is the Executive Director of the Children's Hospital. Photos by Kathy DeVaney.

ADMIRING HER WORK on decorations for Children's Hospital benefit ball on Saturday Feb. 10, are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Trott. Jeanie Trott was in charge of the decorations.

"Lifestyles" Fashion Jewelry

The caftan is given an opulent middle eastern look with the addition of the fleur necklace and its coordinating belt. (Caftan by Bill Tice for Royal Robes.)

TODAY'S WOMAN is as remarkable as a cat with its nine lives because she lives in a broad range of lifestyles. So says award-winning jewelry designer Stanley Hagler, who, to compliment these lifestyles, has created an incredible "Lifestyles" collection of fashion accessories.

ALWAYS INNOVATIVE, Stanley Hagler focuses this season on shoulder ornaments in epaulets and aiguillettes for the Spring blazer, as well as a special collection of jewelry to be worn with caftans. He also introduced personal hand alarms, and added new sizes, shapes and sounds to his fantastic collection of whistle pendants.

FOR CAFTANS he showed a group of two-tiered necklaces in a range of colors combined with gold nuggets. His chain fringe necklaces and earrings add a middle eastern touch—the most fantastic of these is his ear frame, a golden tracery of filigree that completely surrounds the ear and is held securely by an attached matching earring.

Profile adornment is introduced for gala evenings with this ear-frame. A golden tracery of filigree completely surrounds the ear and is held in place with matching earring.

..The shorter necklace, like this white lucite and gleming golden columns, will be an important look for Spring .. matching earrings.

..The sporting life is made sportier by adding Stanley Hagler's gleaming gold epaulet to the blazer jacket—also to hold the strap of a shoulder bag. (Blazer from Suburban International).

INSPIRED BY the revival of the spectator shoe, there's Hagler spectator jewelry that has a two-tone effect of white with color. Other innovations are his short colonade necklace with white lucite balls joined by Gleaming gilt columns, and convertible jewelry with necklaces that can be worn as belts for both daytime and evening; and pullery earrings that adjust to various lengths.

THE VENICELON wigs, shown with the Hagler accessories, keep pace with each of the varied lifestyles. Made with simulated skin top and capless construction for perfect comfort, these frizz-resistant, easy-care wigs range from the new short cut for the easy style of the blazer, to the long-fall suitable for a glamorous caftan.

"A majority of these kids find themselves in trouble with the law again. We require that our counselors accompany the youngsters to court. Today the main aim is to keep kids out of the institutions and out of the entire judicial system."

And so the target is now the community.

In the past there have been individual youth counselors and regional directors who have gone out on their own and worked with community groups, the courts and the schools. "These individuals were using their own time and energy because they were turned on by something," Acting Deputy Director M.L. McAngus said.

Both he and Proctor said these people were doing things informally and without real direction, hoping they would succeed.

With the emphasis now on prevention these people will have concrete treatment programs with which to work.

Proctor said the regional office will soon be headed by an administrative director and two deputy supervisors--one for after-care and one for prevention.

"Our functions won't change drastically but our youth counselors will be better able to work with the youngsters," Proctor said.

For the first time the counselors are being trained in a treatment modality. In October of last year a special seminar was conducted and various treatment methods were explained to counselors from all over the state.

The group from Columbus selected one specific treatment program. They will be trained by an expert and will then train other counselors and members of the community.

This will enable the counselors to conduct group therapy sessions and to work individually with the youngsters.

"Our counselors will now know what to do and what kind of results may be expected," Proctor explained. "They will now have purpose and direction."

Additional personnel working in the area of prevention will be an employment specialist, a volunteer specialist, a community resource mobilization specialist, an anti-car theft specialist and street workers.

The employment specialist will not only find jobs for youngsters returning to the community but will also use her office to divert potential delinquents.

The volunteer specialist will be finding individuals and groups who would be willing to work with youngsters through recreational, educational and inter-personal activities.

The resource specialist will go into a community and identify groups, individuals or agencies which provide services or activities that will promote positive behavior.

The anti-auto theft specialist will work with schools to try and have built into the curriculum anti-crime programs. For example, a segment of the drivers ed course might deal with the penalities for auto theft.

The main emphasis in this area is now stopping auto theft but will be expanded to other crimes.

The street worker will have a two-fold responsibility. One, the after-care side, they will be responsible for maintaining daily contact with one to five high-risk parolees. They will also serve as a role model with whom the youngsters can identify.

Their second responsibility will be to report to the contact person at the regional office any problem situations which may arise. The contact person will handle the problem so that the street worker does not lose his credibility.

The street worker will be someone who lives in the community and not an outsider.

McAngus said he might hire a person classified as unemployed who survives on the basis of a hustle such as the pool room shark, the back room card player, an occasional fence or a numbers runner not deeply involved in the rackets.

"This person has to get out of any illegal activity, but still maintain some of their previous contacts."

At the other extreme is the person identified as straight such as the woman who takes in youngsters and feeds them or the guy who shoots baskets with them after work.

Another area which has been used in the past but which will be stressed even more under the new program, is the foster or group home.

"A halfway house is the best of both worlds," McAngus said. "An institution is good in the sense that it provides 24 hour support and concern. Community services are good because they have the potential for helping a youngster adjust to the community environment.

"In a halfway house a youngster finds both."

McAngus explained that a lot of juvenile court judges in urban and rural areas would like to place more youngsters in a group home setting but there are two major problems.

"One is money. Beyond initial cost of building there is the operating cost of $40,000 to $50,000 for an eight to 12 bed group home.

"The cost is one half of that for institutionalizing but it is a court cost," McAngus said.

"Another problem is the neighborhood. People don't want group homes built next to them. The fact is that these group homes often provide more supervision and control than some families."

He also said there is as much or more love in a group home than many of these kids had in their own homes.

Proctor said that with the new prevention program, these foster and group homes will be strenghtened with the idea of having youngsters committed directly there.

"These homes will then need to be improved to include strong treatment programs."

It is cheaper to keep a youngster in the community and the savings realized through reduced commitments to institutions will be returned to the court for the development of more group homes, McAngus said.

Now that more delinquents will remain in the community, the residents must be educated and attitudes changed.

People can't accept the idea that delinquency might touch their lives, they believe it only happens somewhere else, McAngus said.

Proctor said many people still believe in the deviant theory. That is, they think someone who has been deviant once is always going to be the same.

"It means these kids will always have a strike against them no matter what they do."

For the new program to work it will take cooperation from the police, the various agencies dealing with juveniles, the courts and members of the community.

Both McAngus and Proctor were enthusiastic about the project and the expanded services to be offered by the Commission.

Despite the optimism, one concern is being voiced by OYC staff members. This is the impounding of domestic funds by President Richard Nixon and also the increase in red tape on the federal level.

"The review time between submission of application forms and the release of money is taking longer and longer," McAngus said.

He said the commission is entitled to six to 10 million dollars of Title 4 funds.

"We received encouragement and tentative approval to our request for funds. As a result, a good deal of the prevention program for the next two years was geared to the use of those funds for program expansion."

The commission, according to McAngus, has repeatedly filled out forms establishing eligibility for the money but as yet have not received one dollar.

"The last five working days we completed another form on each of the 6,000 youngsters in our care to prove we're eligible.."

"This six to 10 million dollars which we are entitled to would buy a lot of prevention services, street workers, emergency shelters, probation staff and education for police juvenile officers and youth counselors," McAngus said.

Proctor said if the President continues to cutback the fund to social action agencies he does not know how the program can succeed.

"We have no resources of our own. We rely on the community."

Pool Patter
By Peg Pierce

Swimming lessons were resumed as a part of Pre-School programming on Tuesday morning. The goal for these next 15 weeks will be to classify each child in his correct swimming station.

This classification will help to serve those children who desire to attend summer Camp O'Ra. It is our hope that this procedure will relieve parents of the chore of bringing their child to the pool for pre-camp screening.

Each child will have a progress record on file in the swimming office. To assist in this project we will welcome Ms. Ruth Harris as a part of our swimming staff. She is already well known to many of the children and she is looking forward to being a part of the swimming station to station Pre-School program.

You the parent are encouraged to support this effort by:

Talk about swimming at home, dress the child in clothes without too many buttons or ties. We suggest jump suits and loafers on swimming day. Provide swimming caps for those children with long hair. Be sure they eat a good breakfast because we burn up "lotsa energy".

Hugh DeMoss with the news at 6 & 11 PM. News worth getting up and walking clear across the room and changing channels.
With all due modesty, we at TV 4 think we do a pretty good news show—and a lot of people are taking notice.
It's friendly—honest—and human. We think you'll find it's worth the trip to the TV set.

AROUND TOWN

BECAUSE OF many things going on the past couple of weeks, I have not been able to give you a complete picture of everything going on Around Town. Hence, in order to keep you informed, I am going to review both the Ramada Inn North, and the Ramada Inn East this week, along with the new Bull and Bear Restaurant.

The first review is about the Ramada Inn - North where the fabulous Ruben, Wanda and the Sweet Seasons are currently knocking them dead. I've heard and reviewed thousands of quintets, but seldom do I find one that has it all together as does Sweet Seasons, to say the least.

FIRST, one member who caught my eyes and ears is Wanda Lee. Wow! What a singer. While she may have a little difficulty at times with her intonation, she comes on like gangbusters. She has more control than Jack Nicklaus.

When you hear Wanda, you will want to hear more and more. She sings with so much drive. This is true with the entire group, plenty of drive in the instrumental and vocal department.

Then there is organist and trombone man, Dick Butts. This guy is a musician's musician. He has talent literally dripping from his body. He handles both organ and trombone with a unique approach. I could sit and listen to him play for hours on end.

ADD Ruben Weitzel to the group, and things really begin to cook. Ruben is great on banjo, guitar and trombone. Wait until you hear some of the fine sounds created by Dick and Ruben on some of the way out trombone duos. Fantastic.

Ruben also does a nice job in the vocal department. This handsome, young fellow is a super performer. What a voice. He can also imitate many of the famous singers.

One of the classiest performers is drummer Bob Mirlarck. He plays tons of good licks.

Another fellow who turns in a fine job is bass man Ben Wiebe. He is strong and sturdy in the rhythm department.

You will also hear some mighty nice vocal harmony from this outfit.

AS A GROUP they are superb. They show a high degree of professionalism, plus lots of good stage presence. In my book, Sweet Seasons score every time they are on stage. Rhythms are strong and simple. All types of songs are included on their musical menu.

Sweet Seasons make any season, like the song, "Winter, Spring, Summer or Fall", a happy time of year. I know you will have a happy time, when you catch Sweet Seasons, Tuesday through Sunday at the Ramada Inn - North.

MEANWHILE, out at Ramada Inn - East, Snider and Law is playing to almost full houses. This is a extremely fine quartet. You get the best of everything, with this bunch. The best music, the best vocals, and the best comedy this side of Bob Hope.

As I said, this is a quartet, and I do mean a quartet. No one is featured. It takes all four playing and working as one.

Curtis Law handles the electric guitar as well as Rembrandt handled a brush. Curt is a true artist. His work on the electric guitar is a rare treat in today's business. Just wait until you hear his rendition of "Malaguena." It is just beautiful. So is his presentation of "Sunrise, Sunset" on the classical guitar.

Both Curt and bass man Raye Snider dish out plenty of belly laugh comedy. In fact, I believe these two could forget the music aspect, if they wanted to, and only work on comedy. They are that good in this department. Raye and Curt also serve up some swinging vocal solos. Each of them could make it in show business as a singer. They both have a strong style and very fine voices. Talk about triple threats, if Raye and Curt were football players, Woody Hayes would be staging a strong recruiting program.

MUGGINS WEER does a tremendous job on the organ. Very strong and talented. Drummer Rick Johnson possesses exceptional talent. This young fellow has a lot of class. Here again, like all the rest of the fellows, he is a true artist.

Now, here is something I really flipped over, their vocal harmony. It is so close, most razor manufacturers blush. When all four are harmonizing, they produce a bell tone sound. Simply beautiful.

Each of them are expert showman, and that's saying a lot, my friends. Their act, be it their show portion, or dance set, moves along rapidly. No dull spots or let downs. The act starts off higher and faster than most acts end up. And, from there they just keep building until it reaches dynamite proportions.

Get out to the Ramada Inn East, you'll love them. I'll tell you something else you will love, their Wednesday night Little Italy Night, which features a buffet of fine Italian food, along with a gondola of salads or their Friday nights Canoe of Seafood Buffet. Plan on spending an evening and filling up on good food and good entertainment.

THE NEW Bull and Bear opened a few weeks ago in downtown Columbus. Bull and Bear, you might say, is an odd name for a restaurant. No, they don't serve bear meat. The Bull and Bear refers to the jargon in the stock market.

It has a stock market motif. There is the big board that runs constantly until nine at night, flashing quotations on a fifteen minute delayed interval. The walls are decorated with copies of certificates and there is a giant, twelve foot long, perfect reproduction of a thousand dollar bill. The Bull and Bear is located in the place where the Benny Klein was orginally. But, there the similarity stops. You wouldn't know the place.

Besides the stock market decor, you will enjoy the genial atmosphere of the place. The way the new owners have completely done over the restaurant and lounge, makes it a warm, friendly spot for cocktails or dining. Of course, the waitresses, who by the way, are all experienced, help make your visit just a little more enjoyable. This is also true for the general manager, Hugh "Bud" Cunningham. He has spent over thirty years in the business, most of it in the Chicago area. Here is something else I like about the Bull and Bear, if you have dinner there, you can park free anywhere in town.

Now, let's get on to something I really liked about the restaurant, the food. First, I was served a huge and I do mean huge salad, with large slices of tomatoes, cucumbers and a special dressing. This salad dressing was the highlight of the meal for me.

The sirloin strip steak was excellent. It was charcoal broiled, succulent and a treat for my taste buds. This was one of the tastiest steaks I've experienced. Of course, baked potato with sour cream and rolls were also served.

If you have any room left, which I didn't, but I stuffed

Ready, Delaware Are Sure Winners

Leagues Locked Up-Tourney Time Is Ahead

TOURNAMENT time is closer than just around the corner and area cage teams are whetting their appetites to get a measure of revenge for season losses that kept some from titles in leagues.

Columbus East and South, both 10-1 in the Columbus city loop, get the last title licks Friday as East goes to toughie North and Mohawk takes on South. A loss for either will give the other a clear-cut city title while a win win for both or a loss for both means a title share. There will not be a playoff for the city title as some have hoped for if it ends in a tie.

DELAWARE locked up the Ohio Cap Conference title with a come from behind win against Westerville at the Pacer gym. The win gave Delaware a 12-1 margin against the Cats' 10-3 with each having one game yet to play. Mt.. Vernon and Whitehall are locked in third place with 8-5 records.

Grove City is still alone at the top of the Mid-8 at 12-1 and 16-1 for the season with its nearest pursuer Bexley at 11-2. A Grove City win Friday against London will seal the title.

Three teams are locked in the Metro loop with Teays Valley, Dublin and Olentangy all at 8-3. One will fall by the wayside when Teays Valley and Dublin clash while Olentangy can get at least a title share with a win over Hamilton Township.

Ready has already sewed up the Central Catholic loop and will host an improving Wehrle team in the big Catholic loop clash Friday. Ready took the measure of two state ranked teams last weekend.

THE complete tournament schedule involving area Class AA and AAA teams will be carried in next week's issue.

The class A and AA teams start play Wednesday, Feb. 21 and the AAA teams kick off the trip to the state title Thursday, Feb. 22.

I have seen several productions of "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?" both here and in Cleveland and on a professional and non-professional level.

The presentation at Player's Club, 549 Franklin Avenue, comes the closest to my concept of the script of any I have seen. Now this is not to say it is the most valid interpretation, since this is only my opinion.

Director Jerry Ness and his cast prove a point I have made over and over again - there is much power in the under-play. My ears were not assulted, my intelligence was not insulted and as a result, I thoroughly enjoyed a play so well known to me, I could have delivered the next line - had someone dropped one.

The very strong weakling, George, was most effectively played by Bob Chosy. I sat in the last row and had no trouble "seeing" his characterization. Every move he made was deliberate but not exagerated. His voice was controlled and his emotions explicit.

If I had to find fault with him, I guess it would be in the way he slapped Martha. I couldn't feel it, but that was the only instance in his performance I had any doubts about the reality of George.

In Martha's own words she is a loud, vulgar woman who is constantly whipping George because this is what he married her for. Edye Mendelson comes on brash, bold and big in the framework of a sexy, all-female type woman.

She goes about playing her vicious little games, enjoying the sight of blood until that blood is her own. Her collapse is a slow, visable, complete turn around and we are allowed to see, just for the last few moments of the play, her very real dependence on George.

Burt Louis carries off the role of Nick, the new member of the faculty, in a mood that changes from bewilderment to politeness to acceptance and back to bewilderment again, ending up with the final realization of just what is goingon between these two unorthodox people caught up in a love-hate game of married life.

He learns the precious lesson of what survival is all about.

In every production, except the movie, Honey seems lost in the shuffle. Not Jackie Bates. She lets her presence be felt and her mousey, uncomprehending inaneity show.

Even if you have seen it before, call 224-8871 to see it again February 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17 at 8 p.m.

Hurricane Is Film Subject

myself anyway, I selected their banana cream pie for dessert. This was a real experience, with the filling and cream, it was at least six inches high.

There is no entertainment at the Bull and Bear. But, if you want to be entertained by good food, then this is the place. That's the Bull and Bear, at Broad and High streets, serving lunch and dinner six days a week.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

The Marriott Inn Motel, which in my book is one of the finest around, has switched entertainment for two weeks. While Duke Jenkins is gone, the swinging trio of Sonia Modes has taken over the musical chores. They just opened, so get out there. Many of you know Sonia and her great piano stylings. With bass and drums behind her, it has got to be a gas. Sonia, by the way, is also playing for cocktail hour. She does a tremendous job, as always. Sonia will be performing during cocktail hour for several weeks. Get out and catch her, she is great. Also, plan on having dinner. The food at the Marriott Inn is fit for royalty. If you who enjoy the finest, then the Marriott Inn has to be in your dining plans. It is gourmet food at everyday prices, that's for sure. I had dinner there the other evening, very, very delicious. More on this dining extravaganza, later.....Dave Wood has been held over in the Sports Forum Lounge at Howard Johnson's-North. This guy is a one man show. His vocals and guitar stylings are highly entertaining. Wait until you hear his impressions of many of the top stars, male ad female. They are something else... The place where there is plenty of action, The Ohio Stater Inn Motel has a brand new entertaining trio. Billed as the Casa Trio, it features a gal who has it all together in the vocal department ... Knox County, with Dave Harris is back at Marco Polo's Lounge. Take my word for it friends, if you want a good time, meet plenty of new friends and hear some super sounds, then head to Mark Adam's Marco Polo's Lounge. I always have a ball at the place .... For the prettiest music this side of heaven, The Holiday Inn - Reynoldsburg has to be a must. Stu Huffman and his trio play dance music. It is nice and soft, and oh so easy on the ears. Believe me, it is great for listening. It reminds me of trios of many years back. The place is packed, all the time ... As I told you last week, Rusty Bryant is at the Scioto Inn. He is knocking them dead. Rusty has pumped more life into the place than if you shot off a ton of fireworks. Go, and hear some mighty pleasant sounds.

Everybody knows Mode Modlick, bar manager at LINCOLN LODGE. The other evening, he had his daughter, Theresa, in for a while. She attends Mr. St. Joseph College in Cincinnati. A real cute girl. How did you do it, Mod? FLASH....The well known JoAnn Farrell is back working again. She's mixing your favorite drinks Monday through Saturday all day, until 7 p.m., at Diamond Jim's. JoAnn is personable as the dickens, cute too. So, all of her own friends, stop in and say hello. While on Diamond Jim's, George Danusis, who is part owner of DJ's, just returned from his honeymoon with his new bride, Nancy. Good luck and congratulations to both of you, George and Nancy.... Married or not, get out on the town this week. There is plenty going on, all types of entertainment, something for everybody. Same is true for the restaurants. All types serving just about any type of food you may desire. Have a little fun AROUND TOWN this week.

Summer Hikes Are Ahead

TAKE your family hiking or backpacking this summer. A small backpack such as the No. 3 pack by Himalayan, shown, will carry all your essentials.

Walking has become a sport. Upwards of 20 million Americans have tried slipping away from urban life for a relaxing afternoon or weekend in America's hinterlands. A pack on their back has carried all essentials.

Last year, backpack manufacturers sold over 2 million packs ranging in price from a $5 a day bag for an afternoon hike to an $80 pack and frame combination designed for a three week trek into the wilderness. This year, sales of backpacking equipment--packs, sleeping bags, tents and freeze-dried foods--will hit $49 million retail, according to predictions of Himalayan Backpacking Equipment, a major manufacturer.

If you've tried backpacking last summer, you've probably liked it. Now that you're the seasoned veteran of a short backpacking adventure into a nearby park area or campground, you may want to look into an organized trail trip.

The most popular trails today are the wooded paths of our national parks and forests. Easily accessible, these areas offer the hiker challenging terrain, spectacular views, and, in the mountainous regions, the fun of climbing to a summit.

Maps and trail information for each State's park and forestry regions may be obtained from the National Park Service, in care of Department of the Interior, Washington, D.C., 20240; and from the National Forest Service, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C., 20250.

If you want to avoid the easier, more heavily walked regions, try one of the country's 54 National Scenic Trails. These routes tend to be traversed by hikers interested in longer more difficult hikes, but you can also select one segment of the trail for a weekend outing for yourself or your family.

Most famous of these national trail systems is the Appalachian Trail, which runs some 2,000 miles from Maine to Georgia. Less than 60 people have walked the entire route.

Engagement and wedding announcements are printed in The Spectator Newspaper free of charge.

HOW TO CATCH FISH WITH A WATER THERMOMETER

If your an early spring fisherman and can't wait to wet a line, here's a tip that will save you the disappointment of a no fish trip.

Spend a couple of dollars on one of those inexpensive water thermometers found in most sporting goods stores. If you take water temperatures you'll be able to tell when that favorite game fish of yours wakes up after it's winter snooze.

Use these approximate water temperatures as a guide to begin successful fresh water fishing in the spring of the year.

Walleys will begin to feed at forty degrees, trout and smallmouth bass begin to feed when water temperatures reach the forty to forty five degree mark. Largemouth bass, perch and other panfish begin to feed about fifty degrees, and if you artificial bait casters can't wait to get out, northern pike and muskellunge will begin to feed and hit spoons and other lures just as soon as the ice breaks up.

Some of the water thermometers I've seen will not only measure the temperature but will also measure the depth of water. Knowing temperatures at different depths will help you find those hiding schools of fish.

If I happen to have a good day of fishing I'll take the water temperature and jot it down in a note book along with the days date. Keeping a record of your catches and water temperatures will tell you when to head out for that favorite lake or stream.

I know from my past records when the water temperature reaches about sixty degress in Lake Erie, I can catch smallmouth bass casting spinners and small quarter ounce lures in eight to ten feet of water. You'll find a water thermometer will really be usefull during the entire fishing season.

GOOD BAIT FOR EARLY SPRING FISHING

I mentioned before you can catch bass when the water temperature reaches about forty five degrees, but if I have to wear longjohns and a heavy jacket to go fishing.

I would rather spend a dollar for a bucket full of minnows and go panfishing. I'll have a better chance to bring home a stringer full of fish.

You know I can't think of a better all around inexpensive bait during the early spring fishing season. I've caught bass and walleys using the three and four inch minnows.

I've used live and dead minnows for catfish, caught sunfish, blugills and crappies with the one and two inch minnows.

Honestly, there's no better bain than a minnow fished near bottom for those good eating perch.

If you can't find minnows for sale, why not catch your own. Invest a few dollars for a minnow seign and it will pay for its self in a very short time. You can look for minnows hiding in weed beds or patches near shore, shallow bays and coves, and when your driving out to the lake, look along the road for small creeks and feeder streams.

I'm sure you'll find enough minnows there to last the entire day. Keep your minnows alive in a minnow bucket, they're in almost every bait and sporting goods store.

Next week I'll tell you how to start a basic tackle box and save some money.

PROFESSIONAL HELP NEEDED

Tommy's a bright little boy, but when it comes to talking to him, you'd never realize it. He needs professional help with his speech, not just the assurance that he'll outgrow the problem. If you know someone like Tommy, make sure he gets the help he needs. Call the Hearing and Speech Center, 294-6403 for further information.

Traffic Safety Slogan Contest Rules Announced

Free use of a 1973 car for a year, plus Ohio's No. 1 license plates, can be yours for a winning safety slogan, State Highway Safety Director Pete O'Grady has announced.

The lease of a 1973 car, plus free insurance coverage (both courtesy of the Ohio Association of Insurance Agents) and the No. 1 plates, usually reserved for Governor John J. Gilligan, will be the grand prize for adults in the 1973 Traffic Safety Slogan-Essay Contest. The contest, which begins Feb. 15 and ends April 1, is open to all Ohio residents.

First place state winner in the children and youth division (under 18) will win $35. Second and third-place winners will receive $15 and $10, respectively; while each county winner will receive $5. Cash prizes are courtesy of Bob Singer Rord, Inc., Columbus.

The grand award winner in the adult category, and the first, second and third place winners in the children and youth category, along with their immediate families, will be driven to and from their homes to Columbus for presentation of the awards by the Governor. After the award presentation, they will be given a tour of the Statehouse and other state capital facilites.

Entry blanks can be obtained from any Deputy Registrar of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles or from any of the 6,000 members of the Ohio Association of Insurance Agents. Contest blanks are also available from the Department of Highway Safety, 240 Parsons Ave., Columbus, Ohio 43205.

"Participation in the contest is not only fun, it provokes thoughtful consideration about highway safety," Director O'Grady commented.

Columbus Academy Offers Memorial Scholarships

A Columbus Academy alumni committee is screening applicants for the private school's Alumni Memorial Scholarship, awarded annually to an 8th grade boy "of intelligence and high moral character."

The Scholarship, established in memory of alumni who died in the service of their country, is awarded to a Franklin County area youth who would not otherwise be able to attend The Academy.

Candidates will be screened by means of aptitude and achievement tests and by personal interviews with members of the faculty and the alumni scholarship committee.

Of the 455 students attending the twelve grades of The Academy, 42 receive scholarship aid. The Academy's curriculum is designed solely for college preparatory students and the school sends all graduates on to college.

Of the twenty graduates who have held the alumni scholarship, almost all have received substantial scholarship aid to the colleges of their choice; five at Harvard University, three at Princeton University, two each at Dartmouth College and Kenyon College, and one each to California Institute of Technology, Haverford College, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Swarthmore College, Wesleyan University, Wooster College, the University of Notre Dame, and Wake Forest University.

Winners of the scholarship have come from the followng local junior high schools: four from Gahanna; three from Holy Rosary; two each from Bexley, St. Catharine's, St. Christopher's, and Mifflin; one each from Arlington, Canal Winchester, Eastmoor, Franklin, Groveport, Johnson Park, Roosevelt, Rosemoor, Starling, Sunbury, Whitehall, and Worthington. Winner of last year's scholarship competition was Jeffrey Watiker of Gahanna.

This year's alumni scholarship committee is chaired by Tahlman Krumm '50 and Fritz Ziegler' 48, and composed of Dr. Robert Tucker '59 and Daniel Conway '73.

Applications may be amde to Assistant Headmaster Jeffrey E. Lucas at The Columbus Academy, 4300 Cherry Bottom Rd., Gahanna by March 23. Tests will be administered at the school Saturday, April 7.

CONTROL YOUR EMOTIONS

It's a well-established fact that emotions can affect your health. The Columbus Auto Club-AAA says they also affect your safety when you drive. If you're angry or anxious, cool it before getting behing the wheel. And don't let the error of another motorist destroy your calm and divert your attention from your own driving.

OCC League Wrestling Meet Is At Reynoldsburg, Feb. 16-17

By Roger Andersen

As conference wrestling tournament time comes around again to see who are the best individual champs in each weight and also to see who the best over all teams are in each conference, all eyes are on the 5th Annual Ohio Capital Conference Wrestling Tournament this year.

This should be the best one of the tournaments and should by far have the best wrestlers in the district in it.

This year the tournament will be held at Reynoldsburg High School, Feb. 16-17. The tournament starts Friday at 6:30 for the first two rounds and then back Saturday afternoon for the wrestle back. Saturday night at 7:30 will be for the consolations and finals.

The team that looks strongest in the OCC is Worthington; although, Westland and Reynoldsburg are hot on their trail. The best shot of a dark horse would be Mount Vernon, greatly improved.

98 lbs. looks like Tom Edwards from Westland should win it again this. Last year he placed fourth in the state.

His closest competition should come from Pete Schonitzer from Worthington who is 7-4 and also Mat Williams from Delaware.

At 105 lbs. it should be a toss up between Bob Stockdale of Delaware who is 17-2 and Don Parsons of Westerville who is 13-2 and also a transfer wrestler from the Cleveland area to Mount Vernon, Lee Simon who is 3-0 here and 10-3 over all.

112 lbs. looks like a real tough weight class. The first nod must go to Bruce Hambrick from Delaware, who is going after his fourth OCC title. He is the first boy ever to win three. He's a real fine wrestler placing fourth in the state two years ago and sporting a 17-1 record with 14 pins. Close behind him and looking to upset him is Westland's Ed Tarentelli who lost to Bruce last year in the finals, but beat him early in the season.

Another tough weight is 119 lbs. with the early nod going to Gene Escolas from Westland who was last year's 112 lb. OCC champ and has a 12-1 record this year. Two other returning placers from last year are Dan Few of Reynoldsburg who is 11-3 and Greg Baily from Mount Vernon who is 10-0.

At 126 lbs. we find at least five tough wrestlers with John Welsh of Whitehall, who was the 119 lb. OCC champ last year and Ron Nole of Reynoldsburg who was 126 lb. OCC champ last year. So far this year Ron is 12-2 with seven pins.

At 132 pounds Brent McDonald from Worthington who is 13-1 this season looks like a run away for the OCC Tournament and probable for the district.

At 138 pounds it looks like a two wrestler tournament for OCC champion in Bill Cochrane from Westland who was third last year and is 12-1-1 this year and Craig Bonham from Westerville who is 12-2.

At 145 pounds Marvin "Cowboy" Henderson of Reynoldsburg gets the nod with the credentials of a 13-0 record with nine pins and last year was 186 pound OCC champ.

At 155 pounds it shapes up to be a match between Mark Foley of Worthington who is 11-2 and Sam Bowers of Westerville who is 12-3 for the gold of that weight class.

At 167 pounds Dave Wickline looks strong to repeat as champion from Reynoldsburg. Dave is 13-0 for the season with 10 pins and looks strong for the state being the returning district champion.

At 175 pounds Scott McLean from Worthington looks very strong not only in the OCC but also in the state. Scott is 14-0 so far this year and is probably Worthington's best. Two other boys who will be fighting to get to the finals are Steve Nole of Reynoldsburg who is 11-1 this season and has placed third for the last two years and Ken Nugent of Mount Vernon who is 8-1-1.

At 185 pounds there is a three way fight between Mark King of Gahanna who is 12-2 this year and third last year and has beaten the other two boys already but in very close matches.

At Heavyweight The two boys that look the best are Joe Bernicken of Mount Vernon who is 8-1-1 and Brian Fry of Whitehall who was fourth last year and is 10-4 this year.

PPBS Project Planned For School System

THOMAS B. CONNERY
SPECIAL STAFF WRITER

A person's job, whether he is a carpenter, doctor, mechanic, or laborer, is much easier to do when the best tools are available.

Myron E. Kirkpatrick, Columbus schools budget director, is attempting to provide the school system with a tool that not only makes an administrator;s job easier, but also makes the operation of the school system more efficient.

KIRKPATRICK, a Certified Public Accountant with extensive business experience and a master's degree in accounting, is attempting to make Planning-Programming-Budgeting System (PPBS) operational in the Columbus school system.

PPBS was first tried in a public organization under President John F. Kennedy when Secretary of Defense Robert SQ. McNamara introduced in it in the Dept. of Defense.

THE PURPOSE of PPBS on the federal level was to aid decision makers in solving problems.

Supposedly the most effective and most efficient solutions were to be arrived at by comparing an analysis of facts and statistics concerning goals, costs' and products of existing programs to that of alternative programs.

According to Kirkpatrick, the school system's PPBS model is similar to the federal government's. However, he said that PPBS is "A bad name for a good idea."

"It tends to conjure up various things in people's minds," Kirkpatrick said, "most of them having to do with getting accountants in education, dehumanizing education, and deemphasizing community relations."

HE SAID THAT every organization has its own definition of PPBS.

"What we are working on here is the development of a good management and information system to help us run the school system better and more effectively," he said.

He added that he is looking for "a system that will not necessarily save us money but, help us to get the best results out of the money we do spend."

KIRKPATRICK SAID that PPBS will help locate places in the system where reorganization and streamlining can occur. He said that PPBS will contribute to the elimination of those programs that have not been successful.

He said that one of the elements of PPBS is to set goals and objectives and evaluate performance. This is done through the Department of Research and Evaluation.

"My role as budget director would be to assure that all the financial information about the students, staff, and facilities required for a program will be available in a reliable form so that when the instruction division wanted to evaluate a program they could get at all the relevant factors readily," he said.

ACCORDING TO Kirkpatrick, the previous system was neither formal nor centralized.

"Until this year, all the budgeting was done by a handfull of people who had long years of experience working with the various accounts," he said.

These people would collect from various parts of the system bits and pieces of information upon which they would base their decisions.

HOWEVER, AS the school system grew more complex, efforts were duplicated and decisions were based on incomplete data.

Under PPBS the key instrument is the computer, so all data is centralized and available.

"We have established a formal information system by coding all sorts of different information," Kirkpatrick said, "not just dollars, but students, staff, and facilities."

"SO WHEN YOU have a problem to solve that deals with a particular school ro a particular course offering you can go to central data base and pull out information that relates to that particular problem," he said.

Kirkpatrick said PPBS is like the decision making apparatus in a large business.

"Any large business organization that is successful and well run has some sort of information system that gathers together costs of products, personnel information, and information on machines and material that go into their product so the people sitting at the top can make intelligent decisions," he said.

KIRKPATRICK COULD not say when implementation of PPBS will be complete.

"I don't know if we'll ever be able to say we have arrived," he said, "this is PPBS."

"It is a continuing process," he added, "and we will always be making improvements and changes."

BETTER INFORMATION NEEDED

Board Discusses Drug Abuse

THOMAS B. CONNERY
SPECIAL STAFF WRITER

The Columbus Board of Education conducted its second study session on drug abuse in the schools on Feb. 13.

The first session was held on Dec. 12, and involved an exchange between board members and various authorities on drug abuse in Franklin County.

A PANEL OF teachers, students, and administrators participated in the recent discussion. Once again the purpose of the exchange was for board members to question and discuss drug abuse with the panel in order to gather information to develop a more effective drug education program in the schools.

Most of the discussion concerned the extent of drug abuse in the schools.

Leslie Evans, principal, Northland High School, questioned the validity of the 50 to 60 per cent figure of drug abuse among high school students that is often quoted by the media.

EVANS SAID that beer and wine drinking is the most prevalent problem at Northland High School.

Jane Walter, supervisor, health and physical education, that there are no official statistics available for drug abuse in Columbus.

However, Evan Stansbury, Whetstone High School student, said that based on his contact with his fellow students approximately 25 per cent of the Whetstone student body use drugs.

INA SINGLETON, Brookhaven High School teacher, confirmed this figure. She said that a survey conducted in one of her classes indicated that about 25 per cent of her students are involved with drugs.

An Everett Junior High School teacher, Paul Barton, said that drug abuse at Everett is not widespread.

Many of the board members reiterated their views on drug abuse that were presented at the Dec. 12 session.

"SOMETHING IS wrong with our values," Dr. Watson Walker said, "when we call in the police when a student has a joint of marijuana and don't call them when he has a pint of whiskey."

Mrs. Virginia Prentice said that scare tactics would not solve the problem but providing the students with more information would help solve it.

She said that drugs are a "mask" for the real problem of the student.

"WE MUST GET the students turned on to something besides drugs," Mrs. Prentice said.

Steve Buckley, North High School student, said that the Dec. 12 study session did more harm than good because police participation in the discussion suggested to students that scare tactics would be employed.

Board president Thomas Moyer told Buckley that the police representative at the Dec. 12 meeting, Captain Frank A Peterfy, was only one of six members on the panel.

AT THAT MEETING Peterfy said that police should be used "only when other methods have failed."

Marian E. Clark, South High School student said that "if you tell students it is bad to take drugs then they'll take them just to see what's so bad about it."

"Students need to talk to people who know about drugs from first hand experience," Miss Clark said.

BARTON SAID that feelings are important to students not facts.

"Students take drugs because they feel like it," Barton said.

He added that because he had never experienced a marijuana high he would not be able to suggest alternatives to such a high.

MRS. PRENTICE said she could name several alternatives. As an example she said she has often seen students high over the thrill of seeing their basketball team play and win. She suggested other sports as alternatives.

When asked what the study session had accomplished, Moyer said that it helped the board find out that students are tired of hearing that drugs are bad, and that better films are needed as teaching aids.

Mrs. Prentice said that the discussion helped the board recognize that there is a drug problem, and that the discussion would help the board deal with the problem.

Blacklick Creek Will Get Flood Plain Study

THE SOIL Conservation Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the Ohio Department of Natural Resources have agreed to provide a flood plain study for Blacklick Creek, according to Natural Resources Director William B. Nye.

Nye said the agreement to conduct the study results from strong interest expressed by local governments in Franklin and Fairfield counties.

He said the study will provide the necessary technical information to guide local officials in administering and regulating land use in flood prone areas.

THE PROGRAM would include flood plain regulations to guide development in areas subject to severe flood damage or development that could result in increased flood damages resulting from the obstruction of flood flows.

This study will show flood areas for the 50-year frequency flood, the 100-year frequency flood and the associated floodway.

The flood areas will be illustrated on aerial photographs to show the extent a particular area would be flooded.

THE 100-YEAR frequency flood is a flood that has a one per cent chance of occurring in any given year. The 50-year frequency flood is included for comparison to the 100-year frequency. The floodway is the area that must be kept free of obstructions to prevent increases in flood stages and increased damage to adjacent property.

The profiles will be developed for existing land use conditions and land use conditions anticipated in 1985.

The Soil Conservation Service will prepare the study with the assistance of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources. Franklin and Fairfield County engineering departments are providing data for the study.

THE MID-OHIO Regional Planning Commission is to assemble all available data and coordinate local input to the study with assistance from the Fairfield County Regional Planning Commission.

Local governments in the area are obtaining permission for surveying teams to gain access onto private property along Blacklick Creek for purposes of the study.

The surveys are required to obtain topographic information which will be used in the analyses. Property owners will be contacted by local officials during the next two weeks concerning the entry.

Local governments involved with the study are Reynoldsburg, Brice, Columbus, Fairfield County, Franklin County, Gahanna, Groveport, New Albany, Pickerington, and Jefferson, Madison and Truro Townships in Franklin County and Violet Township in Fairfield County.

New Betty Crocker Winner

FROM THE WRESTLING MAT TO THE KITCHEN? That's how it goes for Groveport High School's versatile senior Gregory Knight. Knight, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.M. Knight, recently won the Betty Crocker MHomemaker of Tomorrow Award. Pictured with his Family Living teacher, Mrs. Frances [illegible], Knight displays some of his culinary ability. The 185 pound wrestler said the whole class had agreed to take the test, but when the time came it was just he and the girls. He said he's been taking quite a bit of kidding but now that he's eligible for a scholarship, he doesn't seem to mind too much.

Pool Patter By Peg Pierce

Aqua-Cise – The Jewish Center indoor pool is just outside the Health Club door. On Tuesday and Thursday mornings, from 11:15 - noon, the pool is open for adult women who enjoy a swimming work out. The Health Club is open for women from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday.

We would recommend that women plan to arrive at The Center around 10:30 a.m. to do a half hour of exercise with equipment, some yoga breathing, go into the pool for water exercise, swim several laps, use the sauna, and them, enjoy a massage.

Some of the women have begun to take advantage of The Center facilities and are leaving their worries, stress, and fatigue in the locker room. Cressa Gooodman looks great when she swims; must be a natural thing for her. The melodious tones that come from the showers turn out to be Rose Kerstein. Hirsch gave Nancy Goldberg a membership to the Ladies' Health Club for her valentine.

Splashes – Larry Papier swims on Wednesday evening and won't stop till he swims a mile and a quarter. Should anyone want to challenge that, come on in and join the Adult Night at The Center pool.

The basket room attendants have stated that they are now Health Club receptionists, and have a new line of paddleball raquets, handball gloves – "red" head bands and wrist bands. Syd Mendelman says the red head bands would make for a good game of Indian.

Engagement and wedding announcements are printed in The Spectator Newspaper free of charge.

Use our HOTTEST competitor, the sun.

We're still in business to supply clean-burning energy.
And we plan to be in business for generations to come.
The future looks bright. But, the problem is . . . now.
We've been telling you about it. The natural gas shortage.
So now we're going to give you some ideas for using less gas.
In fact, we recommend our hottest competitor. The sun.
Even on the coldest day, you should let direct sunlight in through your windows.
It will help heat your home.
When there's no sun, close your drapes to keep your heat from leaking out.
It will make a difference.
And here are some other ways you can conserve gas:
Insulate your home and seal the drafty areas around doors and windows.
Have your furnace checked periodically by your heating dealer to make sure it is operating efficiently.
Check your furnace filters often to be certain they're clean.
Turn your thermostat down to the lowest comfortable temperature and leave it there.
All these things will add to your comfort and you'll use less gas.
Write for our free booklet, "30 Ways to Save", for more ideas.

Gas is precious, pure energy . . . use it wisely.

A JOB FOR UNITED EFFORT!

Let's Work Together

PEOPLE in business, labor and government must work together if we are to achieve the highest standard of living for all, says the new chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, Burt F. Raynes.

"We have nothing to consume that we have not first produced," he explains. "Virtually all the necessities of life are contained in the outpouring of mills and factories. We are dependent on this output for clothes, means of transportation, food and housing."

THIS business contribution to our way of life needs to be understood more widely by the public, educators and members of government. Misconceptions must be corrected.

Raynes said that areas of agreement in labor relations should also be identified, so that areas of disagreement can be minimized.

THESE candid proposals by an industrial leader should be welcomed by all segments of the American public as logical moves in helping our country reach its social, economic and educational goals without self-defeating bickering between special interest groups.

Have A Heart

WE'VE been close to the Heart Fund for many years dating back to our bowling public relations days when we had the privilege of working with Dick Schorr, then of WTVN-TV, on the annual Heart Fund Bowl-A-Thon.

Next to the American Red Cross it's about as close to our heart as any such organization can get.

Our fondest memory of the Sunday Heart Fund drives goes back to the 1972 drive when a plane load of Otterbein Air Force ROTC cadets and one angel, a few distinguished Air Force Officers and myself arrived at the Campus at 6 a.m. the Sunday of the drive.

WE'RE telling this story because it tells of the dedication put forth by young people when the call goes beyond that of regular duty.

The plans for the drive started prior to the time the group and I left on an orientation trip to Eglin Air Force Base, Florida the previous Friday.

All was well and serene when we left and my dear wife, along with other Air Force wives, had been generously volunteered by their husbands to bake the goodies, make the sandwiches and to generally feed the many hungry volunteers who were going to solicit funds in Westerville and Blendon Township Heart Fund Sunday.

I TOLD my wife that I'd be back in time (arrival was scheduled for Saturday noon) to go to the store, help make sandwiches (our part of the food plan) and take care of some of the chores since I had so graciously volunteered our services.

That Saturday afternoon we took off from Eglin and had to return immediately when engine trouble came about. We landed safely, called our wives, and told them we'd make it back about 6 p.m. Saturday.

That's when the fun started. By the time the plane was okayed as fit for airborne the flight had to go directly to Dayton since the elapsed hours would not permit the crew to be aloft to go to Lockbourne and get back to Wright-Patterson in time.

THE BUS that was to meet us at Wright-Patterson for the trip to Otterbein never got there and as time went by it was finally 4 a.m. before the wayward bus was located and we were on our way to Westerville.

Meanwhile, the only message received by our wives was that "the last we heard they (the plane we were in) were having propeller trouble and were going to attempt to land somewhere in Georgia."

MEANWHILE, our lovely wives were rounding up the ham and cheese and bread and started the sandwich routine knowing that their husbands wouldn't make it home in time to get that underway.

We arrived home safely after our "fun" trip and at 11 a.m. we all were at the college to start the Heart Fund Sunday drive.

My hats are still off to all the cadets and angels of the Arnold Air Society at the college for the manner in which they apparently sleepwalked their way to a new record collection that Sunday.

THEY'LL be out in force again Sunday as will a lot of people in all communities.

Dig deep, dear friends, it's a noble cause.

My Friend Jack

By Carol J. Kehlmeier

OUR friendship began that bright September we started first grade together. was a chubby little fellow with a flock of brown curls falling over his big soft blue eyes.

Even though I was a mere girl, we sometimes walked to school together. We played together after school and Jack invited me to my first boy-girl party.

JACK'S popularity began in the first grade. We all learned fast he was the smartest kid in the class. "Even though he writes left-handed and not too neatly, he's a very bright little boy," I heard Miss King tell his mother.

"I'm gonna be a doctor," he told me on one of our walks to school. "I'm gonna study real hard and be a surgeon," he grinned. "I'll operate on you free, 'cause we're friends."

ALL THROUGH grade school Jack was on the honor roll. It was obvious he was a good athlete and a good leader. Some of the other little girls used to ask me, "Who's his girlfriend?"

"I don't know," I'd answer, because Jack and I never talked about boyfriends and girlfriends.

"You can be my nurse," he announced one cold winter day on the way home from school. "No, I don't like blood and guts!"

"THEN what'cha gonna be? A teacher?"

"No!"

"Well, what then?" He grinned.

"I ain't gonna tell you 'cause it's a secret and you'll laugh."

"I will not!" He stomped his foot on the pavement. (He often did this to make his point, sometimes in class.)

"Well," I stuttered.

"What?" His voice grew loud and impatient.

"A writer, but don't you tell anyone."

"Well, what's wrong with that? That's great!" He smiled a toothless smile.

BY THE time we reached junior high, Jack was taller and thinner. He palled around with the boys, but we knew our friendship was still strong.

Jack joined the basketball and baseball teams and we kids cheered him on.

Jack wasn't popular just with the kids, the teachers all liked him too. He was reliable and bright. They could always "count on Jack."

WITH high school came the football team for Jack. And he was good! He remained on the honor roll and high on the popularity list. No one was surprised when he was elected senior class president.

"Hey, I want you to be my hostess at the senior dinner," he called to me in the hall one day.

"The most popular boy in school and wants me to be his hostess! Wow," I laughed.

"If I wasn't in love with this girl, I'd take take you to the prom."

"What girl?"

"She goes to another school. I want you to meet her. I wouldn't marry anyone you didn't approve of."

"Marry? What about college and medical school?" I asked.

"I can do that too." He smiled. "She wants to be a nurse. She doesn't mind blood and guts."

She was pretty and nice and we were all happy for our Jack.

"YOU KNOW you got what it takes," Jack told me at the prom. "I'll bet some day when I'm a rich doctor I'll come into some fancy bookstore and you'll be autographing your latest book."

"Well, I'm not going to let you operate on me even for free!" I laughed thinking of our younger days.

Jack didn't make it to college and medical school. Marriage and babies came. I saw him clerking one day in a hardware store. We talked about old times and the kids we knew. He didn't mention books and I didn't mention doctors.

I SAW JACK no more, but I often thought of him. Oh, there were rumors! He was divorced, he was ill, he was in Spain, he was this and that, but I didn't believe any of them because I knew my friend Jack.

The news came that brown November. The penetrating chill of death cutting through me. Still a young man, full of life, Jack's untimely death came.

Today Jack is with the Great Physician, the Healer.

AND SOMETIMES on cold winter mornings, when the air is crisp and still, I hear a little boy's voice, "I'll operate on you free, 'cause we're friends."

It's Your Heart That Really Counts

..THE FRANKLIN County Heart Fund campaign will conclude this Sunday, Feb. 25, as an army of volunteers canvass the county distributing heart-saving information and collecting contributions.

Volunteers will go door-to-door to campaign for funds to finance the Heart Association's many programs.

Seventy percent of all Heart Fund contributions will remain locally, with the other 30 percent passed on to fund state and national programs, according to Lou McGuire, Franklin County Heart Branch president.

Approximately 40 percent of the local funds support heart research, according to McGuire. During the past 20 years, extraordinary progress has been made in the fields of diagnosis, prevention, treatment, and rehabilitation of the heart patient.

MANY of these advances have been speeded by increases in funding for research and the application of new knowledge through programs developed by the Heart Association.

Another service made possible by your Heart Fund contribution, according to McGuire, is a program of professional education designed for physicians, nurses, emergency squadsmen, and other health professionals which helps them keep abreast of new developments in their fields.

Weekend seminars and workshops, classes for nurses working in hospital coronary care units, and films and literature provided by the Heart Association help extend the knowledge of those caring for the heart patient.

NORDAC Sprouts Wings

Drug Abuse Center Arrives In Suburbia

A DRUG abuse center came to suburbia when a need was seen by the Northland community. In August 1970, the Northland Drug Abuse Council (NORDAC) was organized. A steering committee, consisting of members from Northland Jaycees and the Northland Jaycee Wives' Club was organized to evaluate the drug problem and outline a program of education and prevention. Having met these initial goals, NORDAC was then founded with the assistance of interested young people and adults in the Northland area. NORDAC serves the Northland area, Westerville, Worthington and Upper Arlington.

NORDAC has been meeting in "Our House", a red house owned and located behind Christ the King Lutheran Church on route 161, since the first week in January of this year. NORDAC is not affiliated with the church, but the church is very community minded and loans NORDAC the building, rent free.

NORDAC serves northern Franklin County. The immediate objectives of NORDAC are to educate and inform the community of the much-publicized and growing problem of drug abuse and the resulting legal and social implications. Workshops, Seminars and a Speakers' Bureau are being developed to assist individuals and organizations in preventing the growing problem of drug abuse.

THE ULTIMATE goal of NORDAC is to establish a permanent headquarters in the Northland area providing professional guidance and assistance through continuing programs of drug educatijon and prevention.

Thirty-five volunteers have recently been trained to assist the fifteen professionals. Twenty of these people are teenagers.

"TEENAGERS relate to other teens better than adults. Teen drug abusers turn off adults many times when they'll listen to another teen." Frank McKim, a pharmacologist, and head of NORDAC commented. "Working with the churches, civic and community organizations, NORDAC would like to train parents in local neighborhoods to act as information sources and counsellors to neighboring teens."

NORDAC, through their professional volunteers, would train these parents in drug education and counselling. The "Neighborhood Parent Plan" would be similar to the block parent program that operates successful for the younger children. The success of such an effort is based partially on the premise that kids will frequently take their problems to other impartial adults rather than their own parents.

The training program would encompass drug facts, detection of drug abuse, problem of adult abuse (cigarettes and liquor), treatment and counselling and other community resources available to the drug user. The formal part of the training is ten hours (five two hour sessions).

THE VOLUNTEERS for "Neighborhood Parent Plan" should be parents of teenagers, be at home during a reasonable percentage of non-school hours and be available to kids to help them when they need it. The volunteers should have an established relationship with the neighborhood youngsters, the ability and desire to work with young people and share their problems in confidence and be able to work independently.

The professional staff of NORDAC that are involved primarily with the training program include, doctors, medical students, nurses, pharmacists, pharmacologist, psychologist, psychiatrists and students of these professions. This staff is also available for emergencies and special events.

THE TELEPHONE answering service is handled by volunteer housewives, social workers, teens and teachers who have been trained to answer calls from teens, worried parents and other concerned persons. At least one member of the professional staff will be on call to answer any emergencies when the center is opened.

TEENAGERS are not the only drug abusers. There is the housewife who takes tranquilizers or liquor to dull the noise of her children, the truck driver who takes pep pills to keep him awake on an all-night run and the college student who picks up a sugar cube with LSD to take him away from the real world and to a world of his own making. People of all ages, from all walks of life and all economic and social levels, abuse drugs.

NORDAC is needed in suburbia. Drug abuse does not limit itself to inner cities and college campuses. Drug abuse is everywhere. The concerned volunteers at NORDAC are people helping people. (C.J.K.)

Bishop Ewell Led People

It was with great sadness that we learned of the death of Bishop Clarence Elwell. Bishop Elwell had been greatly supportive of the committment to provide social justice for all people.

Bishop Elwell was always available to speak when matters of concern were to be discussed. In the past, Bishop Elwell was in the forefront as the work of the Public Assistance Reform Coalition made its presence felt.

More recently Bishop Elwell had spoken out with fellow Bishops and Church leaders concerning the violence and the churches concern for respect for life in our many war situations.

He also recently spoke for the validity of the teachings of his church relating to abortion and parochial education support.

Bishop Elwell will be missed by the religious, educational, and political arenas in which he concentrated the efforts of the local Diocese. His leadership has helped the whole of Metropolitan Columbus understand the worth and work of the Church.

Board Member Answers Letter

(Ed. Note: Mrs. Herbert Dotter, 4990 Justin Rd., Columbus, wrote a letter to the editor last month concerning supplemental material used in the schools. Her letter is answered this week by Board member Paul R. Langdon.)

Dear Mrs. Dotter:

There is some additional information which I believe would be helpful to you after reading your letter which was in the January 31, issue of the Spectator.

The School Board approves only textbooks. "The Mass Media and the Popular Arts" is supplemental material. In this particular instance, two or three months ago, when the matter was called to my attention, I had written a letter to the Assistant Superintendent of Instruction objecting to the use of "The Mass Media and the Popular Arts". Several other board members do not believe that this material should be used.

I know that myself and other board members would greatly appreciate it if you would call these matters to our attention. Since there is much supplemental material, some could be in use that would be objectionable without our knowledge. In addition, the trend is to use more supplemental material and less of textbooks and, as you know, with the trend in publishing, this is becoming a greater problem.

I am in sympathy with your concern. We are glad to work with you in order to do everything possible.

Very truly yours,
Paul R. Langdon, Member

A NEW WORD has seeped into our daily lives in recent years. Government on all levels has reached such mammoth proportions that the average citizen can only guess whom to contact when services are needed.

A simplification was needed, a single number or name to call on occasion when the cold breath of indifference came out of a political office.

SUCH HAS been the case in Ohio's new Environmental Protection Agency (EPA). Systems-oriented, the EPA office designations do little to tell the outsider who does what. Needing info on illegal sewers, dead fish, a smoking stack, or trash where green ought to be, the schematic or even personnel list of EPA would give little in the way of clues.

So it was that an ombudsman was appointed to take your call and do something about it. (The IT might be either giving you the proper number to call OR it might be taking action.) That very important position has been filled by Mrs. Rodger (Adele) Mitchell, a Columbus woman very active in lobbying for good environmental laws and backed by the Ohio League of Women Voters.

ADELE'S past performances before both houses of the Ohio Legislature was superb. Her testimony was always a high spot for environmentally-concerned citizens. She was foremost in the fight for better stripmine reclamation and was a leader in the year-long fight for an effective EPA in Ohio.

It is well recognized that the law finally passed was way short of perfect but Adele stood her ground to the last, trying desperately for the inclusion of citizen suits and many more items found in more fortunate states.

Adele has only been at work for a few weeks, starting right after the new calendar year. Her temporary phone number is 614-469-8972. Later, when she gets her desk in out of the hallway, she expects to have an Enterprise (800) number you can call from anywhere in the state, toll free.

Adele has only one boss. She serves right under Dr. Ira Whitman and should be able to cut a lot of red tape that might discourage many others. Let me put it this way - if the position does not live up to early predictions, it will not be the fault of Mrs. Mitchell. She is the right person for the job.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Mark the Ombudsman number on your phonebook cover. You might need it to report environmental insults.

Pinball Gaining As New Campus Sport

GINGER ALLEN(left) and Carl Osborne were the two winning members of the Ohio State Pinball Team in a recent three way tournament. This was the 14th win for the team which has only been in existence for about a year. Pinball, according to Osborne, is becoming a popular sport on college campuses around the country.

It was 14 in a row for the Ohio State pinball team as they downed both Capital University and Michigan State in a three-way tournament.

Pinball, a relatively new sport on campuses around the country, is apparently gaining in popularity and in participation.

THE OHIO STATE team was formed last year by Carl Osborne, a freshman sociology major from Columbus. Osborne said he formed a team while attending Ohio University but then transfered to OSU.

"It was really sort of a race. A friend of mine here, Ginger Allen, was going to start a yo-yo team and we decided to see who could get their sport going first."

Osborne said Allen won the race, but later joined the OSU pin ball team as well.

"WE'VE PLAYED matches against Wright State, Otterbein, Ohio Wesleyan and a few others in the area," Osborne said.

"I think pinball has just recently started gaining popularity on the campus. A lot of people have played before, but there weren't teams."

Osborne and Allen said they usually play a couple of games a day to keep in practice between matches. Their favorite pinball machine is the Zodiac at the Carnival Shop on N. High St.

AS TO WHAT makes a good player, Osborne said, "mostly it's timing." It's knowing when to hit the flippers so that the ball will get the most force." He also admitted there's a good bit of luck involved too.

Members of the Capital University team who played in the recent tournament were Jan Parkinson, a sophomore and Jerry Nummi, a junior.

They said the Capital team has been in existence for about a year and that the other three members are Tom Wonderly, Bob Holt and Peggy Hoelscher.

NUMMI AND Miss Parkinson said they had played pinball before and when they heard Capital had a team they decided to take the sport more seriously.

Janet Vanaplt represented Michigan State in the tournament. She said Michigan State has had a team for three years and that this is her second year as a member.

So if you're a pinball enthusiast, better keep in practice--the Olympics may be just a TILT away.

JERRY NUMMI and Jan Parkinson represented the Capital University pinball team in the tournament recently with OSU and Michigan State. The Capital team was started about a year ago.

It Couldn't Happen But It Did!

You won't believe it; she still can't believe it, and yet it happened to Mrs. Herbert Fineberg.

The day started out normally enough until she walked into her meeting. The living room was overcrowded with women, so Sally and Jerry Fineberg decided to go into the adjoining room where two other women were already sitting. "Why did she sit in front of them?" you may ask. It was fate.

The luncheon that day was an Israeli one which consisted of falafel, fried eggplant, etc. with a slice of tomato. The tomatoes were provided by the Finebergs. All 70 of them had been home-grown. They were succulent thanks to Herbie's tender loving care.

To get back to the story, as they were eating, Sally turned around to ask one of the women where she was from. When she said Rochester, New York, Jerry immediately turned around to meet Rae. Her husband had worked with Jerry's father over 35 yrs. ago. She had been to Jerry's family home and in turn Jerry's mother, now deceased, had been to hers. They had both attended the same synagogue and Rae remembered her family well.

By this time, Jerry was completely overwhelmed and had to compose herself since she had to introduce the speaker at the meeting that she was attending. Just then, another woman walked over and introduced herself as Florence, formerly of Rochester, again her mother's friend. Her daughter, (who coincidentally lives a few blocks from Jerry) had gone to school with Jerry's sister Lila.

Whoever said, "Truth is stranger than fiction," would have underscored 'stranger' after her experiences that day. But, wait, the biggest coincidence of all was yet to come. Florence recalled that she was in Jerry's home playing bridge with her mother over 31 years ago, the night that Jerry's father died. How could the past merge with the present in only a few moments. She sipped her coffee and tried to remain calm and collect her thoughts.

To conclude one of the most unusual afternoons in her life Jerry spent the rest of the afternoon at her home with Rae and Anne showing them both her mother's eulogy (given 17 yrs. ago) and pictures. Oh yes, Anne was a very good friend of Rae's and had lived in Rochester for over a year. She moved to Columbus.

Anne almost didn't make the meeting, and Rae had come for the first time.

Jerry exclaimed to herself as she sat in the meeting that day, "Thank you dear Lord for putting me in that seat!"

THIS PICTURE, given to Mrs. Herbert Fineberg, by a friend whom she had met in Florida. The friend, Lucy had taken the above picture of Jerry Fineberg and her mother at Menikoe Point, just 3 miles outside Portland, Maine. Lucy had known Jerry's mother 50 years ago. How did she meet Lucy? Another coincidence. While visiting the apartment of a close friend, Roda, in Florida, Jerry met Lucy and Lucy just happened to have the snapshot with her.

women is that they shave everyday, taking with the shaver dead cells that clog the pores.

Have you ever wondered why all the skin on your body is much softer than your face, your hands and feet? Miss DuPont feels that it is due to the constant exposure to the air, wind and sun. I found out that now is the time for all good women to come to the aid of their face, but before the face, be sure and take a look at your inner-self and your motives for wanting to be beautiful.

Beauty Is More Than Skin Deep

BY BETTY BROWN

One of the more pleasant aspects of working with women's news is the simple fact that one can keep up with helpful beauty tips.

In a recent conversation with a beauty consultant's representative, Miss Teresa Dupont, I was impressed to find out that in the training programs for pending cosmotologists, there is a trend toward the study of the inner-self to begin with. In other words ladies, to say that one looks bad due to the stress and strain of being a housewife and a mother is actually not a good excuse.

There is quite alot of simple aids that can help to take care of your skin. Some that I learned about, from Miss DuPont, are probably unknown to you and might prevent your skin from looking older than it actually is.

Hint 1 is do not use tissues on your face because as you already know, all paper has wood fibers in it be it tiny or minute. These can harden the skin, and some women who find that they are developing allergic reactions because of the new make-up that they bought, might stop and think that maybe when they wiped the make-up off they might have been getting tiny, tiny shreads of wood in their skin which is cutting and irritating the underneath layers. Use as much cotton as you want instead.

Hint 2 is never to use soap on the face due to the harmful alkali involved. This type of regular deodorant soap will leave a residue over your face which will aid in drying the skin and making one look older that she should.

Your skin produces 3 billion new cells a day. The dead cells form a layer on the skin and as a result one will develop wrinkles. If a regular body soap is applied over these dead cells, along with the residue from the soap, just think how quickly your skin will show the effects of age. The reason for men not aging as rapidly as

And So It Grows

Say ladies, are you having problems with your house plants—smothering, becoming spindly, drowning? Could be the cause is water and oxygen. Plants can very easily get too much water and not enough oxygen. The oxygen problem can be the result of using a potting soil with too much clay and silt.

Clay and silt particles are very small. They clog up air pores in the soil and keep the plant's roots from getting enough oxygen. This can kill the plant.

Experienced gardeners get excellent results with good garden soil. A safer bet is to use a good mixture made of soil, organic matter such as sphagnum peat moss, sawdust (well rotted), bark, hulls, straw, or compost, and a coarse aggregate like sand, gravel, varmiculite or perlite. A rule of thumb mixture is two parts soil, one part organic matter, and one part sand, perlite or equivalent. If soil is extremely heavy, increase sand or perlite.

This combination adds air space, is lighter, won't compact, and has good pore space and drainage. Sometimes the planting medium plugs the drainage holes. To avoid this happening, put small stones or broken pieces of clay pots over the drain holes before filling the pot with soil.

Mr. and Mrs. William Kahn were hosts to the 20 men and their aides from the VA Hospital in Chillicothe at their home last Tuesday. Lunch was served the men prior to a bowling party held at the Jewish Center.

The party was part of the program sponsored by the National Jewish Welfare Board, Women's Service Committee. Mrs. Kahn, who serves as chairwoman of this Committee, has been active with its program for many years.

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

"KNITTED CLOTHES are so much a part of a woman's life today that it takes a code of fashion signals to show other women she has taste and fashion knowhow." according to Bob Brown, Kimberly's genial Vice President. The fine points of fit and details—even the way the yarn is twisted, make up the fashion message of a knitted costume.

THE KIMBERLY clothes cover every occasion in the prettiest, most feminine and dashing way for Spring—the office, the committee meeting, the country, travel, the formality of the cocktail party, intimate dinners and charity balls.

In their showing at the American Designers Series in New York, Kimberly summarized the renewed chic of dressing for special reasons. The opening scene linked each costume to a specific use: a trim, crisply contoured town suit with a jacket over a slender skirt and sweater top, or a supple pants outfit in double knit jacquard for country and travel; an easy indispensable patterned knit shift or a new twin-sweater dress for luncheons in town. Kimberly introduced new knit cocktail suits glinting with metallic threads and swingy, sexy palazzo pajamas in a large herringbone knit with a satiny sheen, to be worn with all the new glamour accessories, sleek headband, platform sandals and loads of pearls. For the first time, Kimberly completed their fashion panorama with a stately evening dress in fine, flowing pastel Trevira knit, with a spiral band of white flowers.

Candy colors and all the blues from powder to navy will make this the most lighthearted Spring in Kimberly's fashion history. White, ivory and beige are important too—but black and every dreary tone are forgotten in this light and airy collection. Good news for Kimberly collectors!

Life Around The Table

Once again life revolves around the table. Today's newly married couples are living a lifestyle that incorporates elegant, small dinners and casual, fun-filled buffets into their entertaining ways.

More important, newlyweds are using what their parents referred to as the "good" table service for their own pleasure and enjoyment. These young couples recognize and appreciate the beauty, the worth, the artful craftsmanship in quality silver, china and crystal.

What better way to gift them on their wedding day, asks the Jewelry Industry Council, than with table appointments that will be used and loved from the very beginning of their life together?

Silver first

Silver flatware, the most enduring and permanent part of the table setting, is usually chosen first by the bride, since her china and crystal patterns must be coordianted around it. To help the bride and her well wishers, the fine jeweler who was so helpful in advising her during the selection of her silver pattern, will keep a bridal registry listing the name of her pattern, the pieces she already has and those she wants to add to her service.

A six-piece place setting is the traditional norm, consisting of knife, fork, teaspoon, soup spoon, salad fork and butter spreader. But even a three-piece place setting of place knife and fork plus teaspoon will help to bring the much-wanted beauty of silver into that new home.

Essential serving pieces, individual teaspoons, dessert forks and the like are also welcome gifts to the bride.

Hollowware

Silver holloware – particularly buffet warmers, trays, multi-purpose bowls, coffee service – is ideally elegant and practical whatever the mode of entertainment. This is especially appealing to today's busy bride who usually has a dual-career of homemaker and professional.

Gourmet ware of silver is a good gifting idea, too, especially when the groom shows a chef's flair.

Modern china follows the same route of versatility: contemporary colors, designs, and mixes of the two within a set, over-to-table-to-dishwasher qualities, multi purpose servers are for today's bride. So is the idea of two sets of china: fine china in a traditional mood, perhaps, and a more casual set of dinnerware.

Successful china gifters will have consulted the bridal registry also, where they will get ideas on what are their favorite bridal couple's china preferences. A place setting of china consists of dinner plate, salad plate, bread and butter plate, tea cup and saucer.

The crystal pattern recorded in the bridal registry and chosen by the bride to coordinate with her china may be traditionally deep cut or banded with sterling or gold. It can also be newly and excitingly colored, in deep earth tones or muted shades like plum.

Your bride may even have both, if she is lucky enough to have two china services. All this makes for equally exciting and diversified crystal wedding gifts. Choose yours from any of the crystal place setting components: water goblet, sherbet, wine glass, salad plate.

Or surprise the bride with something she might not think of asking for: a beautiful decorative item in crystal. Perhaps one around which she can create a centerpiece that will be the talk of the dinner party, meriting her the compliments her beautifully gifted table deserves.

Sew Your Own

The girl who's learned to sew in high school, and takes pride in being one-up on fashion trends, is likely to be the bride who opts to sew her own wedding gown. It's one sure way of expressing her own highly developed taste. And it's in line with the simpler, more natural trend of today.

Where is it written that a bride must be done up in satins and lace? Great – if she's the type – and lots of girls are. But even greater is the freedom of choice, in design and fabric, available to the bride who elects to sew her own gown for that great day.

This year's bride may choose from all the light, airy fabrics, like dotted voile, pique, and organdy and leno, that are easy to sew and lovely to look at. Their prices, as the practical-minded miss is sure to note, are a fraction of the cost of luxury fabrics.

Since the average pattern calls for under five yards, it's easy to figure the total cost of the dress well within the most modest budget.

And just think of the compliments the bride will garner for the originality and freshness of her wedding party theme

Westland Takes Five Titles

Worthington Matmen Win OCC Title

WESTLAND with five and Reynoldsburg with four won the most individual weight titles last weekend in the Ohio Capital Conference (OCC) wrestling meet but Worthington successfully defended its title with a lot of consolation, seconds and wrestle-back wins even through the Cards won only three titles.

Walnut Ridge copped the Columbus City meet with 86-½ points while West finished second at 85 and Northland was third with 81-½.

Grove City swept everything off the mats by winning the Mid-8 meet with 161 points (10 of 13 titles) to second place Groveport's 81 and third place Bexley's 72.

Franklin Heights finished third in the Metro loop meet with 72-½ that was won by Olentangy with 140 points and seven of the 13 titles.

IT WAS nip and tuck all the way in the OCC with Westland winning an unprecedented five titles for a league meet record. Other than Worthington, Reynoldsburg and Westland, only Whitehall managed a title.

The final tally in the OCC meet was: Worthington, 112-½; Reynoldsburg, 91; Westland, 78; Westerville, 49-½; Mt. Vernon, 44-½; Gahanna, 29; Whitehall, 24-½ and Delaware, 21–½.

Champions were:

105-Doug McLean, Worthington pinned Don Parsons, Westerville.

119-Gene Escolas, Westland, decisioned Dan Few, Reynoldsburg.

132-Brent McDonald, Worthington, decisioned Bill Barrett, Reynoldsburg.

155-Mark Foley, Worthington, decisioned Sam Bowers, Westerville.

185-Mark Hall, Westland, pinned Mark King, Gahanna.

Sectional Mat Meets At Two Sites

The sectional high school wrestling tournaments will start this weekend at four sites.

The triple AAA schools will compete at Reynoldsburg and Worthington while the Class A and AA schools will vie at DeSales and Marysville.

The hour schedule is 4 p.m. Friday and 1 and 7 p.m. Saturday at all meet sites.

The finals will be March 3 at Upper Arlington (Class AAA) and DeSales (Cass A and AA) at 1 and 7 p.m.

Four wrestlers in each class from the sectionals will qualify for the finals at Arlington and DeSales.

The state meet will be held March 9-10 at St. John Arena at Ohio State.

Bishop Ready Defends In Class AA

League Winners, Others, Seek State Cage Crown

COLUMBUS South made it two in a row in the Columbus City League, Delaware hung on for the Ohio Cap Conference crown, Grove City took it all in the Mid-8, Bishop Ready defended its Central Catholic loop title successfully and Olentangy and Dublin shared the Metro title.

That's how the action went as it closed another exciting and up and down high school basketball season.

SOUTH came into the city title with a decisive win over Mohawk while North was surprising East.

DELAWARE was downed last week but runnerup Westerville also lost although that title was decided a week ago.

GROVE CITY outlasted London in an overtime duel to capture the Mid-8 title from Hexley.

DUBLIN took Teays Valley and Olentangy narrowed Hamilton Township for a share of the Metro loop crown.

BISHOP READY won a squeaker from Wehrle although the Silver Knights had the title locked up last week.

Tournament time is with us this week and the area roundballers start the state title quest in Class A, AA and AAA with openers tonight and continuing through the next four weeks to the state final matches.

Ready is in good physical shape to defend its Class AA title, Marion Pleasant (18-0) could be the sharpie in Class A while the AAA title could fall South's way if they can keep their momentum going. It would be a first if teams in the Central District action came home with all the marbles.

THE ACTION will be on seven courts: All Class AAA at the State Fairgrounds Coliseum, Class AA at Groveport, Newark, Westland and Marion and Class A at Grove City, Lancaster, Marion and Mt. Vernon.

South starts the Class AAA action Thursday, Feb. 22 with a 6:30 p.m. clash against Groveport, OCC champ Delaware drew a bye and will play the Franklin Heights-Mt. Vernon winner at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday, Feb. 27.

LION IN ACTION

Ski Conditions Are Available By Phone

Beginning immediately, Ohioans may call toll-free to Columbus to determine the skiing conditions at the nine commercially-owned ski resorts in Ohio.

The toll-free ski reporting service will be available 24 hours-a-day, sseven days a week by calling 1-800-282-0250.

The service is sponsored by the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development through its Travel and Tourist Bureau which promotes the state's winter sports facilities.

The taped report which will be called "Infohio," will give the conditions at each ski resort, what facilities are operating and the hours during which the slopes will be open.

"After the ski season is finished, we will use the toll-free line as a service to inform Ohioans as to what festivals and events are upcoming and other suggested leisure time activities available," according to Dr. David C. Sweet, director of the Ohio Department of Economic and Community Development.

Sweet said the goal of "Infohio" is to better acquaint Ohioans with the vacation opportunities available right here in their own state.

Motor Home Association Serves Own Members

By J. H. MARTENS
Editor, Family Motor Coaching

The maneuverability of the 28-foot Avco allows it to get into out-of-the-way picnic and camping areas such as this wooded area near Callaway Gardens, Georgia.

Not too long ago, in fact 1963, a handful of motoring buffs decided to get together in Maine to watch an eclipse of the sun. What made them unique was that most had converted buses into rolling homes containing everything including the kitchen sink.

While nature's phenomenon was the main attraction, they had so much fun rallying together they made plans to do it again the next year. As a result a new kind of club was born, the Family Motor Coach Association (FMCA).

Today the FMCA is organized into 22 chapters nationwide and boasts a worldwide membership in excess of 10,000 families. Another difference from the early days is that only a small percentage of the members own converted school or transit buses.

In 1972 the industry produced approximately 100,000 units and expects to produce an estimated 150,000 during 1973.

There are over 200,000 vehicles on the road today and their owners, some like to call them the highway jet set, roam the Interstates in rigs ranging in length from 18 feet to over 30 feet and priced from $12,000 to $125,000.

They don't waste time getting away from it all. As one member said recently at a rally, "When Friday comes, I just like to pull the shade down on my job and go!"

And grass certainly doesn't grow under a coach's wheels when the travel bug hits a family. Averaging about 12,000 miles a year, they really burn up the highway.

How To Save Money Buying Lures

Want to save some money when selecting lures? With so many manufactures offering such a large number of artificial lures on todays market, you can really get confused, but remember that copys of the lures that were made "way back when" are continuing to show up in stores. So stick with the name brand. Most of them have been tested, and proven that they will catch fish before they are even put on the market.

If I hear of a new brand name lure that's being used at a certain lake or river with success, I'll buy one and really give it a work out for an hour or so. If I don't catch any fish with it I'll change to a lure that I know works. When I do catch a fish, and I think others might be in the same area, I'll switch back to the new lure to give it a chance when fish are around. You know if you use a certain lure at just the right time and it works, it becomes a favorite. The very same lure at the wrong time and no fish, you consider it a dud and way back in the tackle box it goes.

How important is color? As an experiment the next time fish are really hitting your artificials change to a different color and keep on casting. I've done this on several occasions and almost every time the color of the lure made very little difference. The thing to remember during this experiment is to use the same size and weight lure.

For easy spincasting the lures you choose should not weigh less than one eighths ounce and no more than three eighths of an ounce. In choosing surface lures you have a limited choice because most of these lures have light colored bellys and different colored backs. Remember the back side isn't even seen by the fish.

A very succesful class of lures are the ones that float at rest, but go under the surface when you retrieve, they're hard to beat. Try to pick colors that match the minnows or bait fish common to the water you are fishing.

Next are the lures that sink when dropped in the water. They're only needed when fish are in water too deep to reach by the floating and diving type. Ninety percent of my bait casting is done in water no deeper than ten.

Three Basic Lures

I've been asked if I had to fish with only three basic lures which ones would they be. Most fisherman, including myself have too darn many lures and some of them don't even get wet during the entire fishing season. But if I had to choose only three. I would start off with a top water lure, one that floats chugs, pops and churns the water as I retrieve it. Bass will hit them on surface, and if I add a weight, I can fish it at any depth.

My second choice is one of the lures that float at rest, has a lip in front that causes it to dive under the surface when retrieved. It will take bass, walley and panfish, and can be fished up close to fallen trees, rocks and shore line where fish sometimes lay.

My third choice would be a weedless spoon with a strip of pork rind attached. It's one of the oldest and best lures to catch bass out of heavy surface cover when other lures would snag up on your first cast.

If you become a fishing bug like I have you'll look in your tackle box one day and say, I wonder which lure will work today, lets see, that one, this one, or maybe it's the one I have in my other tackle box.

Next week I'll tell you how to spend a nickle and catch more fish.

Financing A Vehicle Painless

Purchasing a recreational vehicle doesn't have to be any more of a financial burden for the average family than the purchase of the family car.

A variety of financing arrangements give the buyer a broad choice of plans. In buying a pickup truck, for example, you will probably elect to take the full 36-month payment period, similar to the standard car purchase. If the camper unit itself is bought with the pickup, it can be included in that financing package.

Even longer financing periods are available to buyers of motorhomes. Five years is about the average, although there are dealers who will finance up to seven years. Again, the same general terms of a new car purchase will probably apply. The down payment required will depend on the dealer and your own credit record. It can go as high as 25 per cent in some cases or as low as a few hundred dollars.

But the ability to spread the purchase out over a relatively long period of time substantially reduces monthly payments and puts a handsome RV package within financial reach.

So, if you want to get away in your own recreational vehicle, it may be much easier than you think.

Establishing a vacation home on any campsite is one of the advantages you can enjoy as a trailer owner. And financing it is basically no different than financing a family automobile.

After-School Program Expanded By Board

The after-school recreation and tutoring program successfully operated in six Columbus schools over the past year will be expanded to four more schools this week, Mrs. Marilyn Redden, a member of the Board of Education, announced recently.

The board member said the program is being added at Cassady Avenue, Cedarwood and Medary Elementary Schools, and Hilltonia Junior High. The school are located in areas of the city where other recreation facilities are not available, said Mrs. Redden, chairman of the Board's Community Relations Committee, which, together with the Columbus Community Relations Committee, developed the plan for the after-school program.

THE PROGRAM, conducted jointly by the school system and city government, will operate in the four new schools Monday through Thursdays from 7 to 9:30 p.m., the same schedule in effect for the original six schools. A teacher, three city recreation department workers and a policeman will be on duty at each of the schools, Mrs. Redden said.

The after-school program is financed in part by federal Safe Streets funds, and the way was cleared for continuation and expansion of the program when approval was recently given interim funding for the project.

Cliff Tyree, a former city community relations director who has beeen instrumental in obtaining funding for the program, said interim funding of the project was authorized by Judge John V. Corrigan, chairman of the Ohio Criminal Justice Supervisory Commission, which disburses Safe Streets funds in Ohio.

Tyree, now Youth Services Bureau administrator, said the commission was unable to consider the request at its February 2 meeting due to an oversized agenda. Formal approval of the request is expected at the commission's next meeting in March.

The request was previously approved by the Columbus-Franklin County Criminal Justice Coordinating Council, local administrator of the Safe Streets funds, and the State Administration of Justice Division in the Ohio Department of Development, the state agency administering the funds.

CORRIGAN'S APPROVAL will enable the program to operate until the full commission can give formal approval to a request for $43,580 to continue the expanded program through May.

THE AFTER-SCHOOL program is considered highly successful by school and city government officials, as well as community residents.

Tyree said about 1,000 students take part in the program in the six schools where it currently operates and estimated that with the addition of the four new schools the program will serve about 1,800 young people.

"It's one of the most successful programs funded by Safe Streets," Tyree said, adding that the program's success "shows what can be done when people get together to work at a problem."

TYREE SAID he sas also pleased by the cooperation between the schools, police and recreation departments, and local and state government officials in carrying out the after-school program.

The program was also praised by Mrs. Redden, who cited as one of its "Most important successes" the relationship established between police officers serving in the project and young people who take part in the program.

"The tutoing, constructive use of energies in sports and the reative thinking encouraged in table games and crafts has given boys and girls good ways to spend evening hours," Mrs. Redden said.

Smith Receives Air Force Award

"Lt. Smith flew an extremely hazardous mission through adverse weather conditions and through the constant threat of hostile ground fire and attack."

Smith graduated from Walnut Ridge in June of 1965 and from Ohio State in June of 1969. He received his pilot training at Reese Air Force Base in 1971.

He was stationed in Vietnam from June 1971 through July of last year. He is presently stationed in Maine.

B'nai B'rith Women Launch Campaign

Mayor Thomas Moody declared Friday, Feb. 23 through March 1 as B'nai B'rith Women's Week in Columbus. This launched a coordinated membership campaign by the five Columbus chapters of B'nai B'rith Women.

Twenty four hundred women will be contacted via a city-wide telethon Sunday, Feb. 25, to tell them of B'nai B'rith Women's work in the areas of community service, and fund-raising, both locally and on the national and international level.

Three-fold is the purpose of the drive which will last one month. It is to gain new membership, obtain 100 per cent membership of the current ranks and create new chapters in the community. In this drive the key is the importance of the member and how BBW fills her needs.

This is the 41st coordinated membership campaign conducted in cities throughout the United States and the first for Columbus. It is coordinated between the Columbus community, district and national. (BBW)

It was preceeded by a two-day workshop conducted in Columbus with such key people as Mrs. Bruce Millen, BBW's National Director of membership from Washington D.C. and Mrs. David Blumoff, BBW's National Membership Chairman of St. Louis.

The steering committee for the drive, chaired by Mrs. William Goldman, includes: Mrs. Robert Freedman acquisition chairman; Mrs. Milton Leeman, awards chairman; Mrs. Harry Bruce and Mrs. Irvin Dworkin, continuity chairmen; Mrs. Robert Bender and Mrs. Donald Mayes, prospects chairmen; Mrs. Jerry Schwartz and Mrs. Morris Boster, publicity chairmen and Mrs. Abe Green and Mrs. Philip Gurwin, culminating event.

AROUND TOWN

Rusty "Night Train" Bryant has always been a top performer with a first rate group of musicians. But in all due respect to the talented men I've heard play with him in the past, as the ole saying goes, "you aint heard nothing yet." His new aggregation currently appearing at the Scioto Inn, is out of sight. They have more drive, spirit, fire and brimstone than any other group in Columbus. That, dear readers, is a mouthful. It's the truth, though.

RUSTY IS the same as ever, that is to say one of the greatest sax players in the country. He handles the horn with T.L.C. (tender, loving care) The hot notes he blows on the swinging numbers, darn near burns down the Scioto Inn. His treatment of "Satin Doll", "Watermelon Man", and "Night Train", plus a host of others are nothing short of fantastic.

Rusty has always had a knack for taking promising young vocalists and polishing them into stars. Nancy Wilson and Gwen Connley of the 50 -50 Club are just two examples. Well, the old pro had done it again, with the like of Dot Pearson, a young gal who wail out vocals with dynamics and excitement. She has a fascinating tonal quality, plus absolute control of everything she touches, vocally. Her rendition of, "Close to You, " and "Misty," were just two of many outstanding vocal enjoyments offered by Dot.

The group is billed as Rusty Bryant and Heavy Brothers featuring Little Dot Pearson. The Heavy Brothers make up the instrumental backing of the outfit. They also do some nice vocal work, too.

JOHNNY WRIGHT is the bass man, a superb one, to be sure. Johnny also sings up a storm in a rather high, unique voice that I could listen to all night long. Leon Cook is the guitarist. He, along with drummer Mike Moss, are both musicians, par excellence. They, along with Johnny and Rusty, create some very nice vocal harmonies. In fact, their vocal harmony is closer than the shave you get with that double blade job.

Rusty Bryant and the Heavy Brothers play music, music and more music in a wild, exciting style that features heavy melody lines and strong toe tappin' rythyms.

THE SCIOTO INN has practically been jammed packed ever since Rusty and the crew began. You'll find Rusty and the crowd at the Scioto Inn Wednesday through Saturday. If you are like me, plan on spending the evening. I drop in for an hour and stayed four.

Dick Tucker, the manager of the OHIO STATER INN MOTEL, has done it again. He has come up with another first rate act. Not only is the Casa Quartet a way out super powerhouse, they are a brand new group. All of the members are "old pros," but this is the first time they have worked together. If they had not told me so I would not have guessed it. They perform as if they had been working together for some time.

CATHY CASA is the honey bun of a singer with the quartet. This gal has a fine, clear voice. Just her tonal quality alone, will flip you. Hearing her sing is like looking through a crystal clear pool of blue water. It is also just as refreshing.

Cathy is backed by some mighty talented musicians. Mark Foster is a highly qualified organist. This young fellow lays down some tough sounds at the electric keyboard. Mark also dishes out entertaining vocal sounds. Another guy with a voice I really enjoyed is guitarist Jon Townley. This fellow sings up a storm, as well as creating a whirl wind of excitement on the guitar. John Riccardi at the drums is as equally as talented as the rest of his companions.

Put them all together and they form the, Casa Quartet which means plenty of good instrumentals, top vocals, both solos and harmony and darn good entertainment. It all happens Tuesday through Saturday at the all new Ohio Stater Inn Motel.

I TOOK the traveling typewriter on a little trip recently to one of the most beautiful, most elaborate resort hotels that I have ever seen or even heard about.

Sawmill Creek Hotel is its name. It is located on 3,200 feet of the finest beaches on Lake Erie, about four miles west of Huron, Ohio.

THE REASON I am telling you about this lovely oasis fo fun and relaxation is that it is only an easy two hour drive from Columbus. Just let me say one thing before I go any further: I could write a million words about Sawmill Creek Hotel, and yet would not be able to convey to you its charm, warmth and beauty.

Even a dozen photos could not convey to you the delightful experience awaiting you. You have to see it to appreciate it. Plan on spending a night or two, or more, or just drive up for dinner. You'll love it.

When you arrive at Sawmill Creek Hotel, here are some of the things you will find waiting for you. There is an 18 hole championship golf course, tennis courts, paddle tennis, nautre trails for walking among beautiful surroundings, snowmobile courses, ice boating and ice skating, skeet shooting and many other outdoor sports,

AROUND TOWN

A CREEKING WATERWHEEL, live fish in a forest brook, and an old mill recreated, welcome Sawmill Creek guests to the Port of Huron of one Hundred fifty years ago. In sawmills like this, white oak was turned into planking for naval and merchant ships that tamed the Inland Seas. Today, old friends – and new ones – meet at the Sawmill. Each doorway from this room leads to a different atmosphere, designed for fine dining, entertainment, informal fun and recreation.

depending on the season and weather.

FOR THOSE of you who prefer indoor recreational activities, there is a huge swiming pool with water cascading over a beautiful rock waterfall. In the pool area you will find one of the largest whirlpool baths. I have ever seen, as well as sauna rooms for men and women. A rather plush billard room, and a large game room with ping pong and many other types of games are at your disposal.

SAWMILL CREEK HOTEL is a great place to take the kids. Besides the game rooms, there are many other activities to keep them occupied. This is one place where children are welcomed with open arms by the staff and management.

Now, let's take a quick tour of the hotel. Upon entering, you walk through a forest of apple and elm trees. The apple trees are loaded with big red apples. This entrance area is breath taking. Besides the forrest, a huge paddle wheel is operating, gently splashing water into a small stream as it turns. As you stroll across the wooden bridege leading into the dining and cocktail areas, I had the feeling as if I were walking in the woods, down on the farm.

THE FIRST dining room you come to is the elegant Sawmill Steakhouse complete with a great open hearth, captivating "Serving Winches and leather aproned bus boys. A very large charcoal brazier turns out delectable steaks, chops and ribs. The relaxed " lodge - like atmosphere is emphasised here with interesting old saws, log handelers and other memorabilia of sawmill days, which lend plenty of nostalgic authenticity to the decor.

Adjoining the Steakhouse is the Crow's Nest Restarant. This is a gourmet's delight featuring fresh seafood and a large raw oyster bar. It has a handsome ship salon decor creating an interesting, unique atmosphere.

AS YOU probably suspect the food in either restaurant is superb. If, for no other reason, you must visit Sawmill Creek just to experience theri fabulous food. Here again, the only true way for you to savor their culinary arts is by dining in one of their restaurants.

Next to the Crow's Nest is the Wharf Lounge, with a quaint lakeport setting. The bar is an exact replica of a sailboat. Very interesting, that's for sure. The evening I was there, The Odyssey, a high powered show group was performing. This is just one of the many top show groups that appear in the Wharf Lounge during the year.

My favorite pick of all is the Bird Cage Lounge. This is a tropical indoor garden under a glass dome roof, which is filled with songs of hundreds of live birds along with a pool containing a panarama of goldfish. Here you may have breakfast, lunch or your favorite beverage.

BESIDES banquet facilities for 15 to 1,500 there are fireside conversation nooks so that you do not have to stay in your room by yourself. In these areas, like the Brandy Room, the open fire place, richly furnished, heavy use of authentic weathered brick, wood and stone makes them, like the entire hotel, a warm hospital environment of a colonial Inn of the early 19th centruy.

In order to further dramatize the atmosphere, all the employees are appropriatley costume, requireing a full time wardrobe mistress and seamstress, plus a theater make up aand dressing room.

Sawmill Creek Hotel gives you the very best in rest, recreation, food, entertainment and service. It is all within two hours of your time, at Huron Ohio.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

FLASH..... Arthur Allis, the general manager of the Marriott Inn Motel, and his lovely wife Bettye, becâme the proud parents of a 6 pound 14 ounce boy, this past Sunday, Feb. 18. Both baby and mother are doing fine. My personal congratulations to both Bettye and Arthur .... Speaking of the Marriott Inn, this is the last week to hear the great, and I do mean great Sonia Modes Trio. Sonia's sidemen are Gary Harmon on the stand up bass, and Wally Gitchel at the drums. The three of them play some excellent music. SSonia really wails at the black and whites and recieves plenty of help from Gary and Wally. Many of the numbers are given wonderful jazz treatment. Get out there this week. Of course, Sonia will till be playing cocktail Hour at the Marriott for many weeks, yet .... The Vegas Club is bringing back the great Freddie Boom Boom Cannon this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Many of you will remember Freddie as a recording star from the old rock and roll area serveral years ago. He made such hits as "Tallahasssee Lassie," Palisades Par," and he now has a brand new record of, "Let's Do It Again.." Freddie last played the Vegas Club in December, when he packed them in for every performance. He is comming directly from Los Angles to the popular Vegas Club. Take my advice, make your reservations now.

ACT TWO

Eugene O'Neill was foremost in the group of young playwrights and actors which began around 1915 and was known as the Provincetown Players. His works, all comments on our social structure, it's injustices, hypocrisies and cruelties, were destined to become American deama classics. Players Club has chosen one of these, "The Great God Brown", as their only experimental presentation this season.

Director Angelo Dragonette deems it to be truely experimental in that the masks of Greek deama are used to convey the lack of communication and understanding between people, espically husbands and wives. If we were to take off our masks and allow others to see us as we really are, thoes who have known us longest would recognizi us least. Tryouts are Sunday, February 25 at 2 p.m. and Monday February 26 at 7:30 p.m. at the theater, 549 Franklin Avenue.

I suggest you read the play before going to tryouts, The cast calls for six men and five women. Three boys from ten to fifteen years of age are also needed.

Little Theatre Off Broadway begins a three weekend run February 23 - 24 of "Cactus Flower", the zany comedy about a psychiatrist and his trouble with women. But then I don't want to give away the entire plot, let the director, Brenda Burris, and her cast fo that for you by calling 875-3919 for reservations. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m.

Also opening February 23 is "See How They Run" at Worthington Community Theatre under the direction of Curt Meeks. This is ine of the classic comedies of our time, and becaued of it's content, may be thus considered for ages to come. If you deel like andevening of honest laughter, go to the Josephinum Aditorium, 7625 North High St., Worthington, just north of 270 on Febuary 23 - 24, March 2 - 3 at 8:30 p.m.

My spies tell me Michael McGree is directing "Man For All Seasons" at Little Theatre Off Broadway. Auditions are February 25 - 26 with many men needed. Good luck, Mike, this is a tough one.

Lamplighters, the Ohio State University theater at the Newark campus is doing "A Phoenix Too Frequent" in place of "Antigone" as originally announced. The production will be held in Founders Hall on the Newark campus February 28 through March 4.

Bill Knapp Opens New Restaurant

Bill Knapp's Michigan, Inc. has opened its third Columbus area unit at 1640 Lonsdale, just off Livingston Ave. in the York Plaza Center.

It is the Michigan chain's 29th restaurant and 9th in the state of Ohio.

The new restaurant's architecture is styled after a New England Town Hall, with interior motif to compliment that theme.

It seats 180 persons, with a private dining area available for groups up to 80 persons.

Knapp's motto is "Good Things To Eat". The menu lists homemade soups and desserts with a wide variety of en'trees. Specialities include chicken'n biscuits, southern fried chicken, steaks and seafoods.

There is a children's menu and a birthday club for youngsters. Children from one to ten can register their birthdays--so Knapp's can invite them to a complimentary cake and ice cream party for themselves and their friends.

The co-managers of the new restaurant are Miss Connie Webster, Service Manager and John Waite, Production Manager. Its Upper Arlington unit, at 2199 Eiverside, opened last June.

The Worthington unit, at 6851 North High St., opened in November. Paul Geiger and Bill LaVoie are co-managers.

Manager Appointed

Richard Tucker, general manager at Ohio Stater Inn, 2060 North High St. has announced the appointment of Michael LeVan as assistant manager. LeVan, from Shelby, Ohio is a graduate of Ohio State University. He has been employed at the Ohio Stater for 2½ years as front desk supervisor and auditor. He will supervise all departments of the Inn.

Your carrier is counting on you.

Andersons Schedule Crafts Classes

Area women will have a chance to break out of the Winter doldrums and learn a craft when Andersons Garden Center holds five classes on popular creative craft techniques from 10 a.m. to 2 i.m. each day next week.

Experts in various craft techniques will give step-by-step instructions and procedures for creating lovely handicrafts for the home. Working along with the instructors, the women will be able to complete the day's project during the four hour class and learn a new spare time hobby.

Monday, Dried Flower Arrangements on Glass will be taught by Ursula Sanders. Tuesday's class will be on using Mod-Podge by Jody Eichenberger. Wednesday is Dried Flower Arrangements on Wood by Ursula Sanders. Thursday will feature Techniques of Decoupage taught by Jody Eichenberger and Friday will be devoted to Procedures for Planting Terrariums with John Prose and Bob Nocks.

Admission is free with a small charge for each project's materials. Participants are asked to bring a sack lunch; coffee and dessert will be provided.

Those interested should call for reservations at 231-7556 between 5 and 9 p.m. Classes will be held at Andersons Garden Center in the Berwick Shopping Center on Refugee Road.

Andersons is also planning something for the men. Saturday and Sunday, March 2-3 they will hold a free Turf-Talk Clinic during which experts will explain proper Spring lawn care and how to prepare turf for seeding and fertilizing.

Insect and weed prevention, crab grass control, lawn nutrition, and watering will also be discussed. Clinic hours are Saturday 9 to 5:30 p.m. and Sunday 10 to 5 p.m.

Pilot Program Begun

Board Moves Against Drug Abuse

THOMAS H. CONNERY
SPECIAL STAFF WRITER

The Columbus Board of Education took a positive step in its fight against drug abuse by authorizing funding for a drug abuse prevention program at its Feb. 22 meeting.

The program is a pilot or experimental one developed by the Ohio State Department of Education, Drug and Health Education and Community Services and will be used in 16 Columbus schools.

Champion, Hilltonia and Yorktown junior highs will be involved, and Beatty Park, Eastwood, Pilgrim, Highland, Lindbergh, Wayne, West Mound, Burroughs, Oakmont, Olde Orchard, Woodcrest, Easthaven and Maybury elementary schools in September 1973.

If the program works well it will be expanded with the addition of three high schools in September, 1974.

Supt. John Ellis said the program "Takes the approach of understanding behavior,and concentrates on helping the student to cope with life's problems."

Ellis added that no scare tactics will be involved in the program.

HE SAID THAT THE program "has been developed and field-tested by teachers, administrators and researchers."

Dayton, Lima and Parma are three Ohio school systems that are presently using the program.

The 16 Columbus schools were chosen on the basis of geography and ethnic distribution. The schools selected are not necessarily ones with severe drug problems.

Ellis described the program as a "solid, positive approach to the drug abuse problem."

"It is a promising approach," he said, "not necessarily a final approach."

BOARD PRESIDENT THOMAS Moyer said the program is a "direct response to what we heard in the meetings with students and others."

"We're going in the right direction," Mrs. Virginia Prentice said.

However, Mrs. Prentice said she would like to see more school space used for extracurricular activities. She said that the busier the students are, the less time they will have for drugs.

In public participation, the board heard William M. James, 2865 Proctor Dr.

JAMES HAD APPEARED before the board in October and had requested that someone form the human relations committee review his sons' school profiles and remove all adverse remarks.

At that time James said that his children were not being treated as "Human beings" but as "Criminals."

James told the board this time that the "situation is worse than ever." James specifically referred to Johnson Park Junior High and its principal, Roger L. Dumaree, who he said has "too much authority."

However, when James began making further accusations against Dumaree, Moyer prohibited him from continuing.

"I WILL NOT PERMIT you to make these accusations publicly when Mr. Dumaree is not here to defend himself," Moyer said.

Ellis said that following James' first appearance before the board James met with school officials, and some of the remarks on his sons' records were removed. He said that other remarks were justified and were allowed to remain on the record.

Ellis defended Dumaree: "He is one of the most capable school administrators our school system or any school system anywhere has."

DR. WATSON WALKER agreed that Dumaree was a "most capable" administrator, but said that further action should be taken until the problem is resolved.

Ellis said that he would arrange for James to meet with the board's human relations comittee. He said the meeting would be closed to the press and the public.

Ellis also issued a statement mourning the death of Bishop Clarence E. Elwell on Feb. 16.

He said Bishop Elwell "was a great educator.'

"I shall always remember him as an educator with an ecumenical vision willing to tackle the tough problems," Ellis said.

FOR CAPITAL UNIVERSITY

Regents Approve New Budget

The Capital University Board of Regents has approved a balanced budget for the upcoming fiscal year, totalling about $8.9 million. This represents an increase of slightly more than 10 per cent over the budget for the current year.

The expanded budget includes provisions for salary increases and adjustments for the 1973-74 contract year.

Meeting on campus Monday and Tuesday, the board also approved the addition of 14 full-time positions at the university, 11 of which are in the instructional area.

In other action, the board granted emeritus status to: Helen E. Bowers of the counselling staff, and Dr. Kenneth Martin of the political science department. Both will be retiring at the end of the current academic year. Miss Bowers has been associated with the university in various faculty and staff positions since 1945; Martin has been a faculty member at Capital since 1939.

Board members also expressed appreciation to the Ohio, Eastern and Michigan districts of the American Lutheran Church for support of the tri-district minority scholarship fund. The three districts--which share joint ownership of Capital--initiated the minority aid program several years ago to provide scholarship assistance for minority students and to provide funds for minority programs.

Two Columbus men, serving as regents members, were appointed to committee chairmanships for the remainder of the year. They are: William E. L. Young of 731 S. Remington Rd. appointed chairman of the board's committee on academic affairs; and Walter R. Tarpley of 2737 Castlewood Rd., chairman of the board's student affairs committee.

Columbus Names Outstanding Policeman

Patrolman Robert Stout was selected "Policeman of the Year" and was presented a plaque from the Exchange Club of Columbus Feb. 15.

Patrolman Stout was selected from a list of nominees submitted by immediate supervisors based on his performance during 1972.

He has been a member of the Division of Police since May 1, 1966 and is presently assigned to "D" Company.

It's an honor to be in that company. It is a tactical unit which works primarily during trouble hours. We take our car and equipment home so we're ready to move when ever and where ever there is trouble," Stout said.

"D" Company works roofs at Christmas time. If there are a rash of robberies, rapes or murders the unit can be pulled out to concentrate on the problem until it's solved, he said.

This makes his job different from the average policeman, he said.

"I like to be where the action is. I was shot once, but I think when it's your time to go you go no matter where you're at. If you enjoy what you're doing, do it to the fullest," Stout said.

He plays basketball and football and builds snowmen with the neighborhood kids. He also helps build floats for the parades of the Holly Hill Civic Association.

"I like to have fun with kids," he said.

Stout and his wife, Sally, have two daughters, Tammi and Sheri.

He has been a member of the Police Honor Guard for four years. He is a member of the Moose, Holly Hill Civic Association and was active in the Explorers section of the Boy Scouts.

Close to Christmas he volunteers his time to pick up and deliver toys for the Marines' Toys for Tota drive. He likes to be where he can help, he said.

PT1. Stout was born and raised on the west side and graduated from Franklin Heights High School.

Sergeant Daniel Wardlow, the supervisor who nominated Pt1. Stout for the award said, "Patrolman Stout is a very conscientious and dedicated officer and projects a professional image not only to the public but to his fellow officers as well."

First Baddle Tourney Scheduled March 3-4

Joe Schaller, Ph.D., 1884 Bairsford Dr., expects about 3,000 participants to be swinging away at the skill sport he invented when the first annual Baddle Championship Tourney opens March 3-4 and 10, at the Salesian Inner-City Boys Club Gym, 80 S. Sixth Street.

The tourney runs from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.

The tournament, open to boys and girls, men and women in the age categories of six-eight, nine-11, 12-14, and 15 and over, is being sponsored by Columbus Sears stores and Skill Sports, Inc. of which Schaller is president.

"ALL PROCEEDS, including the 50-cent entry fee, will go directly to Columbus Inner-City Salesian Boys Club," Schaller said.

The tourney is single elimination and games will be played until only one remains in each division. Trophies will be awarded to the top three finishers in each division.

Schaller describes Baddle as a game requiring only two players, two chairs, and a ceiling, in addition to the simple game components.

Players are positioned facing each other and about six-eight feet apart. "The object of the game", says Schaller, "is to swing your 12-inch Baddle bat at the foam cube, the Un-Ball, which is suspended by a string from the ceiling.

When a player misses the Un-Ball or leaves his chair, attempting to swing at the Un-Ball, the other scores a point. The game is over when a player scores 11 points."

ENTRY FORMS, as well as Baddle games, are available at all Columbus Sears stores, Gold Circle stores, Children's Palace, Kiddie Korner, Harts Family Centers and Cochran Pharmacies. Entry forms also may be brought to the Boys Club on the day of the tourney.

"The games require quick reflexes and "is a great way for a youngster to develop eye-hand coordination," Schaller says.

Baddle was invented quite by accident. "I invented the game as something to occupy my three sons on a snowy day," Schaller said, "but then realized the games potential for providing entertainment as well as a challenge."

SCHALLER HOPES that the Baddle tourney not only will help the up-hill struggle of the Salesian Boys Club to remain in operation but also will expose the new sport to the Columbus community.

The Two R's

We had a taste of journalism's Shangri-La several Saturdays ago.

It came in the form of new life breathed into our veins through more than 250 budding journalists who joined forces to create an exciting workshop of the High School Press Club of Central Ohio.

It was our good fortune to not only judge the editorial entries in the high-grade competition but to also be part of a panel that afternoon with our portion dealing with editorial writing.

THERE WAS no doubt in my mind about my subject matter that afternoon. It had to be concerning an incident in Reynoldsburg in 1971 where the high school principal had confiscated an issue of the school newspaper on the grounds, in his own words, that "I felt that several articles were inflammatory, some contained objectional innuendos and at least one was inappropriate for a school newspaper ..."

I read the school newspaper at length time and again before I felt I could consider myself qualified to pass judgement on what the articles in question concerned and my feelings about the rights and responsibilities of journalists, whether they be high school, college or professional.

MY EDITORIAL was titled "Responsibilities Go With Rights" and I read this editorial verbatim as my part of the panel.

I explained my position and the reason for writing the editorial prior to and after my panel obligations.

The editorial is being reprinted here as is without comment since a court case involving the paper's confiscation is in the process involving the high school principal, school administration superintendent and school board and some present and former students.

We submit, however, that our feelings have not changed one iota and our editorial speaks our opinion today as it did in the December 1, 1971 issue in which it originally appeared.

THE EDITORIAL follows:

It would be simple to dismiss last week's "Doubloon" incident as a "tempest in a teapot," writing it off as another in the increasing series of "student-vs-administration" tests of strength.

But we do not feel that is a fair dismissal-especially to the students.

First, we believe it is important to determine the reason for and function of a high school newspaper.

It is our opinion that a school newspaper is a teaching tool, much like a chemistry lab-it's function being that of instructing a student in the mechanics of journalism.

But along with mechanics, such as page makeup and writing headlines, the philosophies of the profession should be made an integral part of the course.

The prevalent philosophy of today's journalism is a blinding pursuit and defense of "the right to know", "freedom of the press" and subjective (as opposed to objective) journalism.

The first two goals are undeniable worthy, the third-in many cases-justified.

However, journalists are supposed to be instructed as well in the second "R" of the communications media-responsibility.

While "rights" are the mind and heart of the good journalist, "responsibility" must be his unfailing conscience.

Responsibility in any kind of communication media involves a presentation of both sides of every story, clear and unmistaking separation of "news" and "opinion" and a presentation of "facts" which are free of descriptive adjectives like "nearly", "basically" and "almost."

Unfortunately, all members of the communication media have not served their profession well and are poor classroom models for the aspiring journalist.

But, after investigation of the school newspaper edition in question, we find a glaring imbalance of rights vs responsibilities.

And, we believe, we are not unqualified-in this instance-to make such a judgement.

The two are inseparable-one meaningless without the other.

And lacking either, the newspaper-whether it be the "Doubloon" or the New York Times-is a charlatan, undeserving of trust or welcome.

CONSOLIDATION NEEDED

For Better Management

THE Administration's positive moves to achieve a consolidation of federal departments, agencies and commissions is most encouraging.

The Congress now should give favorable consideration to the President's recommendations to reorganize the Executive Branch for dealing with the major functions of government–apart from those traditionally assigned to the Departments of Treasury, Justice and Defense. The four departments would be Community Development, Human Resources, Natural Resources, and Economic Development.

THE streamlining of the Executive Department is a step towards the elimination of divided and devisive responsibility, duplication and overlapping of programs, nonessential paper work and the reduction of red tape.

Flowery Funds

To paraphrase a time-worn Shakespearean phrase: "A flower fund by any other name would smell as sweet."

Anyone naive enough to believe that "flower funds" are non-existent in today's political circles has been going around squarely in circles him (or her) self.

Everytime we hear about this fund being used as a political issue in any campaign it only leads us to further believe that people can be as gullible as they want to be.

"Flower funds" or whatever you want to call them, have existed long before the days of Socrates and will continue to exist as long as political patronage is a part of the political cycle.

What grabs us by the seat of our pants is that today's politicians mention it during political campaigns against the incumbent, generally, as though it, like profit, is a dirty word.

It is the penalty a politically-appointed job holder must expect to pay as part of the gravy train handout he expects to receive for his loyal support of the winning candidate.

Anyone thinking any differently just "ain't with it at all".

Honor Or Farce?

(Ed. Note: The editorial writing first place winner in the 1973 High School Press Club of Central Ohio competition was Miss Debbie Swinehart, Marion Harding High School. Spectator Executive Editor Ray Adams was the category judge.

The editorial is being reproduced here with permission to emphasize what we have been saying all along - our young people are doing a lot of thinking and not only the wishful kind.)

By Debbie Swinehart

Homecoming queen-an honor or a farce? ecstasy or agony? This seems to be a question frequently tossed about around the lunch-tables, in the halls, and in many classrooms.

Beginning in 1947, homecoming has become a tradition at Harding. The main question is-is it a tradition worth continuing? Or is the pain obvious in too many eyes (including those of the ones chosen) too big a price to pay for the superficial honor?

Inequities in the voting process, pressure on the girls (friendly or unfriendly) and particularly the question of representation are a few of the basic problems with the election process for homecoming.

The nominations did not seem to be exactly in order and the semi-final election was heatedly debated when it was found that some girl who was nominated did not appear on the ballot. Many decided not to vote in a contest they considered unfair. This same thing happened last year.

This year's election had an added touch of farcity. No one (except those who are personal friends of the top ten girls) knew who the runners-up were, let alone what they looked like. In years past, pictures of the top ten were usually posted in the display window now housing various cosmetics. This year, no pictures were taken. There was no attempt made to let the students see the girls and decide who they wanted to represent their school.

Although there is an amount of excitement and glamour to the idea of becoming queen, many girls in years past have found it impossible to cope with the envy of their fellow classmates who become suspicious of every smile, joke, and kind word passed on by those chosen. The girls are often in a confused position and do not know whether to act friendly, shy or snobbish. If they are friendly, people often think it is only to get votes. If they are not, then they are called snobs. One thing certain-they cannot be themselves. Too many envious females vent their frustrations about not being chosen directly at the ones who were.

The honor, based on good looks, pleasing personalities, social status, and all-around winner, is a great honor in itself, but is knowing you're on top worth the ugliness one meets?

Some students have been asking for the abolition of this "tradition." One student suggested a Homecoming week-end. This would involve a picnic, a dance for all (including alumni) and the game.

Is Homecoming a real Homecoming? The dance which takes place the night after the game is for Harding students only. What about the alumni for whom homecoming is supposedly held? Shouldn't it be more appropriately called "the Fall dance?".

The abolition of this "great" tradition would probably be a kindness. The only ones who would probably object are those who make the money from this special game (and it makes a lot of money), and the parents. Most parents feel that since it was good back then, it has to still be good. Well, times have changed.

Heart To Heart To Heart

LAST WEEK we wrote a little about the Heart Fund drive in the community of Westerville where we have been privileged to be a part of the drive by assisting the Otterbein Air Force ROTC.

Last Sunday our hopes for the country's future was given another boost when numerous members of the college's sororities and fraternities added their weight to the campaign by joining in the door to door solicitations.

A new record of residential contributions was reached that exceeded the 1972 total by more than 18 percent, or $365.01 to be exact.

AS WE HAVE indicated in another editorial remark on this page we like to have our faith renewed now and then by people of all ages whom we know to be working in the best interests of humanity.

Although the day was dimmed a little by the knowledge that this particular Air Force ROTC unit is in the process of being phased out it didn't dim the enthusiasm of the ROTC members who participated in the drive.

WE'D LIKE to say thanks to all the area volunteers who gave their time and efforts in this Heart Fund Sunday spectacular that saw the best people come to the foretront as is the usual case when a worthy cause' success is at stake.

Constitutional Amendments Face Voters On May Ballot

By Alan E. Norris
State Representative

OHIO voters will face at least seven proposed amendments to the Ohio Constitution as the result of work last week in the General Assembly. In addition to the five proposals offered last fall, one new amendment and the splitting of a previous one added to the total.

There were five joint resolutions passed during the last year's session, which will be up in May for approval by the electorate. They are:

HJR 17, to permit "quick take" of property by local government units for water and sewerage puposes.

HJR 69, relative to the dissolution of the Supreme Court Commission.

SJR 28, which would authorize the state to conduct a lottery, the proceeds of which would go into the state general revenue fund.

SJR 27, relative to the compensation of municipal judges and the right of the General Assembly to amend rules of practice proposed by the Ohio Supreme Court.

One proposal (SJR4), adopted last week by the Legislature affects the form in which SJR 27 will be on the ballot. It provides that the Secretary of State must serparate the measure into two parts for voterapproval, in light of a recent decision by the Ohio Supreme Court which held that voters must have an opportunity to vote separately on proposed constitutional changes.

THE ONE additional constitutional proposition submitted for the May ballot by this session is HJR 5, which would meodernize the organization and procedures of the General Assembly. One provision would remove the Lt. Governor as presiding officer of the Senate, permitting that body to select a member as its leader, the same as is now done in the House by the selection of its Speaker.

Among the proposed constitutional amendments not acted upon in time for a position on the May ballot were:

HJR 1, which would grant a cash bonus to veterans who served in the armed forces during the Vietnam conflict. Differences between the parties centered on the method of funding the bonus. House Republicans tried unsuccessfully to have the measure funded out of the state general revenue fund, while House Democrats insisted on funding the bonus through a property tax increase. After approval by the House of the bonus, with a property tax funding method, the Senate amended the proposal, providing for funding through the general revenue fund. A move by House Republicans to concur in the Senate amendment failed, and now a committee of conference must meet to work out the method of funding.

HJR 4, which would allow payment of legislators' necessary expenses.

HJR 13, designed to require that agricultural land be appraised on the basis of "current use" rather than the land's "best possible future use."

Girl Scouts Pay Spectator Tribute

To the Editor:

On behalf of Troop 61 and the 750 Girl Scouts and adult Volunteers in Reynoldsburg we wish to thank you and The Spectator for the great publicity you recently gave us.It is people like you who make it a pleasure to work with young people.

Scouting has a great deal to do with the quality of tomorrow's society and only through the media can our story be told.

Few people are aware of what it is all about nor what we hope to teach the girls. Your story did more to tell our story than any other way could be found.

The excellent coverage of our cookie sale helped the Girl Scouts in Reynoldsburg and Pickerington to sell 12,330 boxes. Out of this total amount troops will realize a profit of $1233 and will give much joy when they are camping.

Again, the Reynoldsburg Girl Scouts salute you, Ray Adams, our "Man of the Year" and wish you much joy and health.

Mrs. Louis Tartell
Service Unit Director
On behalf of 750 girls and 135 adults.

Appreciates Our Interest

To the Editor:

I wish to take this opportunity to thank you for the very cordial welcome last week and for taking time to discuss the Better Business Bureau and its work.

We are indeed grateful to have your interest and support.

Prison Inmate Offers His Help

To the Editor:

Dear Readers,

I am an inmate of London, Ohio Correctional Institution serving a two-to-fourteen year sentence for breaking and entering. Although I have never known the adversity of prison before, I would like to be a voice of experience that could speak out to others, both young and old, in hopes of helping them help themselves.

The reality of prison cannot be fully understood unless one has experienced it in someway or another. This is where I'd like offering myself, telling others of this environment and explaining what being in prison can bring into the human life.

The tragic suffering, the hurt and the empty loneliness is everlasting! I'd like advising people that what they now may feel is right may possibly later prove to be very wrong.

I cannot blame others for searching, because, I too, once searched. It's only human nature to want and desire more and better things out of life, but it's the way they're attained, at times, that's wrong.

I know, because I'm now incarcerated for trying to obtain what I wanted from life in the wrong fashion. If someone would have mentioned to me a few years ago that I was leading myself into prison I would have told them how absurd they were being. But then again maybe not.

So friends if you'd like having a pen pal, a friend, or just merely someone to talk with, I'm free and am willing to do all that I possibly can, if only you'll forward that first letter to me.....I'd like meeting each and everyone of you, but, please, lets not make it within the walls, or within the fences of prison.

Lets make it through letters because you'd find my home here very dissappointing and very lonely.

God, Peace and Love be with you.....

Respectfully,
Rex Foster, 134-041
Post Office Box 69
London, Ohio 43140

Room For Thought

To the Editor:

Dear Mr. Adams:

Thank you so much for taking time to speak at the Central Ohio High School Press Club.

I'm really glad the students were able to hear your fine presentation.

I do agree with your statements about editorials and I think you made the students think about them.

Sincerely,
Mrs. Angela Parks
Journalism Instructor
Marion Harding High School

We, Too, Enjoyed High School Workshop

To the Editor:

Dear Mr. Adams:

On behalf of the High School Press Club of Central Ohio, may I thank you for your participation in the 19th annual workshop Saturday at Ohio State University. Your talk was forthright and interesting, and I only wish the students had more time to ask you questions about mutual concerns.

Some things are gradually changing in high school journalism. I certainly agree with you that the school newspaper's first responsibility is to report school news objectively and accurately. I also agree that since student reporters are in a learning situation that they have an even greater responsibility to be sure that the words they write don't reflect adversely on anyone.

The things that are changing are reflected in the Newspaper Guidebook of the National Scholastic Press Association. They reiterate your stand that news writing must be objective. However, they point out that students today are demanding more of a voice in school and community affairs.

As the Guidebook points out, "They reflect a more informed, sophisticated and liberal society which is profoundly affected by increasingly powerful mass media."

I think this is why many students want to voice their concerns about community and national affairs in editorials. World concerns in the past few years have affected their lives very drastically, because many students have not known whether or not they would be drafted or would be able to plan for a career.

Because 18 year olds are now able to vote, they also want a voice, many times through their school newspapers, that speaks to their political concerns.

A survey I recently took indicated that local student newspapers are gradually, but definitely, moving outward in their social outlook. I think it's probably more difficult to be a high school newspaper adviser today than at any other time because of the desire of the students to expand their school walls, and the need for the students to serve a valid function in their school community.

One thing never changes, however. That is the desire of journalists to teach young people the importance of a newspaper in a fast moving society. By sharing your concerns with the young people at the workshop, you stimulated them to realize that what they have to say is important, and they have a responsibility to report, even in editorials, honestly and factually.

Thank you so much for coming, for serving so capably as a judge and for the help that the Spectator newspapers gave to encourage young people to further their interest in high school journalism.

It was a real pleasure to hear you and talk with you. Perhaps sometime you would be willing to come to one of my journalism classes where you can talk informally with the students. I do hope we have a chance to talk again about our mutual interest in journalism.

Mrs. Wm. F. Behnke

Eastland FFA Wins Five Gold Medals

At the annual Spring Evaluation Meeting of the FFA, District 9, held at Madison Plains High School, the Eastland FFA Chapter received six awards. Five of the awards were gold and one was silver.

Sandi Reeves, Treasurer, received a gold award and first place in the district for her treasurer's book.

Larry Woodward, Reporter, received a gold rating for his scrapbook.

Gary Fenice, President, won first place awards in both Agricultural Mechanics and Agricultural Business and will be representing the Chapter in state competition in these areas.

Criteria used to evaluate the record books included: neatness, accuracy, spelling, and completeness.

In Agricultural Business and Agricultural Mechanics, the scope of the applicant's supervised occupational experience, leadership developemnt, and specific experiences gained were major determining factors in the judging.

The FFA awards program is designed to encourage leadership and the developemnt of the skills and abilities needed to meet the occupational objectives of students in Vocational Agriculture.

THE EASTLAND FFA ranked high in the district in many areas of competition last week. Included were three gold medals. Enjoying a view of the reporter's scrapbook that rated "Gold" are from left Advisor Gene Hauser, Sandi Reeves, Gary Fenice, Larry Woodward and Adviser Clyde Keathley. (Photo by Ray Adams.)

EASTLAND FFA President Gary Fenice does tractor repair at Tayler and Son Implement, Canal Winchester. He is a student in Agricultural Business. (FFA photos.)

LINDA EDWARDS gets her work experience at Eve's Flowers. She is also an Agricultural Business student.

FEDERAL revenue sharing is Uncle Sam's way of going in debt to please his individual states. Ohio will fall heir to almost 95½ million dollars of our Federal income tax money.

The largest bite will go to vocational education buildings and equipment - $34,300,000. Second in the bread line will be the Department of Natural Resources with a hefty $18,500,000 for parklands, scenic rivers, hiking trails and waterfront improvements.

THE ENVIRONMENT will receive five million bucks for community water and sewer extensions. Settling a very long and hard-fought battle over a unique area threatened by highway construction is a proposed $405,000 for purchase of Cedar Bog.

All this information is contained in Ohio House Bill 50, authored by Rep. Myrl Shoemaker (D-Bourneville) who, no doubt, was chosen to write the bill for the Administration. (Such expenditures must be finally settled by the Legislature.)

With a Democratic House and only one-half a vote from being a tie in the Ohio Senate, chances of H.B. 40 being the final voice in the revenue sharing game is pretty good.

It must be noted at this writing that all 95 million are planned for capital improvements and $50,000 for operating expenses of the Ohio Education TV Network Commission. It must be supposed that the use of one-time Federal funds for already on-going program expenses would be detrimental to future funding from domestic sources.

With the lack of green space around and in many metro areas, it would be nice if some of that $18½ million would go for bike trails, walking room and fish-stocking where the people are.

OHIO EPA is scheduled to receive 2½ million for public water supplies. How this would be spent is unknown at this time; presumably, in treatment plants and deep-well drilling.

If Ohioans MUST pay more and more taxes, seeing it returned to them as environmental improvement and recreational facilities takes a good bit of the sting out of the process.

LIFELINE SUGGESTION: Can you name your U.S. Senator and Congressman?

Traditional Red, White And Blue Tune Of Canterbury Unit Women

By Betty Brown

It was as charming an afternoon as I can remember. The Canterbury Unit of the Columbus Symphony Orchestra Women's Guild met Wed., Feb. 21 at Scioto Country Club, for their annual luncheon and style show. The theme for the afternoon was, "The Truth In Fashions."

It had been a long time since the colors extraordinaire, red, white and blue had been used for any function that I had had the opportunity to see. What better colors than these to symbolize the Canterbury Unit's theme and to also represent the women themselves. The Canterbury Unit is only one unit out of many which are directly connected to the Columbus Symphony Orchestra patrons. The money that is raised is primarily for symphony maintenance and for this annual luncheon. Most of the women present were active participants in other clubs and organizations. So, evidently, there is never a dull moment with these fine ladies. Hosting this event and I might add, a Pearl Mesta of Columbus Society was Nita Bethel. I had the opportunity to sit with her during the luncheon. Her vitality and vigor as was seen by all, make her a dynamic figure in our community. The President of the Canterbury Unit, Mrs. John Stephens, was seen eagerly taking care of all her members. Seen with her was Kay Graph, co-chairman. Both of these women being fully in charge of co-ordinating fashions and food did an entertaining and wonderful job. Seated with Mrs. Stephens was Miss Fran Orndorff, the new Manager of Montaldo's Dress Shop, also seen was Rosemary Duffie Larson, an active official in the Democratic Party. The clothes that afternoon ranged from fushia chiffons to a long flowing floral print dress, once undone, revealed a one-piece bathing suit, worn by a delightful and cute personality, Lee Rinker. By the way, all the clothes, from a leading women's clothier were modeled by women from the Canterbury Unit. 400 tickets were sold and that meant that it was sold out. Due to the co-operative efforts of many, the castle of Canterbury women ended with a lasting smile.

Dr. And Mrs. Bernard Katz Speak On The Sephardi Jew

BY BETTY BROWN

Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Katz who are currently residing in Worthington are two highly interesting people. Saturday afternoon Feb. 24 at the home of Mrs. Helen Nutis, I sat and thoroughly enjoyed a conversational afternoon with 40 Hadassah women and the guest speakers Dr. and Mrs. Katz.

To tear oneself away from the goodie table was an awsome chore but the aftermath was well worth the effort.

Dr. and Mrs. Katz arrived from Jerusalem last summer with their two children. Dr. Katz is a top internist and he had had his own private practice in Israel. Now, he is studying Aerospace Medicine at Ohio State University which has the best school for this in the country. Dr. Katz is a native of Holland and like his wife most of their conversations are held in French.

The topic of the afternoon rested on the Sephardic Jews, their culture and way of life. Mrs. Katz is a Sephardi Jew and as Dr. Katz mentioned, he never actually studied them until he met his wife. Dr. Katz pointed out that there are two types of Sephardi Jews, those that come from Arab countries and those that come from the European culture. However, one cannot compare the different Sephardi Jews from the Arabian countries because they are all basically alike. The word Spharad in Hebrew means Spanish and a Sephardic person is a Spanish person. Mrs. Katz as she humorously put it said even though she was a Sephardi, she was a native Moroccan, and as a native Morrocan, she is a French person, and because she is a French person, she is a Dutch person, because her husband is Dutch, and when she speaks to the Arabs, she is their sister and to top it all off, she has 3 Canadian children.

Does Mrs. Katz sound like a complicated and vibrant woman? It would seem that a woman who speaks 6 languages fluently and is an Ambassador to the Belgium Consulate and is also expecting another baby in April, is most certainly a marvel and a history maker to all.

Ahuva Katz talked in length about the Sephardic people. They have a unique way of making you feel like you are the boss. Religion is important to them. You must love your brother as yourself.

There are two very important goals of their community and they are, hospitality and a close, structured family life.

Ahuva's father is a self-made man. He has had no formal education and yet to this day has earned many degrees and is a Rabbi and a judge. Her mother cannot read, write or sign her name, yet she has mastered the art of entertaining top dignitaries from many countries

Both of these individuals are kind, loving and to the onlooker they are content and very happy. Ahuva comes from a wealthy family, her sister is married to one of the Rothchild sons. But their riches are from their heart and their self-satisfaction reigns pure.

There's No Business Like "Shoe" Business

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

I NEVER MISS A FASHION HAPPENING if I can possibly attend—especially when it has to do with shoes. Loving high-fashion shoes, I was delighted to hear about the newest shoe boutique opening this week—SHOE GALLERY—in the Hamilton Center at 1381 South Hamilton Rd.

SHOE GALLERY promises to be a delightful place to shop-open and airy with a contemporary look in the decor, with chrome and glass shelves displaying the most exciting new shoes. Black vinyl upholstered chairs and sofas give it a sitting-room atmosphere, with lots of full length sparkling mirrors to view yourself at every angle.

DON GOLDBERG, personable owner of Shoe Gallery, is a smart young man who knows what contemporary shoe fashion is all about. He was formerly associated with "Footlights" on the Ohio State Campus—the favorite "shoe place" of the college gal. However the desire to open his own high-fashion shoe boutique was so great —catering to women of all ages (the young and young-at-heart)—it is now a reality!

"My basic philosophy", Don told me," is to always stock a complete selection of the most fashionable, individual footwear for every activity, to appeal to the high school and college girl, career women, young marrieds, and the sophisticated woman on-the-go—many of the shoes made up especially for Shoe Gallery, to my specifications—with stock constantly replenished, so selections will always be available."

THE MESSAGE at Shoe Gallery is the beautiful variety. Classic pumps in pastels and dark leathers, attractively ornamented—spectator pumps and oxfords in black, blue and brown accented with white—moccasins with crepe soles to add extra dimension and comfort for all the sportswear around—Wedge clogs in vibrant colors and new fabrics with creative bottoms—feminine and pretty open sandals and sling backs, so important for the new Spring dresses and free-flowing pants.

SINCE PLATFORMS are the big news right now, Shoe Gallery shows them in all heights—from the conservative comfortable one-half inch platform to the three-inch "Carmen Miranda" styles.

THAT'S WHAT Shoe Gallery is all about. I'm sure you'll want to attend the opening this week—and revel in the beauty and excitement of the new shoes, as I did.

Air Force Recruiter Speaks To Counselors

(Ed. Note: Air Force Master Sergeant Clay Morgan, U.S. Air Force Recruiting Service, 2200 S. Hamilton Rd., spoke last week to area high school counselors, media and guests about the current Air Force Recruiting Service. His remarks follow.)

DURING the past ten years, this country has endured some very turbulent times. We have run the guantlet from riot and protest to war itself. During this time, the military has found itself in a rather awkward and unaccustomed position - the object of widespread protest and controversy.

The Air Force has been exempt from neither. In our defense, I can only say that the Air Force is nothing more and nothing less than a large group of highly trained citizens of this country who have volunteered - for whatever individual reason - to serve at the will of America; and, in that capacity, we obviously mirror American society.

AS AMERICANS of today wander aimleasly through what appears to be a maze of pressing personal and social problems; we, who seek solutions, find frustration at every turn. Those, who seek to ride on the coattails of the energetic, find frustration of a different type and are turning to drugs and crime because the frustrations seem so very difficult to cope with. We find ourselves (of different age groups and philosophies) on opposite revolutionary sides while often not realizing that all of us, if we are true Americans, really seek common goals - peace, love, understanding, and freedom.

When we consider our frustrations, we must ask ourselves, Have we become a nation of people who seek answers to personal anxieties and frustrations under the guise of seeking answers to social and political problems?

One perplexing problem which has faced our generation has been the Vietnam War. It has been said that anyone who truly wants war must be labled a sadistic war-monger. Conversely, anyone who will not fight for a valid principle is a fool. I refuse to take sides with either of these extremes.

Our only answers to such obviously involved questions, whether it be the Vietnam War or future crises, rest in the minds of intelligent men and women - men and women who have the courage to face the situation as a reality and not merely seek to place blame on others because theyfeel that an individual or one political party was (or is)responsible.

THROUGHOUT the Vietnam War there has been a draft system. As you know, the Secretary of Defense recently ended the draft. I dare say that if the people were questioned to determine whether or not we want an all-volunteer military force, the results would be an overwhelmingly large majority in favor of sich a system.

I am especially certain that the younger people will support it. But, we must ask ourselves, where does the reponsibility rest to obtain such a volunteer force? Does it rest with the President? He can only legislate. Does it rest with the Department of Defense? They will be the volunteer force. The answer is both simple and historically logical - responsibility rests with the people.

AS GOOD Americans have done in the past, we must fact this challenge realistically. Can we have an all-volunteer force if 75 percent of today's youth are against the very word "military" and would choose that career only as a last resort? Can we have a viable, volunteer military if only the lower mental category groups come forward?

The answer to both questions, of course, is no. The voice of the do-away-with-the-draft advocate has echoed loudly across this country; yet, we can only faintly hear the whisper of the volunteer. This inconsistency of the anti-draft advocate has been unfortunately obvious. I sincerely hope that the voice of the volunteer becomes so loud that it will drown out the boring hum of the crusader who walks among us carrying a pocketful of questions and a pocket empty of solutions.

I PRAY, as I'm sure that many of you do, that the sunrise of some bright and joyful day will reveal a world mood of peace - when nations of the world wake up to the inhumanity of war and truly practice love and brotherhood. Unfortunately, that sunrise has not shone. Until that day comes, will the American people face reality or will we drown in the quagmire of frustration? The system can easily be changed, but only the people can make it work.

I WANT to tell you about one of my very favorite dining places Around Town. Believe me, there are many, many excellent spots serving great food, but, the Marriott Inn Motel just happens to be one of my personal choices. The food is always delectably delicious, and the service is superb.

The management has certainly put together a high class professional staff. Even without the splendid decor, you would enjoy the place from the very moment you enter, because from the maitre'd to the waitressess and right on down to the busboys, you are welcomed by a friendly, cheerful crew. They all treat you as if you were royalty. Yet, there is not a cold, stiff air about them.

Waitressess like Ginger and Jay, are the best you will find anywhere. They are experts in helping you select wines and recommending entrees from the menu. By the way, Jay and Ginger have fabulous personalities and are cute as bugs in a rug. The busboys are really not busboys. Actually they help serve, and several of them do the flaming. I don't think you can beat Tony and Paul, for two young men with so much knowledge regarding serving and flaming.

Now, let me tell you about the food. Take my advice and begin your meal with either their Fresh Oyster Rockefeller or the Fresh Cherrystone Clams Casino. I always have a difficult time choosing between the two. Each is a taste treat to my taste buds. It is an experience I don't often come across. Next comes the salad. I recomend the dressing that's the speciality of the house, Pepper Cream Dressing. It is so good, that I my they would bottle it as a soft drink. At the Marriott Inn I always eat all my salads, just because of the dressing. By the way, you are served an ice cold salad fork. Nothing but the finest at the Marriott, should be their motto.

FOR THE ENTREE, I cannot tell you what is best. Everything is delicious. In the past, I have had the Chateaubriand which was out of this world. However, my personal choice seems to be the Steak Diane. It is flamed at the table with a special fambe mixture. The end result is a taste treat that you will remember for a long time.

For those of you who really enjoy good dining with prices that don't put your pocketbook on a diet, then I strongly suggest the Marriott Inn. I promise you a most delightful evening.

Helping this to come true is the entertainment at the Marriott Inn. From six p.m. until eight, Sonia Modes entertains at the piano. Then at 8:30, the wonderful Duke Jenkins Trio take over. Duke sounds like Nat King Cole. What a smooth, wonderful group.

Plan on a visit to the Marriott Inn soon. It well be memorable.

MARCO POLO'S Lounge is named after the famous adventurer. And, rightly so. This week, and next, for a real adventure in entertainment, make sure you head for Marco Polo's Lounge and catch a way out group with the name of Caliope. This trio is something else.

Robin Reading, a sultry looking blonde, will knock you over with her way out vocals. This gal sings up a storm. She is tremendous, that's the only way to describe her. Robin comes on with a heap of feeling and soul in her music. Her tonal quality and style flips even the most sophisticated listeners.

Take two minutes and it's underwood that Robin is the backbone of the outfit. But, like any backbone, there are other important parts. For example, Dave Bussard at the organ. Dave is not only a master at the electric black and whites. This fellow comes strong in the vocal deparment. Listening to him sing reminds me of some of the best in the business, today. Dave can rightly be called a double threat. His styling and interpretations vocally and instrumentally will set you on your ear.

Ron Wilt at the drums is no slouch either. This guy comes on strong.

As individual performers, every member of the trio is outstanding. Put them all together and you have a trio that is a rock and sock 'em threesome. It is a trio that is lively and full of fun to see and hear.

Their music, as well as their style, leans toward the so called, "now" sound of today. It is right up there with the best of them.

CALIOPE is a proper name for this trio. They are exciting and fun. They will be at Marco Polo's lounge this week and next. The group is solid, it is a fun group, and with their music and vocals, both individual and harmonizing, you will get a bang out of them. While they may lean toward the contemporary vain, Calliope keeps everything in the proper prespective. Meaning, they are not loud, nor way out. It is a trio that you can listen to and appreciate it, without giving your complete attention.

It all takes place at Marco Polo's Lounge this week and next. I promise you I will be there again, before they leave.

The Sandi Scott is currently occupying the stage at RAMADA INN - South. And, what an occupation.

This group, five in all, will please the lovers of good music. What they may lack in dynamics and showmanship, they more than make up for in music. This is the best way to describe this quintet, a musical group. If you want to hear plenty of good music, then this outfit is it.

As a show group, they are not.

It is billed as the Sandi Scott Show. Rightly so. This gal, with her unique vocal treatments and personality saves the day, as far as showmanship and professionalism is concerned.

The fellows who back her are strong musicians. But, that' s all I can say about them. No one musician is exceptional. Yet, together ,they are a solid group, providing loads of good music.

It is a very relaxing group. They are not loud. Instrumentally, and vocallly, they sing and play the type of music that appeals to the older generation. It is not a way out contemporary aggregation. Their music library consists of the basic standards and the pretty, pretty music. Without a doubt, they are very entertaining.

WHILE their vocal harmony is fairly good, the outift does not make enough use of it to achieve the tonal variety that is needed.

As I said before, thank goodness for Sandi Scott. This gal does sing up a storm. Her vocal stylings and control makes you set on the edge of your seat. When you listen to Sandi sing, it is a real experience. Her treatment of a song is unique. This gal wails, be it ballad or jump. I found her tonal quality and attack to be not only different, but out and out enjoyable.

AT TIMES the quintet gives out with some pleasant vocal harmonies. But, these were few and far between.

Even with their short comings, I found myself

IT'S A WINNER

BEXLEY'S Tom Bramlage (32) tossed up the winning basket in the Lions' two point last second win to knock Bishop Hartley out of the Class AA basketball tourney. That's Hartley's Dave Profera (52) making a desperate try to stop the shot. (Photos by Dan Unkefer).

Weekly newspaper deadlines being what they are it is next to impossible to get a true line on games coming up for a weekend when the results of the previous Tuesday's games come past the press deadline.

As a result we'll go on the premise that a new week starts Wednesday and get the games coming up from there.

No major upsets were on the won-lost list in last week's contests in Class A, AA and AAA.

The schedule for the week is as folows:

Class AAA

Wednesday, Feb. 28 - South vs Gahanna, 6:30 p.m.; Eastmoor vs Upper Arlington, 8 p.m.

Thursday, Mar. 1 - East vs Brookhaven, 6:30 p.m.; Walnut Ridge vs Newark, 8 p.m.

Friday, Mar. 2 - Eastmoor or Upper Arlington vs Mt. Vernon or Delaware, 6:30 p.m.; Linden vs South or Gahanna, 8 p.m.

Saturday, Mar. 3 - Grove City or Whitehall vs Walnut Ridge or Newark, 6:30 p.m.; Westerville vs East or Brookhaven, 8 p.m.

Class AA

Saturday, Mar. 3 - Buckeye Valley vs Mt. Gilead, 8 p.m.

CRAFTY CARL

IT WAS defense that almost spelled doom for Bexley in its two point win over Bishop Hartley. That's the Lions' Carl Kraft (35) with the ball defended by Hartley's Dave Profera (32).

Bowfishing — a sport that's easy to learn and fun to do.

Archery Can Mean . . .

Extended Seasons For Outdoorsmen

For the bow hunter or fisherman who finds himself succumbing to the seasonal malady of "cabin fever" because big game is out of season and fish'n isn't what it ought to be, there's a remedy: Go bowfishing.

It's easy and inexpensive but there's a problem...it's a habit-forming sport. Many times the inspired fisherman has found himself leaving rods and reels home in favor of standing in the bow of a light boat with bow and barbed arrow.

And for bowfishing, before the hunt comes the equipment and for the potential bowfisherman already in possession of a hunting bow, he can outfit himself for under a $15 bill.

The basic needed tackle goes like:

A bow reel equipped with at least 50 feet of strong nylon linne. The bow reel or spin-cast reel should be easily mounted to the bow and have a spring wire line holder to prevent line from playing out too soon when aiming at sharp downward angles. A 35-40 lb. test line is commonly used for smaller fish but upwards of 70-100 lb. test should be used for larger species.

Bowfishing arrows are made of solid fiberglass and equipped with rubber fletching (feathers). These special arrows are recommended for a couple of important reasons: first, even a small fish will roll and thrash when struck and can easily break a wooden or other light shaft material. Second, the added weight of the solid arrow offers greater accuracy and penetration when shooting into depths of up to 15 feet of water.

The arrow point is usually a single barb point to enhance amximum penetration. Some bowfishermen, however, go to a heavyheaded single barb or double barb in order to hold heavier fish.

Now that you're equipped you're ready to go bowfishing, and the places you should be spending your time fall into the general categories of streams, marshes and the shallow back bays of larger lakes an reservoirs.

A quick check with your state game and fish department will tell you what kind of fish are available in your area for bowfishing but the most popular species on a national basis are carp and suckers. In the southern states various species of gar are sought.

You're standing in the bow of the boat and now if you haven't already learned polarizing lens sunglasses will help cut the glare of the water and let you see down into the depth in excess of 25 ft. when conditions are right.

Because you are looking down, your underwater view is affected by light refraction. When viewed from an angle your target is always somewhat lower than it appears to be, so: AIM LOW! Only experience (hits and misses) can teach you to relate depth and angle.

If you're interested in starting this fun-time sport — or improving a beginning — write for a free copy of "Tips On Successful Bow Fishing," Dept. GO, Ben Pearson Archery, P.O. Box 270, Tulsa, Okla. 74101.

SPEND A NICKLE AND CATCH MORE FISH

How would you like to spend less than a nickle and keep your line from snaging up on your reel just when fish are really hitting. Pick up a package of snap swivals.

You'll get about six for a quarter and these little swivals will help keep your line from twisting while retrieving, and save a lot of time changing from one lure to another because you don't have to cut your line each time you change a lure. You know most fisherman use a swival while trolling to keep their line from twisting.

Why not use them for spinning and bait casting? A lot of your spinning lures on the market today are super line twisters because they only revolve in one direction.

They do more harm than good to your line by twisting it, and chances are you'll end up with a back lash if you don't use a swival. Your dealers got them and will be more than happy to recommend the proper size.

FISHING BOATS AND MOTORS

If you're looking for a place to take the family and enjoy some other recreational facilities besides fishing, don't over-look the new dams dams and reserviors that are opening up through out the United States. Some of them offer boating, water skiing and camping in addition to some darn good fishing. But to get out to the good spots to catch fish, you'll need to rent or buy a boat and motor if you don't already have one. I found out after adding up my rental costs for a year that I was better off to buy a boat and motor and take it with me on my trips.

If your considering buying a boat here's a few things to think about before you invest. Where will you use it, what kind of water will you be fishing, shallow small and weedy lakes or deep rivers and big lakes, and how much weight will you carry.

How big a motor you buy depends on the distance you'll be traveling from shore, and how many people you carry with you. Remember, before you buy a boat or motor, it's an important decision, so visit your local boat dealer; he'll be glad to give you professional advice before you buy.

1973 FISHING LICENSES

Licenses for 1973 will be required for all fisherman on March 1, according to Dan C. Armbruster, chief of the departments division of wildlife. There are three classes of licenses: Annual resident licenses, for US citizens who have lived in Ohio for a least six months, cost $4.00.

Permanant fishing licenses for U.S. citizens who have lived in Ohio for at least six months and are 65 years of age or older, cost $4.00 and are valid for the life of the purchaser.

Non-resident licenses for persons who live outside Ohio cost $6.00 for an annual license and $4.00 for a 15 day license.

A writing fee of 35 cents is charged for each license. Licenses can be obtained at the county clerk of courts offices, and most sporting goods stores and bait shops in the state.

A fishing license is not required for persons less than 16 years old; members of the military on leave; Ohio Division of Aid to the Aged pension recipients; physically handicapped persons needing assistance to fish; the person assisting a handicapped person provided there is only one pole used by both, and persons fishing on a private pond.

A copy of the 1973 Ohio fishing regulations is given to each fishing license purchaser. The regulations are also available without charge from the Department of Natural Resources, Publication Center, 1500 Dublin Road. Columbus, Ohio 43215.

Among the changes in Ohio sport fishing regulations this year is one establishing a daily bag and possession limit of 10 trout, two muskellunge and a combination of eight smallmouth, largemouth or spotted bass.

Next week, "Tips on early spring largemouth bass fishing."

Licenses Needed

Fred A. Schob, Law Enforcement Supervisor for Wildlife District One, advises that persons who desire to hold not more than two raccoons in captivity may apply for a free pet license.

Capital AFROTC Drill Units Win Two Meets

The Capital University Guards and Praetorians won five trophies at the 22nd Annual Purdue Invitational Drill Meet, February 16-17.

Capital Drill Teams entered two events, the Exhibition Platoon, in which the Capital Guards won first place over Miami Navy ROTC and Illinois Navy ROTC, and the Coed Platoon, in which the Praetorians of Capital University won first place over Ohio State Angel Flight and Kentucky Babes of University of Kentucky.

The Capital Guards also won the previous years event, and thus successfully defended their title.

The Praetorians have won the Purdue event for last three years, and have successfully begun the defense of their National Championship title.

Winners of both events receive permanent trophies. Capital also received two traveling awards, the Silver Sabre Award, and the Coed Silver Cup, of which both teams won last year.

For the second year in a row Capital also had the highest over-all percentage for events won in competition with forty-eight total teams. This was recognized by presentation of the Neil A. Armstrong Outstanding Unit Award.

Capital Guards are commanded by Frederick F. Miler from Summit, New Jersey and the Praetorians are commanded by Cheryl L. Pottorf, 1352 Byron Ave., Columbus.

In a meet last weekend at Bowling Green State University the Guards scored 985 points and the Praetorians 968 (both out of a possible 1000) to win the meet in both categories.

sitting through four sets. There is something about them that holds your attention and keeps you entertained. And, that's the name of the game: Entertainment. It is a show, and it is billed correctly, The Sandi Scott Show. Without her, Ramada Inn South would be deadsville. With Sandi Scott, Ramada Inn South is a place to go and hear some nice, sensible music, that will entertain lovers of good music. While they have a good variety of music, including everything from contemporary to country and western, The Sandi Scott Show is a very commerical operation. This I like. I also like the vocal treatments of Sanda Scott.

After all, it is her show. And, Sandi will show you what good music is all about. It all happens every night at the Ramada Inn South Motel.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

After a hectic week with Freddie Boom Boom Cannon, the Vegas Club is back to its normal swinging routine with a band called Surprize. This is a real fun place... My favorite gal, Jo Kiser is packing them in at Lincoln Lodge. This gal is something else. Besides being a darm good singer and piano player, she is a KNOCKOUT. If she were a prize fighter , she'd be known as one punch Jo. For the best plynesian dining in these parts, head the old canoe to the SaiWaikiki Restaurant, where you may dine on the best Polynesian, Chinese or Japenses food in Columbus, with the finest Polynesian splendor .... Dave Wood continues to please the people, lots of them, at the Sports Forum Lounge at Howard Johnson's North. He is not only a good singer, but Dave is also quite a laugh provoker with some of his impressions .... Stingtown Road is back at the all new Ohio Stater Inn. What a great goup. This outfit proves to be one of the most popular to play at the Ohio Stater Inn. So, all you followers of Stringtown Road plan on heading to the Ohio Stater Inn.

ACT TWO

When Philip King wrote "See How They Run". I wonder if he sensed that it would endure and still be around a couple of wars later. The goings on at the parsonage of The Reverend Lionel Toop sent the Saturday night audience at Worthington Community Theater into gales of laughter. Now this would not seem like a miracle if the play were sex ridden and the audience middle aged adult. However, this is a clean family type show and the audience ranged in age from eight to eighty. The lines are there and had the play been done badly, it would still be funny.

Luckily for us, it was handled with a proper respect for the comedy classic it is. I feel a great deal of credit for this should go to the director, Curt Meeks. I had particularly wanted to see Sister Barbarine Houdek play Miss Skillon, the local word of mouth Western UUnion Service. I was not dissappointed. She rose to the occasion, threw caution to the wind and appeared to be, throughout most of the play, soused and quite floppy. All the more to her credit considering her station in life.

My second favorite role is Ida, the maid, in this case well handled by Susan Rineholt. Her cockney is not so exagerated as to offend the ears and yet she manages to get the point across that she is indeed available - for a good time that is.

Dick Waugh is a handsome man with a beautiful voice and his dignified appearance reeked of respectability as he assumed the role of the Reverend Lionel Toop. HAs his wife, Penelope, Bonnie Curley put her all into being the not so-professional "America actress". As her ex leading man, Clive Winton, Steven Black lays it on and hams it up. He reminds me of the road show actor who is "on" all the time - which is good in this case.

The lovable slightly befuddled old bishop is played by a cherub-like man, Bill Crawford. I don't knwo what he does for a living, but he looks angelic enough to be a Bishop. My favorite male role in this romping farce is The Reverend Arthur Humphrey. Bob Ratusz seems to become more skillef in comedy timing with each role he takes on - and this is no exception. His controlled dignity in the face of insanity is quite admirable. You can still see "See How They Run" this Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at the auditorium of the Josephinum, 7625 North High St., Worthington, just north of I-270.

Your Carrier is counting on you.

Put on your specks and read The Spectator.

Cadet, Youth Orchestras Will Perform Sunday

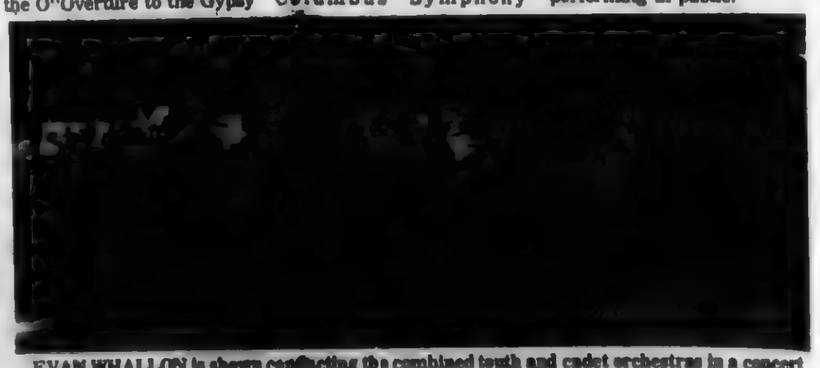
The first Columbus performances of the season by the Columbus Symphony Cadet Orchestra and Youth Orchestra will be Sunday, Mar. 4 at 3:30 p.m. at The Second Annual Youth Showcase Concert.

The admission-free concert will be performed in Veterans Memorial.

The 46-member Cadet Wind Ensemble, directed by Barbara Crockett will open the program with "Moutmatre" by Wood, "Songs of Wales" by Davis and "The Overture in B flat" by Giovanini.

The Cadet Orchestra, Robert Culver conductor, will perform a movement of the "Symphony No. 2 in D. Major" by Boccherini, "Six Dances" by Beethoven and the O"Overture to the Gypsy Baron" by Strauss. The 120-junior high school students performed for The Central Ohio Music Teachers' Association conference held in November in Westerville.

Anthony Ginter will conduct the Youth Orchestra in its first performance since appearing in Indianapolis in January. The 95-high school student member organization will perform "Marche Slave" by Tchaikovsky, "The Sentimental Sarabande" by Britten and Finale from "Symphony No. 2 by IN D Major" by Sibelius.



Evan Whallon and the Columbus Symphony will accompany Chris Hardy, pianist, in the "Vivace" from Beethoven's Fourth Piano Concerto.

Chris is a winner in the 1970 Columbus Symphony Orchestra Young Musicians' Competition Senior Division. He is a student of Audley Wasson.

Presentation of Awards for the 21st Young Musicians' Competition, Senior Division, and outstanding members of both student orchestras will follow.

The program finale will be the three orchestras combined into one of over 300 musicians, conducted by Evan Whallon, performing two excerpts from "Die Meistersinger", "Greensleeves" by Vaughan Williams and "A Mighty Fortress" by Nelhybel.

The concert is sponsored by the Columbus Symphony and the city of Columbus to offer young musicians the opportunity of expanding their musical experience by performing in public.

DR. WILLIAM CONRAD, who organized the new professional corporation of doctors working in the emergency departments of Mt. Carmel East and Mt. Carmel Medical Center, looks over an electrocardiogram read out with Jane Vannicelli, R.N. at the Medical Center. Dr. Conrad and eight other doctors are specializing in emergency room care and providing trained physicians in emergency treatment both hospitals 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

AT MT. CARMEL EAST, WEST

Doctors Improve Emergency Care

BY LYNN WILLIAMS
AND
KATHY DEVANEY

There's something new at Mt. Carmel East and Mt. Carmel Medical Center and it means even better emergency care for the patients treated at either of the two facilities.

These patients are now benefiting from a special emergency department program. As of Feb. 1 both emergency rooms are staffed 24 hours a day with physicians trained specifically in emergency room techniques.

Heading this new operation is Dr. William Conrad.

DR. CONRAD ORGANIZED a professional corporation of staff physicians whose only responsibilities are emergency department care.

In the past both hospitals, as with most others, staffed their emergency departments on a rotating basis so that no one doctor was there on a regular basis.

"ONLY THE NURSES were there permanently," Dr. Conrad explained. "Now we doctors are getting wise and following their method."

He said that only Riverside and Grant Hospital have similar programs.

"This is a general trend begun 10 years ago in Michigan and Virginia and now it's really attracting a lot of interest."

CONRAD SAID THAT two organizations, the American College of Emergency Physicians and the Emergency Care International are working to promote more of this type program.

"We would like to see standardized emergency care so that no matter where a person gets sick, he can go to any hospital and know that he's getting the very best possible emergency treatment."

Dr. Conrad said he expected that in a very few years there would be a residency in emergency department care.

AT PRESENT THE doctor has a full time staff of eight physicians who work both at the east and west facilities. There is a part time staff of 20.

"These are people I had worked with before and knew. So far we haven't had any trouble getting people who are interested in this area."

Dr. Conrad said, "Our job is to do what we have to on an immediate basis and then to see that the family physician or a staff doctor takes over the follow-up treatment.

"I WOULD SAY that 99 per cent of the people are seen only once by us."

The doctors on this special staff see approximately 90 patients a day at the west facility and 60 in the east. "This number will probably increase at Mt. Carmel East, but right now the hospital if fairly new."

Dr. Conrad said the kind of doctors he wants on his staff are generalists. "We need the best we can get because anything can happen and we have to be ready to treat anything."

HE ADDED THAT IN the future as new staff members are added, they will be trained largely by working shifts with experienced physicians. There are also seminars and lectures.

Dr. Conrad said that all of this added up to a significant improvement in emergency care. "It's obvious that someone who does the same thing every day and who's interested in it will be better than someone who only does it once a month."

One difference in this program is that patients who come to the emergency room now receive two bills from the hospital—one from the emergency room staff and the other for the regular hospital care.

"WE HAVE HAD SOME problem as far as educating the public to this fact. It's much better if they know this before they come than after they go home and get their bills."

This additional cost represents only a slight increase to the patients, the doctor said.

The staff has also agreed to accept as payment what ever the Welfare Department will pay for its patients.

"No one is refused treatment at either hospital."

THE FULL FACILITIES of the hospital—lab, radiology, etc., are available through the emergency room 24 hours a day.

"In the new hospital in the east all of these facilities are near the emergency room which is a great help," Dr. Conrad said.

He added that it is hoped in the near future some kind of central communications network could be set up for the whole city.

"THIS WOULD PUT all the hospitals in close contact and provide centralized care, transportation and communication to coordinate all the emergency activities in the city."

He said there is not enough federal funding available for this as yet.

"If this could be arranged, then smaller hospitals who can't afford to set up an emergency department with a fixed staff, could close their emergency rooms and these patients could be treated at one of the larger hospitals."

DR. CONRAD SAID so far the program is working well and there are no real problems.

"But this is a new field in medicine and we have a lot of ground yet to cover."

Girls Scouts Have 'International Day'

Three hundred girls from the 17 Girl Scout Troops of the Pine Canyon Service unit gathered together on Feb. 24th at the East Columbus Christian Church to celebrate Juliette Low Day and the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund with an "International Day."

The Pine Canyon Service unit encompasses the Olde Orchard, Oakmont, Woodcrest and the Yorktown Junior High Schools.

Each troop selected a country from among the 57 full member nations or 41 associate members. After studying the country for several months, they made costumes, flags, foods and learned songs and dances to share with the other groups.

Each troop also contributed financially to the Juliette Low Fund, which finances international events for girls from around the free world. This fund pays for annual exchange visits and makes annual contribution which help provide supplies, equipment and training for a strong Girl Scout program.

GIRL SCOUTS FROM THE Pine Canyon Service Unit celebrated "International Day" recently at the East Columbus Christian Church. These girls, dressed in the various native outfits, were only a few of the several hundreds on hand for the day's activities. There was a flag ceremony, food tasting, and lots of good fellowship as they helped to raise money for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. On the bottom row, left to right are Julie Cahill, troop 979; Vicki Woods, troop 682; Leacia Beavers, troop 1275; middle row, Jenny Feen, troop 728; Dana Withrow, troop 728; Beth Zimmerman, troop 686; top row, Terri Bickel and Anita Holler, troop 1383.

Distribute Shamrocks

The traditional Irish shamrock emblem has three leaves because St. Patrick used the tiny trifolioate plant to explain the Trinity to heathen priests on the hill of Tara.

The green "Shamrocks for Dystrophy" tags being distributed nationwide on St. Patrick's Day also have three leaves. They symbolize the three key areas in which Muscular Dystrophy Associations of America works to defeat dystrophy and related disorders — research, patient and community services, and public health education.

Whitehall Yearling students will be handing out "Shamrocks for Dystrophy" tags on Saturday, March 10 at Zayre's East Main and Rinks East Livingston.

Walnut Ridge students will also be handing out Shamrocks Saturday, March 10 at Gold Circle on South Hamilton Rd. They ask you to extend a helping hand to kids with dystrophy and give a little green.

Easter Seal Campaign Will Help Handicapped

TODD CARTER knows he is different from most little boys. The four-year-old, who has been chosen as the 1973 Easter Seal Child for the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Carter, 320 W. Waterloo St., Canal Winchester. He is a cerebral palsied child who must wear braces on his legs and walk with the help of crutches or a walker.

Often while watching his two brothers romp and play he will ask "Why can't I run?" or "Why can't I play football?" Todd can't run or play as his brothers do, but his sunny personality and his keen enjoyment of the sports world as a fan, evens the score for this little fellow.

AT HOME he is treated as "just one of the boys," and at the Society's treatment center he is considered as one of the most determined and happy youngsters on the program.

Todd, who will represent 120 handicapped boys and girls who attend the treatment center for therapies and schooling in the 1973 Easter Seal campaign scheduled for March 1 to April 22, was a premature infant and experienced physical difficulties early in life.

When he was two years old he could not crawl; he could only pull himself up to his knees. At this young age he was enrolled at the treatment center where a physical therapy program of strengthening exercises and balance activities was stressed, at home and at the center.

Within three months, Todd achieved good sitting balance and started to "tummy" crawl. When he was three years old, Todd received short leg braces and within weeks was walking independently in a little walker. At Christmastime, this year, he walked down the hall, all by himself, with the aid of Canadian crutches.

Todd continues to improve every day. At the center he attends classes and therapy sessions three days a week.

In physical therapy he is receiving strengthening exercises, balance activities, functional activities and gait training. His therapist, Mrs. Dan Kiser, is also working with Todd on exercises without his braces to help him learn to control his legs.

TODD receives speech therapy at the center. Under the guidance of Mrs. Richard Coderre, speech therapist, he works on breathing exercises to control and eliminate excessive nasal emission and to establish good breathing patterns. He hims, blows a kazoo and blows bubbles to develop exhalation control and to increase phonation or sound in his speech.

In pre-school classes, Todd is engaged in early reading readiness activities. His teacher, Mrs. Rod Frazer, is giving him materials which will prepare him for kindergarten classes next year. This includes study units on things that rhyme, opposites, number recognition, community helpers and nutrition.

Sports are very important in the Carter family. Todd's father, Robert Carter, assistant principal at Groveport High School, was a former athlete and coach. Todd loves to watch football games from the stands and on television.

In fact he has been known to get so excited at football games that he cries from sheer exhilaration and tension.

TODD IS best described by his teachers and family as a happy and serene child who loves his family, his classmates and especially Jimmy Crum, the 1973 Easter Seal chairman, who has become his special "buddy."

At home he is a considerate and loving son as well as a happy playmate for brothers Doug, 6, and Mark, 3.

Todd works hard at overcoming his handicap. He courageously spends hours exercising and going to school—hours that other little boys spend in playing.

His courage and determination have paid off, and the road to walking and speaking normally is becoming smoother. Todd is sure to be on the winning side of life.

Other handicapped children on the program of the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children suffer from a variety of afflictions; spina bifida, muscular dystrophy, ampution, other birth defects as well as cerebral palsy.

They receive pre-school education, physical therapy, occupational therapy and speech therapy.

The Society also provides loans of equipment, rehabilitation aids and an information-referral and follow-up program.

They also sponsor residential camping, day camping and a Parents' Group organization. All these local and direct services are financed through contributions to the Easter Seal campaign.

Misspelled Words Winners Named

In their Tabloid of February, distributed by the Spectator, the merchants of the Town and Country Shopping Center staged a "Misspelled Words Contest". Several hundred entered the Contest and diligently dug to uncover the words deliberately spelled incorrectly.

A drawing was held among those entries who had submitted a correct list of words, the first 10 of whom are receiving a Gift Certificate in the value of $15 redeemable at a Town and Country store or service.

Following are the names of the lucky 10: Mrs. Arthur Herr, 837 Grandon Ave.' Evelyn Johnson, 1031 Dimson Dr.; Helen Herbert, 818 S. Broadleigh B.; Ann Dennis, 585 Bernhard Rd.; C. Rader, 685 S. Roosevelt Ave.; Mrs. Louis G. Bernhard, 4700 Robinwood Park; Mrs. Roland Smith, 581 S. Ashburton Rd.; Marilyn Schaible, 6057 Barberry Hollow; Cora Buck, 3782 Ashton Rd. and Mrs. Charles H. Sports Director Is Chairman

Jimmy Crum, sports director for WLW-C television, has been named the honorary chairman for the 1973 Easter Seal campaign of the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children.

As chairman he will direct all the events and volunteer activities during the annual appeal for funds, which began on March 1 and continues through Easter Sunday, April 22.

Money received from the drive will be used by the Society for their direct service program for physically handicapped children in the community.

Crum, who in 1970 was voted as the "Most Outstanding Sportscaster in Ohio," by members of the National Sportscasters and Sportswriters Association, began his career in sports at the age of 14 when he started broadcasting for WMAN radio in his home town of Mansfield.

In 1948 Crum entered Ohio University in Athens, majoring in radio. He was sports director for the university station, WOUI, and play-by-play announcer for all Ohio State football games and Ohio High School basketball tournaments for WRFD Radio. He has been in charge of all sports reporting for WLW-C since New Year's Day, 1953.

He is a member of the exclusive Headhunters Club, the Ohio University Alumni Club, and the Board of Trustees of the United Cerebral Palsy Foundation. He is a past president of the Ohio Sportscasters Association, and is an honorary member of Alpha Kappa Psi, National business fraternity.

In 1965 he initiated the "TV-4 Sports Funds for Recreation Unlimited," and in eight years has raised $95,000 to send physically handicapped and mentally retarded youngsters to summer camp. In 1967, Jimmy was named honorary president of "Recreation Unlimited."

An appeal letter from Jimmy Crum, and a sheet of Easter Seals, will be mailed to 215,000 local persons on March 1, signalling the start of the 1973 Easter Seal campaign for the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children.

JIMMY CRUN, SPORTS DIRECTOR for WLW-C television has been selected as the honorary chairman for the 1973 Easter Seal campaign. The campaign began March 1 and will continue through Easter Sunday, April 22. The drive is sponsored by the Franklin County Society for Crippled Children.

Turn That Dial

"WHY DIDN'T the world stop yesterday? Yesterday was such a beautiful day."

"We have the kind of a marriage that cannot exist with a lie."

Those two pretty lines were part of a recent TV show listed as plain "Maude".

THE SHOW has been the subject of some controversy from the conservative element who don't believe that even the mention of pickles, strawberries and chocolate ice cream should be said in the same breath even by a solidly happy man and wife whose marriage has stood all the tests of time.

Well, television has come a long way and it still has a long way to go - but the game of the century that tops all the game shows on TV seems to be the one that is confusing to everyone.

It's called "Turn The Dial".

IT GALLS me no end to read some of the letters in numerous TV so-called review columns about the person complaining about a show that from start to finish gets too involved with strong moral issues, or you name some subject.

We're reminded of a line written by a young girl in the recent high school editorial writing competition that said, as a finisher, "Well, times have changed."

TELEVISION, to our way of thinking, whets the appetite of adventure and makes the weekly newspaper even more inviting to the home as people's lives are woven into its pages.

I imagine there are some headlines in our pages that might have the tendency to turn someone off. That's everyone's privilege.

This constant harassment of TV could easily end up as the initial front in more government attempts to control all media.

It would serve to even muzzle the press more if one is to believe what is happening to newsmen who seek to protect sources of news.

"All in the Family", "Sanford and Son", "Bridget Loves Bernie" and a few other programs have a tendency to make one think.

In most of these programs we've watched, right seems to triumph over might and the issue of morality has more winning points than its opponent-degradation.

WE REST our case.

Teenagers Will March To Raise St. Jude Funds

OVER THE coming weekend thousand of teenagers will be doing their "thing"....marching!

Adults have become increasingly aware of the voice of youth in the streets....most often raised in protest against the established order of our society or lamenting the condition of our world.

IT IS refreshing to note that the teenagers who are marching this weekend will be marching in support of something....trying to help build a better world by supporting St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, a research institution engaged in a search for cures for leukemia and related childhood diseases.

Over eighty percent of the funds needed to support St. Jude Hospital is raised by teenagers marching from door-to-door across the nation.

MANY YOUNG people involved in the Teenagers March will be performing their first public service. The youngster who knocks on your door may approach hesitantly and deliver an awkward message. We hope that you will receive him graciously and respond generously.

Vision Center Utilized

MORE THAN 500 people utilized the services of the Vision Center, Ohio's only resident facility which provides long-term training for the blind, in the past year.

One hundred thirty-two persons participated in the evaluation, training, and work-study programs at the Vision Center, 1393 N. High St., Columbus. An additional 66 were employed by Vision Center Industries, the agency's sheltered workshop, while 350 persons were part of groups using the center's meeting facility.

THE CENTER'S evaluation program is structured to determine a client's aptitudes and limitations for employment and social adjustment. Medical, social, psychological and vocational evaluations are included in this program.

Those who participated in the Vision Center's training program received instruction in mobility, communication skills, personal adjustment, vocational training and homemaking, depending on their individual requirements.

On-the-job training was also arranged for persons in the vocational training programs who had little or no work experience.

AMONG THOSE who participated in the center's work-study program were visually limited students in the Columbus public school system and students form the Ohio State School for the Blind. The work-study program helps to determine the students vocational potential and prepare those qualified for job placement. These students received paid job experience by working several hours a day packaging, assembling, inspecting and operating small machinery.

BESIDES the people who took part in the Vision Center's comprehensive rehabilitation programs, other groups of blind people have used the center's facilities. These include the following groups of visually limited individuals: Mutual Benefit, Rosina Ernst, Linden Lassies, Capital City Council of the Blind, the Vending Stand Operators' Association and the Columbus Blind Bowlers' League.

In our time, in our world, the old get hidden away and forgotten much too often.

In a Connecticut city, The American Red Cross—America's Good Neighbor—did something about it.

There, Red Cross Youth each "adopted a grandparent." Strictly one to one. The purpose: regular visits—to make life just a little more worth living for older folks.

A small matter, you may think—especially if there just don't happen to be any older people in your neighborhood, or your life.

Because The American Red Cross is a home town affair. That's why you find us doing different things in different home towns

We're what you need us to be. Whoever you are. Wherever you are.

And isn't that what a Good Neighbor is all about?

Be a good neighbor.

Help The Good Neighbor.

March Is American Red Cross Month

HELP A CRIPPLED CHILD TO WALK!

All it takes is your gift to EASTER SEALS

Courage Needs A Helping Hand

A LITTLE child should not have to learn the meaning of the word, "courage". That is a word for older persons.

But some little ones have no choice. Children, like those at Easter Seal centers, are not old enough to know the word, but they have a lot of courage.

THESE youngsters have been overcoming tremendous handicaps every day of their young lives. Overcoming them step-by-step, through sheer courage and determination – sure that some day they will be able to run and play with other children or talk just as normally as everyone else.

To some, their legs or arms are stronger than they were a year or so ago. Others are learning the priceless gift of speech – perhaps for the very first time in their lives.

These children cannot do it on courage alone. They need to continue to receive the kind of treatments they have been getting from Easter Seals. They need a helping hand from you.

IF YOU will open your heart and give to help Easter Seals continue its vital work in rehabilitating the handicapped, many of our youngsters will lead rich and rewarding lives.

Program Sounds, Looks Good

Laurels To School Board For Drug Study Programs

By Thomas B. Connery
Special Staff Writer

THE COLUMBUS Board of Education deserves laurels for recently passing a proposal that will establish a course of study that should contribute to the prevention of drug abuse.

Not only does the new program avoid scare tactics, but it uses a 'psychology for living' approach. It is designed to show students how to cope with life's problems without turning to drugs.

However, along with the orchids of praise we must place two onions of censure. First concerning the way the board wasted time in approaching the drug abuse problem and soliciting student opinion; and second concerning the naivete certain board members have about students' different lifestyles.

A good illustration of how the board can waste time is found in the Feb. 13 study session on drug abuse.

THE PURPOSE OF THE session was to provide an opportunity for board members to question students, teachers and administrators concerning drugs in the schools, so that the board could make an intelligent and informed decisions concerning drug abuse education.

However, the session provided another opportunity for board members to recite their views concerning drug education. It was a rehash of what they said at the Dec. 12 study session.

Some members must like hearing themselves talk, but sounding like a broken record is not likely to get anything accomplished. Fortunately Supt. John Ellis and his staff were already hard at work in coming up with a drug abuse program.

I RECEIVED the impression from some board members that they expected stunning revelations about drugs in the schools from the students participating. That was a naive expectation.

Four students participated in the discussion. One student made virtually no contribution to the discussion.

Another student who obviously has had extensive contact with drugs and people who use drugs, made several comments during the first half of the meeting but then apparently became disinterested or felt that the discussion was futile.

After his initial comments, he slouched in his chair and would turn and grin and shake his head in wonder and amusement at two members of the press who apparently shared his amazement and amusement at the rhetoric of certain board members.

A third student was quite articulate and he dominated the student response. However, he had "well-adjusted youth" written all over him, and therefore he did not strike me as the type of student who would be well-versed in the student drug culture.

SUCH A person's interpretation could be valuable, particularly if for him drugs are just one way of having a good time. But he certainly should not be the dominant voice when student opinion is solicited.

The fourth student told the board that students were tired of being told not to take drugs because the drugs are bad. They will try the drugs, she said, just to see what's so bad.

That is certainly a true statement, and good for the board to know, but why was a study session necessary to find out what anyone with open lines of communication to youth should have known for sometime?

Hopefully, the board will come up with a better way of soliciting student opinion and comment than a public panel discussion involving a mere handful of students, teachers and administrators.

As I said the second onion goes to certain board members who have some naive ideas about students and drugs. But this onion is especially for Mrs. Virginia Prentice.

Mrs. Prentice insists that a solution to drug abuse lies in providing more alternatives to drugs in the form of more sports and extra-cirricular activities. She suggests that if a student can get excited about basketball, he won't get excited about drugs.

HOWEVER, Mrs. Prentice has failed to realize that for many students marijuana and alcohol are not a substitute for sports and school activities, but just another activity, or another way of getting kicks.

Other students find in drugs the excitement and stimulation that they could not find in sports and school activities. Obviously, these students have already rejected Mrs. Prentice's alternatives.

For this latter group of people the new course of study could be of considerable benefit.

After orchids and onions, a note of caution is in order.

Regardless of the extent and quality of drug education in the schools, it will be the home environment that will have the greatest influence with the students. Consequently, the greater part of the responsibility rests on the shoulders of the parents, and not on the schools.

IT IS UP to the parents to create a home environment in which there is neither too much discipline nor too much permissiveness.

It is up to the parents to create a home environment that allows for mutual respect and maximum communication, so the child is able to develop a self-concept, the self-respect, and the self-confidence that will allow him to face life and be stimulated by life without turning to drugs.

It is up to the parents to set an example for the children and show that drugs - whether alcohol, aspirin or whatever - are not necessary to cope with life's problems.

It is not an easy task and requires a lot of work, time, and effort - something that many parents are unwilling or unable to give to their children.

THUS, the board can do only so much. The schools can help parents, but they are not a panacea for the ills of an inadequate home environment.

Garage Sale Season Just Around Corner

To the Editor:

As I opened the Spectator this week, I just instinctively, turned to the Garage Sale ads and then thought to myself.

Oh dear! It must be that time of year again.

It happens to me every year and I wrote a little something about it. I would like to share it with you.

SPRING

It's that time of year again, Winter is slowly saying goodbye. Rain, mud; winter clutter about. Tis spring cleaning time you sigh.

But cleaning and scrubbing, I will admit , just isn't my cup of tea. It's planting, digging and riding my bike, that makes springtime fun for me.

The things you find, that you might need It really is astounding Like glass, furniture, even a coat for the dog all those goodies abounding.

Like the picture, you've found and wanted, will look great, hanging in the hall. Just refinish the frame and clean the glass will be hardly any trouble at all.

You're on your way home, with a smile on your face, Thinking about the goodies you chose, Knowing you'll hear, when you show a friend, My Mother had one of those.

So she had one, well so do I now, I say, but with no avail, She doesn't seem to understand, the fun of a spring garage sale.

Suspension For Smoking Questioned

To the Editor:

I am aghast, appalled and nonplused by recent news that the Worthington Board of Education has expelled a student for smoking outside designated zones.

What baffles me is the manner in which the Worthington school administration and board of education make problems "walk away"; the manner in which the board blandly sloughs off its problem-children rather than recognizing that disobedient, unruly, pugnacious, boisterous and aggressive persons are part of the world as rain is amid days of sunshine.

To end a person's education for violating a rule–indeed, for an offense which at its severest can be described as no more than a misdemeanor, fails to add to my confidence about a problem-solving board of education. To expell on grounds of smoking strikes me as absurd and unattuned to the real world...a bit like an "F" in home-room or gym or appreciation of athletics. I would have been far more impressed if the board of education would have provided professional assistance for a person with hangups. Expulsion for such trivia is a cop-out.

Indeed, the absurdity of expulsion forces me to ask: What would this "hanging" board of education do if it encountered a serious problem?

Sincerely,
Henry Saeman

Editorial Praised

To the Editor:

I am writing to you concerning the editorial titled "Parallel".

You should be commended for standing up for the great name of Jesus Christ.

It is nice to know that there are people around who believe in the name Jesus and who will stand up against people like Woody Hayes.

There are so many people around who profess to be Christians but are so far from it.

I just praise God that Jesus is my savior and that He helps all His people fight the devil and stand strong against the many battles of life.

Praise God for men like you.

Sincerely,
Steve Berger

Questions Article About School Board

To the Editor:

It was with deep regret that I read the lead article in your Feb. 28th newspaper by Thomas Connery, Special Staff Writer.

I also attended that meeting of the Columbus Board of Education. There were many progressive items on the agenda such as the teachers who received the Valley Forge awards, but your writer gave half his column to the ramblings of a couple who said their child was being harassed by the principal of Johnson Park Jr. High School.

I feel you owe this principal an apology!

I have had children at this school for the last seven years and feel Mr. Roger Dumaree to be a most capable and able administrator. It is not easy to be the principal of a school that is changing racially, but he is TRYING desperately to meet the needs of all the students.

He and the staff at Johnson Park have many progressive programs and you would do well to find out about these instead of giving a one sided report on the front page of your newspaper. Remember there are two sides to every story.

Your reporter must have missed the chapter on ethics when he was in school or he would have chalked this incident up to emotionalism as apparently did the other newspapers in town.

P.S. I tried to speak in Mr. Dumaree's behalf but ruled out of order since I had not asked before the public participation started.

Sincerely,
Mary Flom

EASTER TIME IS here again, and marching it in are four very important people who were in charge of the Twenty-Third Annual Lilliputian Parade, sponsored by Brace IV, Franklin County Society For Crippled Children. The Parade was held on Monday, March 5, at the Sheraton Hotel. Seen from left: Mrs. George F. Busche, Lilliputian Chairman, Mr. William Taylor, Executive Director of the Crippled Children's Hospital, Mrs. William Taylor and Mrs. Carl Weigerber, in charge of reservations. In Their Easter Bonnets With . . . They'll Be The Grandest Ladies In The Lilliputian Parade

By Betty Brown

In the land of magnificant bonnets and forget-me-nots, there lived the noble women of Brace IV, Franklin County Society For Crippled Children. One very beautiful, bright day, March 5 at the Sheraton Hotel, they decided to hold their annual twenty-third Lilliputian Parade. "Family Forget-Me-Nots." Seen from one corner of the domain to the other were hats, hats, hats, of all different sizes and shapes, brightly designed and decorated to tie in with the afternoon's theme. It could be safely said that over 600 women were present, all attired in everything from co-ordinated Spring fashions to the hints of the past in long gingham dresses, worn by several important women of the day, one of which being the Lilliputian chairman, Mrs. George F. Busche, who, infact, can be honored that the afternoon turned out so smoothly and ever-so organized, thanks to all her untiring efforts and those of Mr. Jerry Razor, the commentator, Joan Wertnz, fashion co-ordinator, Mrs. Richard Rodenfels, assistant chairman, Mrs. Carl Weisgerber, reservations, Mrs. Jon Altman, also reservations, Mrs. Jay Alberty, publicity, Mrs. Robert Yeager, invitations, Mrs. Robert Redmond, also invitations, Mrs. Phillip Martin, Mrs. William Slife, Mrs. William Weldon and Mrs. James Kozelek, all in charge of adult and children's fashions. Mrs. George Ruble and Mrs. J. William Stein were in charge of door prizes, Mrs. Harry Erb, Mrs. Russell Williams, Mrs. George Gehrkens, and Mrs. R. M. Wilke, III, decorations. Present and also tireless in her work on the Lilliputian committee are Mrs. William Fazzone, Mrs. William Bringargner, transportation, Mrs. F. William Sullivan, Mrs. Ivan Hill and Mrs. Charles Schwenker. Favors. Mrs. Robert A. Whalen, Mrs. Thomas Spangler and Mrs. James Trapp, arrangements, Mrs. David J. Belknap and Mrs. Vincent Donahue, program, Mrs. Ralph B. Elmer and Mrs. Raymond Bethel, hostesses, Mrs. Joseph J. Van Heyde, Mrs. Edward R. Schumacher and Mrs. Paul Jacobs, gift certificates and Mrs. John S. Brantner, Mrs. Robert M. Higgins, Men's Mania, Mrs. Charles Nemeth, the best Easter Bonnet, Mrs. Hiram Richardson, the best ensemble, Mrs. Joseph Eubbing, the most original ensemble, Mrs. Nelson Lancione, Women's Wimsey, Mrs. Joseph Skilken and finally Mrs. Michael Chapin won a special award for the most appropriate theme of the day. The afternoon's fashion show included many children, many family forget-me-nots. Spring Hats . . . To Sing About

'IN' fashion with Tess Stern

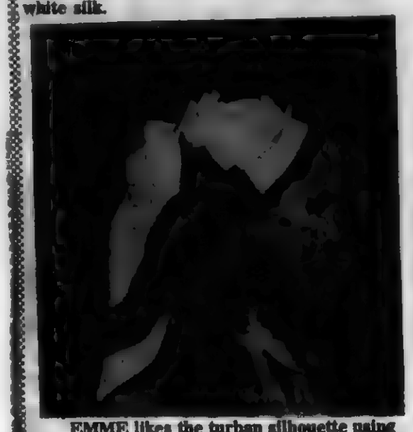
ATTENDING THE SPRING SHOWING OF THE MILLINERY INSTITUTE OF AMERICA in New York City, was like attending a Broadway Show—beautiful models on the runway, music, and a Broadway singing star as master of ceremonies.

AFTER VIEWING the new Spring Hats—I agreed that they were something to sing about— so we all joined in the chorus—to the melody of "SMILES."

There Are Hats That Make You Happy
There Are Hats That Make You Glad
There Are Hats That Make You Look Quite Sexy
And The Ones That Make You Feel Quite Bad
There Are Hats That Make You Look Years Younger
So Your Heart Again Begins To Sing
But The Hats That Fill Your Life With Sunshine
Are The Hats That You'll Wear This Spring.

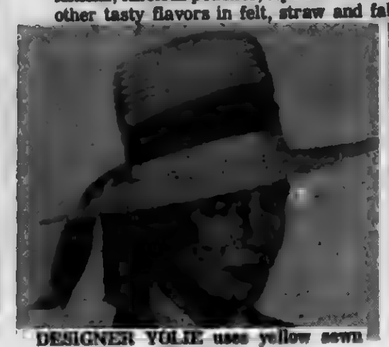
THE BIG DRESS PARADE—return of the dress heralds the return of the hat as a big-time favorite. Straws in the wind are lacy, shiny, wide brimmed—headscarf worn under the hat presents a fresh look—flowers used in restraint in gentle touches.

PANTS A DE LEON—to compliment the new pants silhouettes are casual fabric hats like denim, poplin, felt, jersey, gingham, as well as a variety of straws in crisp and floppy brim silhouettes.



TENNIS EVERYONE? The tennis trend has influenced everything including hats—little peaked hats, open crown turbans, newsboy caps, in traditional tennis colors of white, red and navy—together or separately, all summer long.

SUIT REVIVAL hats have a crisp tailored feeling of all classics. Tailored and simple in feminine, interesting shapes—unusual prints and a touch of trim like a single flower, ribbons feathery fronds, stitching and draping.



COLORS ARE mouthwatering to tempt the lady this Spring. Lime greens, tangy lemons, luscious peaches, ripe strawberries, whipped cream white, and dozens of other tasty flavors in felt, straw and fabric.

FACE FRAMING cloche of softest blue by Paul for Alan Lobrar.

UPSWEPT PROFILE of softest black and white patterned cotton by Tom Hamm for Mr. Kurt.

An Apology Made

In an article that appeared in last week's paper, there was an article written about Dr. and Mrs. Bernard Kats. A gross mistake appeared and the editor wishes to make an apology to her readers.

The article read that Mrs. Kats, Ahuva was an Ambassador to Belgium, when in fact, Mrs. Kats is Secretary to the Consulate General of Belgium in Jerusalem.

In this article, the names of these two persons is spelled correctly, Kats. The previous article read Dr. and Mrs. Katz. For both of these errors, the editor wishes to apologize.

Sub-Tropical Honeymoon Special

Hamilton, Bermuda—The dictionary defines a moongate as "a circular opening in a wall; of Chinese origin." To honeymoon [illegible] this sub-tropical resort colony, however, it's something more special.

In Bermuda, tradition has it that honeymooners should walk through a moongate and make a wish. Consequently scores of gardens, at hotels and private homes, sport the attractive coral-stone arches as good-luck charms.

The moongates of Bermuda are merely an ideal attraction to the thousands of newly married couples who visit the mid-Atlantic island chain each year. Nearly 25 per cent of the colony's visitors are on their honeymoons — and the reasons are obvious once you get here.

On a chain of small islands 21 miles long, Bermudians and their visitors are never more than a mile from the multi-hued sea with its miles of uncrowded, coral-sand beaches, fascinating coral reefs to explore by snorkel or with Scuba gear, and fish who pose for anyone — whether they're on a honeymoon or not.

Even transportation in Bermuda has a romantic air to it. Bermudians for generations have been producing world-roaming sailors and the sailboat is a deeply-rooted facet of local life which can be shared by visitors to the colony.

Graceful old Bermuda One-Designs, piloted by skippers even senior in years to their boats, guide the visitor through the Great Sound, Hamilton Harbour or the North Shore — all under the quiet of sail.

But perhaps Bermuda's greatest asset is diversity. Those who seek seclusion and quiet will find it all over Bermuda, from a cozy room in a small Bermuda guest house, to a romatic little beach at Jobson's Cove, nestled on the South Shore between two pinnacles of weathered coral.

Those who seek some excitement can find it in the nightclubs of large hotels featuring entertainment on an international scale.

But when you're in Bermuda, don't forget the moongates. Ask one of the native drivers of a fringed-top, horse-drawn carriage to make a stop by one of them.

Then make your wish and step through the arch—for no Bermuda honeymoon is complete without this ritual.

Newlyweds Love Electronic Lights And Sounds

In choosing a gift for newlyweds — whether it is for individual, office or any other group giving - space limitations for the young couple's apartment or house should certainly be considered.

For example, in color TV, the choice ranges from an array of compact protables and smartly designed table models to larger instruments such as the lo-boys, full-to-the-floor consoles, and all-in-one console combinations.

Even though today's newlyweds are truly individual in lifestyle and dress, practically all of them share a love for sights and sounds that are electronic.

That's why color television . . . the stereo record changer . . . and the tape player or player-recorder . . . are high on the list of desired wedding gifts that will help the modern bride and groom furnish their first home together.

This year, furniture styling has moved into table models, with Mediterranean added to modern designs. Among consoles, innovative styling such as the campaign chest and also white TV's on a curving pedestal base are appearing ... and proving popular. For mixing or matching purposes, the three "constants" -- Modern, Mediterranean and Early American furniture styles — are still favorites on the home scene.

If you're planning a stereo purchase as a gift, be sure also to match the unit to the space available for it. This will help you decide between a modular or console system.

Console stereo makes a contribution as a major furniture piece in the home. There's a wide-ranging choice available in cabinet styles, performance features and add-on-later-if-you-like options.

IT'S A BRIDE'S WORLD

Miss Karen Linser

Future Is Bright For Newlyweds

Most young couples will first rent an apartment or a house, but more than fourteen percent will own their own homes. They expect to lead the good life, for they were brought up in an affluent society and have the determination to work hard to maintain and increase the level of comfort to which they have become accustomed.

In the months preceding and following their weddings, they account for $5 billion in retail sales.

Love and peace is their thing. These are the couples who create their own vows of loving each other forever. Most clergymen of all faiths approve of this, for they believe it makes the wedding ceremony more meaningful to the bride and groom. Because of their involvement in the service, the clergy feels that they are off to an excellent start in marriage.

Everything comes together – the increase in marriages, the awareness of today's brides and grooms, their feeling for traditional forms but with a distinct personal difference.

The future looks bright for the brides and grooms of 1973.

There were more than 2,300,000 marriages in 1972 and figures are expected to climb this year.

What Is the Price of a One Carat Diamond?

This is a tricky question. A diamond's price depends not only on its carat weight or size, but on its clarity, color and preciseness of cut. So, according to representative jewelers, a one carat diamond can cost between $700 and $3,000.

Engagement and wedding announcements are printed in The Spectator Newspaper free of charge.

INFORMAL INVITATIONS

Invitations to a small wedding are handwritten on plain white or off-white paper. The bride writes to her family and friends and those of the groom, while her mother writes to other guests.

SPREADING THE WORD

As soon as possible the bride should send a thank you note for each gift received. It is the only way the person who sent it can know that the gift was received.

If the bride wants an announcement of her wedding to appear in a local newspaper, she should first check the society editor's department for the type of information that can be used.

Miss Alice Hodges

Miss Hodges To Wed Mr. Pouliot

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred L. Hodges, 3342 Liv-Moor Dr., announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Jeannette, to Mr. Stuart Harland Pouliot, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Paul Pouliot, of Shrewsbury, Mass.

The bride-elect graduated from Eastmoor Senior High School and is now a senior in psychology at Wake Forest University, Winston-Salem, North Carolina.

Mr. Pouliot is a graduate of Wake Forest University and is a graduate student in the field of Industrial Hygiene and Occupational Safety at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Plans are being made for a June wedding at Wake Forest University in Winston-Salem.

Planning First Home?

Some advice which applies particularly to brides is:

1. Don't make enemies with your best friend by letting her help you unless she's been a successful amateur decorator with a few people other than herself. Better to go to the store and seek the advice of a professional sales person or decorator (they don't bite and are usually free.)

2. Never measure the room with a cloth tape, use a folding rule, yard stick or steeltape.

3. Having someone help you makes the job more accurate, easier and probably more fun.

4. Indicate location and measurement of heat vents, built-ins, window and door openings.

5. Check depth of base molding, it can make the difference between "tight squeeze" and "not at all."

Financial Responsibilities

From the moment the first wedding gift arrives, a bride-to-be has to start thinking about her new responsibilities . . . financial responsibilities.

Those expensive gifts need care and protection; on of the best ways to provide that protection is with a special wedding gift insurance policy.

You'll need to cover your valuables separately if you own a house, too. And make sure that the total value of your possessions is covered.

The company that holds your mortgage will insist that you have enough insurance to cover the property, but it's up to you to make sure you have enough to cover the contents of your house.

For a minimal amount (about $17 for $5,000 worth of coverage) a couple can protect their wedding gifts for a six-month period – three months before and three months after the wedding.

After that, insurance people figure that the gifts have become possessions.

Most newlyweds start their life in an apartment, either his, hers, or theirs. If you're moving possessions from one apartment to another, check with your spouse to make sure nothing goes uncovered.

Gray Drug Grand Opening Held At Reynoldsburg Store

Seven representatives from the area participated in the ribbon-cutting ceremony with several representatives of the Cleveland-based drug chain to officially open the store Wednesday morning.

Representing Gray Drug were: Joel Arnold, divisional vice president; Robert Aylor, district manager; Don Bradford, sales promotion manager; and Robert Beck, manager of the new Gray's store.

All 20 Gray discount stores in the Columbus area will participate in the celebration, which will last from today through Sunday, March 18.

Sharon Geer and Mary Demore, cosmeticians from Revlon and Max Factor, respectively, will demonstrate their companies' products at the new Reynoldsburg Gray's throughout the Grand Opening days.

The new store is 7,800 square feet, housing well-stocked departments with such a wide range of merchandise that the store could be classified a mini department store.

Convenient self-service and quality products at low discount prices are the demands Gray's meets. Each department is completely stocked with national brands in addition to Gray's Own Brand products.

AROUND TOWN

FLASH....Just received word that dynamic duo, Foster and Ferrell opens tomorrow night at Olentangy Inn. After a two or three years absence on the local night club scene, Foster and Ferrell will be at the all new Olentangy Inn for a limited engagement. Their hundreds of followers will be glad to know that Ted and Mardell will be appearing at the O.I. Tuesday-Sunday. More next week..

Another new spot opens tonight, headed by a well known performer of the local night club scene. It is named DANNY'S MANNHOLE, and will be operated by, yep, you guessed it, Danny Mann.

As I said, Danny is no stranger to the Columbus' night love, having been a former operator of clubs, as well as being a popular entertainer.

Danny, who sings and plays drums while fronting his own group, has taken over a spot on East Main St., in Whitehall, that was previously called Pickles. In fact, if you get out there this week, theold sign may still be hanging out front.

I CAN assure you, Danny's Mannhole is going to be a place for you to go. Danny has redecorated, added plush new carpeting and plans on making it an enjoyable, fun spot.

Helping to make all of this come true will be the entertainment. Of course, it is Danny's group, named, Danny Mann and the Counter Revolution. For you, who have been Around Town a lot, you will recognize all of the men in the outfit. Ralph Craven takes care of the black and whites at the Hammond organ, Bobby Search handles the horns and Ronnie Both is at the drums. Danny does the singing, which by the way, he can hold his own with the best of them in this department. Even with Ronnie on drums, I'm sure Danny will occasionally grab the sticks away from Ronnie.

THEIR musical style tends to please us older generation more than most of the lounge acts. They certainly are not a heavy, loud contemporary foursome.

Tonight, Wednesday, is the grand opening. Let's all give Danny and his new place a big send off. If you can make it tonight, then do it soon. You will be greeted by some mighty nice music, a pleasing atmosphere, which adds up to a good time. No, don't worry about falling into the manhole, just walk right in through the front door, that's how you get to Danny's Mannhole.

TWO PLUS ONE is currently entertaining the audience at Ramada Inn East. The Two Plus One consists of two fellows, Bill Star and Ron Rhinehart. The One, is a cute little redheaded singer, Vicky Hoy. This little bundle of song comes on with a beautiful voice that registers in the higher ranges. Vicky has good control and keeps on top of everything she does vocally. What little she may lack in stage personality and presence, Vicky makes up for when she opens her mouth.

Bill Star is the leader of the trio. Besides doing a first rate job the skins, Bill rather sings up a storm. This personable young fellow is the showman in the troup. He is way above the average in both the instrumental and vocal department. Bill is well worth a trip to Ramada Inn East.

Then when you add perky Vicky and Ron Rhinehart's organ stylings, things really begin to perk up. Ron, besides providing rather strong backing for Vicky and Bill, does some nice solo work at the organ.

While there may not be any real outstanding stars in the trio, as a trio they are darn good. They work well as a unit. They give out with some very nice three part vocal harmony and plenty of good music. They are not a show group. But, they are a fine musical trio, who do provide earfulls of good music that proves to be highly entertaining. And, that's the name of the game, friends.

I KNOW you will enjoy listening to their music. Their songs touch all bases, from some contemporary, to old standards with a little folk and country thrown if for good measure. Two Plus One do it all every night of the week at the Ramada Inn East. Give them a listen, you'll be glad you did.

I TOOK the traveling typewriter out of town last Saturday, to catch a group appearing at a theatre in Minster, Ohio. The reason for the trip, was the quartet, named Good Seed, was highly touted to me by friends, and the fact they will soon be appearing in Columbus at one of the local pubs. The concert was promoted by the Way Biblical Research Center of New Knoxville, who by the way, will be holding a huge rock festival, called Rock of Ages in August. Good Seed will be one of the feature acts.

The four boys making up the quartet are from Indianapolis. Before I go any further, let me tell you this, Good Seed was not what I expected. They are ten times better. I was rather dreading setting through a couple of hours of loud, rock music. I was about as far off course as wrong way Corrigan. What I saw and heard was four talented performers loaded with showmanship and talent.

The material included such songs as, "Colorado," "Love the One Your With," some good ole top tappin, hand clapping gospels ads, "When the Roll is Called Up Yonder," and many, many more rock and roll and blue grass selection.

WHILE there may be only four people in the group, their instrumental composition is enough to comprise an entire orchestra. While they work basically with three guitars and electric bass, they also use piano, harmonica, banjo, saxophone, violin, mandolin and an asortment of percussion instruments.

Each of the four play just each of the instruments. The way they shift around on stage and change instruments between numbers, I though that Woody Hayes did their arranging.

In the vocal department, the four fellows equally superb. Their four part harmony was well worth the trip. It was so pretty, and so close, that their harmony was simply beautiful. While it was lilting, at times it was dynamic.

Jeff Tyler, Rick Panyard, Rick Gootee and Greg Anderson comprise the quartet. All four are expert professionals. Musically, they create interesting, unique sounds. Of course, with their varied instrumentations, you can expect something different.

WHILE THEY performed in a theatre, I never heard a group in a night club, or anywhere else, reach out to grab their audience as did these four. They had them eating out of their hand. The crowd of two hundred certainly became involved. The audience applauded wildly. I don't know who was more enthusastic, the audience or the performers.

Besides exciting vocal and instrumental stylings, they also come off with some top notch comedy relief. This was another factor in keeping the entire show paced well and moving at a fast clip.

GOOD SEED doesn't blow your eardrums, they just blow your mind by being one of the finest all around show groups in the business, today. As I said, within a couple of months, they will be appearing in Columbus. I'll tell you about it when it happens. Good Seed plants plenty of seeds that blossoms into flowering entertainment.

SKIPPING AROUND TOWN

Stringtown Road is packing them in at the OHIO STATER INN MOTEL. This group plays swinging music, with a way out, yet sensible style. For good contemporary music, I have to recomend Stringtown Road. Catch them some evening, Tuesday through Saturday at the all new Ohio Stater Inn Motel ... Diamond Jim's is coming on with something new next week. In the back part of the building, right off the show room, they are opening a new steak house. Called Hoof and Horn, with a contemporary french decor, I predict that it will become one of the most popular restaurants in these parts. All beef is raised just for them. Prices will be in the five dollar range.

Watch next week's column for a complete story ... Dave Wood continues to hold forth at the Sports Forum Lounge at Howard Johnson's North. Dave sings, play guitar and dishes out plenty of humore. He is a one man show and believe me, he does put on a terrific one ... Stu Huffman Trio play the prettiest music Around Town. The trio reminds me of the old society type musicians. You can ear their soft, danceable music every Friday and Saturday night at the Holiday Inn Reynoldsburg. For lovers of good music, this is a must for you ... The Waikiki Restaurant, for my money, is the best polynesian dining spot Around Town. Their food is tremendous, same is true for their decor and service. Their lunches are really something else.

East, South, Ready, Bexley, Mohawk Seek State Titles

FIVE high school cage teams in the Spectator circulation area are still in the running for the state cage titles.

The sixth team that was still in the running last Saturday, St. Charles, lost to Marion Pleasant's undefeated five Monday night.

Here's how the schedule stacks up for Bishop Ready, Bexley and Mohawk in Class AA and South and East in AAA.

All games will be played at the Fairgrounds Coliseum.

In Class AA, Bishop Ready plays Mohawk in a 7 p.m. tilt. Licking Valley meets Teays Valley in the follow up game.

Bexley continues the Class AA action Thursday with a tilt against perennial power Big Walnut at 7 p.m. Hebron Lakewood Meets Buckeye Valley in the following game.

Saturday's action finds South's city champs taking on upstart Mt. Vernon at noon followed by the East vs Newark game at 3:30 p.m.

The winners of the South-Mt. Vernon and East-Newark games will advance to the Regionals March 16-17 in the Fairgrounds Coliseum against teams from the Bowling Green and Athens districts.

The Class AA winners of the Ready-Mohawk and Licking Valley-Teays Valley games will meet Saturday with that winner going to Steubenville.

Class A winners will go to Canton and Dayton.

Then comes the State meet the following weekend (March 23-24 at St. John's Arena at Ohio State.

ST. CHARLES VICTORIOUS

IT WAS A HAPPY gang that celebrated St. Charles' win the Class A Sectional last Saturday. The St. Charles cagers were down at one time by 18 points, 24-18, but came back to beat Fairbanks by two, 50-48. (Photos by Dan Unkefer.)

St. Charles' exciting win over Fairbanks was the school's first section win since the school re-opened four years ago. The school has not played in the Coliseum since 1964. The last time they were in the District semi-finals was 1956.

Free throws by Bric Stinson and Geof Stafford with 15 seconds left in the game iced the tilt for the Cards.

TRAPPED!

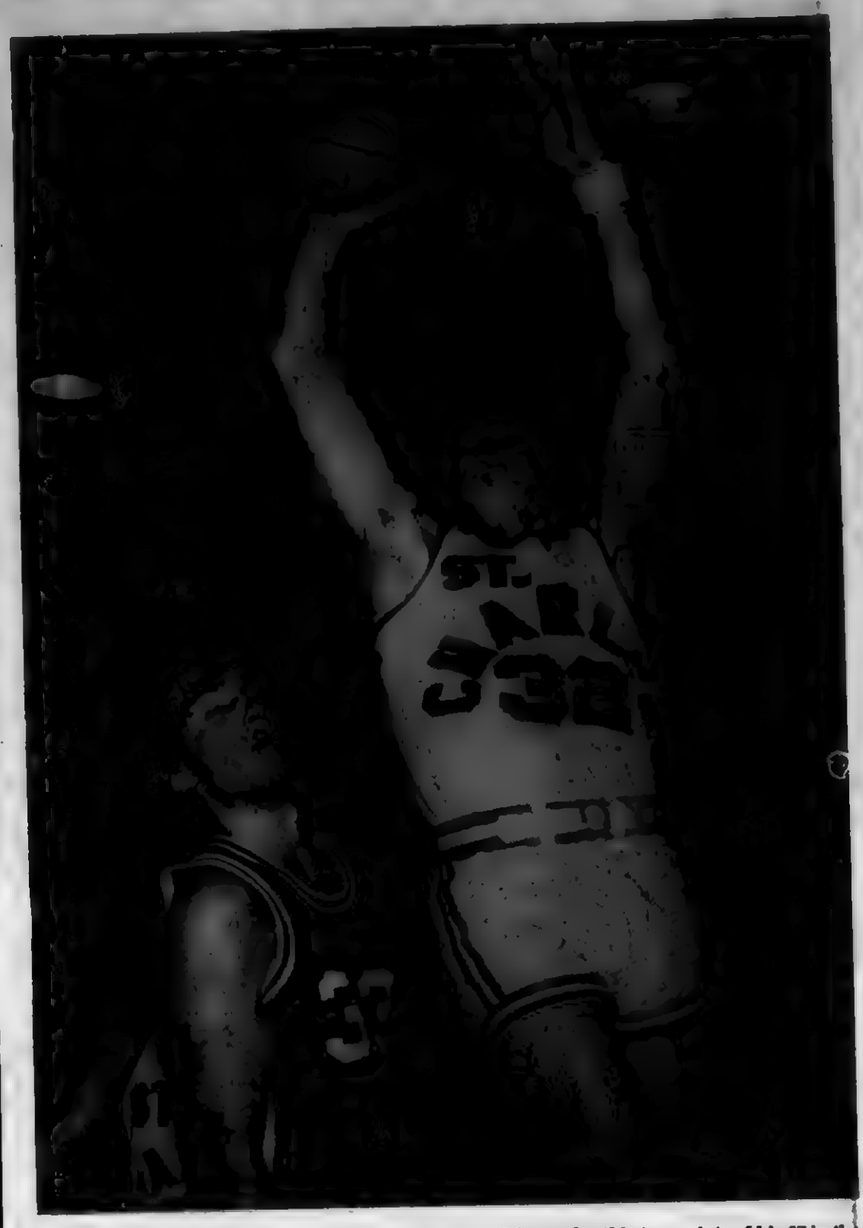
Wildlife District Helpful

The Division of Wildlife in cooperation with the Division of Parks and Recreation recently repaired fisherman access piers at Indian and Kiser Lakes. The stone piers were installed to facilitate bank fishermen by increasing the water area available for this type angling. The heavily used piers continue to provide excellent opportunities for some of the better fishing at the lakes. The recent improvements should further inhance the enjoyment of many.

Wildlife District One will conduct a Fish and Game Hearing at the Hangar Building, 1500 Dublin Road, Columbus, Ohio on Sunday April 8.



SURPRISE FOR EASTMOOR

Elects Officers

Newly elected trustees and officers of the Eastland Mall Merchants' Association are Brenda Baars, Madison's, president; Ben Livingston, Hallmark Crown Shop; Charles Collins, Penney's; George Rosenberger, A & S Curtain Shop; William King, Huntington National Bank, treasurer; Lee Abbitt, Lazarus, 2nd Vice President; J. C. Johnson, Sears, 1st vice president; Hy Copeland, Lane Bryant; Joan Sallee, Paul Harris; and Paul Killingsworth, Eastland Mall manager and Association secretary. Not shown are trustees Ray Heibel, Woolworth's; Joe Cobb, Allied Radio; and Carl Smith, Walker's.

GEOF STAFFORD (32) of St. Charles really went airborne for this two points of his 17 in the St. Charles win against Fairbanks. He was a-demon on the defense, too.

DYNAMITE DAVE

HERE'S another Bexley basket in its win over Wehrle last Saturday. That's Dave Baumgardner with the ball on the drive while No. 34 for Bexley is Tom Bramlage.

SHAWN WAS SHARP

BEXLEY'S Shawn Griffin grabbed this rebound for the Lions in their win over Wehrle and looks for a place to go.

Coralina Capture Awards

THE Columbus Coralina Club captured 16 of the top awards at the 1973 Ohio Association age group synchronized swimming championships held in Cincinnati last week.

Twelve routines qualified for the competition in the Region VI age group synchronized swimming championships to be held in Canton, March 24-25.

The club also made a clean sweep of the 13-14 age division.

The following awards were won by the club:

10 and under: duet, 6th, Pam Higbee-Tracy Cook.

PLANNING A COOKOUT? Why not involve the whole family . . . it's a sure way to guarantee success. Mom may find her little helper can be of some assistance, if shown what to do. A young lady of five or six will feel very grown up when she's put in charge of wrapping corn in foil, or setting the table. A young man will feel that he did it all, if Dad lets him turn the meat . . . and he's a natural to keep the supply of ice and soft drinks refilled.

• • •

GIVE A DINNER PARTY . . . but don't worry about dinner. Let your guests fix their own. With an hors d'oeuvres menu, guests can assemble kabobs and grill snacks while enjoying the party. For unusual, but simple, party fixings that can be prepared in advance and left for guests to cook, try large, whole, fresh mushroom caps (grill on skewers about 12 minutes, turning once or twice; then dip in a creamy white onion dressing or eat plain); and giant shrimp, brushed with melted garlic butter and grilled.

• • •

HELPING KEEP THE OUTDOORS GREAT is everyone's job. You've heard it all before, but it's still true. When you're enjoying outdoor living, you can do your part by not littering, by recycling products that used to be part of the trash heap, by not burning leaves or trash . . . and by asking your neighbors not to, also. When watering the lawn or washing the car, don't let the water run excessively. If you are cooking on a gas grill, you're using the cleanest burning source of energy available. Use it wisely . . . supplies are limited, and natural gas is one of the most valuable resources we have, and a real plus in helping clean up the environment.

• • •

FOR A SUBTLE "OUTDOORSY" FLAVOR, soak hickory chips or small twigs from wild cherry or sugar maple overnight in water. Wrap the chips or twigs in foil, punch holes in it and place it directly on the coals or briquettes. Or, add the chips directly to the coals just before the food is done. For a deep smoke flavor, add the chips when you start cooking.

Rent-A-Camp Program Will Be Available

THE OHIO Department of Natural Resources has announced an experimental program designed to provide a camping experience for non-campers who would like to try camping but don't own the necessary equipment.

Natural Resources Director William B. Nye said the "Rent-a-camp" program will make available a total of 20 fully equipped campsites in four state parks from May 15 through September 15.

"THE COST of camping equipment is more that the average citizen can afford if he just wants to try camping to see how he likes it," Nye said.

"This program will enable people tohave the experience of camping and determine if they like the outdoors enough to invest in their own equipment."

The $4,600 cost of the state-owned equipment will be paid from a recreation rotary fund. All money collected from camping equipment rentals will be returned to the rotary fund, Nye said.

THE CAMPSITES, each set up to sleep four, will be located at Stonelick, Harrison Lake, Delaware and Findley state parks. There will be five campsites at each park.

The campsites will be available for $8 a night, with a seven night limit. The rental fee will include $2.50 camping fee, $1 for propane-gas and $2.50 for the camping equipment.

EQUIPMENT provided at each campsite will include a 10 x 10 foot tent and ground cloth, two cots, two air mattresses, a propane camp stove, an 80-auart cooler, a folding table, two kerosene torch lamps, a folding grate for cooking over an open fire and a fire extinguisher.

Reservations will be required two weeks in advance of the desired camping date. The camp manager will notify persons requesting reservations on the availability of a campsite.

If a site is available, the manager will send a list of additonal cooking, eating and personal supplies the campers sould bring, a suggested menu list to aid the campers in grocery shopping, a map of the park area and a explanation of the rent-a-camp program.

AT THE PARK, a representative of the camp office will accompany the first-time campers to the campsite, conduct a joint inventory of equipment and explain how to use and care for the equipment. Prior to departure, there will be another joint inventory and a brief inspection to insure the area and equipment are left clean.

Spring Largemouth Bass

Did you ever throw common sense to the wind after that long winter, just pick up and get out to your favorite bass lake as soon as you can, to experience the thrill of largemouth bass fishing? I do it every year.

Good big mouth bass fishing starts in late spring or when water reaches a temperature of 50-55 degrees.

Here's a tip to remember. A distance of only fifty to one hundred miles can make a big difference in the arrival of spring.

Warmer water, more largemouth bass. Pay close attention to weather forcasts south of your city. Wait till you hear of a warm spell of a few days and head out in that direction.

You should find water warm enough for those scrappy largemouth bass.

The extra fifty or so miles you might drive can make a big difference in a stringer full of fish or no luck at all.

Guide Service

If you're planning a vacation on or near a strange lake and you want to do some fishing, it's always a good idea to hire a guide by the day or week.

I've found on a lot of occasions that a few extra dollars spent for a guide is well worth it. If you would rather chance your luck, then here's a tip that will help you catch more fish in new waters.

Ask questions, that's right, when you get there ask a stranger what's biting? Or where are they catching them? You'll be overloaded with helpful information.

I've always said fisherman are the friendlist people in the world, and you can find out for yourself if you just stop by the local sporting goods store, bait store or gas station and ask where's the best place to go fishing near by, but if you are a little shy just write the Department of Tourism of The Division of Wildlife in the state. You're vacationing in and they will be happy to send you all the information you'll need including maps of the lakes, rental information and all you need to know about hiring a guide.

Scioto River

A few days ago the air temperature was near the freezing mark and all of a sudden, one day it climbed into the fifties and you could really see and feel the heat of the sun. The warm weather got to me.

I rolled down the window in my car and went for a drive up along the Scioto river breathing in warm outside air for a change, remembering last spring the good times I had drifing along the west bank in my little 12 foot fishing boat casting the shoreline for bass.

I was wishing the tin ice cover was gone and I could give it a real try.

I stopped by for a chat at Bus Kiley's A&A Bait store just south of Rt. 161 on Rt 33. Bus told me, "Why dream about fishing when they're beginning to catch em now." I said, "Where, and I'm ready." He said, "a lot of my customers fish all year long for catfish in the Scioto river using live bait, but the guys last weekend were reporting that walleys are hitting Shysters and Rooster Tail spinners below Griggs and O'Shannessy Dams."

You see, it never fails. Just ask questions and you'll find out that fisherman are the friendliest people in the world.

Griggs and the O'Shannessy reservoirs are located just north of Columbus, and are part of the Scioto River that runs along Rt. 33. This river has always been a good bet fishing for hand sized crappies in the spring of the year with minnows, or casting little flyrod spinners and spoons.

As the weather and water warms up, I'll report on the lakes and streams in Ohio and try to give you some How, Where, and When Tips on fishing, and also show you some pictures of good size fish that are caught each year in the good state of Ohio.

Next week I'll answer the question. Can fish see colors?

Convention Bureau Names New Officers

Leonard E. Rolston, President of the International Association of Convention Bureaus, was the main speaker last week at the 1973 Annual Meeting of the Columbus Convention Bureau.

In his presentation, "Convention Business - Who Wants It?", Rolston pointed out that hundreds of cities in this country alone are actively engaged in programs designed to attract a larger share of the "multi-billion dollar" convention business.

Throughout his speech, Rolston emphasized the increasing competition for the convention dollar. Citing trends in the industry such as: increasing membership in LACB, larger convention bureau budgets, increasing professionalism of convention bureau staffs, construction of new convention facilities, especially convention halls, and opening of branch sales offices in key cities where many associations are headquartered, Rolston stated that no city, even state capitols like Columbus that host so many state conventions each year, can maintain its position in the competition for convention dollars without increased sales and service efforts.

Rolston pointed to the improvements made in other Ohio cities, such as Dayton, Cincinnati and Cleveland, especially in the areas of new construction or improvements to convention halls.

Rolston is the President of the Detroit Convention Bureau and the winner of the 1972 American Society of Association Executives "Key" award - "the highest form of recognition for leadership in Association and Civic Affairs".

A COMMUNITY SERVICE OF THE SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH

is pretty much taken for granted that the mother in a family is responsible for selecting and preparing the variety and quality of food her family eats. She also watches for the first signs of illness, bringing out her favorite home remedies, or when necessary, calling the doctor.

She nags about coats, hats, and boots, depending on the weather. She urges her husband to see the doctor about his persistent cough, and has her own yearly medical checkup.

But a family's health should be the concern of every member, not just the woman of the house.

Father can be an encouragement and example when mother is trying to interest the youngsters in widening their tastes for vegetables essential for good nutrition. Perhaps he never cared much for carrots or spinach or peas.

However, he could suggest that everyone take a spoonful and maybe even learn to like the particular food.

And speaking of example, smoking and drug habits present problems too, especially for parents of teenagers. Some forbid their children to smoke while they persist in the nicotine habit.

Another consideration is the attitudes young people develop when they watch adults habitually take various drugs to help them sleep, wake up, relax, kill pain, or cure whatever ails them.

NO QUESTION about it, being a parent is a tough job, but there is no need to become overwhelmed by all that is involved in setting a good exxample for healthful living.

When parents make changes in some of their habit

When parents make changes in some of their habits for the sake of their children's future happiness, they will see that it also pays off in more energy and joy of living for themselves.

ACT II

by BETTY DRAGONETTE

Abe Burrows is a funny man. He grouped a bunch of gags and anecdotes together with a comical premise and called it a play. Pouring over his work in search of a title, he came upon one line about a cactus not blooming very often, but when it does ... so ther was his title "Cactus Flower".

Director Brenda Burris assembled a neat cast down at the Little Theatre Off Broadway, 3651 N. Broadway in Grove City and, as if that wasn't enough, designed a great utilitarian set that serves as an apartment, a doctor's office, a record shop and a bar. The minor changes needed to accomplish this feat are ahndled in short order by the cast and backstage crew so that hte thirteen scene changes necessary during the two acts are quite painless to the audience.

Congratulations Brenda, a really fine job.

Outstanding in the play is Joy Schmitt, as the doctor's receptionist. She reminded me of Ann R. Davis or Eve Arden - that subtle touch.

They finally found a role Pat Casey doesn't even have to act to play. As the doctor's old friend and patient, Harvey, Pat is so natural he is like a young Abe Burrows. He could almost ad lib his way though this one.

And speaking of ad libs, that's what Jack Beatty, as Dr. Julian Winston, seems to be doing most of the time. He's either very good at appearing flustered - or he really was - either way he was effective in the role.

As his young girlfriend, June Lawson is lovely, charming and acts a bit toointlligent. Somehow or other, I always picture dumb girls as blondes (maybe because I'm a brunette) - but when I see long brown hair, I think of brains. Her voice is beautiful and her manner sophisticated.

Another enternal ingenue.

Don Ehret looks good in a towell and that's great considering he he has to wear just that in several scenes.

As June's next door ceighbor and rescuer of ladies in distress, he is charming.

Jim King doesn't seem to be playing Senor Sanchez with any one particular accent, but then it's a crazy play and this seems to fit right in. I like his body english. "Cactus Flower" continues Friday and Saturday, March 9-10. For reservations for a fun evening call 875-3919.
